Bruce Again Asks Board To Fire Zucker

County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker, defeated in his attempt to unseat Supervisor Chairman John F. McInnis, will be up for dismissal by the county board of supervisors Tuesday afternoon.

County Administrator Alan Bruce recommended Zucker's dismissal in a strongly worded letter to the supervisors yesterday.

Bruce had recommended Zucker's firing in March when the planning director announced his decision to run against McInnis, but the board granted the planning director's request for a leave of absence. In 1969, Zucker survived another dismissal attempt, that time at the hands of McInnis and another supervisor, Louis H. Baar.

Of the two supervisors reached for comment yesterday and today, neither would disclose how he would vote on Zucker's dismissal.

"Frankly, I thought he would resign," said Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. "But I have no further comment at this time."

William A. Gnoss said that he would have to see Bruce's recommendations first. "I've been out of town for two days," he said. "In all fairness I would have to read Mr. Bruce's comments and study the matter before I decide."

Zucker, whose leave expires Tuesday, said again yesterday he does not intend to resign and will be present at the Tuesday afternoon meeting of the supervisors. He had no further comment.

Bruce, in his letter to the supervisors, said Zucker "no longer has my recommendation or my confidence."

"The planning director and other appointive department heads serve on the recommendation of the county administrator, and at the pleasure of the board of supervisors," wrote Bruce.

"I doubt that he has your confidence, or in any way pleasures your board.

"Under this circumstance, neither the cause of planning in Marin County nor any other public purpose could be served by his return to active duty.

"I have discussed this situation with Mr. Zucker. Unfortunately, through a resoning process which I can only describe as grotesque, he sees it otherwise. Accordingly, I have no alternative but to recommend that he be dismissed forthwith.

"This recommendation, which would end an experiment with a peculiar personality, is aimed to assure the continuity of Marin County leadership in dynamic environmental planning. . ."

The county administrator added he would make further recommendations next week and during budget time on the filling of Zucker's position.

Werner Von Gundell, named acting planning director when Zucker announced he would seek McInnis' seat, last March 19, is now on vacation. In his absence, Albert Solnit, chief of advance planning, is serving as

Draft Card Burners Found Guilty In Chicago Court

CHICAGO (AP) — Ten antiwar activists have been convicted in U.S. District Court of destroying thousands of draft records in a raid on a Selective Service office.

All were convicted on all four counts of the indictment in a verdict returned Friday by a jury of seven men and five women. The maximum penalty is 23 years in prison and fines totaling $32,000. Sentencing is scheduled Tuesday.

Three of the defendants were not present to hear the verdict. They disappeared near the end of the five week trial, and warrants have been issued for their arrest.

Judge Edwin A. Robson revoked the bonds of the seven defendants who were in court. He said they are a menace to the community and he would be

Gargantuan Jet's Arrival Is Scary

CHARLESTON, S. C. (UPI)—The first C-5 Galaxy aircraft delivered to the Air Force lost one wheel and blew a tire on another today while landing at Charleston Air Force Base, but the huge plane came to a safe stop on its other 26 wheels.

The plane, largest in the world, was being delivered to the Air Force from Marietta, Ga., where it was built, and a number of Air Force officials and Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S. C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, were on hand to see it land.

The 247-foot long plane knocked off a wheel on its left side as it touched down on the runway, and the wheel and tire rolled along several hundred feet behind the plane as it passed the reviewing stand where Rivers and Air Force officials were watching.

The plane also suffered a blowout on the adjacent tire, but the huge aircraft did not seem affected by the loss.

The craft, piloted by Gen. Jack Catton, commander of the Air Lift Command, came to a smooth stop, was turned around, and taxied up to the ceremony area where the Air Force was to take possession of the plane.

"Don't worry, it's got 26 tires left," an Air Force public information officer told newsmen as they pointed to the tire rolling down the runway by itself.

Officials of Lockheed-Georgia, manufacturers of the plane, clustered around the landing gear after the plane was brought to a halt, but refused to comment.

Reds Launch Attacks On Cambodian Cities

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces stepped up their pressure north and west of Phnom Penh Saturday in what was regarded in the capital as the biggest enemy offensive since the allies entered Cambodia last month.

Enemy attacks broke out at Siem Reap, a provencial capital about 185 miles northwest of Phnom Penh and continued at Kompong Thom, 80 miles north of the capital. Kompong Speu, a provincial capital 35 miles west of Phnom Penh, was being harassed by enemy forces.

The Cambodian high command was reported jolted by the appearance of strong enemy forces at Siem Reap, since it was supposed they were far from the town.

Informants thought the enemy was trying to score a propaganda victory here because Siem Reap is only about six miles south of the tourist mecca of Angkor Wat.

Bay Awash With Supertankers?

MARTINEZ, Calif. (AP) — A public hearing on a $4.5 million study of the shipping capacity of 85-mile long San Francisco Bay has disclosed the area must develop the ability to handle the giant supertankers that are becoming common.

The hearing held Friday at the Contra Costa County courthouse by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers heard James T. Ritch, general manager of the Contra Costa Development Association, say that Alaskan oil means a seventh and probably an eighth refinery in the northeast bay area.

Signal and Douglas both are considering putting up plants in addition to those at Oleum, Richmond, Martinez, Avon, Rodeo and Benicia, he said.

Ritch also said two more steel mills may go up, at Richmond and near Pittsburg.

"The use of shipping channels is increasing in the upper reaches of the bay," Ritch said.

He said tankers of 60,000 to 80,000 deadweight tons now can reach existing refineries. But he pointed out that 200,000 ton tankers are common with behemoths of 500,000 and even a million tons in the offing.

Planning now contemplated would deepen the Stockton channel above the refinery zone to 35 feet from its present depth of 30 feet.

Below that, the way to the refinery zone would be deepened to 45 feet, all the way from the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge.

Outward from that point, a 55-foot channel would be opened across the San Francisco bar outside the Golden Gate Bridge and maintained to the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge zone.

F. Ron Henrekin, executive director of the Solano County Industrial Development Agency, told the hearing that the United States is increasingly dependent on imported raw materials carried by both freighters and tankers of large size.

"The Pacific area and Alaska have large supplies of materials, so the San Francisco Bay system and its ports have a resopnsibility to the nation and not just the immediate area," he said.

"A modern navigation system with ship channels of sufficient depth is vital to the economic stature of the Bay Area. It is also extremely important to the balance of payments situation of the United States," he said.

Finch Replaced In Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced Saturday that Robert H. Finch is leaving his post as secretary of health, education and welfare to join the top White House staff and will be replaced in the department by Elliot Richardson, now undersecretary of state.

Appearing before newsmen in the White House press center, Nixon began by describing Finch as "my oldest and closest friend and associate within the administration." He declared:

"I regret losing him at HEW but I need him here."

FINCH
Adminstrator to adviser

The President indicated he felt there were areas in which he was not getting the full range of counsel that he expects Finch to provide.

Richardson, 49, has been undersecretary of state since the beginning of the Nixon administration and had served as assistant secretary of health, education and welfare in the Eisenhower administration.

Finch's departure from the Cabinet was the first in the Nixon presidency. At the White House, he will share the title of counselor to the President—the highest staff designation—with John D. Ehrlichman and Bryce N. Harlow.

Nixon told newsmen he and Finch had been discussing for some time the possibility of his old friend providing regular counsel to the chief executive in the domestic field and in some foreign policy areas.

Declaring that he had hoped Finch could serve both as private adviser and Cabinet secretary, Nixon said experience showed that running the Department of Health, Education and Welfare was a full-time job.

Finch, former Republican lieutenant governor of California, has been embroiled in a series of controversies while serving in the Cabinet and, from time to time, there had been rumors he might leave government entirely.

Talking to newsmen after Nixon announced his job shift, Finch said, "It's a higher calling but a lower salary."

Finch described the move as "coming home to be with Bob and John" and other Nixon aides—references to presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman and Ehrlichman.

Haldeman and Ehrlichman are regarded as the two most powerful figures on the White House staff.

Nixon, trying to nip in advance any speculation that Finch's arrival might precipitate staff rivalries, said all his top associates "are team players," and that the addition of Finch will strengthen the staff operation.

Richardson, a former Republican lieutenant governor of Massachusetts, said of his nomination for the Cabinet:

"I'm delighted, stunned and saddened all at once."

Richardson said he had enjoyed his work at the State Department, and added that he would be "rejoining old friends" at HEW. "I look forward to the assignment because it is a demanding one," he said.

Nixon, who has faced some criticism because of a supposed reliance on Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, his former New York law partner, suggested Finch

Big Brother Rescues Youngster After Near-Drowning In Novato

An 11-year-old boy was credited yesterday with saving the life of his younger brother, who had fallen into a swimming pool in Novato.

Stephan Taylor dived into the pool at 6065 Hatch Road and pulled out his unconscious brother, Eric, 7, according to the boys' father, William M. Taylor.

Taylor and his wife, Carrie, who is a registered nurse, gave mouth-to-mouth resusciation to their son. After he started to breathe, he was taken to Novato General Hospital and given oxygen treatment.

Taylor said he was recently transferred to the western regional of the National Park Service and the family was looking at a house at the address at about 2:30 p.m. when Eris and his sister, Alyson, 9, began playing around the pool.

When Eric fell in, Alyson called out to her parents in the house, but they ignored her first call, Taylor said.

Stephan ran out of the house and when he saw his younger brother unconscious and blue at the bottom of the pool, he dove

Bruce Again Asks Board To Fire Zucker

County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker, defeated in his attempt to unseat Supervisor Chairman John F. McInnis, will be up for dismissal by the county board of supervisors Tuesday afternoon.

County Administrator Alan Bruce recommended Zucker's dismissal in a strongly worded letter to the supervisors yesterday.

Bruce had recommended Zucker's firing in March when the planning director announced his decision to run against McInnis, but the board granted the planning director's request for a leave of absence. In 1969, Zucker survived another dismissal attempt, that time at the hands of McInnis and another supervisor, Louis H. Baar.

Bruce, in his letter to the supervisors, said Zucker "no longer has my recommendation or my confidence."

"The planning director and other appointive department heads serve on the recommendation of the county administrator, and at the pleasure of the board of supervisors," wrote Bruce.

Lawmen Arrest Indians

REDDING, Calif., (UPI)—In a surprise raid at dawn today, a caravan of law enforcement officers arrested 75 Indians seeking to reclaim for their people an area the size of Connecticut.

Sheriff's deputies, highway patrolmen and local police assembled in Redding and drove to a Pacific Gas and Electric Company campground where the Indians were staging a "camp-in."

"We shouldn't be arrested. PGE should be arrested," shouted one angry Indian. "This is our land and they are trespassing."

The police took the action after PGE said a dozen of their cabins were forcibly entered and asked for protection of their property.

Police booked the Indians on the spot and hauled them away by bus. Two of the Indians, who went limp, were carried off but the rest surrendered peacefully.

The Indians pitched camp at the site Friday morning and vowed to make it a beachhead in a drive to reclaim vast tribal lands.

The redmen were turned back Friday by rifle carrying federal marshals and park rangers at the entrance of Lassen Volcanic National Park, their original target. Then they drove to the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. camp ground northeast of here.

The "camp-in" opened a drive by the Pit River Indians and leaders of the Alcatraz Island Indian occupation to gain land they said was seized by the white man during the 1848 California Gold Rush.

A spokesman for the giant utility company said the Indians would be welcome to stay temporarily if they did not harm facilities. Several cabins are reserved for employes but the land has always been open to the public, he said.

The Indian Claims Commission conceded in 1959 that the land was taken "without compensation" but the government said the Indians agreed to settle for part of $29 million offered to all tribes. The money still is unpaid.

Six-Days' War Anniversary Marked By Air Activity

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israelis and Arabs marked the third anniversary of the six-day Middle East war with a new round of raids— the Israelis in the air, Arab commandos on the ground.

Israeli warplanes assaulted Egyptian military targets along the Suez Canal for 11 hours Friday and then returned at night for another 3½ hours.

The military command in Tel Aviv said the heavy bombing was aimed at reducing Israeli casualties along the waterway and preventing an Egyptian buildup.

Arab guerrillas staged sporadic border raids Friday and resumed them today, firing rockets from Iebanon into the Kirayat Shomona area of Upper Galilee, the Tel Aviv command said.

Mass demonstrations were staged and speeches delivered in various parts of the Arab world Friday.

Libya's strongman, Col. Muammar Kadafi, told a Damascus rally on the second day of his visit to Syria that all Arab armies must be thrown against Israel.

The 27-year-old leader pledged that his country would move its "regular forces directly into the conflict." Kadafi has been making the circuit of militant Arab capitals enlisting support for a united front strategy against Israel.

Arab leaders called for a general strike in all areas occupied by the Israelis in the 1967 war, but it was impossible to tell how many Arabs responded to the call because Friday is their holy day and most businesses closed anyway.

Aid Pours Into Peru; Toll May Hit 50,000

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Aid from the United States and other countries continued to pour into earthquake-devastated Peru today amid new estimates that the death count could reach 50,000 or more.

The United States dispatched the helicopter carrier Guam with 14 choppers aboard to help ferry supplies into the stricken Huylas canyon and carry out residents injured in the massive quake Sunday.

U.S. Ambassador Taylor Belcher said U.S. aid would top the $1 million mark by today. Belcher also reported that an American mining company, Cerro de Pasco Corp., had succeeded in opening a circuitous "back door" route to the shattered valley in north-central Peru, and that two other American firms were working on a more direct route from coastal areas to the inland region.

The Canadian government sent six transport planes to help drop supplies into the valley.

Peru's director of information, Augusto Zimmerman, said he could not confirm new estimates of 50,000 dead, cabled to U.N. headquarters from a representative of the world organization in Lima.

But Zimmerman said: "If you asked me whether 40,000 died instead of 30,000, I would have to say maybe. I don't know."

The disaster also hit to the west of the Huaylas Canyon, in the snowcapped cordillera Blanca, or White Range. Rescue crews still have had no time to search for survivors there but a cursory survey showed hundreds of villages and hamlets probably buried by landslides.

Disease posed a major problem. Rivers were polluted as melting snow trickled over bodies and found its way into the streams.

Senate Sets Asia Curbs Voting Date

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate, after nearly four weeks of debate, will speak at last next week on America's move into Cambodia and whether it should be permitted to happen again.

An agreement was reached Friday for a vote at 1 p.m. EDT next Thursday on a gut issue in the long debate: whether the Congress should restrict the President from sending forces into Cambodia without the express prior approval from Congress.

Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., a former diplomat, and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, believe they have the thin majority necessary to write that restriction into law.

But Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., backed by President Nixon and the Senate Republican leadership, thinks he has the votes to tone down the restriction and — in the Church-Cooper view—make it meaningless.

The vote will come on Byrd's proposal to add this caveat to the Cooper-Church proposal to bar future Cambodian operations:

"Except that the foregoing provisions this clause shall not preclude the President from taking such action as may be necessary to protect the lives of United States forces in South Vietnam or to facilitate the withdrawal of United States forces from South Vietnam."

Cooper, Church and their supporters contend that if the Byrd amendment is tacked onto their proposal it would mean the Senate will have spoken without saying anything. They say Nixon would have a blank check to declare it "necessary to protect the lives" of GIs and send Americans into Cambodia

Korea Sinking: U.S. Denials, Asia Mixup?

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea claims it sank a "heavily armed" U.S. spy ship in the Yellow Sea, but the U.S. Navy has denied the charge, saying it has no ships operating in the area.

South Korea announced Friday that one of its vessels on a routine mission to prevent South Korean fishing boats from straying north of the border, was attacked by two North Korean patrol boats and towed off toward the north. North Korea issued its claim later in the day, and there was speculation the two Korean governments were referring to the same incident.

North Korea's official Korean Central News Agency said an American spy ship "intruded deep into the coastal waters" about 11.30 p.m. Friday. "Officers and men of the navy of the Korean People's army ... instantly sent to the bottom of the sea the enemy's armed spy ship," the broadcast said.

The Navy reported in a statement issued in Washington: "The U.S. Navy had no ships of any kind operating in that area."

The North Korean dispatch said the ship was sunk off Haeju, about 50 miles south of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

The South Korean Defense Ministry said its boat was accosted by two North Korean vessels just south of the seaward extension of the Demilitarized Zone, about 70 miles west of the South Korean capital of Seoul.

The location given by the North Koreans would put the ship slightly north of the DMZ, and that given by the South Koreans would put it south of the line.

Isla Vista Bank Branch Fire-Bombed

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — Scattered rock throwing and window breaking erupted for the second straight night Friday as a crowd of young persons milled about in the Isla Vista community adjacent to the University of California campus here.

Authorities said that at one time the crowd swelled to between 800 - 1,000, as participants — identified as mostly students — milled in the area of an embattled branch of the Bank of America in the predominantly student community north of here.

However, deputies said, possible major violence was avoided because a small group of apparent moderate students and UCSB professors worked through the crowd, attempting to persuade the young people to return to their residences.

Most of the windows in the bank — the object of violence in April which resulted in the accidental shooting death of a UCSB student by a deputy sheriff — were broken out and the doors had been broken open.

Several of the bank's neon signs were also damaged and a fence surrounding the facility was temporarily torn down on one side, only to be put back up by the moderate group, deputies said.

A Molotov cocktail was tossed on the bank's roof early in the evening but burned itself out before doing any damage, they said.

It was the second night of disorder, stemming from student anger following the indictments earlier this week of 17 persons in connection with the burning down of the original Isla Vista Bank of America branch last Feb. 25 during four nights of rampage.

Despite its name, barely one-eighth of Iceland remains ice-covered year-round.

CONTROVERSIAL PLANES IN LIMELIGHT

The supersonic B1 bomber (above) has apparently resolved the Nixon Administration to give manned warplanes a place alongside missile forces. Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seaman Jr. yesterday said North American Rockwell Co. of El Segundo has a $1.3 billion contract to develop and produce the controversial bomber by 1974. The decision was protested by competing Boeing and other aircraft manufacturers. Meanwhile, in Boeing's Seattle plant (below) Secretary of Transportation John Volpe spoke at unveiling of wooden model of the proposed SST, saying he was sure Congress would allocate $290 million to continue work on the 1,800 miles-per-hour passenger plane. WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Boat Doing Well

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI)—Thor Heyerdahl's papyrus boat RA-2 radioed Friday it was encountering sunny weather and making good headway in its effort to cross the Atlantic.

Amateur radio operator Richard Ehrhorn said the report from the RA-2 put its position at 350 miles due west of Villa Cisneros on the coast of Africa.

China Executions

HONG KONG (UPI)—A Hong Kong newspaper said today 10 Chinese were executed last month on Communist China's Hainan Island apparently in connection with a rash of fires hitting food and supply shops on the southern coast of Mainland China.

Murphy Pays Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., has told the Securities and Exchange Commission that he has repaid Technicolor Inc. $10,413 as a result of a "small discrepancy" discovered by the SEC in a number of Technicolor shares he owns.

Murphy said he had paid interest on the profit made on the sale of his Technicolor stock and that he had paid Technicolor a total of $12,616. He said neither he nor his business manager were aware of a federal law under which he conceded he "might have a liability to Technicolor."

Cairo Welcome

CAIRO (UPI) — Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia was given a 21-gun salute and a personal welcome from Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser Friday when he arrived for a two-day official visit.

D-Day Recalled

BAYEUX, France (UPI)—French and American officials made a pilgrimage to the battlesites of World War II today on the 26th anniversary of D-Day—the allied invasion of Nazi-occupied Europe.

Laird In Italy

VENICE, Italy (UPI)—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird arrived today to attend a meeting of the NATO nuclear defense planning group.

The two-day session begins Monday.

The mission is part of a European trip in which Laird will visit NATO bases in Italy, Belgium, West Germany, Spain and Britain.

Kennedy Grave Visit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robert F. Kennedy's widow visited his grave shortly after dawn this morning on the second anniversary of his burial in Arlington National Cemetery.

Ethel Kennedy was accompanied by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and his wife Joan, who stood by silently as she placed a pink rose on his grave and knelt, her head bowed and her hands clasped for about 10 minutes.

None of the Kennedy children was present.

Sugar Pact Rejected

CROCKETT (UPI)—Negotiators from C & H Sugar Co. and Sugar Workers Union No. 1 will have to try to work out another contract proposal.

Striking sugar workers, who have been out since June 1 over wages and fringe benefits, rejected the company's latest offer Friday by a nine-vote margin, 440-431.

Eggs, Arguments

SLOUGH, England (AP) — "We have all the arguments, they have all the eggs," Prime Minister Harold Wilson said after being hit by two eggs during a campaign rally.

At another rally Friday, a group of youths tossed tomatoes at the prime minister, who is campaigning for re-election. The tomatoes missed.

LBJ Granddaughter

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was a girl for Maj. and Mrs. Charles S. Robb Jr. and the fourth grandchild for former President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

The baby, weighing 8 pounds, 13 ounces at birth yesterday, was the second girl for Lynda Robb and her Marine Major husband.

Sonny Tufts Dies

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Sonny Tufts, Boston-born actor who played both cowboys and suave leading-man roles with equal verve, is dead of pneumonia at 58.

The blond, tall actor died at St. John's Hospital Thursday night. His death was not made public until Friday.

Dr William Bergin, the physician who attended him, said Bowen Charleston Tufts II—his true name—succumbed to a "virulent organism" that caused him to be hospitalized last Sunday.

Cosmonauts Well

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet spaceship Soyuz 9, launched Monday night, continued its solitary orbit of the earth today with its two passengers reported "feeling well."

Poles Claim Capital

WARSAW (AP) — Eight hundred descendents of Count Caimir Palaski, a Pole who fought and died in the American Revolutionary War, have filed a claim with the U.S. government for 350 acres of land in Washington, D.C.

The U.S. State Department acknowledged in 1779 that Pulaski's heirs were entitled to a land bounty, but the case dragged on until 1859 and the department then ruled that the law providing for the grants had expired.

Bus Srike Over

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The 48-day-long bus strike over, buses returned to the streets at 4 a.m. today with the highest-paid drivers in the country.

And passengers pay 40 cents for a basic fare, 10 cents more than before the strike.

The three-year contract was ratified by union drivers Friday by a vote of 349 to 23. The pact provides wage increases of $1.12 an hour over three years.

Lawmen Arrest Indians

REDDING, Calif. (UPI)—In a surprise raid at dawn today, a caravan of law enforcement officers arrested 75 Indians seeking to reclaim for their people an area the size of Connecticut.

Sheriff's deputies, highway patrolmen and local police assembled in Redding and drove to a Pacific Gas and Electric Company campground where the Indians were staging a "camp-in."

"We shouldn't be arrested. PGE should be arrested," shouted one angry Indian. "This is our land and they are trespassing."

The police took the action after PGE said a dozen of their cabins were forcibly entered and asked for protection of their property.

Police booked the Indians on the spot and hauled them away by bus. Two of the Indians, who went limp, were carried off but the rest surrendered peacefully.

The Indians pitched camp at the site Friday morning and vowed to make it a beachhead in a drive to reclaim vast tribal lands.

The redmen were turned back Friday by rifle carrying federal marshals and park rangers at the entrance of Lassen Volcanic National Park, their original target. Then they drove to the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. camp ground northeast of here.

The "camp-in" opened a drive by the Pit River Indians and leaders of the Alcatraz Island Indian occupation to gain land they said was seized by the white man during the 1848 California Gold Rush.

A spokesman for the giant utility company said the Indians would be welcome to stay temporarily if they did not harm facilities. Several cabins are reserved for employes but the land has always been open to the public, he said.

The Indian Claims Commission conceded in 1959 that the land was taken "without compensation" but the government said the Indians agreed to settle for part of $29 million offered to all tribes. The money still is unpaid.

One of the world's most beautiful waterfalls is Sutherland Falls, New Zealand, where the water plunges 1,904 feet.

Six-Days' War Anniversary Marked By Air Activity

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israelis and Arabs marked the third anniversary of the six-day Middle East war with a new round of raids— the Israelis in the air, Arab commandos on the ground.

Israeli warplanes assaulted Egyptian military targets along the Suez Canal for 11 hours Friday and then returned at night for another 3½ hours.

The military command in Tel Aviv said the heavy bombing was aimed at reducing Israeli casualties along the waterway and preventing an Egyptian buildup.

Arab guerrillas staged sporadic border raids Friday and resumed them today, firing rockets from Iebanon into the Kirayat Shomona area of Upper Galilee, the Tel Aviv command said.

Mass demonstrations were staged and speeches delivered in various parts of the Arab world Friday.

Libya's strongman, Col. Muammar Kadafi, told a Damascus rally on the second day of his visit to Syria that all Arab armies must be thrown against Israel.

The 27-year-old leader pledged that his country would move its "regular forces directly into the conflict." Kadafi has been making the circuit of militant Arab capitals enlisting support for a united front strategy against Israel.

Arab leaders called for a general strike in all areas occupied by the Israelis in the 1967 war, but it was impossible to tell how many Arabs responded to the call because Friday is their holy day and most businesses closed anyway.

Aid Pours Into Peru; Toll May Hit 50,000

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Aid from the United States and other countries continued to pour into earthquake-devastated Peru today amid new estimates that the death count could reach 50,000 or more.

The United States dispatched the helicopter carrier Guam with 14 choppers aboard to help ferry supplies into the stricken Huylas canyon and carry out residents injured in the massive quake Sunday.

U.S. Ambassador Taylor Belcher said U.S. aid would top the $1 million mark by today. Belcher also reported that an American mining company, Cerro de Pasco Corp., had succeeded in opening a circuitous "back door" route to the shattered valley in north-central Peru, and that two other American firms were working on a more direct route from coastal areas to the inland region.

The Canadian government sent six transport planes to help drop supplies into the valley.

Senate Sets Asia Curbs Voting Date

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate, after nearly four weeks of debate, will speak at last next week on America's move into Cambodia and whether it should be permitted to happen again.

An agreement was reached Friday for a vote at 1 p.m. EDT next Thursday on a gut issue in the long debate: whether the Congress should restrict the President from sending forces into Cambodia without the express prior approval from Congress.

Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., a former diplomat, and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, believe they have the thin majority necessary to write that restriction into law.

But Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., backed by President Nixon and the Senate Republican leadership, thinks he has the votes to tone down the restriction and — in the Church-Cooper view—make it meaningless.

The vote will come on Byrd's proposal to add this caveat to the Cooper-Church proposal to bar future Cambodian operations:

"Except that the foregoing provisions this clause shall not preclude the President from taking such action as may be necessary to protect the lives of United States forces in South Vietnam or to facilitate the withdrawal of United States forces from South Vietnam."

Cooper, Church and their supporters contend that if the Byrd amendment is tacked onto their proposal it would mean the Senate will have spoken without saying anything. They say Nixon would have a blank check to declare it "necessary to protect the lives" of GIs and send Americans into Cambodia

Korea Sinking: U.S. Denials, Asia Mixup?

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea claims it sank a "heavily armed" U.S. spy ship in the Yellow Sea, but the U.S. Navy has denied the charge, saying it has no ships operating in the area.

South Korea announced Friday that one of its vessels on a routine mission to prevent South Korean fishing boats from straying north of the border, was attacked by two North Korean patrol boats and towed off toward the north. North Korea issued its claim later in the day, and there was speculation the two Korean governments were referring to the same incident.

North Korea's official Korean Central News Agency said an American spy ship "intruded deep into the coastal waters" about 11.30 p.m. Friday. "Officers and men of the navy of the Korean People's army ... instantly sent to the bottom of the sea the enemy's armed spy ship," the broadcast said.

The Navy reported in a statement issued in Washington: "The U.S. Navy had no ships of any kind operating in that area."

The North Korean dispatch said the ship was sunk off Haeju, about 50 miles south of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

The South Korean Defense Ministry said its boat was accosted by two North Korean vessels just south of the seaward extension of the Demilitarized Zone, about 70 miles west of the South Korean capital of Seoul.

The location given by the North Koreans would put the ship slightly north of the DMZ, and that given by the South Koreans would put it south of the line.

Isla Vista Bank Branch Fire-Bombed

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — Scattered rock throwing and window breaking erupted for the second straight night Friday as a crowd of young persons milled about in the Isla Vista community adjacent to the University of California campus here.

Authorities said that at one time the crowd swelled to between 800 - 1,000, as participants — identified as mostly students — milled in the area of an embattled branch of the Bank of America in the predominantly student community north of here.

However, deputies said, possible major violence was avoided because a small group of apparent moderate students and UCSB professors worked through the crowd, attempting to persuade the young people to return to their residences.

Most of the windows in the bank — the object of violence in April which resulted in the accidental shooting death of a UCSB student by a deputy sheriff — were broken out and the doors had been broken open.

Several of the bank's neon signs were also damaged and a fence surrounding the facility was temporarily torn down on one side, only to be put back up by the moderate group, deputies said.

A Molotov cocktail was tossed on the bank's roof early in the evening but burned itself out before doing any damage, they said.

It was the second night of disorder, stemming from student anger following the indictments earlier this week of 17 persons in connection with the burning down of the original Isla Vista Bank of America branch last Feb. 25 during four nights of rampage.

Despite its name, barely one-eighth of Iceland remains ice-covered year-round.

CONTROVERSIAL PLANES IN LIMELIGHT

The supersonic B1 bomber (above) has apparently resolved the Nixon Administration to give manned warplanes a place alongside missile forces. Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seaman Jr. yesterday said North American Rockwell Co. of El Segundo has a $1.3 billion contract to develop and produce the controversial bomber by 1974. The decision was protested by competing Boeing and other aircraft manufacturers. Meanwhile, in Boeing's Seattle plant (below) Secretary of Transportation John Volpe spoke at unveiling of wooden model of the proposed SST, saying he was sure Congress would allocate $290 million to continue work on the 1,800 miles-per-hour passenger plane. WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Boat Doing Well

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI)—Thor Heyerdahl's papyrus boat RA-2 radioed Friday it was encountering sunny weather and making good headway in its effort to cross the Atlantic.

Amateur radio operator Richard Ehrhorn said the report from the RA-2 put its position at 350 miles due west of Villa Cisneros on the coast of Africa.

China Executions

HONG KONG (UPI)—A Hong Kong newspaper said today 10 Chinese were executed last month on Communist China's Hainan Island apparently in connection with a rash of fires hitting food and supply shops on the southern coast of Mainland China.

Murphy Pays Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., has told the Securities and Exchange Commission that he has repaid Technicolor Inc. $10,413 as a result of a "small discrepancy" discovered by the SEC in a number of Technicolor shares he owns.

Murphy said he had paid interest on the profit made on the sale of his Technicolor stock and that he had paid Technicolor a total of $12,616. He said neither he nor his business manager were aware of a federal law under which he conceded he "might have a liability to Technicolor."

Cairo Welcome

CAIRO (UPI) — Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia was given a 21-gun salute and a personal welcome from Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser Friday when he arrived for a two-day official visit.

D-Day Recalled

BAYEUX, France (UPI)—French and American officials made a pilgrimage to the battlesites of World War II today on the 26th anniversary of D-Day—the allied invasion of Nazi-occupied Europe.

Laird In Italy

VENICE, Italy (UPI)—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird arrived today to attend a meeting of the NATO nuclear defense planning group.

The two-day session begins Monday.

The mission is part of a European trip in which Laird will visit NATO bases in Italy, Belgium, West Germany, Spain and Britain.

Kennedy Grave Visit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robert F. Kennedy's widow visited his grave shortly after dawn this morning on the second anniversary of his burial in Arlington National Cemetery.

Ethel Kennedy was accompanied by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and his wife Joan, who stood by silently as she placed a pink rose on his grave and knelt, her head bowed and her hands clasped for about 10 minutes.

None of the Kennedy children was present.

Sugar Pact Rejected

CROCKETT (UPI)—Negotiators from C & H Sugar Co. and Sugar Workers Union No. 1 will have to try to work out another contract proposal.

Striking sugar workers, who have been out since June 1 over wages and fringe benefits, rejected the company's latest offer Friday by a nine-vote margin, 440-431.

Eggs, Arguments

SLOUGH, England (AP) — "We have all the arguments, they have all the eggs," Prime Minister Harold Wilson said after being hit by two eggs during a campaign rally.

At another rally Friday, a group of youths tossed tomatoes at the prime minister, who is campaigning for re-election. The tomatoes missed.

LBJ Granddaughter

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was a girl for Maj. and Mrs. Charles S. Robb Jr. and the fourth grandchild for former President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

The baby, weighing 8 pounds, 13 ounces at birth yesterday, was the second girl for Lynda Robb and her Marine Major husband.

Sonny Tufts Dies

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Sonny Tufts, Boston-born actor who played both cowboys and suave leading-man roles with equal verve, is dead of pneumonia at 58.

The blond, tall actor died at St. John's Hospital Thursday night. His death was not made public until Friday.

Dr William Bergin, the physician who attended him, said Bowen Charleston Tufts II—his true name—succumbed to a "virulent organism" that caused him to be hospitalized last Sunday.

Cosmonauts Well

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet spaceship Soyuz 9, launched Monday night, continued its solitary orbit of the earth today with its two passengers reported "feeling well."

Poles Claim Capital

WARSAW (AP) — Eight hundred descendents of Count Caimir Palaski, a Pole who fought and died in the American Revolutionary War, have filed a claim with the U.S. government for 350 acres of land in Washington, D.C.

The U.S. State Department acknowledged in 1779 that Pulaski's heirs were entitled to a land bounty, but the case dragged on until 1859 and the department then ruled that the law providing for the grants had expired.

Bus Srike Over

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The 48-day-long bus strike over, buses returned to the streets at 4 a.m. today with the highest-paid drivers in the country.

And passengers pay 40 cents for a basic fare, 10 cents more than before the strike.

The three-year contract was ratified by union drivers Friday by a vote of 349 to 23. The pact provides wage increases of $1.12 an hour over three years.

negligent in his duties if he allowed them to remain at large "to wrack the same havoc" elsewhere in the nation.

It is only a step from burning draft records to burning buildings, the judge said in denying defense motions that the seven remain free on bond pending sentencing. The defendants' actions amounted to anarchy, he said.

The defendants admitted during the trial that they took part in the raid on a complex of draft offices and destroyed records by pouring paint on them and dumping them into a bonfire.

But an attorney for four defendants argued that his clients were innocent on grounds they were "culturally insane" because their views on Vietnam and racism differ from those of the majority of Americans.

The four defendants represented by attorney Frank Oliver were examined by a psychiatrist who testified for the prosecution that all four were mentally sound and able to tell the difference between right and wrong at the time of the raid.

The four were the Rev. Nicholas J. Riddell, 40, of Milwaukee, a Carmelite priest; Linda J. Quint, 22, of Chicago; and Edward Gargan, 19, and William Durkin, 20, both of Milwaukee.

They were among 18 persons arrested May 25, 1969, during the raid on a southwest side Selective service office. Three of the 18 were dismissed because they were newsmen observing the demonstrations.

Ex-Marinite Booked In Dual Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Jaime Sandoval, ex-convict and central figure in a Peninsula death mystery a decade ago, has been booked on murder charges in the slaying of two persons last weekend.

Sandoval, 39, former male nurse in San Rafael, was booked on the more serious charges Friday. He had been held only for investigation in the slayings of Edelmiro Huertas and Carmen Acenzio. Both of their bodies were found near Devil's Slide last weekend.

Police said they had "solid evidence" the two were killed in Huertas' San Francisco home and then dumped in San Mateo County.

Sandoval was the only witness to the 1960 death of Mrs. Virginia Douglas of Millbrae, who was fatally injured when she fell from a cliff in Puerto Rico. Ten days later, her husband committed suicide, leaving a note saying he doubted that his wife's death was accidental and asserting that Sandoval had bilked him of $32,000.

The following year Sandoval was conviced of molesting the Douglas couple's two young boys and served time in San Quentin Prison.

Only One Inmate Knows Death Date

Only one of 77 persons condemned to die in San Quentin Prison's gas chamber has an execution date set, Associate Warden James W. L. Park said yesterday.

Harold Roger Terry, 33, of Alameda County, is scheduled to die Aug. 12. He was convicted of the murder of two men in two separate robberies in Oakland in February 1965.

Terry's partner, Juanelda Allen, is serving a life sentence at the California Institution for Women at Corona.

Seventy-three condemned men are at San Quentin, three are out of the prison for court appearances, and one woman is at Corona. The sentences of 72 have either been stayed or are being appealed.

No Charge Yet On Dope In Jail

No charges were filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against two persons arrested Thursday on suspicion of trying to smuggle a heroin kit into Marin County Jail.

Harold Don Lee Jenkins, 25, of Richmond, and Dolores Lockhard, 25, of San Francisco, were released pending an investigation by the district attorney's office.

They had allegedly handed a jailer an envelope containing three burned spoons, one of which contained a white crystal substance, and a needle and a syringe, asking that it be delivered to inmate Mark Jenkins, 28, of San Francisco.

Ecologist Warns Foresters Man Must Change His Ways

Ecologist Paul F. Brandwein told approximately 200 professional foresters meeting in San Rafael last night that man must drastically change his habits in order to save his environment.

"We're polluting our environment for no other reason than that we're habituated to it," the president of the Center for Study of Instruction in Natural and Social Sciences said, glaring at several in the audience who were smoking cigarettes. "We, alone among all the species, have the freedom to suicide."

He told the Northern California Section of the Society of American Foresters that man's misuse of technology has resulted in an almost unbearable noise level and lack of privacy, "which are making us more and more irritated with one another." While emphasizing that he was not calling for a return to primitivism, Dr. Brandwein said his ideal civilzaton would be "when man invests a machine and doesn't use it. Major species have died," he said, "of that which has made them great. Is man to die because of his technology?"

He pointed out that America's technology has reached the point where it uses 35 times the resources of the rest of the world, and what is needed is a global resources policy.

"How do we get a global resources policy?" he asked rhetorically. "I don't know. I can't even get a policy in my own neighborhood," indicating that people are not aware of their habits that are destroying their environment.

He pointed to the habit of producing more human beings on a finite earth with finite resources to support them.

"In 200 years, at a birth rate of 1.7 per cent, we can look forward to one person per square foot of land."

The answer, he said, is to change our cultural values to achieve control of reproduction.

This would help maintain a balance between man and the finite resources to maintain him. Also, he said, "we need an ecumenical council between industry and conservationists," to figure out realistic ways of maintaining a healthy environment.

The foresters travel today to West Marin for a tour of Point Reyes National Seashore, the Audubon Canyon Ranch, and the Righetti Ranch.

Four-Car Span Crash Hurts Four

Four members of a San Francisco family were injured last night in a four-car collision on the Golden Gate Bridge.

Treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts and bruises were the driver, William K. Chan, 22, and three passengers, Lewis Chan, 16; John Chan, 13, and Kai Fog Chan, 11.

The California Highway Patrol said the Chan vehicle was southbound on the bridge about 7:30 p.m. when it hit the guard rail and then rebounded over the divider strip into the northbound lanes, hitting a car driven by Marie C. Laughlin, 50, of 65 Crescent Lane, Novato. Two other cars, driven by Melva A. Warner, 36, of Eureka, and Alma J. Christiansen, 40, of San Mateo. struck the rear of the Laughlin vehicle, the officers said.

Collision Hurts Both Drivers

Two San Rafael drivers were treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for bruises sustained when their autos collided on Woodland Avenue near Davidson Junior High School, San Rafael.

The hospital said Evelyn L. Townsend, 35, of 125 Woodland Avenue, was treated for a bruised forehead and Antonio M. Saavedra, 35, of 55 Woodland Avenue, for a bruised chest.

Police quoted a witness as saying the Saavedra auto had struck a school crossing sign on Woodland prior to the 2:50 p.m. accident.

Locusts cannot fly until their body temperature reaches about 70 degrees F. The cool of night stiffens their muscles and they must bask in the sun before taking wing.

Probation, Fines Set For Drivers

Two persons have been sentenced by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Clay Hardin Lynch, 48, of Las Vegas, Nev., arrested April 13 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Carlos Camilo Romero, 28, of San Francisco, arrested last Sunday in Tiburon, was also placed on probation for one year and fined $175.

Gallinas Board Eyes Budgeting

The Gallinas Village Improvement Association board will discuss proposed cutbacks in the 1970-71 Marin County budget at a meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at the Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church, 635 Adrian Way.

The board will discuss the recommendations of County Administrator Alan Bruce to abolish the county5s human rights department and the well-baby clinic.

Bruce last May 5 suggested that the human rights department be eliminated from the budget to help keep next year's property ta from soaring to about $3 per $100 of assessed valuation. He also recommnded that the clinic be cut out of the health department budget.

where Communist defectors are reclassified and relocated by the South Vietnamese government and two villages in contrasting stages of pacification.

Herbert G. Klein, White House communications director and group leader, said "We've learned a lot and we've seen a lot. It's been very helpful." This is Klein's first trip to Vietnam.

The group was expected to tour other Cambodian border regions Sunday before flying to Hawaii Monday where the members will prepare a report for the President and Congress.

The military briefers emphasized to the senators, congressmen, governors and White House staff the overall effects of the U.S. offensive into Cambodia.

Maj. Gen. Ngo Dzu, acting IV Corps commander for the South Vietnamese army, was anxious to tell them that his forces worked closely with the Americans and Cambodians "and took over when the Americans reached the 21.7 mile limit."

Nixon and his military advisers decided that U.S. forces would not exceed that limit into Cambodia.

"We call that Nixon's Line," Dzu told the group.

The task force, traveling in a fleet of Uhi Huey helicopters, flew six inside the Cambodian border to Kampong Trach where they met with local officials and reviewed two cadres of Cambodian forces.

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania, a Republican, behaved like he was campaigning at home in the Keystone state. He held Vietnamese and Cambodian babies, shook hands with their parents and examined arms caches.

Bryce Harlow, Presidential counselor, asked for and was presented with a Communist rifle captured during mid-May raids in Neak Luong, Cambodia. He said he would take it back to the United States as a souvenir.

Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., questioned village officials at Huu Thanh in Vinh Long province, South Vietnam, on the success of their village elections.

The village, which now has 2,000 families, was destroyed during the Tet offensive of 1968 by the Communists.

Child Critically Hurt In Street

A 7-year-old San Rafael boy was listed in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital from head injuries suffered yesterday when he darted from between two parked cars and was struck by an eastbound auto on Ross Street, near his home.

Police said Shane Kimberly Shaw of 224 Marin Street ran into the path of a car driven by Andrew Birge Zimmerman, 21, of 115 Fairway Drive, San Rafael, at about 6:45 p.m.

Zimmerman told police he was traveling at a slow rate of speed but did not see the child.

Supervisors are scheduled to consider Zucker's dismissal at 1:45 p.m.

At the time of his dismissal recommendation in March, Bruce explained, "Mr. Zucker's decision to run for elective office, unaccompanied by resignation from his appointive office, evidences unsound and immature judgment, and results in an intolerable situation as to relationships with the board of supervisors."

will play a major advisory role.

Besides serving on the domestic affairs council, Nixon said Finch will travel with him regularly—whether to foreign countries or to Florida or Southern California for working vacations.

The White House later made a point of emphasizing that counselors to the President hold Cabinet rank although their top pay is $42,500 a year compared to $60,000 for Cabinet secretaries.

After his stint at HEW during the Eisenhower administration, Eisenhower appointed Richardson as U.S. attorney for Massachusetts.

Richardson led a probe of highway landtaking frauds in Massachusetts as U.S. attorney and in 1964 won election as lieutenant governor. In 1966 he was elected attorney general of Massachusetts.

California Job Picture Darker Than U.S. Norm

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The growing unemployment rate in California reached 5.9 per cent last month, the highest rate in almost five years and .9 per cent higher than the nationwide rate.

The Reagan administration announced Friday that 470,000 workers were without jobs during May in California, an increase of 32,000 over April and 142,00 over the level one year ago.

The Department of Human Resources Development said the jobless figure during the month climbed from 5.5 per cent in April and compared with 4.2 per cent for the same period in 1969.

"The rate of 5.9 per cent for California was last recorded in August 1965," the agency said.

The U.S. Labor Department reported Friday that the nation's unemployment rate hit 5 per cent last month, the highest rate in more than five years.

In the HRD's monthly report, the department said about 10,000 jobs were cut in the California aerospace manufacturing industries alone.

Driver Faces Felony Charge On Tear Gas

Gary Lee Yoder, 24, of San Francisco, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a felony charge of carrying a tear gas device. His case was continued to Friday.

Yoder was arrested Thursday on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Inverness after being stopped for speeding. A check revealed that he had an outstanding traffic warrant and after being arrested for this, a search produced a tear gas container which he said he had bought for protection.

bodian force had blunted the attack on Siem Reap and enemy troops were withdrawing toward Angkor Wat.

He added that this posed a problem of whether to risk a battle that might damage the famous 700-year-old ruins of Angkor Wat.

A high command spokesman said enemy forces attacked Siem Reap before sunrise, then followed up with a push against the airport in daylight hours.

The heaviest fighting was around the airport, two miles northwest of Siem Reap, and enemy forces were cleared from it, the source reported. Military reports indicated fighting inside Siem Reap had died down but there were some enemy troops there.

There are reports that the enemy plans to set up bases in the Elephant Range, 75 miles west of Phnom Penh. If so, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong would have to be supplied by sea, and the South Vietnamese navy has set up a blockade along the southern coast.

The multiple enemy attacks pointed up the Cambodia government's contention that it needs troops from Thailand and that South Vietnamese forces must remain in Cambodia after the Americans pull out by June 30.

The U.S. Command, meanwhile, reported generally light and scattered fighting between enemy and American troops both in Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Officers Elected For Tam High

Ann Folker of Mill Valley was elected 1970-71 student body president of Tamalpais High School in Thursday's school election, defeating Tom Donaghue and Bruce Morgan for the post.

Peter Yamamoto defeated Vickie Goodman and Mario Cipollino for vice president. Julie Riedel was elected treasurer and Alice Jacobs secretary, both without opposition.

Approximately 1,000 students voted, reported Joseph E. Petterle, dean of student activities. The school, fearful of embarrassing losers, does not report individual vote totals, he said.

Elected as 1970-71 class presidents were Mike Goldberg, senior, who defeated Lorna Freeman; Becky Brockway, junior, who defeated Milan Calloway, and Robert Combs, sophomore, who was unopposed.

East Bay Motorist Denies Weed Charge

Steve Brian Hennagir, 18, of Hayward, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing marijuana when arrested May 22 on the Golden Gate Bridge. A preliminary hearing was set for June 23.

Hennagir was arrested after a California Highway Patrol officer stopped to assit him with a flat tire and noticed two suspected pot cigarettes in his pocket.

Mail Thefts Are Reported

Sheriff's deputies yetserday reported two mail thefts on Vernal Avenue in Homestead Valley.

Mail boxes at the homes of Paul T. Rigby of 926 Vernal Avenue and Ann Jenkins of 906 Vernal Avenue were opened Tuesday and packages taken from each.

All the contents of Rigby's package which contained jewelry was found nearby except a topaz ring deputies said. Taken from Mrs. Jenkins were two tape cartridges.

Wholesale Price Spiral Continues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices increased 0.2 per cent in May, according to the Labor Department, indicating a continuing rise in retail prices is ahead.

The announcement by the department's Bureau of Labor Statstics (BLS) followed an earlier report Friday that jobless rose last month from 4.8 to 5.0 per cent, the highest unemployment rate in five years.

Final BLS figures on wholesale prices were little changed from a preliminary estimate made May 26. Industrial commodities advanced 0.3 per cent, including an increase of 2.9 per cent by refined petroleum products. Fresh and dried fruits and vegetables rose 9.6 per cent.

The most significant decline in farm product prices was a 16 per cent decrease for eggs, which fell to just below their price level of the previous May.

negligent in his duties if he allowed them to remain at large "to wrack the same havoc" elsewhere in the nation.

It is only a step from burning draft records to burning buildings, the judge said in denying defense motions that the seven remain free on bond pending sentencing. The defendants' actions amounted to anarchy, he said.

The defendants admitted during the trial that they took part in the raid on a complex of draft offices and destroyed records by pouring paint on them and dumping them into a bonfire.

But an attorney for four defendants argued that his clients were innocent on grounds they were "culturally insane" because their views on Vietnam and racism differ from those of the majority of Americans.

The four defendants represented by attorney Frank Oliver were examined by a psychiatrist who testified for the prosecution that all four were mentally sound and able to tell the difference between right and wrong at the time of the raid.

The four were the Rev. Nicholas J. Riddell, 40, of Milwaukee, a Carmelite priest; Linda J. Quint, 22, of Chicago; and Edward Gargan, 19, and William Durkin, 20, both of Milwaukee.

They were among 18 persons arrested May 25, 1969, during the raid on a southwest side Selective service office. Three of the 18 were dismissed because they were newsmen observing the demonstrations.

Ex-Marinite Booked In Dual Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Jaime Sandoval, ex-convict and central figure in a Peninsula death mystery a decade ago, has been booked on murder charges in the slaying of two persons last weekend.

Sandoval, 39, former male nurse in San Rafael, was booked on the more serious charges Friday. He had been held only for investigation in the slayings of Edelmiro Huertas and Carmen Acenzio. Both of their bodies were found near Devil's Slide last weekend.

Police said they had "solid evidence" the two were killed in Huertas' San Francisco home and then dumped in San Mateo County.

Sandoval was the only witness to the 1960 death of Mrs. Virginia Douglas of Millbrae, who was fatally injured when she fell from a cliff in Puerto Rico. Ten days later, her husband committed suicide, leaving a note saying he doubted that his wife's death was accidental and asserting that Sandoval had bilked him of $32,000.

The following year Sandoval was conviced of molesting the Douglas couple's two young boys and served time in San Quentin Prison.

Only One Inmate Knows Death Date

Only one of 77 persons condemned to die in San Quentin Prison's gas chamber has an execution date set, Associate Warden James W. L. Park said yesterday.

Harold Roger Terry, 33, of Alameda County, is scheduled to die Aug. 12. He was convicted of the murder of two men in two separate robberies in Oakland in February 1965.

Terry's partner, Juanelda Allen, is serving a life sentence at the California Institution for Women at Corona.

Seventy-three condemned men are at San Quentin, three are out of the prison for court appearances, and one woman is at Corona. The sentences of 72 have either been stayed or are being appealed.

No Charge Yet On Dope In Jail

No charges were filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against two persons arrested Thursday on suspicion of trying to smuggle a heroin kit into Marin County Jail.

Harold Don Lee Jenkins, 25, of Richmond, and Dolores Lockhard, 25, of San Francisco, were released pending an investigation by the district attorney's office.

They had allegedly handed a jailer an envelope containing three burned spoons, one of which contained a white crystal substance, and a needle and a syringe, asking that it be delivered to inmate Mark Jenkins, 28, of San Francisco.

Ecologist Warns Foresters Man Must Change His Ways

Ecologist Paul F. Brandwein told approximately 200 professional foresters meeting in San Rafael last night that man must drastically change his habits in order to save his environment.

"We're polluting our environment for no other reason than that we're habituated to it," the president of the Center for Study of Instruction in Natural and Social Sciences said, glaring at several in the audience who were smoking cigarettes. "We, alone among all the species, have the freedom to suicide."

He told the Northern California Section of the Society of American Foresters that man's misuse of technology has resulted in an almost unbearable noise level and lack of privacy, "which are making us more and more irritated with one another." While emphasizing that he was not calling for a return to primitivism, Dr. Brandwein said his ideal civilzaton would be "when man invests a machine and doesn't use it. Major species have died," he said, "of that which has made them great. Is man to die because of his technology?"

He pointed out that America's technology has reached the point where it uses 35 times the resources of the rest of the world, and what is needed is a global resources policy.

"How do we get a global resources policy?" he asked rhetorically. "I don't know. I can't even get a policy in my own neighborhood," indicating that people are not aware of their habits that are destroying their environment.

He pointed to the habit of producing more human beings on a finite earth with finite resources to support them.

"In 200 years, at a birth rate of 1.7 per cent, we can look forward to one person per square foot of land."

The answer, he said, is to change our cultural values to achieve control of reproduction.

This would help maintain a balance between man and the finite resources to maintain him. Also, he said, "we need an ecumenical council between industry and conservationists," to figure out realistic ways of maintaining a healthy environment.

The foresters travel today to West Marin for a tour of Point Reyes National Seashore, the Audubon Canyon Ranch, and the Righetti Ranch.

Four-Car Span Crash Hurts Four

Four members of a San Francisco family were injured last night in a four-car collision on the Golden Gate Bridge.

Treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts and bruises were the driver, William K. Chan, 22, and three passengers, Lewis Chan, 16; John Chan, 13, and Kai Fog Chan, 11.

The California Highway Patrol said the Chan vehicle was southbound on the bridge about 7:30 p.m. when it hit the guard rail and then rebounded over the divider strip into the northbound lanes, hitting a car driven by Marie C. Laughlin, 50, of 65 Crescent Lane, Novato. Two other cars, driven by Melva A. Warner, 36, of Eureka, and Alma J. Christiansen, 40, of San Mateo, struck the rear of the Laughlin vehicle, the officers said.

Collision Hurts Both Drivers

Two San Rafael drivers were treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for bruises sustained when their autos collided on Woodland Avenue near Davidson Junior High School, San Rafael.

The hospital said Evelyn L. Townsend, 35, of 125 Woodland Avenue, was treated for a bruised forehead and Antonio M. Saavedra, 35, of 55 Woodland Avenue, for a bruised chest.

Police quoted a witness as saying the Saavedra auto had struck a school crossing sign on Woodland prior to the 2:50 p.m. accident.

Locusts cannot fly until their body temperature reaches about 70 degrees F. The cool of night stiffens their muscles and they must bask in the sun before taking wing.

Probation, Fines Set For Drivers

Two persons have been sentenced by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Clay Hardin Lynch, 48, of Las Vegas, Nev., arrested April 13 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Carlos Camilo Romero, 28, of San Francisco, arrested last Sunday in Tiburon, was also placed on probation for one year and fined $175.

Gallinas Board Eyes Budgeting

The Gallinas Village Improvement Association board will discuss proposed cutbacks in the 1970-71 Marin County budget at a meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at the Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church, 635 Adrian Way.

The board will discuss the recommendations of County Administrator Alan Bruce to abolish the county5s human rights department and the well-baby clinic.

Bruce last May 5 suggested that the human rights department be eliminated from the budget to help keep next year's property ta from soaring to about $3 per $100 of assessed valuation. He also recommnded that the clinic be cut out of the health department budget.

where Communist defectors are reclassified and relocated by the South Vietnamese government and two villages in contrasting stages of pacification.

Herbert G. Klein, White House communications director and group leader, said "We've learned a lot and we've seen a lot. It's been very helpful." This is Klein's first trip to Vietnam.

The group was expected to tour other Cambodian border regions Sunday before flying to Hawaii Monday where the members will prepare a report for the President and Congress.

The military briefers emphasized to the senators, congressmen, governors and White House staff the overall effects of the U.S. offensive into Cambodia.

Maj. Gen. Ngo Dzu, acting IV Corps commander for the South Vietnamese army, was anxious to tell them that his forces worked closely with the Americans and Cambodians "and took over when the Americans reached the 21.7 mile limit."

Nixon and his military advisers decided that U.S. forces would not exceed that limit into Cambodia.

"We call that Nixon's Line," Dzu told the group.

The task force, traveling in a fleet of Uhi Huey helicopters, flew six inside the Cambodian border to Kampong Trach where they met with local officials and reviewed two cadres of Cambodian forces.

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania, a Republican, behaved like he was campaigning at home in the Keystone state. He held Vietnamese and Cambodian babies, shook hands with their parents and examined arms caches.

Bryce Harlow, Presidential counselor, asked for and was presented with a Communist rifle captured during mid-May raids in Neak Luong, Cambodia. He said he would take it back to the United States as a souvenir.

Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., questioned village officials at Huu Thanh in Vinh Long province, South Vietnam, on the success of their village elections.

The village, which now has 2,000 families, was destroyed during the Tet offensive of 1968 by the Communists.

Child Critically Hurt In Street

A 7-year-old San Rafael boy was listed in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital from head injuries suffered yesterday when he darted from between two parked cars and was struck by an eastbound auto on Ross Street, near his home.

Police said Shane Kimberly Shaw of 224 Marin Street ran into the path of a car driven by Andrew Birge Zimmerman, 21, of 115 Fairway Drive, San Rafael, at about 6:45 p.m.

Zimmerman told police he was traveling at a slow rate of speed but did not see the child.

will play a major advisory role.

Besides serving on the domestic affairs council, Nixon said Finch will travel with him regularly—whether to foreign countries or to Florida or Southern California for working vacations.

The White House later made a point of emphasizing that counselors to the President hold Cabinet rank although their top pay is $42,500 a year compared to $60,000 for Cabinet secretaries.

After his stint at HEW during the Eisenhower administration, Eisenhower appointed Richardson as U.S. attorney for Massachusetts.

Richardson led a probe of highway landtaking frauds in Massachusetts as U.S. attorney and in 1964 won election as lieutenant governor. In 1966 he was elected attorney general of Massachusetts.

California Job Picture Darker Than U.S. Norm

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The growing unemployment rate in California reached 5.9 per cent last month, the highest rate in almost five years and .9 per cent higher than the nationwide rate.

The Reagan administration announced Friday that 470,000 workers were without jobs during May in California, an increase of 32,000 over April and 142,00 over the level one year ago.

The Department of Human Resources Development said the jobless figure during the month climbed from 5.5 per cent in April and compared with 4.2 per cent for the same period in 1969.

"The rate of 5.9 per cent for California was last recorded in August 1965," the agency said.

The U.S. Labor Department reported Friday that the nation's unemployment rate hit 5 per cent last month, the highest rate in more than five years.

In the HRD's monthly report, the department said about 10,000 jobs were cut in the California aerospace manufacturing industries alone.

Driver Faces Felony Charge On Tear Gas

Gary Lee Yoder, 24, of San Francisco, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a felony charge of carrying a tear gas device. His case was continued to Friday.

Yoder was arrested Thursday on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Inverness after being stopped for speeding. A check revealed that he had an outstanding traffic warrant and after being arrested for this, a search produced a tear gas container which he said he had bought for protection.

bodian force had blunted the attack on Siem Reap and enemy troops were withdrawing toward Angkor Wat.

He added that this posed a problem of whether to risk a battle that might damage the famous 700-year-old ruins of Angkor Wat.

A high command spokesman said enemy forces attacked Siem Reap before sunrise, then followed up with a push against the airport in daylight hours.

The heaviest fighting was around the airport, two miles northwest of Siem Reap, and enemy forces were cleared from it, the source reported. Military reports indicated fighting inside Siem Reap had died down but there were some enemy troops there.

There are reports that the enemy plans to set up bases in the Elephant Range, 75 miles west of Phnom Penh. If so, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong would have to be supplied by sea, and the South Vietnamese navy has set up a blockade along the southern coast.

The multiple enemy attacks pointed up the Cambodia government's contention that it needs troops from Thailand and that South Vietnamese forces must remain in Cambodia after the Americans pull out by June 30.

The U.S. Command, meanwhile, reported generally light and scattered fighting between enemy and American troops both in Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Officers Elected For Tam High

Ann Folker of Mill Valley was elected 1970-71 student body president of Tamalpais High School in Thursday's school election, defeating Tom Donaghue and Bruce Morgan for the post.

Peter Yamamoto defeated Vickie Goodman and Mario Cipollino for vice president. Julie Riedel was elected treasurer and Alice Jacobs secretary, both without opposition.

Approximately 1,000 students voted, reported Joseph E. Petterle, dean of student activities. The school, fearful of embarrassing losers, does not report individual vote totals, he said.

Elected as 1970-71 class presidents were Mike Goldberg, senior, who defeated Lorna Freeman; Becky Brockway, junior, who defeated Milan Calloway, and Robert Combs, sophomore, who was unopposed.

East Bay Motorist Denies Weed Charge

Steve Brian Hennagir, 18, of Hayward, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing marijuana when arrested May 22 on the Golden Gate Bridge. A preliminary hearing was set for June 23.

Hennagir was arrested after a California Highway Patrol officer stopped to assit him with a flat tire and noticed two suspected pot cigarettes in his pocket.

Mail Thefts Are Reported

Sheriff's deputies yetserday reported two mail thefts on Vernal Avenue in Homestead Valley.

Mail boxes at the homes of Paul T. Rigby of 926 Vernal Avenue and Ann Jenkins of 906 Vernal Avenue were opened Tuesday and packages taken from each.

All the contents of Rigby's package which contained jewelry was found nearby except a topaz ring deputies said. Taken from Mrs. Jenkins were two tape cartridges.

Wholesale Price Spiral Continues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices increased 0.2 per cent in May, according to the Labor Department, indicating a continuing rise in retail prices is ahead.

The announcement by the department's Bureau of Labor Statstics (BLS) followed an earlier report Friday that jobless rose last month from 4.8 to 5.0 per cent, the highest unemployment rate in five years.

Final BLS figures on wholesale prices were little changed from a preliminary estimate made May 26. Industrial commodities advanced 0.3 per cent, including an increase of 2.9 per cent by refined petroleum products. Fresh and dried fruits and vegetables rose 9.6 per cent.

The most significant decline in farm product prices was a 16 per cent decrease for eggs, which fell to just below their price level of the previous May.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

'Is There A Rule I've Missed That Says A Person Must Get Married?'

DEAR HELEN:

Is there a rule I've missed that says a person must get married? I often hear kids of four or five say, "When I grow up and get married, I'm going to be. . ." almost as if marriage was a prerequisite to gaining adulthood, or at least adult status in society.

Let's face it, marriage has become something that if you don't achieve, you will wind up a dried-up old maid or a dirty old man in the eyes of your associates.

But marriage isn't for everyone. I mean, the only logical reason for a high divorce rate is a high marriage rate. Seems to me you aren't a failure if you remain single, but only if you jump into a partnership that is bound to fail because you acted in desperation. — NOT FOR ME

DEAR N.F.M.:

Good thinking. But when that certain person happens along — whose love will forevermore protect you from loneliness — your thoughts may change. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Whatever happened to the fellow who first invented the phrase, "Don't trust anyone over 30?" And is the generation gap really that great? — TWO QUESTIONS

DEAR TWO:

Jack Weinberg, who says "that phrase" was his "absurd answer to an absurd question," turned 30 on April 4, 1970.

He launched it back in 1965 during the Free Speech Movement at Berkeley. When a newspaper reporter asked him if outside adults were masterminding the program, Weinberg reports, "That made me kind of mad because of the old 'Communist conspiracy' implication, so I said the thing about not trusting anybody over 30. I didn't mean it then and I mean it even less today."

Advanced age has not led Jack into the Establishment meatchopper. "I'm still going to be a revolutionary," he says.

Second question: "Generation gap" is another popular phrase blown up out of all proportion. "Idea gap" seems more accurate, for there are as many older people who relate to the young, as there are young people who reject the leadership of their radical peers.

America is polarized, divided, splintered not so much by age as by fear and distrust. . .of war, the economy, politicians, Communism, race, poverty, crime — you name it and somebody will surely start a movement, which may or may not turn into a riot.

I look to the day when the Three R's: Race, Riotin' and Revolution will give way to concern over the Three P's: Pollution, Pollution (and its by-product, Poverty) and Peace. Then, the generation gap will be a forgotten term. — H.

Deb Emphasis On Volunteer Work

A new and different approach will be given to the Marin Debutante program this year — an emphasis on volunteer work in Marin County during the summer months.

As preparation the sponsoring Marin Charitable Foundation has set up a three-day orientation to volunteer work and a tour of Marin County agencies, with Mrs. Alfred P. Otto Jr. of Ross as its organizing chairman.

The orientation series will begin on June 15 at the Volunteer Bureau of Marin in San Rafael. The 1970 debutantes will meet at 9:30 a.m. for a short talk and then from 10 a.m. to noon will tour the Family Service Agency, Planned Parenthood Association and the Marin Chapter of the American Red Cross, all in San Rafael, and have lunch and visit the Marin County Department of Social Services and Marin County Probation Department at the Civic Center.

Tuesday the girls will meet at 9:30 a.m. at the Marin Aid to Retarded Children, the Atypical Infant Development Program and the Department of Public Health, all in San Rafael. In the afternoon they will continue to Marin City to visit the Boys Club of Southern Marin and the Manzanita Center Summer Child Care Program.

The following day the debs will meet at the Ross Post Office at 9:30 a.m. and go on to the Community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital and then tour the hospital itself including the Marin Speech and Hearing Center. The tour will conclude at the Ross Psychiatric Clinic at Ross General Hospital.

Afterward the girls will go to the home of Mrs. Gregory Solon for an instructional meeting with the debutante ball committee of the Marin Charitable Foundation and to have luncheon.

Know Your Figure Type To Select Correct Patterns

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE,

I have bought my clothes all of my life but with the continued rise in costs of ready-made clothes, I have begun to make some of my own things. I'm just not satisfied with the results, seems I never choose the correct pattern. What can you suggest as a workable solution to this problem; I'm sure it must be shared by others?

MRS. M. K.

DEAR MRS. M.K.

Since you have been buying ready-made clothes, you should have some idea of what is becoming on you and what is not. It is astonishing to find the number of women who do not know how to buy patterns and fabric.

Never choose a pattern without knowing what type of figure you have. Pictures of models always have perfect figures which very few real, ordinary, everyday folks like us do. Clothes aren't made by professional dressmakers and designers helter-skelter without thought as to how they are going to look on those going to model them. Usually, they are fitted directly on the model, fitting details and style lines are decided upon at that time.

The same careful planning must be done by us. As an example, a woman with a large bust needs darts in this area. If your neck is short, a rolled collar is not becoming. Not thinking and planning carefully beforehand how a certain fabric is going to look with the pattern you have chosen on your particular figure makes for some pretty dismal, unprofessional clothes that shout to the world that it is made by an amateur sewer.

Most fabric shops offer a personal service to customers by experienced women who will be more than happy to advise you on your pattern selections if you will only ask them, and then please, take their advice. Every shop wants happy customers, and happy customers are those who are pleased with their results.

DEAR EUNICE,

I have several dress patterns that I like for my daughter, and now I would like to make a blouse from one of those patterns. We would prefer buttons down the back intead of the zipper closing, but know that if we add the extra width for the buttons, the neckline will be too large. Please give me help on this matter.

MRS. J. D. H.

DEAR MRS. J. D. H.:

I was hoping you would all clip this information out of my column when it appeared recently. It is a simple matter to change the back from a zipper to buttons or from a button closing to a zipper. You must remember that the center back markings never change. If the pattern has a button closing, the center pack will be clearly marked and your closing seam for the zipper will be exactly at the center back.

If your pattern calls for a zipper and you wish to use buttons, the buttonholes will begin at the center back mark. Before cutting, you must add additional width for a lap at the back. You will need about ¾ inch plus a seam allowance to be measured from the center back mark.

If you wish a fold back facing instead of a seam, the fold line will be at the seamline, then add at least 3 inches for the facing.

Perhaps it would help if you would compare the construction of this detail by checking two patterns, one with buttons, the other with a center back seam. Once you have this detail clearly in your mind, you will find how easy it is to make simple pattern changes.

Get the booklet, "Your Pattern and You," for help on how to give yourself a custom fit. Send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Eunice Farmer in care of the Independent-Journal.

Ertman-Croke Rite Is Held In Larkspur Church

Susan Jayne Croke became the bride of Henry Louis Ertman May 29 in a ceremony at St. Patrick's Church in Larkspur. A reception for family members followed at the Larkspur home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Kane.

Maid of honor for her sister was Sandra J. Croke, and the bridegroom's brother, Fred C. Ertman of San Jose, was best man. Guests were ushered to their seats by Susan's brothers, Henry J. Croke Jr. and Brian J. Kane.

Susan was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and attended College of Marin. She is employed by York Securities Corp. in San Rafael. Mrs. Eleanor E. Watson of Larkspur and Mrs. Monique D. Croke of San Francisco are her grandmothers.

Henry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Ertman of Novato. A graudate of Redwood High School, he attended College of Marin and is employed by the City of San Anselmo. Mrs. Walter Parker of Anchorage, Alaska, is his sister.

Following a wedding trip to Kentfield, the couple will live in Los Angeles.

Girls State Delegates Chosen

Juniors from five Marin County high schools have been selected delegates to attend the American Legion Auxiliary sponsored Girls State program in government training to be held at the University of California at Davis July 6 through 14.

They are Kathy Green, Redwood High School; Judy Austen, Sir Francis Drake High School; Dorene Classon, Terra Linda High School; Kathy Van Herwynen, San Rafael High School; and Susan Desmond, Marin Catholic High School. Sponsoring groups of the delegates are San Anselmo Unit 179 and Twin Cities Unit 313 of Larkspur.

At the 27th annual session of California Girls State 560 high school juniors will be enrolled in a week of intensive training in Americanism and government, limited to one girl from each of California's high schools.

Directing the statewide program this year is Mrs. Richard Brown of Greenbrae.

The project in practical Americanism and citizenship honors juniors selected on basis of qualities in leadership, character, scholarship and citizenship.

At Girls State each girl will learn functions of government by organizing into mythical cities, then carrying out county form of government, holding primaries and finally electing state officials and holding an inauguration of Girls State governor and officials.

Climax of the program is selection of governor and outstanding citizen to attend Girls Nation in Washington, D.C., along with two representatives from each of the 50 states, also sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary. The national program carries out the government training experience of federal offices and responsibilities in citizenship, culminating with election of Girls Nation President.

Do Something About The Way You Look

By JANE ROGERS

London Express Service

A leading London store has just hit on a bright idea — they've installed an electronic mirror machine to show would-be buyers what they really look like to others.

It's a clever idea, really, a robot television recording system which shoots a 50 second film of you as you parade on a minute catwalk — but it is tending to back-fire from a sales point of view.

Suddenly faced with the truth about the way she looks, particularly from the back, many a customer has leapt straight out of the dress that she so nearly bought — and out of the store as well!

The reason? For many of us, a candid camera look at ourselves comes as an unpleasant shock. To see yourself on film is, for some reason, more shattering than the sight of yourself in a mirror.

The truth is that we very often only see what we want to see, but the real secret of successful dressing is to size up your bad points, honestly, and then do something about them.

THE FIGURE defect that most people moan about is a large bottom. To quote one actress "I seem to be two completely different people, joined together I'm small and slim down to the waist—I even have a bony face — but from the waist down — pow! I'm almost outsized."

With the summer holidays on the way the problem looms even larger. The ultimate exposure of stripping off on the beach makes everyone feel nervous.

What can be done?

First of all, do go on a diet, if you've time to do so. But be sensible, don't crash-diet down in a few days, be strong-willed and cut out all starch, and that includes sauces and gravies. Then tackle the offending area with a spot-reducing program. Exercise does, at the least, tone up your muscles and give you firm, rather than wobbling avordupois. But leg exercises can and will reduce your thighs if you follow them faithfully. A good one is simple to do if you have a towel rail or something of a convenience waist height to hold: grasp the rail and then swing each leg in turn across in front of you, as far as you can go on either side. You will feel the muscles pulling and tautening, and it will thin down that terrible bulge that appears just where your pantie-girdle ends.

Get yourself a tan — it's surprising how much better you look with a brown skin if you're overweight. Clearly you can't hope to tan yourself before your holiday the normal way, but there's nothing to stop you using an overnight tanning cream

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

'Is There A Rule I've Missed That Says A Person Must Get Married?'

DEAR HELEN:

Is there a rule I've missed that says a person must get married? I often hear kids of four or five say, "When I grow up and get married, I'm going to be. . ." almost as if marriage was a prerequisite to gaining adulthood, or at least adult status in society.

Let's face it, marriage has become something that if you don't achieve, you will wind up a dried-up old maid or a dirty old man in the eyes of your associates.

But marriage isn't for everyone. I mean, the only logical reason for a high divorce rate is a high marriage rate. Seems to me you aren't a failure if you remain single, but only if you jump into a partnership that is bound to fail because you acted in desperation. — NOT FOR ME

DEAR N.F.M.:

Good thinking. But when that certain person happens along — whose love will forevermore protect you from loneliness — your thoughts may change. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Whatever happened to the fellow who first invented the phrase, "Don't trust anyone over 30?" And is the generation gap really that great? — TWO QUESTIONS

DEAR TWO:

Jack Weinberg, who says "that phrase" was his "absurd answer to an absurd question," turned 30 on April 4, 1970.

He launched it back in 1965 during the Free Speech Movement at Berkeley. When a newspaper reporter asked him if outside adults were masterminding the program, Weinberg reports, "That made me kind of mad because of the old 'Communist conspiracy' implication, so I said the thing about not trusting anybody over 30. I didn't mean it then and I mean it even less today."

Advanced age has not led Jack into the Establishment meatchopper. "I'm still going to be a revolutionary," he says.

Second question: "Generation gap" is another popular phrase blown up out of all proportion. "Idea gap" seems more accurate, for there are as many older people who relate to the young, as there are young people who reject the leadership of their radical peers.

America is polarized, divided, splintered not so much by age as by fear and distrust. . .of war, the economy, politicians, Communism, race, poverty, crime — you name it and somebody will surely start a movement, which may or may not turn into a riot.

I look to the day when the Three R's: Race, Riotin' and Revolution will give way to concern over the Three P's: Pollution, Pollution (and its by-product, Poverty) and Peace. Then, the generation gap will be a forgotten term. — H.

Deb Emphasis On Volunteer Work

A new and different approach will be given to the Marin Debutante program this year — an emphasis on volunteer work in Marin County during the summer months.

As preparation the sponsoring Marin Charitable Foundation has set up a three-day orientation to volunteer work and a tour of Marin County agencies, with Mrs. Alfred P. Otto Jr. of Ross as its organizing chairman.

The orientation series will begin on June 15 at the Volunteer Bureau of Marin in San Rafael. The 1970 debutantes will meet at 9:30 a.m. for a short talk and then from 10 a.m. to noon will tour the Family Service Agency, Planned Parenthood Association and the Marin Chapter of the American Red Cross, all in San Rafael, and have lunch and visit the Marin County Department of Social Services and Marin County Probation Department at the Civic Center.

Tuesday the girls will meet at 9:30 a.m. at the Marin Aid to Retarded Children, the Atypical Infant Development Program and the Department of Public Health, all in San Rafael. In the afternoon they will continue to Marin City to visit the Boys Club of Southern Marin and the Manzanita Center Summer Child Care Program.

The following day the debs will meet at the Ross Post Office at 9:30 a.m. and go on to the Community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital and then tour the hospital itself including the Marin Speech and Hearing Center. The tour will conclude at the Ross Psychiatric Clinic at Ross General Hospital.

Afterward the girls will go to the home of Mrs. Gregory Solon for an instructional meeting with the debutante ball committee of the Marin Charitable Foundation and to have luncheon.

Girls State Delegates Chosen

Juniors from five Marin County high schools have been selected delegates to attend the American Legion Auxiliary sponsored Girls State program in government training to be held at the University of California at Davis July 6 through 14.

They are Kathy Green, Redwood High School; Judy Austen, Sir Francis Drake High School; Dorene Classon, Terra Linda High School; Kathy Van Herwynen, San Rafael High School; and Susan Desmond, Marin Catholic High School. Sponsoring groups of the delegates are San Anselmo Unit 179 and Twin Cities Unit 313 of Larkspur.

At the 27th annual session of California Girls State 560 high school juniors will be enrolled in a week of intensive training in Americanism and government, limited to one girl from each of California's high schools.

Know Your Figure Type To Select Correct Patterns

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE,

I have bought my clothes all of my life but with the continued rise in costs of ready-made clothes, I have begun to make some of my own things. I'm just not satisfied with the results, seems I never choose the correct pattern. What can you suggest as a workable solution to this problem; I'm sure it must be shared by others?

MRS. M. K.

DEAR MRS. M.K.

Since you have been buying ready-made clothes, you should have some idea of what is becoming on you and what is not. It is astonishing to find the number of women who do not know how to buy patterns and fabric.

Never choose a pattern without knowing what type of figure you have. Pictures of models always have perfect figures which very few real, ordinary, everyday folks like us do. Clothes aren't made by professional dressmakers and designers helter-skelter without thought as to how they are going to look on those going to model them. Usually, they are fitted directly on the model, fitting details and style lines are decided upon at that time.

The same careful planning must be done by us. As an example, a woman with a large bust needs darts in this area. If your neck is short, a rolled collar is not becoming. Not thinking and planning carefully beforehand how a certain fabric is going to look with the pattern you have chosen on your particular figure makes for some pretty dismal, unprofessional clothes that shout to the world that it is made by an amateur sewer.

Most fabric shops offer a personal service to customers by experienced women who will be more than happy to advise you on your pattern selections if you will only ask them, and then please, take their advice. Every shop wants happy customers, and happy customers are those who are pleased with their results.

DEAR EUNICE,

I have several dress patterns that I like for my daughter, and now I would like to make a blouse from one of those patterns. We would prefer buttons down the back intead of the zipper closing, but know that if we add the extra width for the buttons, the neckline will be too large. Please give me help on this matter.

MRS. J. D. H.

DEAR MRS. J. D. H.:

I was hoping you would all clip this information out of my column when it appeared recently. It is a simple matter to change the back from a zipper to buttons or from a button closing to a zipper. You must remember that the center back markings never change. If the pattern has a button closing, the center pack will be clearly marked and your closing seam for the zipper will be exactly at the center back.

If your pattern calls for a zipper and you wish to use buttons, the buttonholes will begin at the center back mark. Before cutting, you must add additional width for a lap at the back. You will need about ¾ inch plus a seam allowance to be measured from the center back mark.

If you wish a fold back facing instead of a seam, the fold line will be at the seamline, then add at least 3 inches for the facing.

Perhaps it would help if you would compare the construction of this detail by checking two patterns, one with buttons, the other with a center back seam. Once you have this detail clearly in your mind, you will find how easy it is to make simple pattern changes.

Get the booklet, "Your Pattern and You," for help on how to give yourself a custom fit. Send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Eunice Farmer in care of the Independent-Journal.

Elderly Live Independently

The day of the three-generation household appears lost since more and more grandparents are "making it on their own."

At the turn of the century, when the economy was mainly agricultural, it was common for parents to move in with married children or vice versa so that the older couple would not spend the twilight years alone.

However, today, pension plans and Social Security are providing elderly persons with more funds to function independently and continue their own mode of life, the Institute of Life Insurance reports.

It is estimated that by 1985 there will be 25 million persons aged 65 and over, as compared with 19 million counted in 1969 and less than 10 million in 1940. Many of these retired persons will continue living in their own homes, either owned or rented.

Some will set up housekeeping in government-subsidized housing for older persons. Others will sell their homes and move into smaller apartments. Whatever the plan for an elderly household, the important thing is that their life continues comfortably and independently for as long as possible.

Several factors can aid an older person's choice of living independently of his children or relatives. One is continuing income. The most common income plans for retirement include Social Security benefits, pension plans from former employers, savings and annuities.

An Institute of Life Insurance survey in the fall of 1969 showed that income from present retirement plans was inadequate in the judgment of many persons contacted. An earlier study found that one in four persons covered by pensions plans, and about to retire, reported they expected their funds to completely meet their projected retirement needs.

In forecasting a retirement plan, it is advisable to provide an income that wouldn't necessitate a change in the former mode of life. Provided that the older person or couple is not incapacitated by poor health or a scarcity of cash and prefers to live alone, maintaining a separate household from his children, he should be able to do so. The senior couple's independence ought to be preserved as long as possible following retirement, which is in itself a blow enough to persons in a job-oriented society.

Following retirement, many couples feel the plessure of loneliness. Their former working companions are gone and they may be separated from friends and family. However, this might well be the time that the grandparent has the leisure to grow closer to his children and grandchildren, who especially benefit from exposure to the older generation.

In January, 1970, a census of the Federal Government's Foster Grandparent Program showed some 60 projects underway in 40 states and Puerto Rico, employing nearly 4,200 older persons. Participants, whose income must be $1,800 or less if single and $2,400 if married, are employed for $1.60 an hour, four hours a day, five days a week. They provide personal care and attention to 8,400 children under 16 each day and the program is financed by the Office of Health, Education and Welfare and local contributions.

Elderly Live Independently

The day of the three-generation household appears lost since more and more grandparents are "making it on their own."

At the turn of the century, when the economy was mainly agricultural, it was common for parents to move in with married children or vice versa so that the older couple would not spend the twilight years alone.

However, today, pension plans and Social Security are providing elderly persons with more funds to function independently and continue their own mode of life, the Institute of Life Insurance reports.

It is estimated that by 1985 there will be 25 million persons aged 65 and over, as compared with 19 million counted in 1969 and less than 10 million in 1940. Many of these retired persons will continue living in their own homes, either owned or rented.

Some will set up housekeeping in government-subsidized housing for older persons. Others will sell their homes and move into smaller apartments. Whatever the plan for an elderly household, the important thing is that their life continues comfortably and independently for as long as possible.

Several factors can aid an older person's choice of living independently of his children or relatives. One is continuing income. The most common income plans for retirement include Social Security benefits, pension plans from former employers, savings and annuities.

An Institute of Life Insurance survey in the fall of 1969 showed that income from present retirement plans was inadequate in the judgment of many persons contacted. An earlier study found that one in four persons covered by pensions plans, and about to retire, reported they expected their funds to completely meet their projected retirement needs.

In forecasting a retirement plan, it is advisable to provide an income that wouldn't necessitate a change in the former mode of life. Provided that the older person or couple is not incapacitated by poor health or a scarcity of cash and prefers to live alone, maintaining a separate household from his children, he should be able to do so. The senior couple's independence ought to be preserved as long as possible following retirement, which is in itself a blow enough to persons in a job-oriented society.

Following retirement, many couples feel the plessure of loneliness. Their former working companions are gone and they may be separated from friends and family. However, this might well be the time that the grandparent has the leisure to grow closer to his children and grandchildren, who especially benefit from exposure to the older generation.

In January, 1970, a census of the Federal Government's Foster Grandparent Program showed some 60 projects underway in 40 states and Puerto Rico, employing nearly 4,200 older persons. Participants, whose income must be $1,800 or less if single and $2,400 if married, are employed for $1.60 an hour, four hours a day, five days a week. They provide personal care and attention to 8,400 children under 16 each day and the program is financed by the Office of Health, Education and Welfare and local contributions.

A lake on the Sonoma State College campus peacefully reflects buildings and the crowd gathered for commencement exercises yesterday.

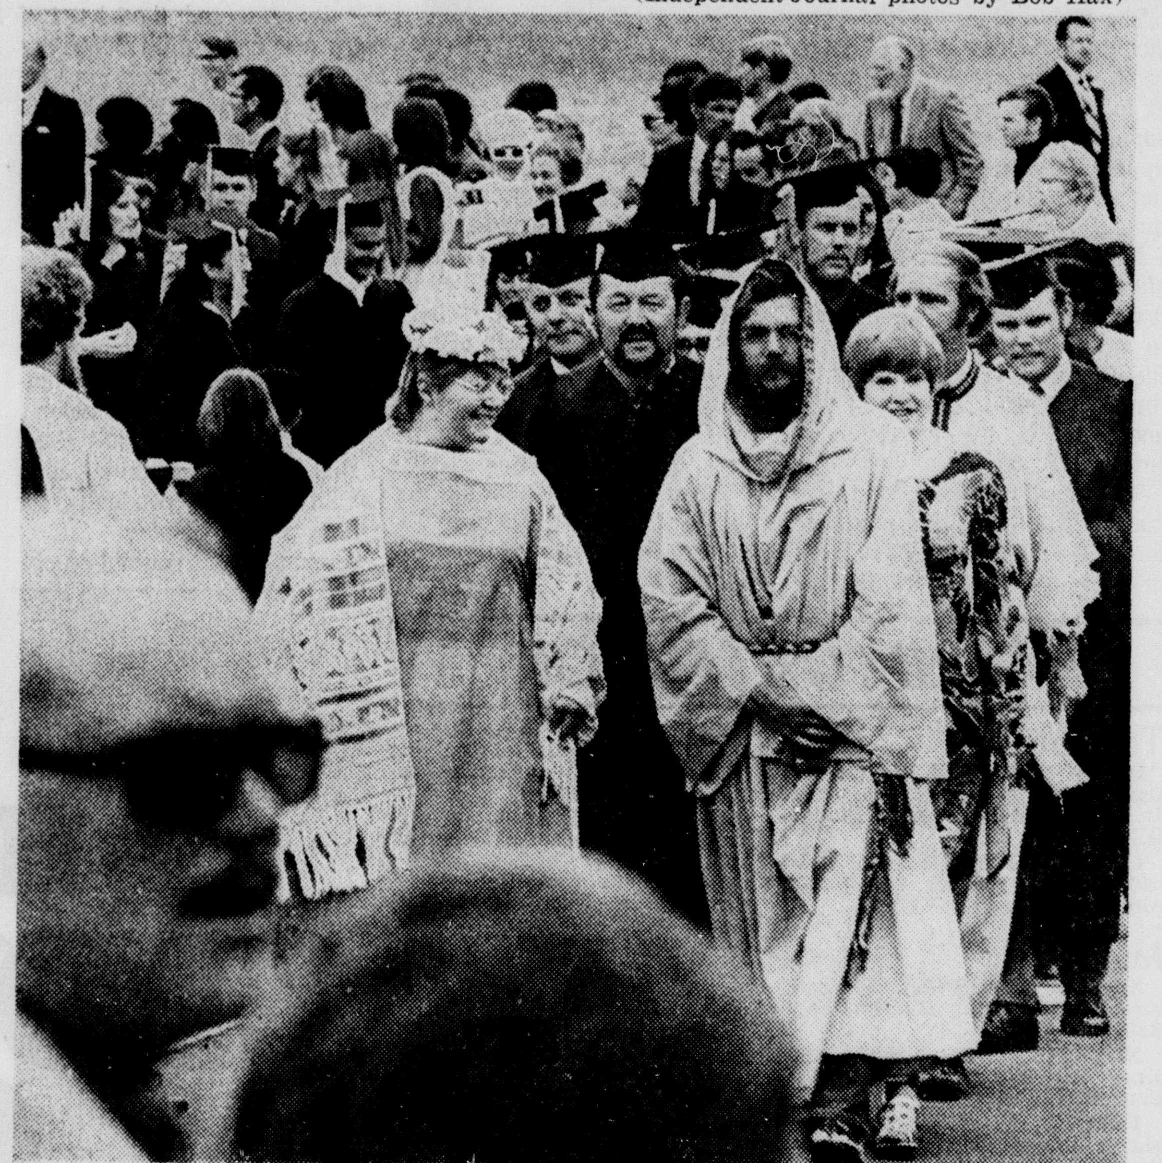
PRESIDENT — Ambrose R. Nichols Jr., who has resigned as president of Sonoma State College, receives a medal from Richard M. D. Childs, college business manager.



FASHION PARADE — Robes and sandals for the male, a shawl and flowers in the hair for the female set this graduating couple apart from the traditionally dressed commencement participants behind them.

Colorful Costumes Mix With Mortarboards At Sonoma Rites

Staid academic regalia was spurned by about 50 Sonoma State College graduates yesterday as commencement exercises — stressing the peace theme — were conducted beside the campus lake.

While most of the 500 seniors who attended the ceremony entered wearing the traditional cap and gown, a minority chose colorful and offbeat outfits sometimes bedecked with flowers, flags and militant slogans.

Peace was stressed in both commencement addresses and some students who strode up to get their diplomas stopped to flash the peace sign.

Dr. Ambrose R. Nichols Jr., resigning president, closed the main address with a plea for peace at home and abroad.

"We must reach out to each other," he said. "Fear, hatred and misunderstanding demand our commitment. We all have work to do. Let us be about it."

Nichols, envisioning higher education in the year 2000, predicted that physical, social and cultural boundaries that divide colleges from the nonacademic world will grow less distinct.

He said that with more leisure time, many persons will be returning to college for a continuing education and that other changing concepts will require more education in the world.

Nichols said he foresaw the end to specialized education and a greater emphasis placed on a broader education, noting that all problems are interlocking.

The student speaker, Jean Anne Fortier of Petaluma, told her fellow graduates, "we can be the hope and not the destruction of our own futures."

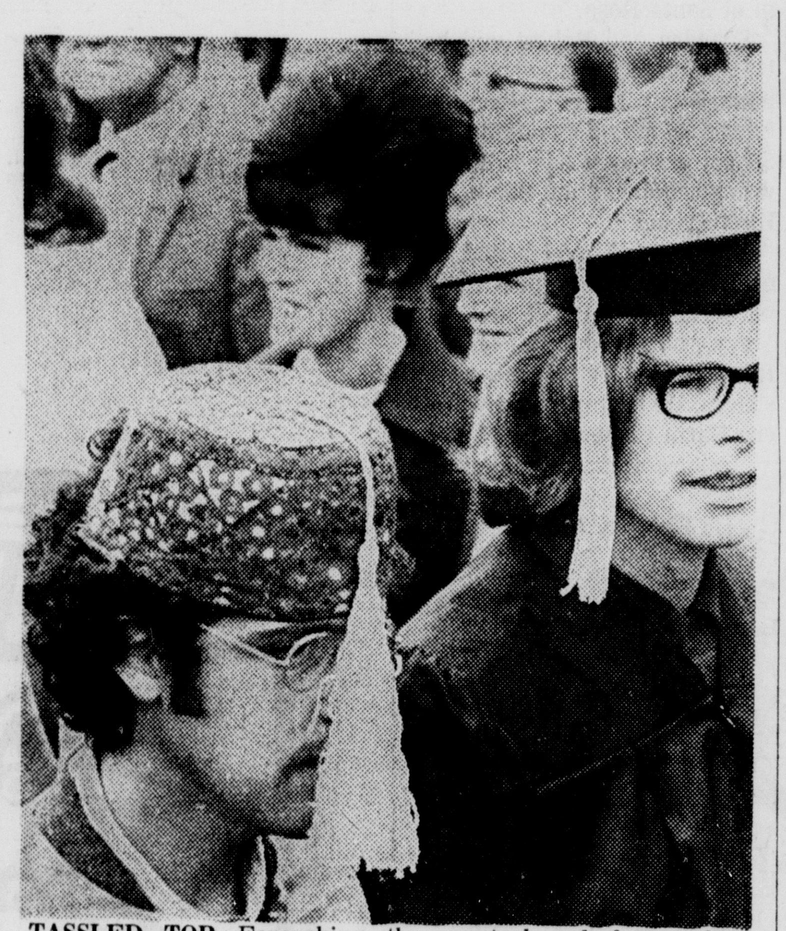
Noting the growing negative attitude toward education as a whole, the soft-spoken brunette said, "Black, brown, yellow, red and white students are becoming the new niggers."

She also advocated an end to the war in Southeast Asia, but noted the war is virtually everywhere. "The war is in our heads . . .our dumb senses."

"We're killing each other by trying to save each other," Miss Fortier said, calling for a new U.S. policy of self-determination for other nations.

"It's time to start loving yourselves," she said. "It's time to find out what peace means to you."

Nichols was honored as the college's first president.



TASSLED TOP—Foresaking the mortarboard for a fez, one graduate stopped short of giving up all tradition and kept the ceremonial tassel—right down the front of his face.

Making the special presentation, a medal, was Richard M. D. Childs, college business manager, who said Nichols was responsible for an open campus atmosphere that permitted a great amount of academic and personal freedom.

Childs lauded Nichols for using self-restraint while in a positios of power. "We salute you," he said, leading the audience in lengthy applause.

When Nichols leaves his position on July 1, he will begin a tour of Europe and work at the Brookhaven National Laboratory in New York for a semester before returning to the chemistry department at Sonoma State as a professor.

LAST GASP—One graduate's garb called for relevance in education and peace.

'Bartered Bride' To Lead Inverness Festival Fare

A three-act opera and a program of four-hand piano will highlight the annual Inverness Music Festival, to be held Aug. 14-15 and 16 and 23 at St. Columba's Church and ampitheater in Inverness.

The major program Smetana's "The Bartered Bride," will be sung in English and staged in the amphitheater. The three-act opera, directed from the piano by festival director Fae McNally, will be presented Aug. 16 and 23 at 2 p.m.

Lead roles will be sung by Bay Area artists Margery Tede, Walter Matthes, James Eitze, Dianne Trethowan, Robert Grant, Roberta Wain, Dorothea Durante, Mike Peterson and Richard Deats. Choreography will be done by Dan Holland, stage direction by Sam Shaffer and set and costumes by Nancy Blunk.

Nancy Lyle Bennett and McNally will open the festival with a recital of four-hand piano music in the church on Aug. 14 at 8 p.m. Their program will include works by Haydn, Schubert, Mozart, Bizet, Dvorak and Mendelssohn.

On Aug. 15 at noon in the amphitheater, chorus director Darrell Parker and the San Geronimo Valley Singers will present the "Missa Brevis" by Palestrina accompanied by Renaissance period chamber instruments.

On Aug. 15 at 3 p.m., the performing group from Mills College will give a recital of contemporary chamber music for violin, clarinet and piano by Milhaud Crum, Berg and Satie. Members of the trio will be Nathan Robin, concertmaster of the Oakland Symphony Orchestra, clarinetist Donald O'Brien and pianist Naomi Sparrow.

Soprano Margery Tede, baritone Walter Matthes and pianist Thomas Griswald will present "Bluebeard's Castle" by Bartok, followed by a series of songs by Mahler at 8 p.m. Aug. 16.

Haydn's "The Songstress," a chamber opera, will be directed by Parker Aug. 16 at 8 p.m. in the church.

Persons interested in understudy roles or singing in the chorus for "The Bartered Bride" may write to the festival at Box 2, Inverness 94937. Ticket information may also be obtained by writing this address.

Jail, Probation In Burglary Case

Judge E Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court has placed Ronald Lynn Hall, 18, of no known address, on probation for two years and ordered him to spend nine months in jail.

Hall had earlier admitted burglarizing a Forest Knolls residence on Feb. 28.

Judge McGuire Thursday turned down a suggestion from a probation officer that Hall be committed to the California Youth Authority after learning that the youth had served time there earlier.

Quorom Lack Stalls Fairfax Rec Meeting

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission did not meet last night because of lack of a quorum, according to secretary Marie Whissell.

The commission adjourned to Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Women's Club when it will discuss whether to hire a full-time recreation director, Mrs. Whissell said.

Juvenile Court Asked To Take Pot Case

The case of Mark Alling Harris, 18, of Larkspur, yesterday was refused by Marin Juvenile Court. A preliminary hearing was set in municipal court for June 23 for Harris, who is accused of growing marijuana near the Alexander Avenue bridge in Larkspur.

Charges Pending In Case Of Beating

No charges have been filed in Marin Municipal Court against two men arrested Tuesday in connection with the beating of a San Anselmo man in San Rafael.

The case of John William Rundle, 22, of no known address, and Herman Joseph Sanchez, 24, of San Rafael, is still being investigated by the district attorney's office.

Lead roles will be sung by Bay Area artists Margery Tede, Walter Matthes, James Eitze, Dianne Trethowan, Robert Grant, Roberta Wain, Dorothea Durante, Mike Peterson and Richard Deats. Choreography will be done by Dan Holland, stage direction by Sam Shaffer and set and costumes by Nancy Blunk.

Nancy Lyle Bennett and McNally will open the festival with a recital of four-hand piano music in the church on Aug. 14 at 8 p.m. Their program will include works by Haydn, Schubert, Mozart, Bizet, Dvorak and Mendelssohn.

On Aug. 15 at noon in the amphitheater, chorus director Darrell Parker and the San Geronimo Valley Singers will present the "Missa Brevis" by Palestrina accompanied by Renaissance period chamber instruments.

On Aug. 15 at 3 p.m., the performing group from Mills College will give a recital of contemporary chamber music for violin, clarinet and piano by Milhaud Crum, Berg and Satie. Members of the trio will be Nathan Robin, concertmaster of the Oakland Symphony Orchestra, clarinetist Donald O'Brien and pianist Naomi Sparrow.

Soprano Margery Tede, baritone Walter Matthes and pianist Thomas Griswald will present "Bluebeard's Castle" by Bartok, followed by a series of songs by Mahler at 8 p.m. Aug. 16.

Haydn's "The Songstress," a chamber opera, will be directed by Parker Aug. 16 at 8 p.m. in the church.

Persons interested in understudy roles or singing in the chorus for "The Bartered Bride" may write to the festival at Box 2, Inverness 94937. Ticket information may also be obtained by writing this address.

Jail, Probation In Burglary Case

Judge E Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court has placed Ronald Lynn Hall, 18, of no known address, on probation for two years and ordered him to spend nine months in jail.

Hall had earlier admitted burglarizing a Forest Knolls residence on Feb. 28.

Judge McGuire Thursday turned down a suggestion from a probation officer that Hall be committed to the California Youth Authority after learning that the youth had served time there earlier.

Juvenile Court Asked To Take Pot Case

The case of Mark Alling Harris, 18, of Larkspur, yesterday was refused by Marin Juvenile Court. A preliminary hearing was set in municipal court for June 23 for Harris, who is accused of growing marijuana near the Alexander Avenue bridge in Larkspur.

Quorom Lack Stalls Fairfax Rec Meeting

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission did not meet last night because of lack of a quorum, according to secretary Marie Whissell.

The commission adjourned to Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Women's Club when it will discuss whether to hire a full-time recreation director, Mrs. Whissell said.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

This choice location, on Terrace Ave., offers the rare opportunity of owning a 4-bdrm., 2-bath home with lovely grounds and mature trees plus a gigantic outdoor deck and a patio, all designed to blend in with the beautiful natural resawn cedar exterior. The kitchen is all electric and features custom cabinet work. All windows and patio doors are aluminum and recently installed. The large master bdrm. features beam ceiling and a dressing room with patio doors opening out to the large outdoor deck. You will wonder why the ridiculously low price. The reason is that the remodeled kitchen, 1 bath and some of the trim and painting is not completed. However we have an estimate for completion or do it yourself. You cannot lose either way. Owner moving to east coast and must sell immediately. Don't miss this rare opportunity. Only $33,950.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

This choice location, on Terrace Ave., offers the rare opportunity of owning a 4-bdrm., 2-bath home with lovely grounds and mature trees plus a gigantic outdoor deck and a patio, all designed to blend in with the beautiful natural resawn cedar exterior. The kitchen is all electric and features custom cabinet work. All windows and patio doors are aluminum and recently installed. The large master bdrm. features beam ceiling and a dressing room with patio doors opening out to the large outdoor deck. You will wonder why the ridiculously low price. The reason is that the remodeled kitchen, 1 bath and some of the trim and painting is not completed. However we have an estimate for completion or do it yourself. You cannot lose either way. HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

If Your Doctor Seems Boastful, There Is Way To Check On Him

Mrs. H. H. writes: "Our physician is always bragging about his fine education and degrees. Is there any way we can check up on him?"

Yes, there is. But as part of his act, I'm surprised he does not display his diplomas and state license on the walls of his office. If these are not available, ask him where he went to medical school and had his internship. There are many ways to verify his claims.

WRITE TO THE medical school and hospital where he had his training. In addition, consult the hospital where he is on the staff. You might also write to the local or state medical society, the American Medical Association (535 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, 60610), or to your state department of registration.

The American Medical directory also lists all its members and their credentials. All pertinent data can be found in it, except the physician's class standing and whether or not he is an honest doctor.

IF YOUR PHYSICIAN specializes, look him up in the directory of medical specialists to determine if he is certified or a self-appointed expert. These directories can be found in a medical library. Certification requires several years of formal (residency) training beyond the usual internship.

After this, his ability is evaluated by his peers who decide if he is eligible to take the written examination. If he passes (33 per cent flunk(, he is given an oral examination. Passing this, he is considered a diplomate in his field. A few physicians go beyond this and are certified in a more limited specialty (such as allergy or cardiovascular diseases).

SOME DOCTORS BRAG because they are proud of their training; others try to impress the doubting Thomases.

In my experience, the best physicians have no need to brag or charge high fees to give the impression they are good and in demand. They believe that God always takes care of a dedicated doctor, and they will always be able to make a living.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

YOUNG FOR CLAMS

Mrs. S. writes: My baby and my 3 year old love raw clams? Is there any danger in allowing them to eat this food?

REPLY

No, provided the clams are fresh and come from water that is free of typhoid. Hepatitis also is transmitted via contaminated seafood. The baby is a bit young for adult food, but we can't be too critical if she is thriving on it.

ITCHY BACK

E. A. U. writes: I have severe pruritus, mostly on my back and arms. What are some of the causes and is there any cure?

REPLY

If there is no rash, the most common cause is dryness or a mild sensitivity to soap or some of the chemicals used in the manufacture of the clothes you wear.

CONCEPTION AND NURSING

A. K. B. writes: Is it true that a woman will not get pregnant while she is nursing her baby?

REPLY

No, it is not true. The mother can conceive even before the menstrual process resumes.

SCIATICA AND ARTHRITIS

W. A. writes: Is sciatica caused by an arthritic spine?

REPLY

This is one cause but 90 per cent of all cases of sciatica are said to be associated with slipped disk. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on sciatica.

Sausalito Doctor Loses Try For Another Trial

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A motion for a new trial for Dr. Donald A. Churchill of Sausalito was denied by Charles E. Goff of Municipal Court yesterday.

Churchill, convicted May 8 of misbranding a drug, unlawful advertising and unlawful sale of a new drug, was ordered to appear July 1 for sentencing.

Dr. Churchill was arrested last April for the sale of Vitarth, which he claimed during his trial is an aphrodisias and a cure-all. He was on probation at the time of his arrest for earlier charges of illegally prescribing narcotics and falsifying medical records.

His license was revoked effective March 26 by the state Board of Medical Examiners after a hearing on the earlier charges, according to William E. Low, a federal investigator.

Low said he was charged by the board with giving drugs to 80 addicts and admitted to 65.

Smaller Novato Lots Are Asked

Lots in west Novato should not be smaller than one acre and that recommendation will be sent to the Marin County Planning Commission.

Jack O. Burgi, president of the newly formed west Novato Associates, said that "An overwhelming majority" of the 70 people at the associates' meeting Thursday night at Hill Junior High School, voted for that lot size with a show of hands.

The county planning commission is considering rezoning to half-acre and one-acre lot sizes for the area outside of the Novato city limits. The residents of the rural area did not want lots smaller than one acre, Burgi said.

Innocent Plea In Boat Theft

I-J Special Report

SAN MATEO — A Florida man has pleaded innocent in San Mateo Municipal Court to a charge of stealing a Sausalitan's 40-foot schooner.

Laurence Michael Ruksnatis, 24, of Fort Lauderdale, was ordered Thursday to appear at 3:30 p.m. Friday for preliminary hearing. He is charged with stealing the "Don Quixote," owned by Bartlett A. Jackson. He was arrested Saturday when he stopped to refuel the boat near Half Moon Bay, after Jackson reported it stolen from Sausalito Yacht Harbor.

Many people literally will have to eat their words if scientists succeed in making protein out of old newspapers. Researchers at Louisana State University have found a microorganism that breaks down cellulose waste and converts it into pure protein the color of straw and the texture of rough flour.

Printer Trio Slingshot Hearing Due Thursday

A preliminary hearing was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for Thursday for three International Typographical Union members charged with conspiring to damage property of Independent-Journal advertisers.

The attorney for the three men, Robert D. Carrow of Novato, asked yesterday that the hearing be set prior to the next meeting of Marin Grand Jury, scheduled for June 16, so that Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales could not get the defendants indicted at that time.

(If the men were indicted, their cases would go immediately to superior court because they are charged with felonies. At a preliminary hearing a municipal court judge decides whether there is enough evidence to hold defendants for trial in superior court.)

Dennis Joseph Crowley, 41, of San Jose; James Robert Brucato, 31, of Santa Rosa, and Grant William Anders, 30, of Pleasant Hill, were arraigned yesterday on the conspiracy charge.

The complaint alleges that they "did conspire to maliciously destroy or injure real or personal property belonging to business in Marin County which either were or had advertised in the Independent-Journal."

Acts cited by Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales to back up the charge included allegations that the three union members had sling shots, chunks of lead and nuts and bolts in their car.

They are accused of destroying property on June 3 belonging to Bellach Furniture, DeLong Chevrolet, McPhail's Inc., Cain's Tire, Marin Sports Imports and Martin and Harris Appliance Service, all in San Rafael, and Young Brothers of Novato, Johnson's Red Barn and Stan's for Sports, in Novato.

The three union members were arrested by two sheriff's deputies about 1:30 a.m. Wednesday on a frontage road leading to the Strawberry Shopping Center after the deputies heard a bulletin from San Rafael police describing broken windows in that city.

Earlier that night, windows of six San Rafael stores and three Novato businesses had been smashed, the latest in a series of about 40 such incidents since San Francisco Typographical Union 21 went on strike against the Independent-Journal in January.

Garbage Is Described As Real Treasure

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Garbage is a treasure far greater than the '49 gold rush or the Comstock Lode, the keynote speaker at the annual International Refuse Show told delegates yesterday.

"Today," said Sen. J. Caleb Boggs, R-Del., "the piles of solid wastes provide to America a treasure of far greater value than the Comstock Lode. It is a resource for which we must seek new uses."

Boggs, ranking member of the Senate Subcommittee on Air and Water Pollution, told the 3,000 delegates the key word was "recycle."

"That is what we must seek to do with increasing regularity with our solid wastes," he said. "We must convert them into products that once again are useful."

Boggs said the federal government must continue its efforts to stimulate initiative and new ideas for action to tap "our trash baskets."

"Private enterprise at all levels," he said, "has a key role in solid waste management —now and in the future."

Boggs said debate in Congress related to efforts to make federal grants to individual communities for waste disposal on a basis of both public or private financing.

To cite one example, Boggs said the government annually buys one billion pounds of paper for its civilian use.

Planners To Discuss Bruce's Budget Cuts

County Administrator Alan Bruce's proposal to cut $29,000 from the planning department budget for 1970-71 will be questioned by the planning commission at its regular meeting Monday at 9 a.m. in the Civic Center.

The department's request of $426,990 was cut to $398,100 in the proposed budget submitted by Bruce.

Bruce would top $13,700 for the balanced transportation study and make it a separate budget item to be financed largely by the Marin County Transit District. Bruce also wants to cut in half the $15,000 for Nicasio planning and $10,800 for an environmental quality study.

Other items on the Monday agenda include:

SILVER HILLS — Tentative map of Silver Hills subdivision south of Inverness near Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Bear Valley Road. Twenty-eight lots are planned on 40 acres.

LAND DIVISION — Robert R. Bergis' appeal to create a 30,000 square foot lot by cutting it from his 25-acre property at 177 Crest Road, Novato.

TOMALES FILL — Sven B. Berg of El Cerrito wants to build an eight-foot retaining wall about 35 feet into the bay at Marshall and fill behind the wall to provide space for summer homes. He owns 1.6 acres just south of Marshall Hotel.

AUTO COURT — Residents of Tamalpais Valley will oppose a use permit granted to Marie Beinhouse for a 60-unit auto court and five apartment units at Shoreline Highway and Pinehill Road.

CHEESE FACTORY SIGN — Marin French Cheese Factory at 7500 Red Hill Road near Petaduma will ask for a 272-square foot free standing sign, 21 feet high. The planning staff has recommended denial.

Youth Admits To Knuckles Charge

Daniel Lee Temple, 22, of San Rafael, is to be sentenced July 3 in Marin Superior Court on a charge of carrying brass knuckles.

He pleaded guilty to the felony count before Judge Joseph G. Wilson Thursday.

Temple was arrested Feb. 2 in San Rafael.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

If Your Doctor Seems Boastful, There Is Way To Check On Him

Mrs. H. H. writes: "Our physician is always bragging about his fine education and degrees. Is there any way we can check up on him?"

Yes, there is. But as part of his act, I'm surprised he does not display his diplomas and state license on the walls of his office. If these are not available, ask him where he went to medical school and had his internship. There are many ways to verify his claims.

WRITE TO THE medical school and hospital where he had his training. In addition, consult the hospital where he is on the staff. You might also write to the local or state medical society, the American Medical Association (535 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, 60610), or to your state department of registration.

The American Medical directory also lists all its members and their credentials. All pertinent data can be found in it, except the physician's class standing and whether or not he is an honest doctor.

IF YOUR PHYSICIAN specializes, look him up in the directory of medical specialists to determine if he is certified or a self-appointed expert. These directories can be found in a medical library. Certification requires several years of formal (residency) training beyond the usual internship.

After this, his ability is evaluated by his peers who decide if he is eligible to take the written examination. If he passes (33 per cent flunk(, he is given an oral examination. Passing this, he is considered a diplomate in his field. A few physicians go beyond this and are certified in a more limited specialty (such as allergy or cardiovascular diseases).

SOME DOCTORS BRAG because they are proud of their training; others try to impress the doubting Thomases.

In my experience, the best physicians have no need to brag or charge high fees to give the impression they are good and in demand. They believe that God always takes care of a dedicated doctor, and they will always be able to make a living.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

YOUNG FOR CLAMS

Mrs. S. writes: My baby and my 3 year old love raw clams? Is there any danger in allowing them to eat this food?

REPLY

No, provided the clams are fresh and come from water that is free of typhoid. Hepatitis also is transmitted via contaminated seafood. The baby is a bit young for adult food, but we can't be too critical if she is thriving on it.

ITCHY BACK

E. A. U. writes: I have severe pruritus, mostly on my back and arms. What are some of the causes and is there any cure?

REPLY

If there is no rash, the most common cause is dryness or a mild sensitivity to soap or some of the chemicals used in the manufacture of the clothes you wear.

CONCEPTION AND NURSING

A. K. B. writes: Is it true that a woman will not get pregnant while she is nursing her baby?

REPLY

No, it is not true. The mother can conceive even before the menstrual process resumes.

SCIATICA AND ARTHRITIS

W. A. writes: Is sciatica caused by an arthritic spine?

REPLY

This is one cause but 90 per cent of all cases of sciatica are said to be associated with slipped disk. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on sciatica.

Sausalito Doctor Loses Try For Another Trial

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A motion for a new trial for Dr. Donald A. Churchill of Sausalito was denied by Charles E. Goff of Municipal Court yesterday.

Churchill, convicted May 8 of misbranding a drug, unlawful advertising and unlawful sale of a new drug, was ordered to appear July 1 for sentencing.

Dr. Churchill was arrested last April for the sale of Vitarth, which he claimed during his trial is an aphrodisias and a cure-all. He was on probation at the time of his arrest for earlier charges of illegally prescribing narcotics and falsifying medical records.

His license was revoked effective March 26 by the state Board of Medical Examiners after a hearing on the earlier charges, according to William E. Low, a federal investigator.

Low said he was charged by the board with giving drugs to 80 addicts and admitted to 65.

Smaller Novato Lots Are Asked

Lots in west Novato should not be smaller than one acre and that recommendation will be sent to the Marin County Planning Commission.

Jack O. Burgi, president of the newly formed west Novato Associates, said that "An overwhelming majority" of the 70 people at the associates' meeting Thursday night at Hill Junior High School, voted for that lot size with a show of hands.

The county planning commission is considering rezoning to half-acre and one-acre lot sizes for the area outside of the Novato city limits. The residents of the rural area did not want lots smaller than one acre, Burgi said.

Innocent Plea In Boat Theft

I-J Special Report

SAN MATEO — A Florida man has pleaded innocent in San Mateo Municipal Court to a charge of stealing a Sausalitan's 40-foot schooner.

Laurence Michael Ruksnatis, 24, of Fort Lauderdale, was ordered Thursday to appear at 3:30 p.m. Friday for preliminary hearing. He is charged with stealing the "Don Quixote," owned by Bartlett A. Jackson. He was arrested Saturday when he stopped to refuel the boat near Half Moon Bay, after Jackson reported it stolen from Sausalito Yacht Harbor.

Many people literally will have to eat their words if scientists succeed in making protein out of old newspapers. Researchers at Louisana State University have found a microorganism that breaks down cellulose waste and converts it into pure protein the color of straw and the texture of rough flour.

Printer Trio Slingshot Hearing Due Thursday

A preliminary hearing was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for Thursday for three International Typographical Union members charged with conspiring to damage property of Independent-Journal advertisers.

The attorney for the three men, Robert D. Carrow of Novato, asked yesterday that the hearing be set prior to the next meeting of Marin Grand Jury, scheduled for June 16, so that Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales could not get the defendants indicted at that time.

(If the men were indicted, their cases would go immediately to superior court because they are charged with felonies. At a preliminary hearing a municipal court judge decides whether there is enough evidence to hold defendants for trial in superior court.)

Dennis Joseph Crowley, 41, of San Jose; James Robert Brucato, 31, of Santa Rosa, and Grant William Anders, 30, of Pleasant Hill, were arraigned yesterday on the conspiracy charge.

The complaint alleges that they "did conspire to maliciously destroy or injure real or personal property belonging to business in Marin County which either were or had advertised in the Independent-Journal."

Acts cited by Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales to back up the charge included allegations that the three union members had sling shots, chunks of lead and nuts and bolts in their car.

They are accused of destroying property on June 3 belonging to Bellach Furniture, DeLong Chevrolet, McPhail's Inc., Cain's Tire, Marin Sports Imports and Martin and Harris Appliance Service, all in San Rafael, and Young Brothers of Novato, Johnson's Red Barn and Stan's for Sports, in Novato.

The three union members were arrested by two sheriff's deputies about 1:30 a.m. Wednesday on a frontage road leading to the Strawberry Shopping Center after the deputies heard a bulletin from San Rafael police describing broken windows in that city.

Earlier that night, windows of six San Rafael stores and three Novato businesses had been smashed, the latest in a series of about 40 such incidents since San Francisco Typographical Union 21 went on strike against the Independent-Journal in January.

Garbage Is Described As Real Treasure

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Garbage is a treasure far greater than the '49 gold rush or the Comstock Lode, the keynote speaker at the annual International Refuse Show told delegates yesterday.

"Today," said Sen. J. Caleb Boggs, R-Del., "the piles of solid wastes provide to America a treasure of far greater value than the Comstock Lode. It is a resource for which we must seek new uses."

Boggs, ranking member of the Senate Subcommittee on Air and Water Pollution, told the 3,000 delegates the key word was "recycle."

"That is what we must seek to do with increasing regularity with our solid wastes," he said. "We must convert them into products that once again are useful."

Boggs said the federal government must continue its efforts to stimulate initiative and new ideas for action to tap "our trash baskets."

"Private enterprise at all levels," he said, "has a key role in solid waste management—now and in the future."

Boggs said debate in Congress related to efforts to make federal grants to individual communities for waste disposal on a basis of both public or private financing.

To cite one example, Boggs said the government annually buys one billion pounds of paper for its civilian use.

Planners To Discuss Bruce's Budget Cuts

County Administrator Alan Bruce's proposal to cut $29,000 from the planning department budget for 1970-71 will be questioned by the planning commission at its regular meeting Monday at 9 a.m. in the Civic Center.

The department's request of $426,990 was cut to $398,100 in the proposed budget submitted by Bruce.

Bruce would top $13,700 for the balanced transportation study and make it a separate budget item to be financed largely by the Marin County Transit District. Bruce also wants to cut in half the $15,000 for Nicasio planning and $10,800 for an environmental quality study.

Other items on the Monday agenda include:

SILVER HILLS — Tentative map of Silver Hills subdivision south of Inverness near Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Bear Valley Road. Twenty-eight lots are planned on 40 acres.

LAND DIVISION — Robert R. Bergis' appeal to create a 30,000 square foot lot by cutting it from his 25-acre property at 177 Crest Road, Novato.

TOMALES FILL — Sven B. Berg of El Cerrito wants to build an eight-foot retaining wall about 35 feet into the bay at Marshall and fill behind the wall to provide space for summer homes. He owns 1.6 acres just south of Marshall Hotel.

AUTO COURT — Residents of Tamalpais Valley will oppose a use permit granted to Marie Beinhouse for a 60-unit auto court and five apartment units at Shoreline Highway and Pinehill Road.

CHEESE FACTORY SIGN — Marin French Cheese Factory at 7500 Red Hill Road near Petaduma will ask for a 272-square foot free standing sign, 21 feet high. The planning staff has recommended denial.

Youth Admits To Knuckles Charge

Daniel Lee Temple, 22, of San Rafael, is to be sentenced July 3 in Marin Superior Court on a charge of carrying brass knuckles.

He pleaded guilty to the felony count before Judge Joseph G. Wilson Thursday.

Temple was arrested Feb. 2 in San Rafael.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIALS

Here We Go On Another Looking-Glass Journey

Mental Health Alice may be about to begin another strange journey through Looking-Glass Land.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors is to hire a director for the Community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital — who may or may not be Dr. Donald P. Wilson, the man who has headed the center ever since it was opened.

Already, the hiring process is taking on those strange overtones which seem to afflict everything that has to do with mental health, at least in Marin County.

LAST YEAR, one of the most prolonged and least elevating of the board of supervisors' debates arose over Dr. Wilson's position and that of Dr. Clyde G. Miller, who then headed the county mental health department. During it, the board held 10 closed-door sessions ostensibly to consider charges against the two psychiatrists, and during them re-structured the mental health setup. County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney found it necessary to stretch the law about as far as some roundly criticized Supreme Court decisions have stretched the Constitution in order to hold the sessions were legal.

The upshot was that Dr. Miller was fired, and the board notified Marin General Hospital District directors — who are in joint charge with the supervisors of the mental health center — that Dr. Wilson's contract would not be renewed for next fiscal year.

THE HOSPITAL DISTRICT directors balked at that. They like Dr. Wilson.

The bubbling pot of discord was moved to the back burner by supervisors' appointment of a committee to screen candidates for a new mental health center director. Included on the committee were hospital district representatives — along with known foes of Dr. Wilson.

Then 18 candidates applied for the job. And among them was Dr. Wilson. And the supervisors did an about-face, agreeing unanimously that Dr. Wilson would be reappointed if he were recommended by the screening committee.

THIS MADE the screening committee makeup take on a new importance.

It includes County Administrator Alan Bruce, who during last year's strange goings-on appeared as no friend of Dr. Wilson; Dr. Seymour Boorstein, a consultant at the mental health center whose wife formerly was employed by Dr. Miller; Dr. Richard Brunstetter, who backed Miller.

Included also are Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, county coroner-medical director who was given the added job of mental health director after the firing of Dr. Miller, and whose recommendation to the supervisors was credited in large part with their deciding Dr. Wilson might be reappointed; Ray H. Bolinger, Marin General Hospital administrator who is a backer of Dr. Wilson; Dr. Bradford Simmons, chief of staff of Marin General Hospital and reportedly a Wilson backer.

The balance of the committee consists of three members of the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board, which was up to its ears in the Miller-Wilson feud: Martha Valiant, George D. Monardo, and Jack Williams.

If any member of this committee could be called non-partisan, we don't know who it would be.

So the stage seems set for a re-run of last year's Alice in Mental Health Land production, with a few variations.

QUESTION: If the board of supervisors now has no objection to Dr. Wilson, why a committee to screen candidates for the job he wants to keep?

Question: If the search is intended as an objective search for the best possible man to head the mental health center, why is the committee made up of partisans in last year's fight, who by no stretch of the imagination (though possibly by psychoanalysis) can be expected to be objective where Dr. Wilson is concerned?

Question: Since the Marin Hospital District board wants Dr. Wilson, and Dr. Cooke, who heads the mental health department, wants Dr. Wilson, why all the fuss? Why any screening committee?

Question: If the purpose of the committee setup is to get rid of Dr. Wilson, why does it include some of his partisans?

THERE SEEMS little logic in the whole affair. But then, one should not expect logic in Mental Health (or Looking Glass) Land except, perhaps, the kind of logic explained to Alice by Tweedledee:

"Contrariwise, if it was so, it might be; and if it were so, it would be; but as it isn't, it ain't. That's logic."

Do Skunks Have Rights?

For at least 25 years a succession of striped skunks have made their summer home in a 40-foot drain under our driveway. Before the ancient house and drain were even thoughts in an amateur architect's mind, even before white man came and divided up the land into neat little parcels and built fences, skunks must have lived here, catching rats and mice and searching out grubs and insects on the forest floor.

The coming of large numbers of people and the conversion of Marin into suburbia must have taxed the skunks' survival powers. But they are adaptable creatures and they found they could live and thrive near the home of man in mutual respect and tolerance, if not always harmony. After all, both creatures are armed.

Skunks are still quite numerous in Marin, but being nocturnal they are smelled more often than they are seen. When we do see them, they impress us as rather stolid little fellows, deadly intent upon the business of the moment.

Because they carry a weapon which makes a very bad odor when used, they probably will never be our most popular animal. But doughty Mr. and Mrs. Skunk have their fanciers, too. And maybe skunks have a few rights here also.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to all the winning candidates in Tuesday's primary elections, but . . .

BRICKBATS to those candidates whose signs are still up four days after the election.

A special BOUQUET to County Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley J. Fontez, who amassed the third highest vote among Marin's unopposed candidates. Why a special bouquet for Fontez? Because we inadvertently left him out of an editorial accolade to those county officials without opposition for re-election.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Many Mothers Have To Take Jobs

Regarding the item in the May 27 issue, wherein a woman on welfare, with a disabled husband and two sons (age 11 and 13) spoke to the San Rafael Board of Education protesting a proposed cutback in her welfare payments:

She stated that she was a trained person, but did not wish to work because she wanted to stay home and raise her sons.

It seems very strange indeed that she felt she should stay home, on tax paid welfare, when many, many wives find it necessary to hold a job in order to pay the confiscatory taxes necessitated by the existing level of welfare payments. I am sure they, too, would prefer to stay home with their children, but the cost of living does not permit it!

The board of supervisors would be very well advised to cut the supplemental grants to AFDC, particularly in any case where one parent can work and the children are old enough to be in school and take care of themselves.

Working wives in particular should take due notice of the situation. It is their tax dollars that are used to pay for such welfare.

Government Class Supports Teacher

We the undersigned in Mr. Roger T. Lim's first period American Government class have decided to write this letter in response to the letter the editor's column entitled "New Low Reached in Sick Society," May 21.

We feel we are mature enough to be exposed to the vital issues of our society, such as draft laws, war, ecology, socialism, capitalism, homosexuality, civil rights, etc.

We have always made it a point to have the opposite sides in contrast to the subject. These subjects are preparing us for the outside world which we will soon be entering. We are focusing on contemporary problems we all have to face, which the older establishment is not facing.

Therefore we, the undersigned in Mr. Lim's first period class, feel that it is unjust and not valid for someone to examine part of the course of study without examining the entire substance of the class.

Suicides Of Soul Portray Sinking Level Of Man

By Rabbi HAIM KEMELMAN

It has been truly stated that there are three levels of human experience: Extermination, toleration and appreciation.

Which is our level of humanity? More and more we witness the tendency of exterminatory aggression, not only in dealing with others but also in dealing with ourselves. When we don't like an idea, we will not tolerate it; when we don't like a person with an idea, we want him out of the way. And there are times when we don't like the idea and the person in ourselves and seek to commit suicide, or do it partially by exterminating the soul.

The statistics of physical suicide are spiraling ever upward. But even more so are the statistics of spiritual suicide. The drug syndrome, seizing some of the best of our youth, is ample proof to a quiet death of soul in the process of human self-extermination.

Why do so many among us seek escape? What makes the impulse to cop out such a terrible and irrepressible compulsion?

LISTEN TO the message of the young. You will hear more in what they do than in what they say. Their toughness of outer appearance is only a mask to inner frailty. What they seek desperately — in the dream of their youth — is the love of human relationships and the human relationships of love. It has been lost somewhere in the commercials of false promise; it has been concealed somehow in the heap of words that more than clarify meaning, falsify hope.

Listen to the message of youth, through the things they do: some walk like ghosts in dark corners; some pass secret and garbled codes; some handle lethal chemicals; some find themselves in dimly darkened rooms to pass, through weeds, an impulse of warmth and closeness — a high euphoria from hand to hand, amidst the vapors of drifting oblivion.

Why do they do these strange and unthinkable things? Whatever happened to human relations that they have to relate in obscurity?

WHY? IT'S PLAIN and the words are known to us in ancient prose: Man does not live by bread alone. Neither by the abundance of goods, nor by the indulgence of pleasure.

The creature of the idea, man, must in the end seek the ideal. He can live only temporarily on the level of toleration. For tolerance is only a discipline which must ultimately lead to the highest and most constructive level of humanity — appreciation, loving kindness and the extension of human worth and personal fulfillment. It is not good enough to say, "I hate you, but I'll tolerate you." That's heart-failure in human relations.

THE ONLY alternative is the level of human appreciation, the loving extension of humanity to a deeper empathy and recognition of the worth of the individual: to respect a person, or people, for what they are, as they are — without having to put on a smile or makeup to the style and whim of our personal liking — to be what they want to be in their bare soul and self.

Human love is no luxury. It's an imperative of life. It evinces appreciation and recognition to every living individual. It permits him to grow and to realize his fullest spectrum of dreams and expectations. And there is no one on earth who can't use a little more of it.

"Love . . as . . thyself." Allow yourself to be yourself, to experience yourself: and as "thyself," encourage your neighbor to be himself, to fulfill himself — this is the level of man's highest realization, the level of his noblest humanity.

Wallace Victory Points Up Need For Direct Election Of President

WASHINGTON — George Wallace's narrow victory in Alabama is a bad break for President Nixon and the southern strategy. It exposes the essential weakness of that strategy.

In the runoff primary against Gov. Albert P. Brewer, the little Napoleon of the South conducted a racist campaign. The crudest appeals to southern fears and southern prejudices were at the base of the Wallace campaign. The threat, if not made openly by the candidate himself then by most of his propagandists, was that "the niggers" will take over the next 50 years if Wallace is defeated.

An able governor and by southern standards a moderate, Brewer could not compete with that kind of demagoguery. Neither can the presidential candidate of one of the major parties and therein lies the fallacy of the southern strategy.

REPORTS from Alabama have it that Wallace will concentrate his presidential campaign in 1972 in the South. If these reports are correct and he saves all his fire for the states where integration versus segregation is still a live issue, he will be a serious threat to the President's re-election.

In 1968 Wallace carried only five states — Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana and Mississippi — with 45 electoral votes. Mr. Nixon's margin of victory came from nine southern and border states that gave him 90 electoral votes. Having turned his back on the northeast with states that rack up large electoral totals, he will need every one of those votes.

Tennessee is a prime example of the Wallace potential. The vote for Wallace in that state in '68 was 425,000 to 472,000 for Mr. Nixon, with Hubert Humphrey low man with 351,000. There is no reason to believe the Wallace faction in Tennessee is any smaller today. The frustrations and the resentments — the emotional base of the Wallace support — are, if anything, greater than they were two years ago.

WALLACE'S GOAL in '68 was to deny an electoral majority to either of the major party candidates. The election would be thrown into the House of Representatives where he could bargain for position and power. Concentrating on the South in the next go-round, that will be a goal which he can come much closer to achieving.

The invitation to chaos will still be outstanding in 1972 unless the Senate acts quickly to abolish that ancient relic, the electoral college. Sen. Birch Bayh's amendment calling for direct election of the President by popular vote was reported out of the Senate Judiciary Committee more than a month ago by a vote of 11 to 6. It had previously passed the House by an overwhelming majority, 337 to 70.

Bayh is optimistic, once the long-embittered hassle over Cambodia is out of the way, that the Senate will follow the House and approve the amendment. It takes a two-thirds vote and the southern strategists can be counted on to do everything in their power, including perhaps a filibuster, to defeat it.

HERE IS the paradox of the Nixon-Agnew-Thurmond position. The electoral college is the antique device whereby the President can be denied re-election or forced in a contest in the House of Representatives to pay such a price that the victory would be an empty one. Yet the same southern states that gave Nixon his majority two years ago can frustrate the amendment to abolish the relic, enabling men of Wallace's stamp to undermine the system itself.

Once the amendment has passed the Senate, assuming it does, the next hurdle is even more formidable. It must be approved by legislatures of three-fourths of the states. Here again the South may supply the veto.

Bayh, however, is hopeful. He points out that all but four of the states have legislative sessions next year and in those states special sessions could be called. Support for the direct election amendment is being generated in the South by groups such as the League of Women Voters.

Memo To Fathers Of Graduates: Don't Take Junior To Dinner

WASHINGTON — You don't see as many fathers and sons dining out as you used to. The problem seems to be that not many restaurants are set to handle some of the clothes their clients' sons are wearing.

The other night my friend McGrory suggested to his son, Marshall, that they go to a first-class restaurant to celebrate his graduation from high school.

"GREAT," said Marshall, "let's go."

"I think you'd better put on a shirt," McGrory suggested.

"I have a sweat shirt on. What's wrong with it?"

"I thought you might put on a shirt and a tie," McGrory said.

"What are we going to, a wedding?" Marshall demanded.

"Most good restaurants prefer you to wear a tie," McGrory said.

"WHAT FOR" Marshall demanded.

"So you can get soup on it!" McGrory shouted. "Now put on a shirt and tie and don't give me any lip."

McGrory's wife came rushing in. "What's all the shouting about?"

McGrory said, "I'm taking him to Paul Young's restaurant for graduation and he won't even put on a tie!"

"I don't want to go if I have to wear a tie!" Marshall yelled.

"Put on a tie," Mrs. McGrory said. "And a coat, too. Your father wants to be proud of you."

"WHAT DOES putting on a shirt and tie have to do with him being proud of me!"

McGrory shouted, "It isn't that I want to be proud of you. It's just that I don't want to be ashamed of you!"

Marshall came down in a few minutes with a wrinkled shirt and a torn tie on. His face was red.

McGrory was just about to leave the house when he looked down.

"You have no shoes on," McGrory said.

"YOU DIDN'T say anything about shoes," Marshall said. "Why do I have to put on shoes?"

"It's a health regulation!" McGrory screamed.

"Nobody's going to see my feet," Marshall protested. "They'll be under the table."

"Someone will see your feet as you're escorted to the table. People get very upset when they see a customer without shoes walking in a good restaurant."

"But it's summer. No one wears shoes in the summer."

MRS. McGRORY said, "Marshall, go upstairs and put on some sneakers. Your father asks so little of you."

Marshall stomped upstairs. "I didn't want to go to a restaurant in the first place."

He came down a few minutes later and got into the car and didn't say anything.

"Marshall," McGrory said, "would you take the red band off your head before we go into the restaurant?"

"What kind of place are we going to where they won't let a guy wear a band on his head?"

"It's a very good place, Marshall. They have fine food. You're growing up now, and you should be interested in other things besides milk shakes and French fries."

"YOU MEAN they don't have milk shakes and French fires at this place? I thought you said it was a good restaurant.

"Marshall," McGrory said quietly, "you see the McDonald's hamburger stand? Well, here's two bucks. You go over there and have anything you want for your graduation."

"You coming?" Marshall said.

McGrory shook his head sadly. "No, you'd only be ashamed of me."

The upshot was that Dr. Miller was fired, and the board notified Marin General Hospital District directors — who are in joint charge with the supervisors of the mental health center — that Dr. Wilson's contract would not be renewed for next fiscal year.

THE HOSPITAL DISTRICT directors balked at that. They like Dr. Wilson.

The bubbling pot of discord was moved to the back burner by supervisors' appointment of a committee to screen candidates for a new mental health center director. Included on the committee were hospital district representatives — along with known foes of Dr. Wilson.

Then 18 candidates applied for the job. And among them was Dr. Wilson. And the supervisors did an about-face, agreeing unanimously that Dr. Wilson would be reappointed if he were recommended by the screening committee.

THIS MADE the screening committee makeup take on a new importance.

It includes County Administrator Alan Bruce, who during last year's strange goings-on appeared as no friend of Dr. Wilson; Dr. Seymour Boorstein, a consultant at the mental health center whose wife formerly was employed by Dr. Miller; Dr. Richard Brunstetter, who backed Miller.

Included also are Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, county coroner-medical director who was given the added job of mental health director after the firing of Dr. Miller, and whose recommendation to the supervisors was credited in large part with their deciding Dr. Wilson might be reappointed; Ray H. Bolinger, Marin General Hospital administrator who is a backer of Dr. Wilson; Dr. Bradford Simmons, chief of staff of Marin General Hospital and reportedly a Wilson backer.

The balance of the committee consists of three members of the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board, which was up to its ears in the Miller-Wilson feud: Martha Valiant, George D. Monardo, and Jack Williams.

If any member of this committee could be called non-partisan, we don't know who it would be.

So the stage seems set for a re-run of last year's Alice in Mental Health Land production, with a few variations.

QUESTION: If the board of supervisors now has no objection to Dr. Wilson, why a committee to screen candidates for the job he wants to keep?

Question: If the search is intended as an objective search for the best possible man to head the mental health center, why is the committee made up of partisans in last year's fight, who by no stretch of the imagination (though possibly by psychoanalysis) can be expected to be objective where Dr. Wilson is concerned?

Question: Since the Marin Hospital District board wants Dr. Wilson, and Dr. Cooke, who heads the mental health department, wants Dr. Wilson, why all the fuss? Why any screening committee?

Question: If the purpose of the committee setup is to get rid of Dr. Wilson, why does it include some of his partisans?

THERE SEEMS little logic in the whole affair. But then, one should not expect logic in Mental Health (or Looking Glass) Land except, perhaps, the kind of logic explained to Alice by Tweedledee:

"Contrariwise, if it was so, it might be; and if it were so, it would be; but as it isn't, it ain't. That's logic."

Do Skunks Have Rights?

For at least 25 years a succession of striped skunks have made their summer home in a 40-foot drain under our driveway. Before the ancient house and drain were even thoughts in an amateur architect's mind, even before white man came and divided up the land into neat little parcels and built fences, skunks must have lived here, catching rats and mice and searching out grubs and insects on the forest floor.

The coming of large numbers of people and the conversion of Marin into suburbia must have taxed the skunks' survival powers. But they are adaptable creatures and they found they could live and thrive near the home of man in mutual respect and tolerance, if not always harmony. After all, both creatures are armed.

Skunks are still quite numerous in Marin, but being nocturnal they are smelled more often than they are seen. When we do see them, they impress us as rather stolid little fellows, deadly intent upon the business of the moment.

Because they carry a weapon which makes a very bad odor when used, they probably will never be our most popular animal. But doughty Mr. and Mrs. Skunk have their fanciers, too. And maybe skunks have a few rights here also.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to all the winning candidates in Tuesday's primary elections, but . . .

BRICKBATS to those candidates whose signs are still up four days after the election.

A special BOUQUET to County Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley J. Fontez, who amassed the third highest vote among Marin's unopposed candidates. Why a special bouquet for Fontez? Because we inadvertently left him out of an editorial accolade to those county officials without opposition for re-election.

Many Mothers Have To Take Jobs

Regarding the item in the May 27 issue, wherein a woman on welfare, with a disabled husband and two sons (age 11 and 13) spoke to the San Rafael Board of Education protesting a proposed cutback in her welfare payments:

She stated that she was a trained person, but did not wish to work because she wanted to stay home and raise her sons.

It seems very strange indeed that she felt she should stay home, on tax paid welfare, when many, many wives find it necessary to hold a job in order to pay the confiscatory taxes necessitated by the existing level of welfare payments. I am sure they, too, would prefer to stay home with their children, but the cost of living does not permit it!

The board of supervisors would be very well advised to cut the supplemental grants to AFDC, particularly in any case where one parent can work and the children are old enough to be in school and take care of themselves.

Working wives in particular should take due notice of the situation. It is their tax dollars that are used to pay for such welfare.

Government Class Supports Teacher

We the undersigned in Mr. Roger T. Lim's first period American Government class have decided to write this letter in response to the letter the editor's column entitled "New Low Reached in Sick Society," May 21.

We feel we are mature enough to be exposed to the vital issues of our society, such as draft laws, war, ecology, socialism, capitalism, homosexuality, civil rights, etc.

We have always made it a point to have the opposite sides in contrast to the subject. These subjects are preparing us for the outside world which we will soon be entering. We are focusing on contemporary problems we all have to face, which the older establishment is not facing.

Therefore we, the undersigned in Mr. Lim's first period class, feel that it is unjust and not valid for someone to examine part of the course of study without examining the entire substance of the class.

Suicides Of Soul Portray Sinking Level Of Man

By Rabbi HAIM KEMELMAN

It has been truly stated that there are three levels of human experience: Extermination, toleration and appreciation.

Which is our level of humanity? More and more we witness the tendency of exterminatory aggression, not only in dealing with others but also in dealing with ourselves. When we don't like an idea, we will not tolerate it; when we don't like a person with an idea, we want him out of the way. And there are times when we don't like the idea and the person in ourselves and seek to commit suicide, or do it partially by exterminating the soul.

The statistics of physical suicide are spiraling ever upward. But even more so are the statistics of spiritual suicide. The drug syndrome, seizing some of the best of our youth, is ample proof to a quiet death of soul in the process of human self-extermination.

Why do so many among us seek escape? What makes the impulse to cop out such a terrible and irrepressible compulsion?

LISTEN TO the message of the young. You will hear more in what they do than in what they say. Their toughness of outer appearance is only a mask to inner frailty. What they seek desperately — in the dream of their youth — is the love of human relationships and the human relationships of love. It has been lost somewhere in the commercials of false promise; it has been concealed somehow in the heap of words that more than clarify meaning, falsify hope.

Listen to the message of youth, through the things they do: some walk like ghosts in dark corners; some pass secret and garbled codes; some handle lethal chemicals; some find themselves in dimly darkened rooms to pass, through weeds, an impulse of warmth and closeness — a high euphoria from hand to hand, amidst the vapors of drifting oblivion.

Why do they do these strange and unthinkable things? Whatever happened to human relations that they have to relate in obscurity?

WHY? IT'S PLAIN and the words are known to us in ancient prose: Man does not live by bread alone. Neither by the abundance of goods, nor by the indulgence of pleasure.

The creature of the idea, man, must in the end seek the ideal. He can live only temporarily on the level of toleration. For tolerance is only a discipline which must ultimately lead to the highest and most constructive level of humanity — appreciation, loving kindness and the extension of human worth and personal fulfillment. It is not good enough to say, "I hate you, but I'll tolerate you." That's heart-failure in human relations.

THE ONLY alternative is the level of human appreciation, the loving extension of humanity to a deeper empathy and recognition of the worth of the individual: to respect a person, or people, for what they are, as they are — without having to put on a smile or makeup to the style and whim of our personal liking — to be what they want to be in their bare soul and self.

Human love is no luxury. It's an imperative of life. It evinces appreciation and recognition to every living individual. It permits him to grow and to realize his fullest spectrum of dreams and expectations. And there is no one on earth who can't use a little more of it.

"Love . . as . . thyself." Allow yourself to be yourself, to experience yourself: and as "thyself," encourage your neighbor to be himself, to fulfill himself — this is the level of man's highest realization, the level of his noblest humanity.

Wallace Victory Points Up Need For Direct Election Of President

WASHINGTON — George Wallace's narrow victory in Alabama is a bad break for President Nixon and the southern strategy. It exposes the essential weakness of that strategy.

In the runoff primary against Gov. Albert P. Brewer, the little Napoleon of the South conducted a racist campaign. The crudest appeals to southern fears and southern prejudices were at the base of the Wallace campaign. The threat, if not made openly by the candidate himself then by most of his propagandists,was that "the niggers" will take over the next 50 years if Wallace is defeated.

An able governor and by southern standards a moderate, Brewer could not compete with that kind of demagoguery. Neither can the presidential candidate of one of the major parties and therein lies the fallacy of the southern strategy.

REPORTS from Alabama have it that Wallace will concentrate his presidential campaign in 1972 in the South. If these reports are correct and he saves all his fire for the states where integration versus segregation is still a live issue, he will be a serious threat to the President's reelection.

In 1968 Wallace carried only five states — Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana and Mississippi — with 45 electoral votes. Mr. Nixon's margin of victory came from nine southern and border states that gave him 90 electoral votes. Having turned his back on the northeast with states that rack up large electoral totals, he will need every one of those votes.

Tennessee is a prime example of the Wallace potential. The vote for Wallace in that state in '68 was 425,000 to 472,000 for Mr. Nixon, with Hubert Humphrey low man with 351,000. There is no reason to believe the Wallace faction in Tennessee is any smaller today. The frustrations and the resentments — the emotional base of the Wallace support — are, if anything, greater than they were two years ago.

WALLACE'S GOAL in '68 was to deny an electoral majority to either of the major party candidates. The election would be thrown into the House of Representatives where he could bargain for position and power. Concentrating on the South in the next go-round, that will be a goal which he can come much closer to achieving.

The invitation to chaos will still be outstanding in 1972 unless the Senate acts quickly to abolish that ancient relic, the electoral college. Sen. Birch Bayh's amendment calling for direct election of the President by popular vote was reported out of the Senate Judiciary Committee more than a month ago by a vote of 11 to 6. It had previously passed the House by an overwhelming majority, 337 to 70.

Bayh is optimistic, once the long-embittered hassle over Cambodia is out of the way, that the Senate will follow the House and approve the amendment. It takes a two-thirds vote and the southern strategists can be counted on to do everything in their power, including perhaps a filibuster, to defeat it.

HERE IS the paradox of the Nixon-Agnew-Thurmond position. The electoral college is the antique device whereby the President can be denied re-election or forced in a contest in the House of Representatives to pay such a price that the victory would be an empty one. Yet the same southern states that gave Nixon his majority two years ago can frustrate the amendment to abolish the relic, enabling men of Wallace's stamp to undermine the system itself.

Once the amendment has passed the Senate, assuming it does, the next hurdle is even more formidable. It must be approved by legislatures of three-fourths of the states. Here again the South may supply the veto.

Bayh, however, is hopeful. He points out that all but four of the states have legislative sessions next year and in those states special sessions could be called. Support for the direct election amendment is being generated in the South by groups such as the League of Women Voters.

Memo To Fathers Of Graduates: Don't Take Junior To Dinner

WASHINGTON — You don't see as many fathers and sons dining out as you used to. The problem seems to be that not many restaurants are set to handle some of the clothes their clients' sons are wearing.

The other night my friend McGrory suggested to his son, Marshall, that they go to a first-class restaurant to celebrate his graduation from high school.

"GREAT," said Marshall, "let's go."

"I think you'd better put on a shirt," McGrory suggested.

"I have a sweat shirt on. What's wrong with it?"

"I thought you might put on a shirt and a tie," McGrory said.

"What are we going to, a wedding?" Marshall demanded.

"Most good restaurants prefer you to wear a tie," McGrory said.

"WHAT FOR" Marshall demanded.

"So you can get soup on it!" McGrory shouted. "Now put on a shirt and tie and don't give me any lip."

McGrory's wife came rushing in. "What's all the shouting about?"

McGrory said, "I'm taking him to Paul Young's restaurant for graduation and he won't even put on a tie!"

"I don't want to go if I have to wear a tie!" Marshall yelled.

"Put on a tie," Mrs. McGrory said. "And a coat, too. Your father wants to be proud of you."

"WHAT DOES putting on a shirt and tie have to do with him being proud of me!"

McGrory shouted, "It isn't that I want to be proud of you. It's just that I don't want to be ashamed of you!"

Marshall came down in a few minutes with a wrinkled shirt and a torn tie on. His face was red.

McGrory was just about to leave the house when he looked down.

"You have no shoes on," McGrory said.

"YOU DIDN'T say anything about shoes," Marshall said. "Why do I have to put on shoes?"

"It's a health regulation!" McGrory screamed.

"Nobody's going to see my feet," Marshall protested. "They'll be under the table."

"Someone will see your feet as you're escorted to the table. People get very upset when they see a customer without shoes walking in a good restaurant."

"But it's summer. No one wears shoes in the summer."

MRS. McGRORY said, "Marshall, go upstairs and put on some sneakers. Your father asks so little of you."

Marshall stomped upstairs. "I didn't want to go to a restaurant in the first place."

He came down a few minutes later and got into the car and didn't say anything.

"Marshall," McGrory said, "would you take the red band off your head before we go into the restaurant?"

"What kind of place are we going to where they won't let a guy wear a band on his head?"

"It's a very good place, Marshall. They have fine food. You're growing up now, and you should be interested in other things besides milk shakes and French fries."

"YOU MEAN they don't have milk shakes and French fires at this place? I thought you said it was a good restaurant."

"Marshall," McGrory said quietly, "you see the McDonald's hamburger stand? Well, here's two bucks. You go over there and have anything you want for your graduation."

"You coming?" Marshall said.

McGrory shook his head sadly. "No, you'd only be ashamed of me."

Churches Will Honor Nitz On 40th Ordination Anniversary

Dr. Arthur C. Nitz, pastor of Trinity and Resurrection Lutheran churches in San Rafael, will be honored at the 11 a.m. service tomorrow at Trinity on the 40th anniversary of his ordination.

Pastor of Trinity since 1966 and Resurrection since 1967, Nitz has also served churches in St. Louis and San Francisco.

A native of Bellingham, Wash., he graduated from Concordia Seminary in St. Louis in 1930. He received his doctorate from the St. Louis seminary in 1960.

Since assuming pastorates in California he has served as president of the California and Nevada District. He also has served as vice president of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod as well as on the Board of Commission on Missions and Ministry. He is currently on the Board of Commission on Theology and Church Relations.

A buffet luncheon will follow the service at the church which is located at 333 Woodland Avenue.

Thunderbolt Hits Church's Echelon

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

For several days, he later related, he remained in seclusion, praying, wrestling with his conscience. Then he emerged to hurl the thunderbolt that is reverberating through the ruling echelons of Roman Catholicism.

In a rare skirmish, on a basic issue, it has pitted a cardinal in contention with the Pope.

"I will not hide from you the suffering this entailed," Cardinal Leo Joseph Suenens commented in an ensuing sermon recently in his home Cathedral of Malines in Belgium. "But I felt obliged, in conscience, before God, to assume my responsibilities as bishop."

He says the primary issue, underlying the incidental matters that have brought it into focus, is how the church is to be governed, whether by jointly shared deliberation, or only by papal decision.

"A DEADLOCK"

"It is a deadlock," he said in the controversial interview in France two weeks ago that touched off the repercussions. The full text was published this week in a major Catholic weekly in this country, the National Register.

What brought the issue to a head, he said, was the action of Pope Paul VI in forbidding collegial consideration with the church's bishops of the question of mandatory celibacy of priests.

The Pope earlier also excluded the problem of birth control from joint consideration by the bishops, the cardinal said, adding that these rulings disallowed exercise of the principle of coresponsibility espoused by the 1962-'65 Second Vatcan Council.

It puts the bishops in an "impossible situation," he said, of being barred from discussing a queston (of priestly celibacy) that is being widely and openly discussed by others in the Church—laity, priests and theologians.

"The bishops are apparently caught between two conflicting choices: either they appear disloyal to Rome, or they appear to dodge their responsibility in their local churches. Either lose credit or lose credibilty."

IS ASTONISHED

Pope Paul subsequently has expressed "pained astonishment" at the criticism. He said it was delivered "in a manner that does not seem to us fitting to the brotherly style required by collegiality itself."

He emphasized his respect for the Vatican Council's teaching in regard to the "collegiality of bishops" in sharing guidance of the church.

Cardinal Suenens, 66, a learned, frank-talking prelate, a former university rector and theologian, said later in an interview in the Long Island Catholic this week that his criticisms were aimed only at the way the Church government was operating.

"It was not an attack on the Pope, the person, but an attack on the Church government—the system," he told the paper's Vatican correspondent, Robert R. Holton.

He said that actually, his views were in support of papal primacy since, in order to strengthen present-day authority in Church leadership, it should be used in a shared, collegial way, rather than in the opposite way.

"THAT'S NONSENSE"

Asked about speculation that he sought to develop the issue as a springboard toward becoming the next Pope, he chuckled and said, "That's nonsense. If you wish to aim at that, you must not take the positions I am taking."

He said he realized he had risked being removed from his position as cardinal by his criticisms, but was willing to face the costs. He said his main hope is "that the Church today should be adapted to the needs of today."

In his sermon last week, he emphasized that he had in no way sought to judge the issue of celibacy itself, its values, or the options being advocated in the blanket rule, but only to obtain mutual examination of the matter.

The Dutch bishops have made a similar plea.

"In our post conciliar Church, as in our contemporary civil society, free and frank expression of thought is normal and healthy, Cardinal Suenens said.

The cardinal, who recently visited the United States in company with the Anglican Archbishop of Canterbury, Michael A. Ramsay, said then: "The paternalistic style of Church government is dead. We have to create new forms of coresponsibility . . . methods to ensure that the entire people of God works together."

IN RECENT BOOK

His recent book, "Coresponsibility in the Church," stresses the same theme. He has urged decentralization of Church authority, claiming the Church, including the Pope, is imprisoned in a rigid system of the Vatican Curia. He advocates lay participation in election of bishops, and involvement of bishops in electing the Pope, rather than just the College of Cardinals.

Carters To Share Pulpit Tomorrow

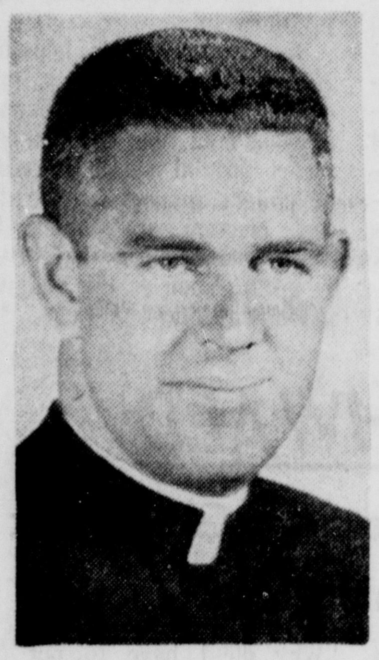
The Carters — father and son — will share the pulpit at tomorrow's 11 a.m. service at the Methodist Church of Mill Valley as part of the congregation's effort to honor retired persons in the community.

According to the younger Carter, George P., pastor, "The church honors persons when they graduate, when they marry or give birth. . .why not when they complete professional service in the community?"

The senior Carter will speak with a view of work and the active ministry from the perspective of having recently retired.

Rev. Allen J. Carter retired as a Methodist minister two years ago, having served in Tennessee, Virginia and California. Since his retirement he has been active as a consultant in finance with churches and other institutions.

An invitation to retired persons in the community to attend the service has been extended by the younger Carter.



REV. BERNARD CUMMINS
To discuss aid

Director Of Schools Will Speak

Rev. Bernard Cummins, superintendent of schools for the Archdiocese of San Francisco, will address members of the Knights of Columbus, San Rafael Council, following their regular meeting Wednesday.

Cummins will speak on "State Aid to Parochial Schools."

A teacher at Marin Catholic High School from 1952 to 1961, he has also taught at Serra High School. He became assistant superintendent of the archdiocese in 1962, being elevated to his current post in 1966. He is also currently president of the Northern California Education Association superintendent's department.

The council meets at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 167 Tunstead Avenue in San Anselmo.

Novato Church Sets An Ecology Crusade

An ecology crusade in North Marin is being sponsored from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., June 20, by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints at the church yard, 375 Calle Arboleda in the Loma Verde section of Novato.

The church is asking residents to help with the collection of usable rubbish. This includes newspaper, (no magazines) tied in bundles; clean and smashed aluminum cans, tin cans with the labels removed, both ends cut out and flattened, and soft drink cans with seams, clean and smashed.

Purpose of the drive is to show the community that such a drive can be successful in hopes that other churches and organizations will start similar campaigns, according to publicity chairman Pamela Mize.

Helping the church in the project are: Boy Scout Troop 73; Novato Jets Novato Valley, Olompali and Granados 4-H Clubs and Ecology Action—Marin.

Further information on the drive, or anyone wishing to volunteer help may get in touch with Pamela Mize at 2433 Center Road, Novato.

Ministers In Novato To Seat New Slate Wednesday

New officers of the Novato Ministerial Fellowship will be installed at a luncheon meeting at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday at the officers club at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Rev. Arthur W. Sorensen of All Saints Lutheran Church will be installed as president; Rev. Donald M. Rayment of the Presbyterian Church of Novato, vice president, and Rev. Lewie H. Miller Jr., chaplain at Hamilton, secretary.

During the past year the Novato ministers have instituted monthly meetings with local doctors at Novato General Hospital to discuss working together with persons with medical problems. The ministers also meet twice monthly with representatives of the Marin County mental health program in working on pastoral counseling.

Faith In Russia

PARIS (AP) — More young people are attending church in Russia today than in many years, and more men are applying to enter the priesthood, Bishop Ioore L'Huillier, Western European representative of the Moscow Orthodox Patriarchate, told a gathering here. He says 40 million to 60 million Russians are practicing their faith regularly.

New Missionaries

BURLINGTON, Ont. (UPI)—Thirty new missionaries, 10 fewer than last year, have been appointed by the board of world missions of the United Church of Canada. The missionaries will take assignment in India, Japan and Zambia.

REV. BEN WEIR
A special night

Weir Family To Deliver Church Talks

An evening with the Ben Weir family will be held between 5:30 and 8 p.m. tomorrow at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

Weir, an ordained Presbyterian minister, has served with his family in Lebanon since 1953. They are returning to Lebanon again in August.

The Weirs and their four children will demonstrate Arabic folk dances and clay modeling as well as show slides of their work in Lebanon using as their theme: "This Treasure We Have in Earthen Vessels."

Following the family's discussion on Lebanon, a potluck supper will be served at 6:30 p.m.

Ninth Pentecostal World Session Set

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI)—The Ninth Pentecostal World Conference, to be held in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 3-8 is expected to attrack 11,000 delegates from more than 40 countries.

"The Spreading Flame of Pentecost" is the theme of the conference, which will be addressed by 14 Pentecostal leaders from 12 countries. Speakers' topic will relate to the contemporary manifestations and applications of the power of the Holy Spirit, says the Rev. Thomas F. Zimmerman, general superintendet of the Assemblies of God and chairman of the conference's steering committee.

Membership Drop By Lutheran Body

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Lutheran Church in America, largest of North America's Lutheran denominations, had 3,250,558 members at the beginning of 1970, a decrease of 21,212 from the year before, reports Dr. George F. Harkins, secretary of the church.

It is the second time since the LCA was formed in 1962 by the merger of four Lutheran bodies that the membership total had declined. Peak membership of 3,288,037 was reached in 1967.

Guest Speaker

Rev. Reuben J. Dequeira, pastor of the Central Assembly of God Church in San Rafael, will be guest speaker at an "Impact '70" session at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Woodacre Improvement Club.

Lutheran Merger Slated In 1971

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jan. 1, 1971, has been set as the date for merger of the 20,500-member Synod of Evangelical Lutheran Churches with the 2.9 million-member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

Under a merger agreement, the Synod will become a district in the larger church body. After seven years, it will be dissolved and its pastors and congregations will be assigned to Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod geographical districts.

REV. BERNARD CUMMINS
To discuss aid

Director Of Schools Will Speak

Rev. Bernard Cummins, superintendent of schools for the Archdiocese of San Francisco, will address members of the Knights of Columbus, San Rafael Council, following their regular meeting Wednesday.

Cummins will speak on "State Aid to Parochial Schools."

A teacher at Marin Catholic High School from 1952 to 1961, he has also taught at Serra High School. He became assistant superintendent of the archdiocese in 1962, being elevated to his current post in 1966. He is also currently president of the Northern California Education Association superintendent's department.

The council meets at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 167 Tunstead Avenue in San Anselmo.

Novato Church Sets An Ecology Crusade

An ecology crusade in North Marin is being sponsored from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., June 20, by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints at the church yard, 375 Calle Arboleda in the Loma Verde section of Novato.

The church is asking residents to help with the collection of usable rubbish. This includes newspaper, (no magazines) tied in bundles; clean and smashed aluminum cans, tin cans with the labels removed, both ends cut out and flattened, and soft drink cans with seams, clean and smashed.

Purpose of the drive is to show the community that such a drive can be successful in hopes that other churches and organizations will start similar campaigns, according to publicity chairman Pamela Mize.

Helping the church in the project are: Boy Scout Troop 73; Novato Jets Novato Valley, Olompali and Granados 4-H Clubs and Ecology Action—Marin.

Further information on the drive, or anyone wishing to volunteer help may get in touch with Pamela Mize at 2433 Center Road, Novato.

Ministers In Novato To Seat New Slate Wednesday

New officers of the Novato Ministerial Fellowship will be installed at a luncheon meeting at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday at the officers club at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Rev. Arthur W. Sorensen of All Saints Lutheran Church will be installed as president; Rev. Donald M. Rayment of the Presbyterian Church of Novato, vice president, and Rev. Lewie H. Miller Jr., chaplain at Hamilton, secretary.

During the past year the Novato ministers have instituted monthly meetings with local doctors at Novato General Hospital to discuss working together with persons with medical problems. The ministers also meet twice monthly with representatives of the Marin County mental health program in working on pastoral counseling.

Faith In Russia

PARIS (AP) — More young people are attending church in Russia today than in many years, and more men are applying to enter the priesthood, Bishop Ioore L'Huillier, Western European representative of the Moscow Orthodox Patriarchate, told a gathering here. He says 40 million to 60 million Russians are practicing their faith regularly.

New Missionaries

BURLINGTON, Ont. (UPI)—Thirty new missionaries, 10 fewer than last year, have been appointed by the board of world missions of the United Church of Canada. The missionaries will take assignment in India, Japan and Zambia.

REV. BEN WEIR
A special night

Weir Family To Deliver Church Talks

An evening with the Ben Weir family will be held between 5:30 and 8 p.m. tomorrow at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

Weir, an ordained Presbyterian minister, has served with his family in Lebanon since 1953. They are returning to Lebanon again in August.

The Weirs and their four children will demonstrate Arabic folk dances and clay modeling as well as show slides of their work in Lebanon using as their theme: "This Treasure We Have in Earthen Vessels."

Following the family's discussion on Lebanon, a potluck supper will be served at 6:30 p.m.

Churches Will Honor Nitz On 40th Ordination Anniversary

Dr. Arthur C. Nitz, pastor of Trinity and Resurrection Lutheran churches in San Rafael, will be honored at the 11 a.m. service tomorrow at Trinity on the 40th anniversary of his ordination.

Pastor of Trinity since 1966 and Resurrection since 1967, Nitz has also served churches in St. Louis and San Francisco.

A native of Bellingham, Wash., he graduated from Concordia Seminary in St. Louis in 1930. He received his doctorate from the St. Louis seminary in 1960.

Since assuming pastorates in California he has served as president of the California and Nevada District. He also has served as vice president of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod as well as on the Board of Commission on Missions and Ministry. He is currently on the Board of Commission on Theology and Church Relations.

A buffet luncheon will follow the service at the church which is located at 333 Woodland Avenue.

Thunderbolt Hits Church's Echelon

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

For several days, he later related, he remained in seclusion, praying, wrestling with his conscience. Then he emerged to hurl the thunderbolt that is reverberating through the ruling echelons of Roman Catholicism.

In a rare skirmish, on a basic issue, it has pitted a cardinal in contention with the Pope.

"I will not hide from you the suffering this entailed," Cardinal Leo Joseph Suenens commented in an ensuing sermon recently in his home Cathedral of Malines in Belgium. "But I felt obliged, in conscience, before God, to assume my responsibilities as bishop."

He says the primary issue, underlying the incidental matters that have brought it into focus, is how the church is to be governed, whether by jointly shared deliberation, or only by papal decision.

"A DEADLOCK"

"It is a deadlock," he said in the controversial interview in France two weeks ago that touched off the repercussions. The full text was published this week in a major Catholic weekly in this country, the National Register.

What brought the issue to a head, he said, was the action of Pope Paul VI in forbidding collegial consideration with the church's bishops of the question of mandatory celibacy of priests.

The Pope earlier also excluded the problem of birth control from joint consideration by the bishops, the cardinal said, adding that these rulings disallowed exercise of the principle of coresponsibility espoused by the 1962-'65 Second Vatcan Council.

It puts the bishops in an "impossible situation," he said, of being barred from discussing a queston (of priestly celibacy) that is being widely and openly discussed by others in the Church—laity, priests and theologians.

"The bishops are apparently caught between two conflicting choices: either they appear disloyal to Rome, or they appear to dodge their responsibility in their local churches. Either lose credit or lose credibilty."

IS ASTONISHED

Pope Paul subsequently has expressed "pained astonishment" at the criticism. He said it was delivered "in a manner that does not seem to us fitting to the brotherly style required by collegiality itself."

He emphasized his respect for the Vatican Council's teaching in regard to the "collegiality of bishops" in sharing guidance of the church.

Cardinal Suenens, 66, a learned, frank-talking prelate, a former university rector and theologian, said later in an interview in the Long Island Catholic this week that his criticisms were aimed only at the way the Church government was operating.

"It was not an attack on the Pope, the person, but an attack on the Church government—the system," he told the paper's Vatican correspondent, Robert R. Holton.

He said that actually, his views were in support of papal primacy since, in order to strengthen present-day authority in Church leadership, it should be used in a shared, collegial way, rather than in the opposite way.

"THAT'S NONSENSE"

Asked about speculation that he sought to develop the issue as a springboard toward becoming the next Pope, he chuckled and said, "That's nonsense. If you wish to aim at that, you must not take the positions I am taking."

He said he realized he had risked being removed from his position as cardinal by his criticisms, but was willing to face the costs. He said his main hope is "that the Church today should be adapted to the needs of today."

In his sermon last week, he emphasized that he had in no way sought to judge the issue of celibacy itself, its values, or the options being advocated in the blanket rule, but only to obtain mutual examination of the matter.

The Dutch bishops have made a similar plea.

"In our post conciliar Church, as in our contemporary civil society, free and frank expression of thought is normal and healthy, Cardinal Suenens said.

The cardinal, who recently visited the United States in company with the Anglican Archbishop of Canterbury, Michael A. Ramsay, said then: "The paternalistic style of Church government is dead. We have to create new forms of coresponsibility ... methods to ensure that the entire people of God works together."

IN RECENT BOOK

His recent book, "Coresponsibility in the Church," stresses the same theme. He has urged decentralization of Church authority, claiming the Church, including the Pope, is imprisoned in a rigid system of the Vatican Curia. He advocates lay participation in election of bishops, and involvement of bishops in electing the Pope, rather than just the College of Cardinals.

Ninth Pentecostal World Session Set

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI)—The Ninth Pentecostal World Conference, to be held in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 3-8 is expected to attrack 11,000 delegates from more than 40 countries.

"The Spreading Flame of Pentecost" is the theme of the conference, which will be addressed by 14 Pentecostal leaders from 12 countries. Speakers' topic will relate to the contemporary manifestations and applications of the power of the Holy Spirit, says the Rev. Thomas F. Zimmerman, general superintendet of the Assemblies of God and chairman of the conference's steering committee.

Carters To Share Pulpit Tomorrow

The Carters — father and son — will share the pulpit at tomorrow's 11 a.m. service at the Methodist Church of Mill Valley as part of the congregation's effort to honor retired persons in the community.

According to the younger Carter, George P., pastor, "The church honors persons when they graduate, when they marry or give birth. . .why not when they complete professional service in the community?"

The senior Carter will speak with a view of work and the active ministry from the perspective of having recently retired.

Rev. Allen J. Carter retired as a Methodist minister two years ago, having served in Tennessee, Virginia and California. Since his retirement he has been active as a consultant in finance with churches and other institutions.

An invitation to retired persons in the community to attend the service has been extended by the younger Carter.

Membership Drop By Lutheran Body

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Lutheran Church in America, largest of North America's Lutheran denominations, had 3,250,558 members at the beginning of 1970, a decrease of 21,212 from the year before, reports Dr. George F. Harkins, secretary of the church.

It is the second time since the LCA was formed in 1962 by the merger of four Lutheran bodies that the membership total had declined. Peak membership of 3,288,037 was reached in 1967.

Guest Speaker

Rev. Reuben J. Dequeira, pastor of the Central Assembly of God Church in San Rafael, will be guest speaker at an "Impact '70" session at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Woodacre Improvement Club.

Lutheran Merger Slated In 1971

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jan. 1, 1971, has been set as the date for merger of the 20,500-member Synod of Evangelical Lutheran Churches with the 2.9 million-member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

Under a merger agreement, the Synod will become a district in the larger church body. After seven years, it will be dissolved and its pastors and congregations will be assigned to Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod geographical districts.

MARIN PREP SOARS TO STATE FINALS

Mark Jones, Terra Linda High School pole vaulter, qualified for the finals of the California Interscholastic Federation Track and Field Championships at 13 feet 6 inches yesterday in trials at University of California's Edwards Stadium in Berkeley. San Rafael long jumper Bob Peterson and Novato discus thrower Ray Sparling reached the trials but did not qualify for the finals which were being held this afternoon.

Super Bowl Star's Big Switch

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Garrett's status as a potential professional baseball player, after helping Kansas City win pro football's Super Bowl, was the most startling development of baseball's annual summer free agent draft that also saw the San Francisco Giants pick a USC pitcher-outfielder as their number one selection.

Al Campanis, general manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers, startled the draft meeting Friday by announcing he was selecting the negotiation rights to Garrett on behalf of the Dodgers' Bakersfield, Calif., farm in the California League.

Garrett, an outfielder, played baseball in his college days at Southern California, prompting the Dodgers to draft him for baseball at the time. However, a five-year contract with the Kansas City Chiefs reportedly for $450,000, was too attractive to turn down. The former Heisman Trophy winner gained over 1,000 yards for the Chiefs in 1967 and scored in the Super Bowl victory over Minnesota.

WILL NEGOTIATE

At the age of 26, the 5-foot-9 Garrett told the Associated Press Friday night, "I intend to play baseball and will negotiate with the Dodgers."

He has called a news conference for Monday afternoon to explain his decision to quit football after the 1971 season when his contract expires.

"We will, of course, honor the fact Garrett is under contract to the Kansas City football club," Campanis was quoted in Los Angeles by a Dodger spokesman, "and make no attempt to sign him until his contract has been concluded. He is a good baseball prospect with power and still young enough to start in a new sport which he obviously wishes to do."

In Kansas City, Jack Steadman, executive Vice President and General Manager of the Chiefs said, "We will have no comment on the Garrett situation at this time."

In his college days at USC, Garrett hit .390 in 38 games in 1965, slammed six homers and drove in 20 runs.

The baseball executives completed their two-day draft meetings with a total of 1,038 selections as compared to 1,147 a year ago and a record 1,169 in 1967. The draft gives the club the exclusive negotiating right to the player for a stated period. If he does not sign, he goes back into the pool for future re-draft. Players who had been drafted previously but did not sign are covered in a secondary phase.

BALTIMORE BUSY

Baltimore led with 67 draft picks, 57 in the regular phase and 10 in the secondary. Pittsburgh had the most, 60, in the regular phase.

David Kingman, a pitcher-outfielder, from Southern California, was the first selection in the secondary phase. He was taken by the San Francisco Giants who rate him "way above average," according to farm director, Jack Schwarz. Kingman, 6-6 and 210, suffered a broken arm this spring and switched to the outfield with success.

The Oakland Athletics' first choice was a catcher, Bernard Boehmer of Flint Hill, Mo., and Meremack Commercial College in St. Louis.

Among the familiar names to pop up in the later stages of the draft were the sons of Calvin McLish, Montreal pitching coach, Roy Smalley, former major league infielder, Bud Metheny, former New York Yankee outfielder and the brother of Bob Heise, San Francisco infielder.

The Strange Format Of World Cup Soccer

MEXICO CITY — To begin with, the "World Cup" is no cup. It's a statue of a golden lady, and some think she is no lady or at least a lady of easy virtue. At best, she's a coquette. She leads you on.

The 16 world's best teams are by no means the ones she winks at. She is as indiscriminate as Lady Chatterley. Even the gamekeepers, so to speak, get her favors.

First of all, the host team gets in on a pass. The sense of this condition may be seen from the fact that 108,000 people jammed Azteca to see Mexico and Russia play a very poor game, while slightly more than half of the 70,000 capacity came to Guadalajara to see England and Romania play a very good one. The travel agencies, compelled by the organizing committee to pay a 20 per cent surcharge for tickets, some in venues where the native population is more interested in selling than in waving them, are stuck with enough tickets to make confetti for the next 10 years of weddings.

Next, there is the universally - conceded point that there are nearly half - a - dozen teams in this thing because of geographical advantage, not athletic. El Salvador, Israel and Morocco, in particular, are cluttering up the draw. Morocco had to beat such powerhouses as Sudan, Senegal and Nigeria. They eliminated Tunisia on the toss of a coin after the teams had played three tie games, two of them scoreless.

Mighty Teams Left On The Shore

Meanwhile, such might "sides" as Portugal, Spain, Yugoslavia and Hungary are left waving on the shore — to say nothing of Scotland, Northern Ireland and East Germany.

For an American analogy, you would have to imagine USC forced into a playoff with Notre Dame, Ohio State, the University of Texas, and Penn State, while Cal Tech could get in by playing off Pomona, MIT, Hastings (Nebraska(, and Immaculate Heart.

The real competition in the World Cup is between

Great Relief For A's

OAKLAND (AP) — Last year the Oakland A's had problems in their bullpen that probably cost them the American League pennant.

This year, relief pitching has kept the A's in the pennant race.

Diego Segui and Marcel Lachemann blanked the Detroit Tigers in the final 4 2-3 innings Friday night for a 4-2 victory.

Segui was credited with the his first save of the season by pitching three scoreless innings.

"That gives us two short relief men we can count on," manager Johm McNamara said.

His other short man is Mudcat Grant who has saved six games this season and won another.

POOR PERFORMANCE

McNamara could not explain the poor performance of starting pitcher John Odom against the Tigers. Odom walked five batters and gave up five hits before Segui replaced him in the fifth inning.

"There was nothing wrong with his arm," McNamara said of Odom. The A's pitcher went to Los Angeles earlier this week for an examination of his sore right elbow by Dr. Robert Kerlan, an expert on athletic injury. Odom had a shot of cortisone after the examination.

"Odom had trouble throwing strikes" McNamara said of his performance against Detroit.

Oakland scored four unearned runs in the sixth inning after an error by Detroit pitcher Earl Wilson.

LEE LEAVES RED SOX; SIX MONTHS IN ARMY

Bill Lee, former Terra Linda High School pitching star, left the Boston Red Sox yesterday for a six month tour of Army duty at Fort Polk, La.

The 23 year old southpaw, in his first full season in the majors, had appeared in 11 games, posting an earned run average of 4.62 while winning two and losing two. He allowed 48 hits, struck out 19 and walked 14.

The Red Sox are expected to recall right-handed pitcher Gary Wagner from Louisville of the International League to take Lee's place.

Giants Bugged? It's Just A Big Laugh

CHICAGO (AP)—Charlie Fox, manager of the San Francisco Giants, and Leo Durocher, manager of the Chicago Cubs, both laughed off the possibility that the visiting clubhouse in Wrigley Field might be "bugged."

A story had circulated that Fox held his pre-series meeting with his pitchers at the hotel rather than the clubhouse because Durocher usually would find out how opposing pitchers would work against Cub hitters.

Fox' information supposedly came from Bill Faul, a former Cub who was farmed out by the Giants two days ago. Faul, among other things, has the reputation of being a hypnotist and karate expert.

Following Friday's 12-8 loss to the Cubs, Fox was confronted with his pitchers at the hotel rather than the clubhouse because Durocher usually would find out how opposing pitchers would work against Cub hitters.

Durocher was beside himself when informed that Fox held the meeting in a hotel room rather than the ball park because of a possible information leak.

"You must be kidding, he must be kidding," said Durocher. "Maybe Faul's hypnosis is really working. Look, the plate is only so mide and a pitcher must get the ball over.

"Tell Charlie Fox he can come in and sit on all our meetings," said Leo. "He's not going to learn anything he doesn't know.

"If Willie McCovey doesn't know how we're going to pitch than he must be asleep. And if we don't know how they are going to pitch us, than we must be asleep. It's all ridiculous."

As an afterthought, Durocher said "I don't know what Fox told his pitchers in the hoter meeting but I just hope they keep it up. We got 16 hits out there today.

"After all, what good is it going to do me or Fox to know who's going to do what. All we do is sit on the bench. The guys on the field are performing and when they're not right, all the information in the world isn't going to help."

U.S. Star Loses British Amateur

Bonallack Clobbers Hyndman

NEWCASTLE, Northern Ireland (AP)—Mike Bonallack of England became the first man ever to win the British Amateur Golf Championship three years in succession, routing weary Bill Hyndman of Philahelphia 8 and 7 today in the 36-hole final.

The 54-year-old American veteran, who bowed to Bonallack 3 and 2 in last year's final and earned a rematch with a series of marathon victories in this week's match play, blew sky-high after holding a one-hole lead through today's morning round.

Bonallack closed out the match with a par four on the 29th hole to capture the title for the fifth time in the last nine years.

THIRD LOSS

Hyndman, a beaten finalist for the third time in 10 years, lost his advantage when the 35-year-old Briton birdied the 19th hole, went one down to another Bonallack birdie on the 20th and then came completely apart.

Bonallack went seven up on the 28th with a seven-foot putt for a birdie two, then put the title under wraps on the next hole as Hyndman staggered to a bogey five.

Ex-Ram Booked As A Bookmaker

COMPTON (UPI)—Former Los Angeles Rams defensive back Woodley Lewis was booked Friday on a warrant charging him with bookmaking.

Sheriff's vice squad investigators said the former All-American at Oregon University had been accepting bets for horse races.

Lewis, 45, played for the Rams from 1950 to 1955 and later was traded to the Chicago Cardinals and the Dallas Cowboys.

NOVATO'S TOM CORDER DRAFTED BY DODGERS

Tom Corder, San Jose State shortstop and former star at Novato High School, has been drafted by the Los Angeles Dodgers of the National League for their Bakersfield farm club in the class A California League.

Corder, the most valuable player in the West Coast Athletic Conference in 1969, was selected number 328 in the regular major league baseball draft conducted Thursday in New York.

Corder, 21 and married, is a senior majoring in advertising. He could not be reached for comment at his San Jose home.

Mates, Ump Betray Juan

CHICAGO (AP) — There's nothing like being on top of the world, especially when you're a major league pitcher and both Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs and Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants agree.

Jenkins outdueled Marichal 12-8 Friday in a battle of a couple of National League righthanders who have been premier 20-game winners in the past but currently are struggling.

Despite the final score, both showed indications they might be ready to resume their roles as top pitchers.

Marichal's problem is physical. Juan had an ear and neck glandular infection and reacted against penicillan shots which added to his miseries to such an extent that he is limping along with a 2-4 record, hoping to find the magic of the past.

STRING OF ERRORS

He worked 5 2-3 innings Friday but was sabotaged by a string of San Francisco errors.

"My control was good and I felt stronger," said Marichal after the game. "I'm at about 185 pounds, still seven below my best weight, but I felt a lot stronger today.

"I wasn't getting the calls I usually get," continued Marichal. "When I was going good, the umpires were giving me the corners. Now that I'm struggling, they're calling balls on pitches that are over the plate.

"I lost out there today but I think it's all coming back and I'll be ready to go when we're home next Tuesday."

Jenkins, boosting his record to 5-7, also was critical of the umpiring crew which consisted of Nick Colosi behind the plate and Tom Gorman, Mel Steiner and Billy Williams on the bases.

GIANT HOMERS

Jenkins was staked to a 4-0 lead in the first inning as the Cubs picked up three unearned runs off Marichal. Ken Henderson's homer followed by a double by Dick Dietz and a run-scoring single by Tito Fuentes made it 4-2. Willie McCovey crashed his 17th homer in the third, a drive which carried about 450 feet out of the park against the wind.

Jenkins then retired the next 17 batters before running into trouble. Three walks and a couple of scratch singles helped the Giants score five runs in the ninth," said Jenkins. "There were at least five bad calls on balls and strikes."

Jenkins indicated his displeasure early in the game. He thought he had Henderson on strikes before Ken smacked his ninth homer in the second inning.

After the homer, Fergie stormed in on Colosi to obviously complain. What did Jenkins say to Colosi?

"Why don't you guys print it? They're showing naked movies aren't they?"

MARIN PREP SOARS TO STATE FINALS

Super Bowl Star's Big Switch

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Garrett's status as a potential professional baseball player, after helping Kansas City win pro football's Super Bowl, was the most startling development of baseball's annual summer free agent draft that also saw the San Francisco Giants pick a USC pitcher-outfielder as their number one selection.

Al Campanis, general manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers, startled the draft meeting Friday by announcing he was selecting the negotiation rights to Garrett on behalf of the Dodgers' Bakersfield, Calif., farm in the California League.

Garrett, an outfielder, played baseball in his college days at Southern California, prompting the Dodgers to draft him for baseball at the time. However, a five-year contract with the Kansas City Chiefs reportedly for $450,000, was too attractive to turn down. The former Heisman Trophy winner gained over 1,000 yards for the Chiefs in 1967 and scored in the Super Bowl victory over Minnesota.

WILL NEGOTIATE

At the age of 26, the 5-foot-9 Garrett told the Associated Press Friday night, "I intend to play baseball and will negotiate with the Dodgers."

He has called a news conference for Monday afternoon to explain his decision to quit football after the 1971 season when his contract expires.

"We will, of course, honor the fact Garrett is under contract to the Kansas City football club," Campanis was quoted in Los Angeles by a Dodger spokesman, "and make no attempt to sign him until his contract has been concluded. He is a good baseball prospect with power and still young enough to start in a new sport which he obviously wishes to do."

In Kansas City, Jack Steadman, executive Vice President and General Manager of the Chiefs said, "We will have no comment on the Garrett situation at this time."

In his college days at USC, Garrett hit .390 in 38 games in 1965, slammed six homers and drove in 20 runs.

The baseball executives completed their two-day draft meetings with a total of 1,038 selections as compared to 1,147 a year ago and a record 1,169 in 1967. The draft gives the club the exclusive negotiating right to the player for a stated period. If he does not sign, he goes back into the pool for future re-draft. Players who had been drafted previously but did not sign are covered in a secondary phase.

BALTIMORE BUSY

Baltimore led with 67 draft picks, 57 in the regular phase and 10 in the secondary. Pittsburgh had the most, 60, in the regular phase.

David Kingman, a pitcher-outfielder, from Southern California, was the first selection in the secondary phase. He was taken by the San Francisco Giants who rate him "way above average," according to farm director, Jack Schwarz. Kingman, 6-6 and 210, suffered a broken arm this spring and switched to the outfield with success.

The Oakland Athletics' first choice was a catcher, Bernard Boehmer of Flint Hill, Mo., and Meremack Commercial College in St. Louis.

Among the familiar names to pop up in the later stages of the draft were the sons of Calvin McLish, Montreal pitching coach, Roy Smalley, former major league infielder, Bud Metheny, former New York Yankee outfielder and the brother of Bob Heise, San Francisco infielder.

The Strange Format Of World Cup Soccer

MEXICO CITY — To begin with, the "World Cup" is no cup. It's a statue of a golden lady, and some think she is no lady or at least a lady of easy virtue. At best, she's a coquette. She leads you on.

The 16 world's best teams are by no means the ones she winks at. She is as indiscriminate as Lady Chatterley. Even the gamekeepers, so to speak, get her favors.

First of all, the host team gets in on a pass. The sense of this condition may be seen from the fact that 108,000 people jammed Azteca to see Mexico and Russia play a very poor game, while slightly more than half of the 70,000 capacity came to Guadalajara to see England and Romania play a very good one. The travel agencies, compelled by the organizing committee to pay a 20 per cent surcharge for tickets, some in venues where the native population is more interested in selling than in waving them, are stuck with enough tickets to make confetti for the next 10 years of weddings.

Next, there is the universally - conceded point that there are nearly half - a - dozen teams in this thing because of geographical advantage, not athletic. El Salvador, Israel and Morocco, in particular, are cluttering up the draw. Morocco had to beat such powerhouses as Sudan, Senegal and Nigeria. They eliminated Tunisia on the toss of a coin after the teams had played three tie games, two of them scoreless.

Mighty Teams Left On The Shore

Meanwhile, such might "sides" as Portugal, Spain, Yugoslavia and Hungary are left waving on the shore — to say nothing of Scotland, Northern Ireland and East Germany.

For an American analogy, you would have to imagine USC forced into a playoff with Notre Dame, Ohio State, the University of Texas, and Penn State, while Cal Tech could get in by playing off Pomona, MIT, Hastings (Nebraska(, and Immaculate Heart.

The real competition in the World Cup is between

Great Relief For A's

OAKLAND (AP) — Last year the Oakland A's had problems in their bullpen that probably cost them the American League pennant.

This year, relief pitching has kept the A's in the pennant race.

Diego Segui and Marcel Lachemann blanked the Detroit Tigers in the final 4 2-3 innings Friday night for a 4-2 victory.

Segui was credited with the his first save of the season by pitching three scoreless innings.

"That gives us two short relief men we can count on," manager Johm McNamara said.

His other short man is Mudcat Grant who has saved six games this season and won another.

POOR PERFORMANCE

McNamara could not explain the poor performance of starting pitcher John Odom against the Tigers. Odom walked five batters and gave up five hits before Segui replaced him in the fifth inning.

"There was nothing wrong with his arm," McNamara said of Odom. The A's pitcher went to Los Angeles earlier this week for an examination of his sore right elbow by Dr. Robert Kerlan, an expert on athletic injury. Odom had a shot of cortisone after the examination.

"Odom had trouble throwing strikes" McNamara said of his performance against Detroit.

Oakland scored four unearned runs in the sixth inning after an error by Detroit pitcher Earl Wilson.

LEE LEAVES RED SOX; SIX MONTHS IN ARMY

Bill Lee, former Terra Linda High School pitching star, left the Boston Red Sox yesterday for a six month tour of Army duty at Fort Polk, La.

The 23 year old southpaw, in his first full season in the majors, had appeared in 11 games, posting an earned run average of 4.62 while winning two and losing two. He allowed 48 hits, struck out 19 and walked 14.

The Red Sox are expected to recall right-handed pitcher Gary Wagner from Louisville of the International League to take Lee's place.

Giants Bugged? It's Just A Big Laugh

CHICAGO (AP)—Charlie Fox, manager of the San Francisco Giants, and Leo Durocher, manager of the Chicago Cubs, both laughed off the possibility that the visiting clubhouse in Wrigley Field might be "bugged."

A story had circulated that Fox held his pre-series meeting with his pitchers at the hotel rather than the clubhouse because Durocher usually would find out how opposing pitchers would work against Cub hitters.

Fox' information supposedly came from Bill Faul, a former Cub who was farmed out by the Giants two days ago. Faul, among other things, has the reputation of being a hypnotist and karate expert.

Following Friday's 12-8 loss to the Cubs, Fox was confronted with his pitchers at the hotel rather than the clubhouse because Durocher usually would find out how opposing pitchers would work against Cub hitters.

Durocher was beside himself when informed that Fox held the meeting in a hotel room rather than the ball park because of a possible information leak.

"You must be kidding, he must be kidding," said Durocher. "Maybe Faul's hypnosis is really working. Look, the plate is only so mide and a pitcher must get the ball over.

"Tell Charlie Fox he can come in and sit on all our meetings," said Leo. "He's not going to learn anything he doesn't know.

"If Willie McCovey doesn't know how we're going to pitch than he must be asleep. And if we don't know how they are going to pitch us, than we must be asleep. It's all ridiculous."

As an afterthought, Durocher said "I don't know what Fox told his pitchers in the hoter meeting but I just hope they keep it up. We got 16 hits out there today.

"After all, what good is it going to do me or Fox to know who's going to do what. All we do is sit on the bench. The guys on the field are performing and when they're not right, all the information in the world isn't going to help."

Marin Crew Wins Four-Oared Race

Marin Rowing Association's four-oared crew composed of Redwood High School students convincingly defeated a crew from Richmond's Salesian High yesterday at Berkeley Aquatic Park.

The Marin shell won the 1,000-meter duel by four boat lengths, approximately 175 feet.

Members of the Marin crew were bow John Vallee, No. 2 Woody Buckner, No. 3 Mike Sullivan and stroke Steve Barbour. Eric Gray of Kentfield Elementary School was the coxswain.

3:56.3 Mile In Oregon; Dallas Trades Lineman

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Roscoe Divine, a senior at the University of Oregon, posted the nation's best recorded time of 3:56.3 in the mile this year as he led four other runners under the four-minute mark in Friday's annual Twilight Meet.

Steve Prefontaine, Oregon freshman, was second in 3:57.4, followed by Dave Wilborn of the Oregon Track Club with 3:58.2. Norm Trerise, Vancouver, B.C., was fourth with 3:59.1, and fifth was Steve Savage of Oregon with 3:59.2.

Football

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals moved Friday to fortify their offensive line by acquiring starting guard John Wilbur from the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League in exchange for a high draft choice.

Wilbur, 6-3 and 240, joined the Cowboys as a free agent in 1966 and was a regular the past two seasons. The 27-year-old California native was a college standout at Stanford.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rich Saul, Michigan State linebacker who was an eighth round draft choice of the Los Angeles Rams has agreed to contract terms, the Rams announced.

Saul is 6-foot-3, 235 pounds. The 22-year-old lineman has two brothers in the league. Ron Saul was drafted by Houston and Bill Saul is with New Orleans.

Auto Racing

KAUKAUNA, Wis. (AP) — Roger McCluskey of Tucson led for a total of 180 laps Friday night to win a 200-lap, 100-mile, mishap-muddled U.S. Auto Club feature at the K-K Sports Arena.

His 1970 Plymouth was one of the eight cars involved in a first-lap accident which eliminated two of the 26 starting cars and forced a race re-start. There were no injuries.

Golf

BALTIMORE — Carol Mann took the first round lead in the $22,500 Lady Carling Open with a five-under-par 68.

NEWCASTLE, Northern Ireland — Billy Hyndman of Philadelphia reached the final of the British amateur for the second straight year by defeating Ireland's Brian Hoey 2 up.

Track And Field

BILLINGS, Mont. — Jerry Proctor broke a 10-year-old meet mark with a long jump of 25 feet, 7½ inches in the NAIA championships.

Tennis

PARIS — Julie Heldman of New York, the last American, lost to Margaret Smith Court, Australia, in the women's semifinals of the French Open 6-0, 6-2.

NEW YORK — Ken Rosewall beat Roy Emerson 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5 and qualified to meet Rod Laver in the July 16 final of the $200,000 Tennis Champions Classic.

MANCHESTER, England — Bob Lutz of Los Angeles and Tom Gorman of Seattle reached the final of the North of England championships by defeating Fred McMillan, South Africa, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, and Bob Maud, South Africa, 6-3, 7-5, respectively.

Hockey

ST. LOUIS — Defenseman Al Arbour was named head coach of the NHL St. Louis Blues to succeed Scotty Bowman who becomes general manager.

Horse Racing

ALBANY, Calif. — Edies All, $9.20, led all the way in winning the feature at Golden Gate Fields.

NEW YORK — Personality, the pre-race favorite, was scratched from the Belmont Stakes because of a cough and slight nasal discharge.

Europe and South America. No one else has ever won it, although, in 1966, a team came out of North Korea to knock Italy out of the Cup and to build up a 3-0 lead over Cup favorite Portugal before losing.

Uruguay held the first World Cup competition in 1930 and won it over a paltry company of 13 nations. Uruguay, like a host who had sent out thousands of invitations and only his brother - in - law and three guys who owe him money show up, angrily refused itself to go to the Cup for the next 20 years. They were particularly bitter at England, the fount of soccer, which had scorned their games. Italy won in 1934 at Rome and in 1938 at Paris, but there were still only a baker's dozen of nations taking part.

True Status As Summit Of Soccer

In 1950, the World Cup reached true status as the summit of soccer. Today, over 70 nations try for it. Two of them started shooting at each other.

To an American journalist (I counted only three of us here out of 2,000), it is a bewildering miasma of waiting in corridors by the hour for accreditation while a pretty girl (and "educacione I believe") comes out periodically to smile and say "momentito."

They haze us because this is their world, and they scold you for "putting in your request late" (i.e., anytime after June of 1965). You arrive at a venue to be told, as I was, that I could wait underneath the stands, and listen to the crowd noise but that a seat in the "press tribunal" was out of the question. You are made to feel as welcome as an ant at a picnic.

This is curious because no less a spokesman for the game than Bobby Moore, "The King of Diamonds" himself, has publicly delored the lack of genuine U. S. interest in his game. Bobby, captain of the victorious side in '66 as well as of the present one, has written, "once again . . . America will not be represented. To me, this is one of the strangest, saddest facts of the world sports scene. America leads the world in so many sports . . . yet Americas are surely going to feel rather left out of it this summer when the World Cup is played right on their doorstep and they experience at close range the tremendous interest and prestige it involves. It will be surprising to me if a good many Americans do not start asking, 'Why can't we have a part of all this?' "

It is not only that the resources and facilities of the U. S. are not thrown behind international football but the presence of an American team can give the World Cup what every attraction from the Orioles vs. the Mets or Bobo Brazil vs. the Masked Hangman must have — a villain. There are those who think the hooting of the English team here comes about because, as our progenitors as it were, they are a surrogate for us hated gringoes.

er he was hit on the leg by a line drive by Felipe Alou. Wilson recovered the ball in time to throw to first but was off target.

A single by Joe Rudi, a walk, and singles by Don Mincher and Frank Fernandez gotthe runs home.

Wilson had given up only one hit until the sixth inning. It was his first defeat in Oakland Coliseum where he had a 2-0 record in two previous seasons.

Despite the loss, the Tigers reached some milestones in hitting. Al Kaline collected the 2,500th-hit of his major league career when he singled in the fifth inning.

"I knew I would get it eventually," Kaline said.

"It's too bad we didn't win the game."

Bill Veeck May Testify For Flood

NEW YORK (AP) — The Curt Flood case has reached the seventh-inning stretch with possibly four more witnesses, including controversial former club owner Bill Veeck, scheduled to take the witness stand next week.

Veeck, a onetime owner of the Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, is on the lineup card being carried about by Flood's attorneys, but at the moment there is still some question about whether he will be sent up to hit.

If Veeck were to testify, he likely would do so Wednesday, closing out the case in which Flood has brought a $3 million antitrust challenging the legality of baseball's reserve system.

According to the timetable established by the attorneys, baseball will call its last defense witness, an economist, when the case resumes Monday and then Flood's lawyers will call Marvin Miller, executive direcor of the Players' Association, and Dick Moss, its attorney, as rebuttal witnesses.

LABOR MAN

The defendant club owners called John Gaherin, their labor relations' negotiator, as their 10th witness Friday. He testified that the owners had negotiated in good faith in an attempt to reach agreement with the Players' Association on modifying the reserve system.

Gaherin pointed out that the owners had recognized their obligation to bargain collectively on the issue during 1967 and had done so in several meetings with the Players' Association before institution of Flood's suit halted proceedings.

Gaherin said the Players' Association had first made specific recommendations in August last year and said the owners "were shocked by the extent of the proposals" because of the "obvious harm they would do to baseball."

FREE AGENT

He said those proposals included a provision for a baseball player to gain free agent status after three years service; a reduction in the number of players a team could control; a salary arbitration procedure, and a provision that no trade could be made without a player's consent.

Under cross-examination, Gaherin said the owners had not made any specific proposals to change the option renewal clause that binds a player to the club that signs him or any of the other matters on which the Players' Association made formal proposals.

Marin DiMag League Opens

The Marin County Joe DiMaggio baseball league, for boys 16, 17 and 18 years of age who have at least one year of high school eligibility remaining opens its fourth season tomorrow.

The league is divided into two divisions, with Healdsburg, Terra Linda, Novato and San Rafael from the North, and Toby's Truckers (Marin Catholic), the Italian Club (Redwood), Drake, Mill Valley and the Presidio of San Francisco representing the South.

The season schedule is in the form of a double round robin, with each team playing a total of 16 games. Division winners will play in a regional tournament next month at Albert Park in San Rafael.

Tomorrow at 1 p.m. Terra Linda meets San Rafael at San Rafael High School, and Healdsburg plays at the Presidio. Novato goes against the Italian Club in a 5 p.m. game at Novato High.

Monday at 5 p.m. Toby's Truckers play Mill Valley at Tamalpais High.

NICKLAUS OUSTED

Unhappy Leader In Kemper Open

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Lou Graham took the lead and said he wasn't satisfied. John Schroeder said he couldn't believe he'd failed to sign his scorecard. Jack Nicklaus said so long.

"I'm always satisfied with a 68, you've got to be," Graham drawled after taking the second round lead with a 135 in the $150,000 Kemper Open Golf Tournament Friday.

"But I'm not at all satisfied with the way I hit the ball."

"I just can't believe it," the dismayed young Schroeder said, his mouth a tight line and his head down, "I just know I signed the card."

But he didn't, and a 69 for 138 and spot among the leaders was wiped out on the disqualification for the promising youngster who gained national attention when he outscored partners Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus in their showdown for the Byron Nelson Classic five weeks ago.

And the powerful Nicklaus, the pre-tourney favorite who hadn't finished out of the top 20 this season, had putting woes, took a 74 and failed to make the cut for the final two rounds at 147. It was the first he's missed the cut in almost 18 months.

Graham, a 32-year-old Nashville, Tenn., native, whose only victory in 5½ years on the tour came in the 1967 Minnesota Classic, finished early and said he didn't think his nine-under-par round would stand up.

"They'll shoot some great rounds out here," the pleasant, soft-spoken Graham said.

They did. But the 135 remained at the top of the heap, one stroke in front of 46-year-old former Masters champion Art Wall, who took his second consecutive 68.

Lionel Hebert, the 42-year-old amateur trumpet player who won the 1957 PGA National championship, slipped from an opening 66 to a 71 but remained in contention in third place at 137.

Arnold Palmer delighted his huge gallery with another 69 for 138, just three strokes away. But the game's all-time leading money winner obviously was far from pleased himself.

"I'm going to have to do better to get any place here," he said. He was tied with Larry Hinson, who matched the course record at 65, Monsanto winner Dick Lotz, with a 66, and Grier Jones, 69.

Graham, who didn't have a bogey and missed only one green, said he "played only fair—not nearly as good as the day before.

"I didn't drive as well, I didn't hit my irons as well and I didn't putt as well."

He was particularly critical of his iron play. But it was good enough.

He chipped back to three feet on the only green he missed, ran in one 30-foot putt and put three wedge shots within four feet for his birdies.

Los Altos Prep Sets State Mark

BERKELEY (AP)—Los Altos, led by weightman Chris Adams, was the team to beat today in the California High School Track and field championships at Edwards Stadium.

Adams bettered the meet discus record in qualifying Friday with a throw of 190 feet, 4 inches. He also has a shot put mark of 62-2¼, qualifying for that event too.

Santa Ana, Castlemont of Oakland and El Cerrito were expected to furnish most of the competition for Los Altos.

Adams has a pending national high school discus record of 201 feet. His teammate, Rick Brown, qualified in three events, the 440, 880 and mile relay.

Adams' discus throw bettered the meet record of 189-1, set by Jim Peters of Piedmont in 1966.

Santa Ana's 440 relay team, anchored by Jackie White, tied the meet record of 41.1 set last year by Stockton Edison.

White tied several runners with 9.7 in the 100 and won his heat in the 220 with a time of 21.6.

Los Altos qualified five individuals and its mile relay team.

Ex-Kansas Stater Will Coach Suns

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Saying he was there to win, Lowell Fitzsimmons Friday accepted the job as coach of the Phoenix Suns of the National Basketball Association.

Fitzsimmons succeeds General Manager and interim coach Jerry Colangelo who assumed the job after regular coach Johnny Kerr quit at mid-season this year.

During two years as head coach at Kansas State University, Fitzsimmons' teams compiled a 34-20 record and the league title last season.

Sports Car Rally Scheduled Tonight

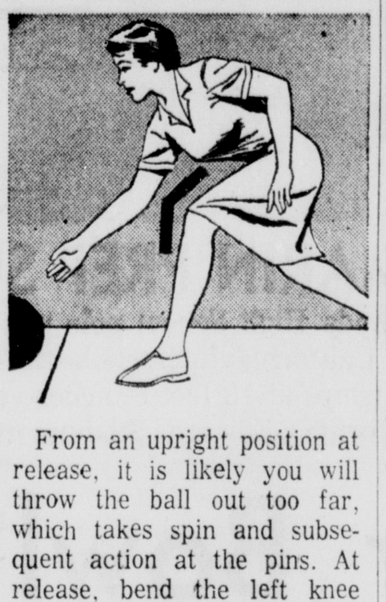
A sports car rally starting from Sears Point raceway will be held tonight by the Marin G.T. Sports Car Club.

The field for the event, which is being sponsored in conjunction with the Northern California Sports Car Counsel, will include the first 100 cars to register outside the Southern Sonoma County track beginning at 6 o'clock.

Each car will receive rally instructions and a starting time upon payment of a $3.50 entry fee. Any car can be entered.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



From an upright position at release, it is likely you will throw the ball out too far, which takes spin and subsequent action at the pins. At release, bend the left knee (see illustration). This smooths the delivery and places the bowler in good position to pitch the ball out only six inches or so past the foul line.

Brothers Grab Bowling Honors

Brothers Rich and Mike McPherson had a fine week of bowling, rolling series of 649 and 608 respectively in the Greenbrae Adult-Junior League.

Top scores of the week:

SAN DIEGO — Rogelio Fernandez, 135, Durango, Mexico, outpointed Eddie Mazon, 137, San Diego, 10.

Novato Run Scheduled Next Week

More than 250 runners will be jogging through the streets of Novato Saturday, June 13, in the ninth annual Novato Ridge Run, part of the Western Weekend celebration.

The run, covering 6.87 miles, starts at 9 a.m. from the firehouse on Grant Avenue and 101 Highway. It is sponsored by the Marin Athletic Club and sanctioned by the Pacific Association of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Daryl Beardal of the Marin A.C. will be trying for his third straight victory in the race. He set the record of 38 minutes and 4.2 seconds in winning in 1968 and won again last year.

The route will go from the firehouse, west out Grant Avenue to Novato Boulevard, then to McClay Road to Center, then south down Center to Tamalpais Road to Hill, then right on Canyon Road to Ridge and Half Moon Road to the water tower, and then back.

Trophies will go to the first, second and third place winners, and medals and ribbons to the next 72. There will also be a team trophy, won last year by the Marin A.C., and special awards to first high school runner and oldest runner.

Entry blanks can be obtained at Marin Auto Parts in San Rafael or from J.E. Neuhaus by mail, at 155 Kent Avenue, Kentfield.

Mrs. Risdon Winner In Golf Tournament

Mrs. William G. Risdon won a match vs. par golf tourney at Mill Valley yesterday with a plus 6. In second place was Mrs. R. S. MacDonald with a plus 5, and tying for third with plus 4 were Mrs. Robert Ritter and Mrs. William Wheeler.

3:56.3 Mile In Oregon; Dallas Trades Lineman

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Roscoe Divine, a senior at the University of Oregon, posted the nation's best recorded time of 3:56.3 in the mile this year as he led four other runners under the four-minute mark in Friday's annual Twilight Meet.

Steve Prefontaine, Oregon freshman, was second in 3:57.4, followed by Dave Wilborn of the Oregon Track Club with 3:58.2. Norm Trerise, Vancouver, B.C., was fourth with 3:59.1, and fifth was Steve Savage of Oregon with 3:59.2.

Football

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals moved Friday to fortify their offensive line by acquiring starting guard John Wilbur from the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League in exchange for a high draft choice.

Wilbur, 6-3 and 240, joined the Cowboys as a free agent in 1966 and was a regular the past two seasons. The 27-year-old California native was a college standout at Stanford.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rich Saul, Michigan State linebacker who was an eighth round draft choice of the Los Angeles Rams has agreed to contract terms, the Rams announced.

Saul is 6-foot-3, 235 pounds. The 22-year-old lineman has two brothers in the league. Ron Saul was drafted by Houston and Bill Saul is with New Orleans.

Auto Racing

KAUKAUNA, Wis. (AP) — Roger McCluskey of Tucson led for a total of 180 laps Friday night to win a 200-lap, 100-mile, mishap-muddled U.S. Auto Club feature at the K-K Sports Arena.

His 1970 Plymouth was one of the eight cars involved in a first-lap accident which eliminated two of the 26 starting cars and forced a race re-start. There were no injuries.

ODESSA, Mo. (AP) — Gary Bettenhausen of Kinley Park, Ill., the defending champion of the U.S. Auto Club sprint car circuit, won the 40-lap feature race at the I-70 Speedway Friday night.

Golf

BALTIMORE — Carol Mann took the first round lead in the $22,500 Lady Carling Open with a five-under-par 68.

NEWCASTLE, Northern Ireland — Billy Hyndman of Philadelphia reached the final of the British amateur for the second straight year by defeating Ireland's Brian Hoey 2 up.

Track And Field

BILLINGS, Mont. — Jerry Proctor broke a 10-year-old meet mark with a long jump of 25 feet, 7½ inches in the NAIA championships.

Tennis

PARIS — Julie Heldman of New York, the last American, lost to Margaret Smith Court, Australia, in the women's semifinals of the French Open 6-0, 6-2.

NEW YORK — Ken Rosewall beat Roy Emerson 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5 and qualified to meet Rod Laver in the July 16 final of the $200,000 Tennis Champions Classic.

MANCHESTER, England — Bob Lutz of Los Angeles and Tom Gorman of Seattle reached the final of the North of England championships by defeating Fred McMillan, South Africa, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, and Bob Maud, South Africa, 6-3, 7-5, respectively.

Hockey

ST. LOUIS — Defenseman Al Arbour was named head coach of the NHL St. Louis Blues to succeed Scotty Bowman who becomes general manager.

Horse Racing

ALBANY, Calif. — Edies All, $9.20, led all the way in winning the feature at Golden Gate Fields.

NEW YORK — Personality, the pre-race favorite, was scratched from the Belmont Stakes because of a cough and slight nasal discharge.

Europe and South America. No one else has ever won it, although, in 1966, a team came out of North Korea to knock Italy out of the Cup and to build up a 3-0 lead over Cup favorite Portugal before losing.

Uruguay held the first World Cup competition in 1930 and won it over a paltry company of 13 nations. Uruguay, like a host who had sent out thousands of invitations and only his brother - in - law and three guys who owe him money show up, angrily refused itself to go to the Cup for the next 20 years. They were particularly bitter at England, the fount of soccer, which had scorned their games. Italy won in 1934 at Rome and in 1938 at Paris, but there were still only a baker's dozen of nations taking part.

True Status As Summit Of Soccer

In 1950, the World Cup reached true status as the summit of soccer. Today, over 70 nations try for it. Two of them started shooting at each other.

To an American journalist (I counted only three of us here out of 2,000), it is a bewildering miasma of waiting in corridors by the hour for accreditation while a pretty girl (and "educacione I believe") comes out periodically to smile and say "momentito."

They haze us because this is their world, and they scold you for "putting in your request late" (i.e., anytime after June of 1965). You arrive at a venue to be told, as I was, that I could wait underneath the stands, and listen to the crowd noise but that a seat in the "press tribunal" was out of the question. You are made to feel as welcome as an ant at a picnic.

This is curious because no less a spokesman for the game than Bobby Moore, "The King of Diamonds" himself, has publicly delored the lack of genuine U. S. interest in his game. Bobby, captain of the victorious side in '66 as well as of the present one, has written, "once again . . . America will not be represented. To me, this is one of the strangest, saddest facts of the world sports scene. America leads the world in so many sports . . . yet Americas are surely going to feel rather left out of it this summer when the World Cup is played right on their doorstep and they experience at close range the tremendous interest and prestige it involves. It will be surprising to me if a good many Americans do not start asking, 'Why can't we have a part of all this?' "

It is not only that the resources and facilities of the U. S. are not thrown behind international football but the presence of an American team can give the World Cup what every attraction from the Orioles vs. the Mets or Bobo Brazil vs. the Masked Hangman must have — a villain. There are those who think the hooting of the English team here comes about because, as our progenitors as it were, they are a surrogate for us hated gringoes.

er he was hit on the leg by a line drive by Felipe Alou. Wilson recovered the ball in time to throw to first but was off target.

A single by Joe Rudi, a walk, and singles by Don Mincher and Frank Fernandez gotthe runs home.

Wilson had given up only one hit until the sixth inning. It was his first defeat in Oakland Coliseum where he had a 2-0 record in two previous seasons.

Despite the loss, the Tigers reached some milestones in hitting. Al Kaline collected the 2,500th-hit of his major league career when he singled in the fifth inning.

"I knew I would get it eventually," Kaline said.

"It's too bad we didn't win the game."

Bill Veeck May Testify For Flood

NEW YORK (AP) — The Curt Flood case has reached the seventh-inning stretch with possibly four more witnesses, including controversial former club owner Bill Veeck, scheduled to take the witness stand next week.

Veeck, a onetime owner of the Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, is on the lineup card being carried about by Flood's attorneys, but at the moment there is still some question about whether he will be sent up to hit.

If Veeck were to testify, he likely would do so Wednesday, closing out the case in which Flood has brought a $3 million antitrust challenging the legality of baseball's reserve system.

According to the timetable established by the attorneys, baseball will call its last defense witness, an economist, when the case resumes Monday and then Flood's lawyers will call Marvin Miller, executive direcor of the Players' Association, and Dick Moss, its attorney, as rebuttal witnesses.

LABOR MAN

The defendant club owners called John Gaherin, their labor relations' negotiator, as their 10th witness Friday. He testified that the owners had negotiated in good faith in an attempt to reach agreement with the Players' Association on modifying the reserve system.

Gaherin pointed out that the owners had recognized their obligation to bargain collectively on the issue during 1967 and had done so in several meetings with the Players' Association before institution of Flood's suit halted proceedings.

Gaherin said the Players' Association had first made specific recommendations in August last year and said the owners "were shocked by the extent of the proposals" because of the "obvious harm they would do to baseball."

FREE AGENT

He said those proposals included a provision for a baseball player to gain free agent status after three years service; a reduction in the number of players a team could control; a salary arbitration procedure, and a provision that no trade could be made without a player's consent.

Under cross-examination, Gaherin said the owners had not made any specific proposals to change the option renewal clause that binds a player to the club that signs him or any of the other matters on which the Players' Association made formal proposals.

NICKLAUS OUSTED

Unhappy Leader In Kemper Open

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Lou Graham took the lead and said he wasn't satisfied. John Schroeder said he couldn't believe he'd failed to sign his scorecard. Jack Nicklaus said so long.

"I'm always satisfied with a 68, you've got to be," Graham drawled after taking the second round lead with a 135 in the $150,000 Kemper Open Golf Tournament Friday.

"But I'm not at all satisfied with the way I hit the ball."

"I just can't believe it," the dismayed young Schroeder said, his mouth a tight line and his head down, "I just know I signed the card."

But he didn't, and a 69 for 138 and spot among the leaders was wiped out on the disqualification for the promising youngster who gained national attention when he outscored partners Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus in their showdown for the Byron Nelson Classic five weeks ago.

And the powerful Nicklaus, the pre-tourney favorite who hadn't finished out of the top 20 this season, had putting woes, took a 74 and failed to make the cut for the final two rounds at 147. It was the first he's missed the cut in almost 18 months.

Graham, a 32-year-old Nashville, Tenn., native, whose only victory in 5½ years on the tour came in the 1967 Minnesota Classic, finished early and said he didn't think his nine-under-par round would stand up.

"They'll shoot some great rounds out here," the pleasant, soft-spoken Graham said.

They did. But the 135 remained at the top of the heap, one stroke in front of 46-year-old former Masters champion Art Wall, who took his second consecutive 68.

Lionel Hebert, the 42-year-old amateur trumpet player who won the 1957 PGA National championship, slipped from an opening 66 to a 71 but remained in contention in third place at 137.

Arnold Palmer delighted his huge gallery with another 69 for 138, just three strokes away. But the game's all-time leading money winner obviously was far from pleased himself.

"I'm going to have to do better to get any place here," he said. He was tied with Larry Hinson, who matched the course record at 65, Monsanto winner Dick Lotz, with a 66, and Grier Jones, 69.

Graham, who didn't have a bogey and missed only one green, said he "played only fair—not nearly as good as the day before.

"I didn't drive as well, I didn't hit my irons as well and I didn't putt as well."

He was particularly critical of his iron play. But it was good enough.

He chipped back to three feet on the only green he missed, ran in one 30-foot putt and put three wedge shots within four feet for his birdies.

Los Altos Prep Sets State Mark

BERKELEY (AP)—Los Altos, led by weightman Chris Adams, was the team to beat today in the California High School Track and field championships at Edwards Stadium.

Adams bettered the meet discus record in qualifying Friday with a throw of 190 feet, 4 inches. He also has a shot put mark of 62-2¼, qualifying for that event too.

Santa Ana, Castlemont of Oakland and El Cerrito were expected to furnish most of the competition for Los Altos.

Adams has a pending national high school discus record of 201 feet. His teammate, Rick Brown, qualified in three events, the 440, 880 and mile relay.

Adams' discus throw bettered the meet record of 189-1, set by Jim Peters of Piedmont in 1966.

Santa Ana's 440 relay team, anchored by Jackie White, tied the meet record of 41.1 set last year by Stockton Edison.

White tied several runners with 9.7 in the 100 and won his heat in the 220 with a time of 21.6.

Los Altos qualified five individuals and its mile relay team.

Marin DiMag League Opens

The Marin County Joe DiMaggio baseball league, for boys 16, 17 and 18 years of age who have at least one year of high school eligibility remaining opens its fourth season tomorrow.

The league is divided into two divisions, with Healdsburg, Terra Linda, Novato and San Rafael from the North, and Toby's Truckers (Marin Catholic), the Italian Club (Redwood), Drake, Mill Valley and the Presidio of San Francisco representing the South.

The season schedule is in the form of a double round robin, with each team playing a total of 16 games. Division winners will play in a regional tournament next month at Albert Park in San Rafael.

Tomorrow at 1 p.m. Terra Linda meets San Rafael at San Rafael High School, and Healdsburg plays at the Presidio. Novato goes against the Italian Club in a 5 p.m. game at Novato High.

Monday at 5 p.m. Toby's Truckers play Mill Valley at Tamalpais High.

Ex-Kansas Stater Will Coach Suns

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Saying he was there to win, Lowell Fitzsimmons Friday accepted the job as coach of the Phoenix Suns of the National Basketball Association.

Fitzsimmons succeeds General Manager and interim coach Jerry Colangelo who assumed the job after regular coach Johnny Kerr quit at mid-season this year.

During two years as head coach at Kansas State University, Fitzsimmons' teams compiled a 34-20 record and the league title last season.

Sports Car Rally Scheduled Tonight

A sports car rally starting from Sears Point raceway will be held tonight by the Marin G.T. Sports Car Club.

The field for the event, which is being sponsored in conjunction with the Northern California Sports Car Counsel, will include the first 100 cars to register outside the Southern Sonoma County track beginning at 6 o'clock.

Each car will receive rally instructions and a starting time upon payment of a $3.50 entry fee. Any car can be entered.

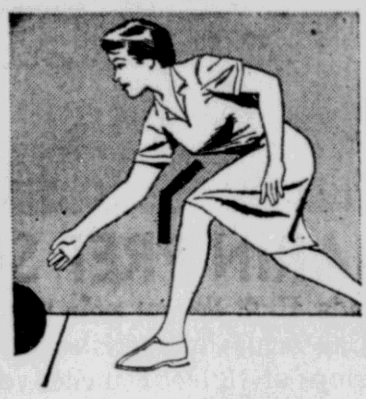
BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



From an upright position at release, it is likely you will throw the ball out too far, which takes spin and subsequent action at the pins. At release, bend the left knee (see illustration). This smooths the delivery and places the bowler in good position to pitch the ball out only six inches or so past the foul line.

Brothers Grab Bowling Honors

Brothers Rich and Mike McPherson had a fine week of bowling, rolling series of 649 and 608 respectively in the Greenbrae Adult-Junior League.

Novato Run Scheduled Next Week

More than 250 runners will be jogging through the streets of Novato Saturday, June 13, in the ninth annual Novato Ridge Run, part of the Western Weekend celebration.

The run, covering 6.87 miles, starts at 9 a.m. from the firehouse on Grant Avenue and 101 Highway. It is sponsored by the Marin Athletic Club and sanctioned by the Pacific Association of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Daryl Beardal of the Marin A.C. will be trying for his third straight victory in the race. He set the record of 38 minutes and 4.2 seconds in winning in 1968 and won again last year.

The route will go from the firehouse, west out Grant Avenue to Novato Boulevard, then to McClay Road to Center, then south down Center to Tamalpais Road to Hill, then right on Canyon Road to Ridge and Half Moon Road to the water tower, and then back.

Trophies will go to the first, second and third place winners, and medals and ribbons to the next 72. There will also be a team trophy, won last year by the Marin A.C., and special awards to first high school runner and oldest runner.

Entry blanks can be obtained at Marin Auto Parts in San Rafael or from J.E. Neuhaus by mail, at 155 Kent Avenue, Kentfield.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

An Elementary Rule For Good Player-Count Tricks

It isn't enough to be a good player; you must also play well. Even a great expert must count his tricks, just like anybody else. If he doesn't, he winds up looking foolish, as in today's hand, played in the 1966 world championships.

AUTOMATIC PLAY

West led the ten of spades, and declarer, one of the stars of the Venezuelan team. won with the ace of spades and made an automatic play of a low trump. Dummy's jack lost to the ace, and back came a spade to dummy's king.

Now there was no side entry to the clubs, and South had to fall back on some sort of crossruff. He took the ace of clubs and ruffed a club, ruffed a diamond in dummy, got back by ruffing a spade, and ruffed another diamond in dummy.

He wound up making four trumps in his own hand, two ruffs in the dummy, two top spades and a top club. The total was nine tricks, just as he should have foreseen.

REASONABLE CHANCE

South had a reasonable chance for ten tricks, depending only on finding the ace of hearts in the East hand. But he couldn't afford to lead a trump.

At the second trick South should ruff a diamond in dummy, cash the ace of clubs, ruff a club in his hand, and then ruff another diamond in dummy. He cashes the king of spades, ruffs a spade and ruffs a third diamond in dummy.

CLUB FROM DUMMY

Now declarer leads another club from dummy. This would work out well if East had only two clubs. When East follows suit, South must ruff with the queen of hearts.

By this time South has accumulated nine tricks. He gets out with a diamond and waits to make a tenth trick with his guarded king of hearts.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your left, opens with one club, and your partner doubles.

The next player passes.

You hold:
♠- Q 10 9 6 4
♥- 10 6
♦ A Q 9 4
♣- 10 6.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

This jump response is not forcing but merely promises about nine or 10 points and a suit of some merit. If partner has minimum values for his takeout double he may pass, and you will not miss a game.

Joint Rec, Council Meeting For Tiburon

The Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission did not meet Thursday night, but adjourned the meeting to a joint commission and city council meeting at 8 p.m. next Thursday.

Asst. City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert said the purpose of the joint meeting will be to formulate a better means of communication between the council and the commission and to discuss projects and goals of the commission.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, June 6, the 157th day of 1970 with 208 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn.

The vening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1816 ten inches of snow fell in New England, starting what was to be known as "The year in which there was no summer."

In 1933 a motion picture drive-in theater, first of its kind, opened in Camden, N.J.

In 1944 the greatest invasion in history began. General Dwight D. Eisenhower sent thousands of ships, planes and entire divisions of Allied troops across the English Channel into France. It was "D-Day."

In 1968 Sen. Robert Kennedy died of an assassin's bullet at age 42. President Lyndon Johnson declared June 9 a day of national mourning.

A thought for the day: General D. Eisenhower said, "In the final choice a soldier's pack is not so heavy a burden as a prisoner's chains."

Pair Of Petaluma Annexations Approved

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Local Agency Formation Commission has approved two annexations to the City of Petaluma.

A 40-acre section at South McDowell Boulevard, Casa Grande Road and Lakeville Highway was approved as well as 28 acres on North McDowell Boulevard adjacent to the Candlewood mobile home park. Both new areas are uninhabited and had received approval from the Petaluma City Council.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

An Elementary Rule For Good Player–Count Tricks

It isn't enough to be a good player; you must also play well. Even a great expert must count his tricks, just like anybody else. If he doesn't, he winds up looking foolish, as in today's hand, played in the 1966 world championships.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

Wall Street Antics Dominate The News

By ROBERT J. REGAN
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market held stage center again this week, although the performance was a bit wobbly compared with the socko finish the week before.

There wasn't much else in the business and financial news to put a center spotlight on, and there didn't seem to be too much waiting in the wings either, beyond the June 30 deadline on the troop pull-out from Cambodia. The stream of poor first quarter earnings reports was down to a trickle and the bulk of the second quarter report cards aren't due for more than a month yet.

By Friday, stocks had about 75 to 80 per cent of the gains made when the market suddenly reversed field during the middle of the final week of May. There was, however, faltering during the final sessions although the White House continued its current program of friendly persuasion on as many fronts as possible.

The debate on wage and price controls continued in fits and starts and it began to look as if the White House is leaning to another attempt at restraining inflationary wage increases and price boosts by asking labor and management to restrain themselves.

This means guidelines again, or a system lacking teeth but dependent upon the power of the jawbone as wielded by top-level government officials. This time around, however, the jawbone may be brandished by a special blue ribbon "citizen's panel" charged with putting the publicity spotlight on wage or price actions deemed inflationary.

Best guess in financial circles is that President Richard M. Nixon may announce establishment of such a panel at a state-of-the-economy report scheduled for mid-June.

Meanwhile the architects of anti-inflation policies, who are

WEEK IN BUSINESS

Wall Street Antics Dominate The News

By ROBERT J. REGAN
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market held stage center again this week, although the performance was a bit wobbly compared with the socko finish the week before.

There wasn't much else in the business and financial news to put a center spotlight on, and there didn't seem to be too much waiting in the wings either, beyond the June 30 deadline on the troop pull-out from Cambodia. The stream of poor first quarter earnings reports was down to a trickle and the bulk of the second quarter report cards aren't due for more than a month yet.

By Friday, stocks had about 75 to 80 per cent of the gains made when the market suddenly reversed field during the middle of the final week of May. There was, however, faltering during the final sessions although the White House continued its current program of friendly persuasion on as many fronts as possible.

The debate on wage and price controls continued in fits and starts and it began to look as if the White House is leaning to another attempt at restraining inflationary wage increases and price boosts by asking labor and management to restrain themselves.

This means guidelines again, or a system lacking teeth but dependent upon the power of the jawbone as wielded by top-level government officials. This time around, however, the jawbone may be brandished by a special blue ribbon "citizen's panel" charged with putting the publicity spotlight on wage or price actions deemed inflationary.

Best guess in financial circles is that President Richard M. Nixon may announce establishment of such a panel at a state-of-the-economy report scheduled for mid-June.

Meanwhile the architects of anti-inflation policies, who are

WEEK IN BUSINESS

obliged to regard bad as good, took some encouragement from indications business and industry are trimming their capital spending this year.

A steady rise in expansion spending has been a principal fuel to the overheated economy which has proved unexpectedly resistant to traditional cooling-off procedures.

The latest quarterly survey by the Commerce Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission put the rate of gain for 1970 at 7.8 per cent. That's a much duller sword than the projected 10.8 per cent increase that was hanging over the inflation-fighters' heads three months ago. The one that dropped on them in 1969 had quite an edge to it; capital spending jumped 11.4 per cent last year to $75.56 billion, making every percentage point this year worth $755,600,000.

Construction spending was down 1.3 per cent in April, compared with 0.4 per cent the month before, with commercial and residential building contributing to the decline in that order. Public spending was higher.

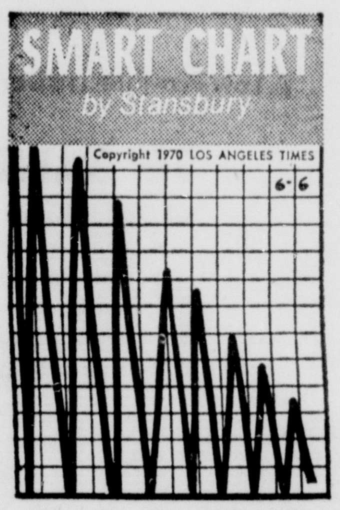
Detroit had some — but not much — good news this week for the first time in months. Car sales in late May showed a per diem gain for the first time in more than six months. Actual sales in the final 10-day period were down to 267,548 from 304,627 a year earlier, but the 1970 period lacked one selling day.

Less heartening for Detroit, however, was the record performance turned in during May by the imported cars. The month's total was a record 109,000 cars and the daily sales rate was 10 per cent higher.

Toyota turned in the biggest gain on a unit basis — 15,100 sold her last month and 10,765 in May 1969 — turning up the pressure not only on Detroit, but on Volkswagen as well. Volkswagen sales rose to 52,444 last month from 52,019 in May 1970, which means the Japanese narrowed the gap by about 9.4 per cent.

Ling-Temco-Vought stayed up front in the merger scene. As part of its effort to pay off its $110 million short-term debt, the company agreed in principle to sell its 75 per cent interest in Wilson Pharmaceutical and Chemical Corp. to American Can Co. for $16 million, continuing the recent pattern of selling off subsidiaries to raise cash. Last February LTV sold its 75 per cent interest in Wilson Sporting Goods Inc. to Pepsico Inc. for $63 million in cash and notes.

Earlier in the week, LTV promised its takeover of Jones and Laughlin Steel Co. wouldn't cause plant closings, workforce cutbacks or pension fund raids. Consequently, the steelworkers union withdrew its objections to an antitrust settlement permitting the takeover.



"On the favorable side, the basic vitality of our industry is cause for confidence."

Passing Accident Injures Driver

Randolph T. Guerin, 23, of 437 Riviera Circle, Larkspur sustained scrapes and cuts on his right forearm and elbow after his car rolled over and struck a tree, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

The accident happened at 8:44 a.m. Thursday when Guerin speeded up to pass a San Rafael City Schools bus on Marin Street and lost control of his car after turning into San Rafael Avenue, police reported.

Guerin was given first aid by Patrolman Ronald M. Averiette.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

obliged to regard bad as good, took some encouragement from indications business and industry are trimming their capital spending this year.

A steady rise in expansion spending has been a principal fuel to the overheated economy which has proved unexpectedly resistant to traditional cooling-off procedures.

The latest quarterly survey by the Commerce Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission put the rate of gain for 1970 at 7.8 per cent. That's a much duller sword than the projected 10.8 per cent increase that was hanging over the inflation-fighters' heads three months ago. The one that dropped on them in 1969 had quite an edge to it; capital spending jumped 11.4 per cent last year to $75.56 billion, making every percentage point this year worth $755,600,000.

Construction spending was down 1.3 per cent in April, compared with 0.4 per cent the month before, with commercial and residential building contributing to the decline in that order. Public spending was higher.

Detroit had some — but not much — good news this week for the first time in months. Car sales in late May showed a per diem gain for the first time in more than six months. Actual sales in the final 10-day period were down to 267,548 from 304,627 a year earlier, but the 1970 period lacked one selling day.

Less heartening for Detroit, however, was the record performance turned in during May by the imported cars. The month's total was a record 109,000 cars and the daily sales rate was 10 per cent higher.

Toyota turned in the biggest gain on a unit basis — 15,100 sold her last month and 10,765 in May 1969 — turning up the pressure not only on Detroit, but on Volkswagen as well. Volkswagen sales rose to 52,444 last month from 52,019 in May 1970, which means the Japanese narrowed the gap by about 9.4 per cent.

Ling-Temco-Vought stayed up front in the merger scene. As part of its effort to pay off its $110 million short-term debt, the company agreed in principle to sell its 75 per cent interest in Wilson Pharmaceutical and Chemical Corp. to American Can Co. for $16 million, continuing the recent pattern of selling off subsidiaries to raise cash. Last February LTV sold its 75 per cent interest in Wilson Sporting Goods Inc. to Pepsico Inc. for $63 million in cash and notes.

Earlier in the week, LTV promised its takeover of Jones and Laughlin Steel Co. wouldn't cause plant closings, workforce cutbacks or pension fund raids. Consequently, the steelworkers union withdrew its objections to an antitrust settlement permitting the takeover.

Passing Accident Injures Driver

Randolph T. Guerin, 23, of 437 Riviera Circle, Larkspur sustained scrapes and cuts on his right forearm and elbow after his car rolled over and struck a tree, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

The accident happened at 8:44 a.m. Thursday when Guerin speeded up to pass a San Rafael City Schools bus on Marin Street and lost control of his car after turning into San Rafael Avenue, police reported.

Guerin was given first aid by Patrolman Ronald M. Averiette.

Students Confirm Salary Decision

The student government at College of Marin has affirmed its plans to pay approximately $700 in wages to cafeteria employees who lost five days' pay during the campus shutdown in May.

A student committee met Thursday with Irwin P. Diamond, dean of students, to discuss the move, reported secretary Nancy Oliva. Diamond's position was that the cafeteria catering firm should be asked to pay part or all of the sum.

The Associated Students will investigate the possibility of inserting a clause into the caterer's contract requiring him to pay salaries in such cases.

Court Refuses Case

The case of David Paul Underhill, 18, of Mill Valley, yesterday was refused by Marin Juvenile Court. A preliminary hearing was set in municipal court for June 23 for the youth, who is charged with possessing marijuana and petty theft on May 20.

Pigeon Racing—A Sport For Enthusiasts

By GIL PEARSON

Marin County isn't exactly a hotbed of activity for the international sport of racing homing pigeons.

There are many localities, including some here in the Bay Area, where more sportsmen own and race more birds.

But Marin's devotees make up in dedication what they might lack in numbers. And they have enjoyed successes that have attracted, not just regional, but national attention.

Consider, for instance, some of the feats of the pigeons from Al Boccone's Galaxy Lofts in San Rafael.

FROM THERE came Steady Eddie, the 1969 Martinez 500-mile winner. Steady Eddie, in turn, was the 3-year-old son of Fast Eddie, a multiple sprint prize winner, and a nephew of the 1968 Martinez victor, inappropriately named The Loser.

From Galaxy, too, came Freddie to earn, in 1967, the highest honor that can be paid to a competitive homing pigeon — election to the sport's All American Hall-of-Fame.

Valued at $1,000, the pure-Belgium-blooded Freddie averaged 50 miles an hour in defeating 2,000 competitors in each of seven Bay Area spring races. Included was the Redding 200-mile event, covered in less than four hours, and a Yakima,

Pigeon Racing—A Sport For Enthusiasts

By GIL PEARSON

Marin County isn't exactly a hotbed of activity for the international sport of racing homing pigeons.

There are many localities, including some here in the Bay Area, where more sportsmen own and race more birds.

But Marin's devotees make up in dedication what they might lack in numbers. And they have enjoyed successes that have attracted, not just regional, but national attention.

Consider, for instance, some of the feats of the pigeons from Al Boccone's Galaxy Lofts in San Rafael.

FROM THERE came Steady Eddie, the 1969 Martinez 500-mile winner. Steady Eddie, in turn, was the 3-year-old son of Fast Eddie, a multiple sprint prize winner, and a nephew of the 1968 Martinez victor, inappropriately named The Loser.

From Galaxy, too, came Freddie to earn, in 1967, the highest honor that can be paid to a competitive homing pigeon — election to the sport's All American Hall-of-Fame.

Valued at $1,000, the pure-Belgium-blooded Freddie averaged 50 miles an hour in defeating 2,000 competitors in each of seven Bay Area spring races. Included was the Redding 200-mile event, covered in less than four hours, and a Yakima,

Wash., 600-mile event that required 14 hours for completion.

THE FLEET-winged Freddie met an untimely demise on an Easter Sunday morning while on a training flight, falling into a gasoline service station sign, the victim of what a veterinarian diagnosed as a heart attack.

The mysterious ability of these fascinating little creatures to fly from dawn to dusk at seemingly lightening-like speeds over unfamiliar territory, and to touch down at home base unerringly, has baffled scientists for generations.

Nor can breeders offer any certain answer. But it is a secret of nature that challenges man's curiosity and has produced many theories and triggered many experiments.

FOR INSTANCE, in Georgia, during the solar.eclipse of March 7, 1970, Andre Gobert, as loft manager for the Pigeon Research Department of Cornell University, conducted a test of the theory that the pigeons navigated by the sun.

The complete results have not yet been released, but indications are that flights were effected by the sun's disappearance. Significantly, the "homers" race only in the daylight. They are not nocturnal travelers.

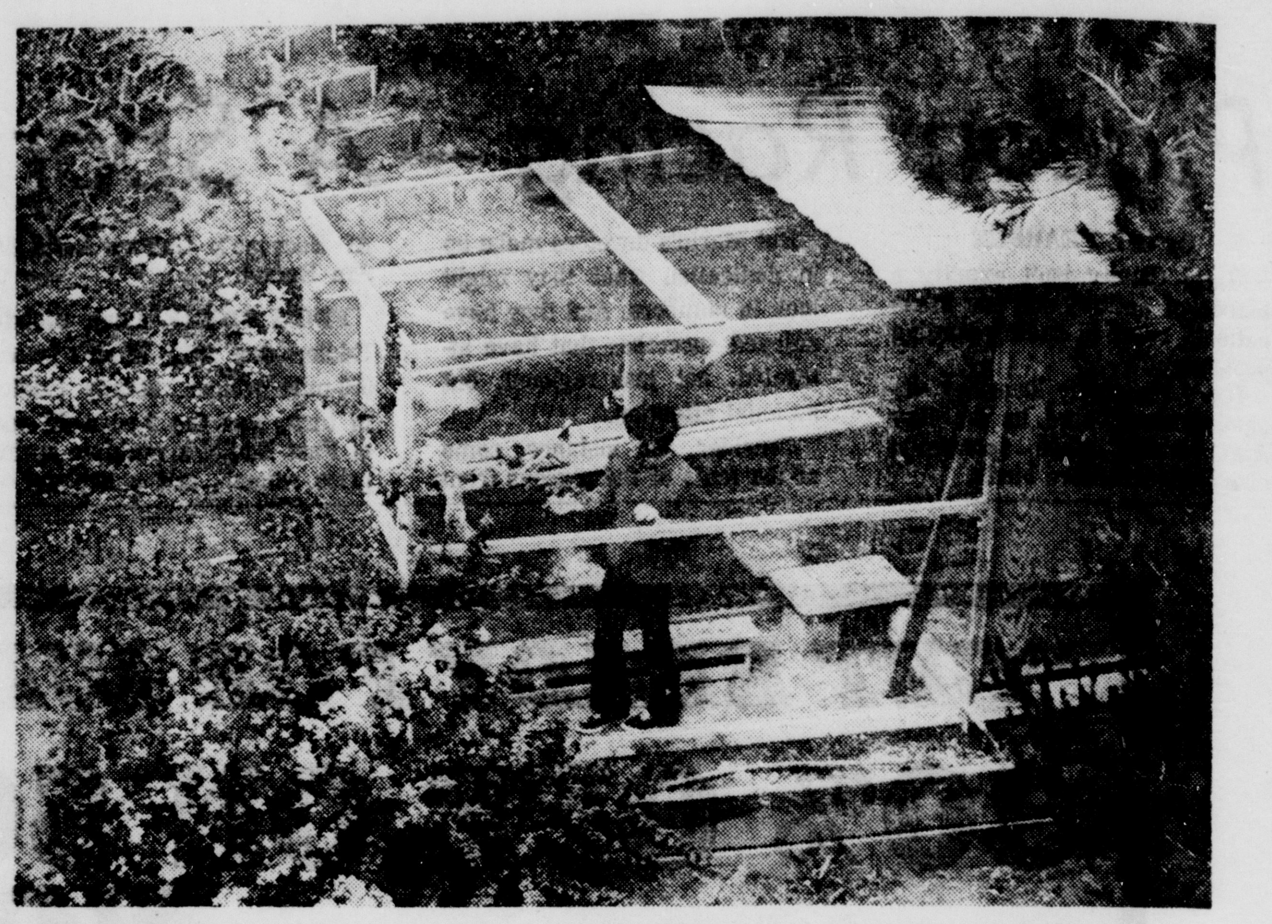
Gobert in his experiment used seven groups of racers that he released at one-hour intervals, before, during and after the eclipse, on a 44-mile course.

THE FIRST three groups, freed in time to complete the course before the eclipse commenced, were on schedule.

But there was mass confusion among the last four groups, totalling 44 birds. Only three showed up that day — just before sundown, some six hours later than their normal arrival time. Most did not return to their lofts until the following day. A week later, five birds were still missing.

The eclipse, it seemed, had added an average of 24 hours to the normal flying time for the course.

WHAT INTERESTED observers particularly was the fate of the fifth group, released from the starting basket at 1:19 p.m. just as the moon passed in front of the sun beginning to eclipse.



A TYPICAL LOFT constructed at low cost to serve as home base for his homing pigeons is shown by Gary Wallace of Corte Madera. Wallace and other Tamalpais Racing Pigeon Club members are glad to assist newcomers to the sport with advice in the building of facilities for their birds.

The temperature had dropped rapidly seven degrees, the humidity had risen, the barometric pressure had fallen, and the wind had started blowing from the northwest at five to 10 miles an hour.

The reaction of the pigeons to these shenanigans of Mother Nature was to take wing slowly and reluctantly, to take additional minutes before vanishing, and to display indecision as to direction.

If Gobert's experiment has produced some interesting data on the directional magic of the homing pigeon, it is unlikely to have ended further speculation or controversy.

BUT AMONG homing pigeon fanciers there is agreement as to "why" if not "how" the birds head for their home lofts when released many miles away.

And the pigeon breeders and owners use that knowledge in the planning of their races.

"We use two systems," explains Gary Wallace of Corte Madera. "The widow-hood system is used when the bachelor cock alone is raced. His lure is the hen back in the home coop with whom he has been flirting outrageously through a wire screen for some days prior to the race. With mating awaiting him as his reward, he loses no time speeding homeward.

"THE NATURAL system is based on the nesting instinct, and thus mated cocks and hens are entered in these races, since they share a strong desire to get back home to protect their nest and young."

Wallace is a member of the Tamalpais Racing Pigeon Club, whose president is Don Spence.

It is a club with a long history, with honorary member Don Fraser as the chief link between the present and its earlier years.

BOB BROCKMAN and Bud Sthymmel are two long-time members and sparkplugs who are still active.

Other members include Boccone, Ed Bland, Warren Coffin, Erwin Eickele, George Flockhart, Tony Huhn, Jim Lewis, Bill Manges, Bob Marshall, Joe Johnson and Don Twine.

Normally, the club meets once a month on a Wednesday night at the Marin County Humane Society Education Center at Ignacio. But during the two racing seasons of each year, the club members gather at least once a week and usually more frequently.

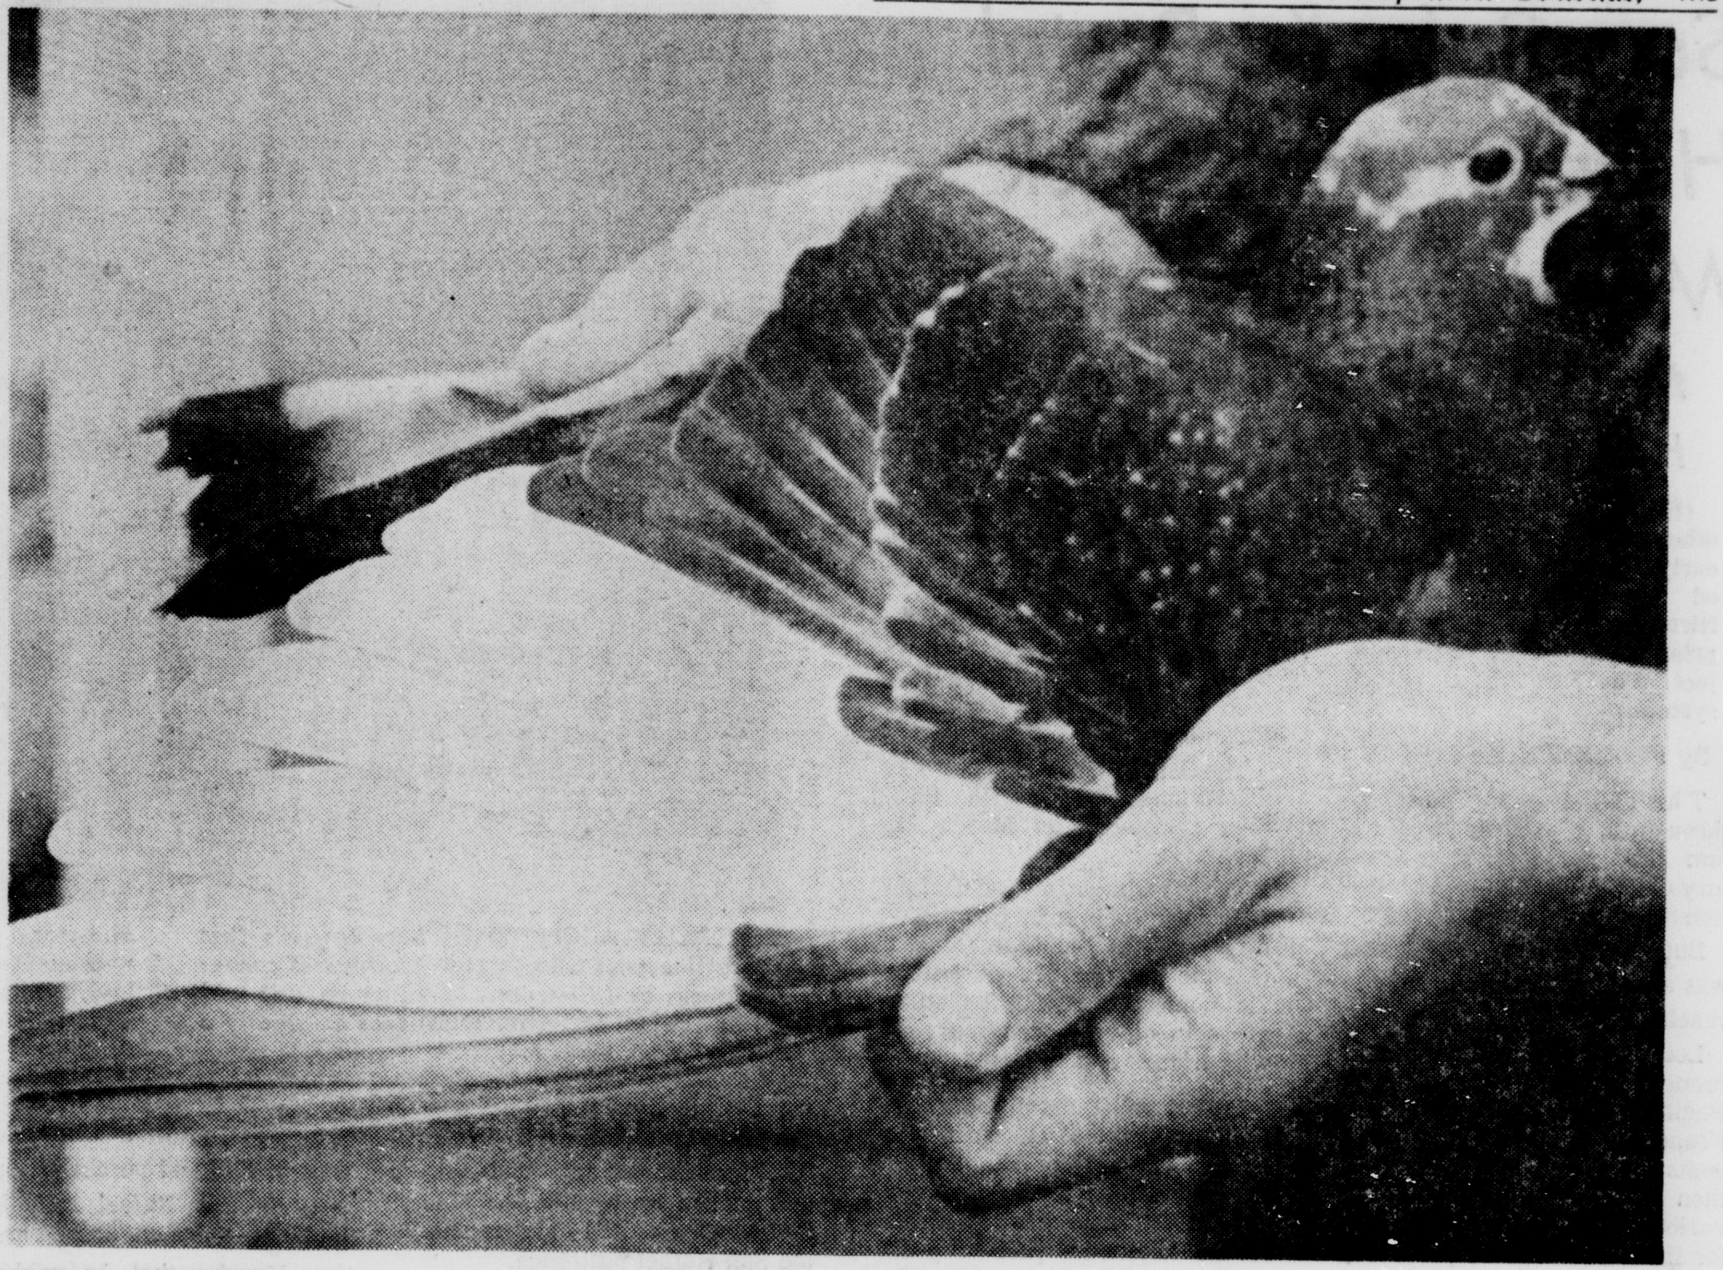
THE 12-WEEK spring season is for the racing of the older birds.

The eight-week fall season competition is restricted to the "baby" birds.

Marinites interested in learning more about the sport of homing pigeon racing, and the breeding of the birds, are invited by Wallace to call him at his Corte Madera home.

"MOST PIGEON men will give birds to beginners," he said. "And they will take the time to give instructions in caring, feeding and loft construction."

The more converts, the better, believe Wallace and his colleagues. And they would like to see Marin County right up there near the front numerically as one of the centers for their favorite sport.



STRONG, HEALTHY WINGS are vital to the competitive success of a racing pigeon, and are the result of breeding via carefully chosen parentage, good feeding and other care and proper, expert flight training.

San Rafael's Postal History Goes Back More Than Century

Mail Service For The Village Had Its Beginnings In 1851

(Editor's Note: This is another of the manuscripts on early Marin subjects completed by Independent-Journal Historian Florence Donnelly prior to her death. Her subject: The San Rafael postal system.)

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

That the mail must go through is a time-honored axiom that the more-than-a-century-old San Rafael postal system has practiced faithfully.

But in the early days, mail was sometimes painfully slow in reaching San Rafael residents.

Letters and newspapers were brought from the East on board Pacific Mail steamships to San Francisco, sent on by small boats to Marin's shores, and then taken by couriers to the various town north of the bay for final distribution.

"THE HISTORY of Marin County," published in 1880, stated:

"The 1851 mails were received from San Francisco by the rather tortuous route of Benicia, Napa and Sonoma." Riders on horseback carried the mails over trails that cut through forests, and in winter often had to deal with flooded rivers and fallen trees.

It was in 1851, on Nov. 6, that a San Rafael postoffice was established in Short's Hall, Fourth and C, with Moses Stoppard as its postmaster.

HISTORIAN Hubert Howe Bancroft wrote of Stoppard: "He came to California in 1847 with Company K, New York Volunteers."

The San Rafael postoffice was discontinued on Oct. 18, 1853, then reinstated on March 31, 1854.

The population of San Rafael — indeed, of Marin County — was small at the time. And it was the practice to send letters via horsemen bound for other areas in order to communicate with friends and relatives.

MORE AND more, however, the official postal system began to perform the service. Walter Skidmore, then Marin County's district attorney, was appointed to the additional post of postmaster on March 31, 1954. He was succeeded by Daniel Block, named to the office March 6, 1860.

In those early years the postoffice was generally housed in a store. And the storekeeper was often the postmaster.

There were difficulties, however, and the government, in 1860, again terminated service to San Rafael. Citizens took over the responsibility. The arrangement was for the mail to be "made up" in San Francisco and put aboard the steamer Petaluma which carried it to the San Quentin Wharf. There it was picked up by the San Rafael Stage Co. and delivered to the San Rafael postoffice.

HOWEVER, under this unofficial arrangement, payment to the stage company fell in arrears. The company announced the service would be terminated.

Citizens appealed to postal authorities in Washington, D.C. And in May, 1862, the government awarded a contract to E. H. Pomeroy for daily carrying of the mail from San Quentin to the San Rafael office.

Timothy Mahon became postmaster on Feb. 14, 1863. He had come to California from New York in 1849 and purchased property in San Rafael including the adobe hacienda of Don Timoteo Murphy that he sold to Marin County for a courthouse.

IN SAN RAFAEL he was joined by his brother, Edward Barry Mahon, a lawyer who was to serve as Marin's county treasurer and district attorney.

In 1867, Frederick H. Pratt became the postmaster and his place of business the postoffice.

The Marin Journal noted: "The postoffice is now in Pratt's store," and added on Jan. 29, 1867, that "a money order department has been established at the San Rafael postoffice."

THE PRATT store, selling general merchandise, was located on the northeast corner of B and Fourts streets. It was a two-story brick structure, with the top floor occupied by the Pratt family.

Pratt's successor was Simon Fitch Barstow, named postmaster on Jan. 17, 1882.

He had been a printer's apprentice in Jamestown, N.Y., before coming to California in 1854 via the Isthmus of Panama. He worked for the San Francis-

His market, dealing in groceries and general merchandise, on the northeast corner of B and Fourth streets, was also the headquarters for the village's mail service. He had large Marin holdings and was extremely active in public affairs, being one of the petitioners to the supervisors urging the purchase of San Rafael's Heuston Block as a courthouse site.

He owned stores in several cities including San Francisco, Sacramento and Watsonville. But in 1867 he moved to San Rafael's benign climate for his health and opened a meat market and grocery store on the northwest corner of Third and B that also became the postoffice.

He owned stores in several cities including San Francisco, Sacramento and Watsonville. But in 1867 he moved to San Rafael's benign climate for his health and opened a meat market and grocery store on the northwest corner of Third and B that also became the postoffice.

THE YEAR WAS 1917 and mail was being delivered along San Rafael's Lincoln Avenue by horse and cart. Free delivery service was a triumph for San Rafael residents who began agitating for it in the last 1800s but were not successful until the early 1900s.

San Rafael residents were then clamoring for free mail delivery service to stores and their homes. But their pleas were not to be granted until early in the 20th Century, when three carriers, Frederick O'Toole, James Redmond and Victor Becker, were added to the personnel, making their deliveries on foot.

ANDERSON SERVED as postmaster for a decade, then Stanley P. Morehead was appointed to the office on Dec. 19, 1906. He was a building contractor and insurance agent.

His successor, on Feb. 16, 1911, was the well known and popular William P. Taylor, son of Samuel Penfield Taylor, builder of the Marin papermill that was the first on the Pacific Coast. William Taylor was better remembered as a Marin County sheriff.

As the population of San Rafael grew and postal receipts increased, the federal government began leasing various available buildings as the postoffice.

In 1899, Kinsella's plumbing shop advertised that it was on B Street, "opposite the postoffice."

WARREN H. Williams "grew up" with the San Rafael postoffice, his association beginning in 1922 when he was still in high school and worked there during summer vacations and and at Christmas time.

Michael F. Cochrane who had been appointed postmaster Nov. 29, 1913, still held the position. According to Williams, the postoffice was then on the south side of Third between B and C. Williams recalled how he often drove a horse and mail cart to deliver letters, publications and parcels in those days.

Cochrane, publisher of the San Rafael Independent, was succeeded by another newspaper man, Cassius C. Olmsted, on March 3, 1923. He and his brother owned and published the Marin Journal. And it was Olmsted who announced that the acquisition of a site for the construction of a San Rafael postoffice was under consideration.

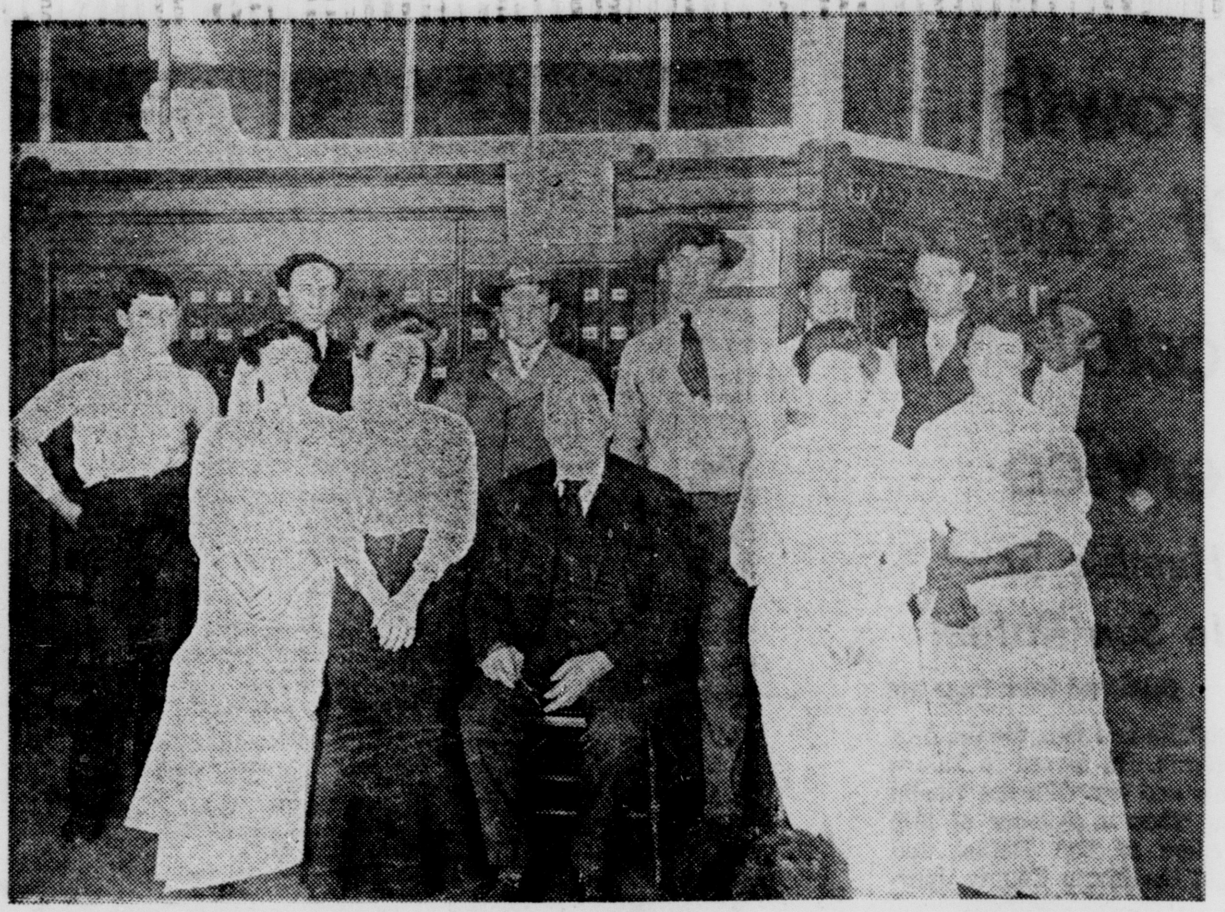
IT WAS, HOWEVER, to be a good many years before any such edifice was to be built.

San Rafael druggist Thomas M. Day became postmaster in 1934. And it was while he was in office that the postoffice building downtown on D between Third and Fourth, with which San Rafael residents today are familiar, was erected. In the interim, the postoffice had been moved from Third Street to the south side of Fourth between A and Lootens Place.

The new building on D was a product of the depression years.

DIRECTORS OF the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce learned in July, 1932, that Congress had enacted legislation that provided for the construction of federal buildings as an unemployment relief measure. The chamber approached Rep. Clarence F. Lea concerning the possibility of securing a new postoffice for San Rafael.

Through those efforts and with the support of the Secretary of the Treasury and the Postmaster-General, San Rafael was included on a list of 1,500 cities under consideration for new federal buildings. Later, 600 of those cities were deleted from the list. But San Rafael's name remained.



SAN RAFAEL'S postoffice was on the west side of B street between Third and Fourth in 1907 when Postmaster Stanley P. Morehead, center, posed with his staff that included a Mrs. Saunders, Irene Howe, Nettie Ryan, James Redmond, Fred O'Toole, Harry Kramer and Ray O'Brien. Others were not identified.

In September, 1932, the chamber was notified that bids would be received for acquisition of a site. It was stipulated that the property would have to be located on a main street of the city.

TWO MONTHS later, the postal inspectors investigated all sites under consideration. And in February, 1933, the parcel on the east side of D at Third was chosen and announced by the Treasury Department.

It was, however, not until January of 1934 that negotiations were begun with the property owner, the prominent merchant Jacob Albert.

The original allocation was $90,000 for site, building and equipment. And when bids were first opened, in February, 1935, it was announced that the low bid was $25,000.

BUT THE chamber, discovering the type of building the government planned to erect in San Rafael, protested strongly. It would be, the chamber claimed, inadequate. Appeals went out to congressmen, senators, postal and treasury officials for a larger, more substantial structure.

The award of the contract was held up at the request of the chamber which sent its representative, Edwin T. Coman, to Washington to appeal directly for additional funds for a better building.

Congressman Lea gave Coman his valuable support. Additional monies were allotted. And the plans were altered.

BIDS WERE opened on the second set of plans on July 9, 1935. This time the low bid was $56,680. But the bid was rejected so that still more changes could be made in the building plans.

A third and final set of plans was submitted, and bids opened on Nov. 1, 1935. This time low bid was $58,350. But the usual 30-day period expired without the awarding of the contract. The Treasury Department's Procurement Division requested an additional 30 days time. Three weeks of that time, too, went by without action. But finally the anxiety of San Rafael citizens was put to rest.

On Dec. 23, 1935, as a Christmas present to the community, the contract for the San Rafael Postoffice was awarded.

THE BUILDING was completed and dedicated on Jan. 23, 1937.

Ceremonies included an invocation by Rev. George A. O'Meara, remarks by San Rafael Chamber of Commerce Vice President Charles T. Lund, a welcoming address by Mayor Frank Riede, remarks by Postmaster Thomas M. Day, dedicatory address by City Atty. Jordan L. Martinelli and benediction by Dr. John Jefferson Canoles.

The postoffice staff then included, in addition to Postmaster Day, his assistant, Katherine (Hattie) Henry; clerks Irene Howe, Lorenzo (Lawrence) Corti, Russell Scott, Charles Mueller, Warren Williams and Thomas Falvey; sub clerk Rafael Clark; rural carrier Walter Brush; star route carriers Loyal Carter and Ernest Kearn; mail messenger William D. Merk; and city carriers Harry Hock, Leon Sigard, Daniel Saultry, Thomas Brown, Ernest Brazil, Henry Loper and John Otten.

MILO ROUNTREE and John Bodenhamer were the substitute carriers, and there was a three-man custodial staff.

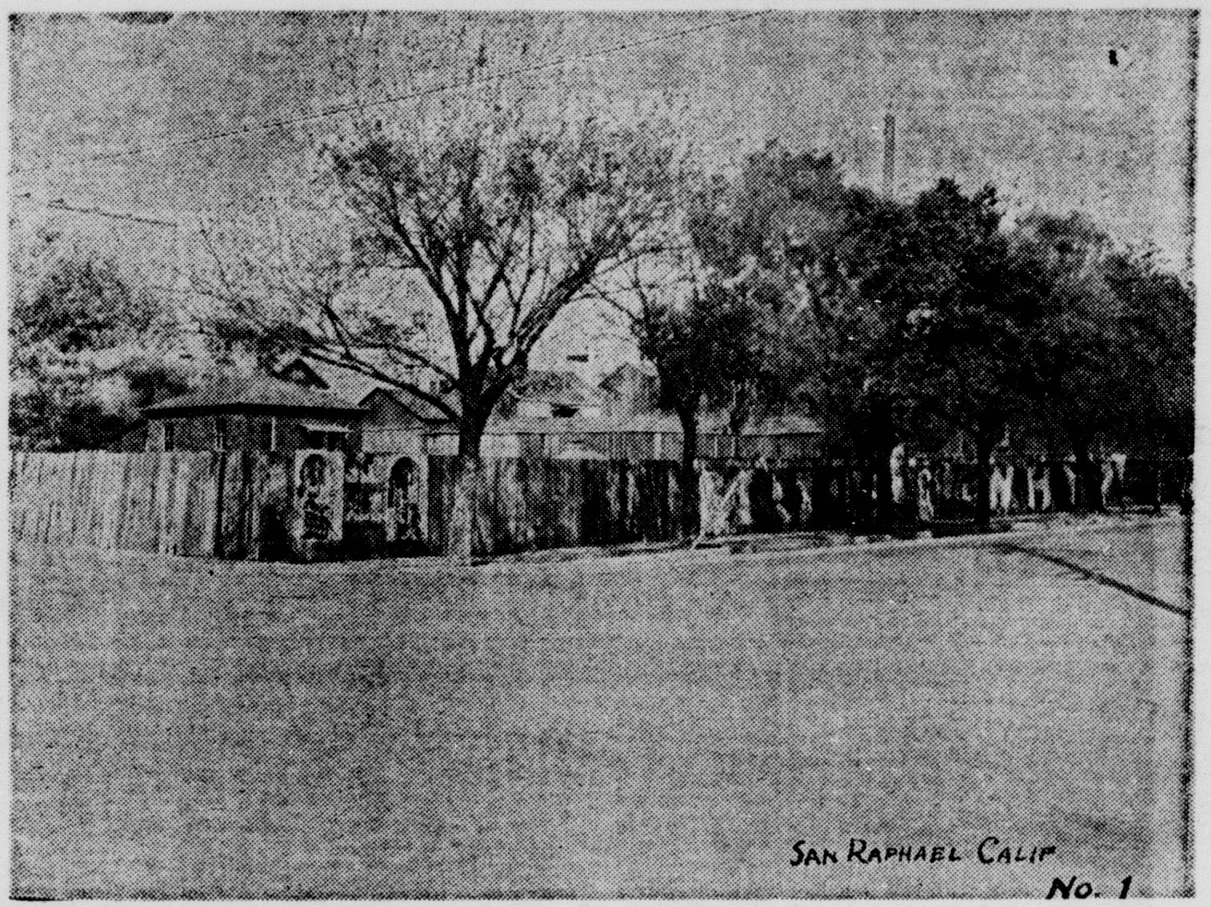
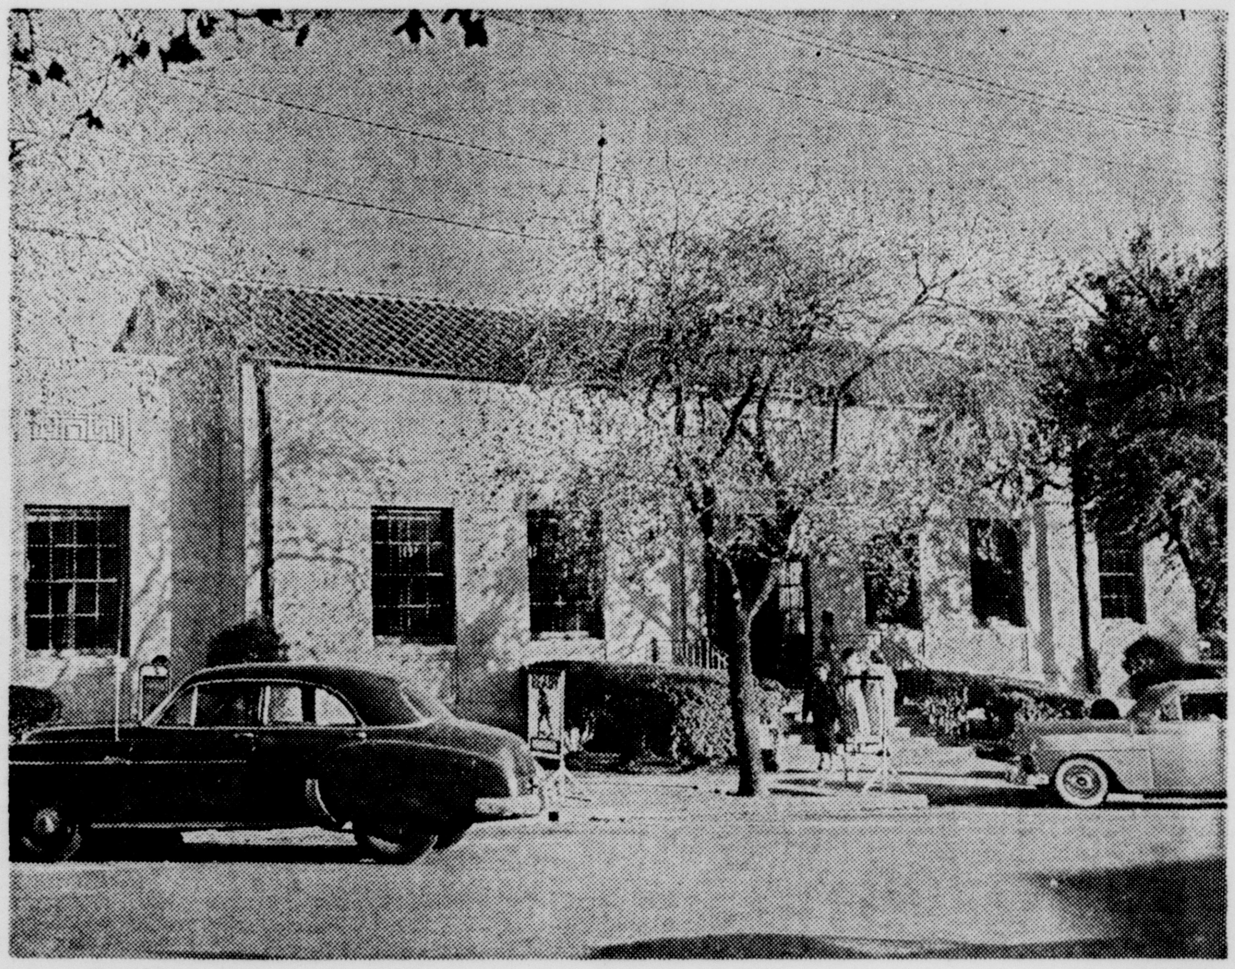
CITY LETTER CARRIERS Harry Hock, left, and Leon Sigard posed in about 1928 in front of the San Rafael Postoffice which was then located in the 1200 block on Third Street close to the site where the first government-owned postoffice on the corner of Third and D was built in the 1930s. The vehicle in back was a horse-drawn delivery wagon. Hock retired in 1940 and died in the 1950s. Sigard retired as a foreman in 1955.



THE CORNER OF Third and D streets in San Rafael looked like this in the early 1930s when it was under consideration as a site for the proposed new postoffice building. It was owned by merchant and philanthropist Jacob Albert, who sold it to the federal government for a bargain $10,000.



SAN RAFAEL WAS a proud city when, in 1937, it dedicated its first government-owned postoffice building on the corner of Third and D. This picture was taken in 1951. Recently remodeled, it now serves as the downtown branch postoffice.

building along with its central oil-fueled heating plant and an air conditioning system were the offices of Farm Advisor M. B. Boissevain, the chief postoffice inspector, the commandant of the 12th Naval District Volunteer Communications Reserve, the district manager of the 12th U.S. Civil Service District, the Internal Revenue collector and the assistant district manager of the Department of Labor's Naturalization and Immigration Service.

The building had been constructed by contractor Leo Epp of San Francisco. And the site, 92 feet fronting on D and 98 feet along Third, had been sold to the government by the public-spirited Albert for a bargain $10,000.

SERVING ON the dedication day committee with Postmaster Day were Mayor Riede, Rube Brown and Fred Cebalo.

Day continued as postmaster until May 9, 1934, when his wife Marian became acting postmaster, pending the appointment of Charles Hilary (Pete) Hayden, who was named on March 22, 1940.

On April 21, 1954, Hayden was able to report that a number of star routes were operating out of the San Rafael office "to such places as Jenner, San Quentin, Santa Rosa, Crockett and Hamilton Air Force Base."

HAYDEN DIED in November of 1955, and on Jan. 1, 1956, the veteran among the employees, Warren Williams, was designated the acting postmaster. On June 20, 1956, he became the official postmaster.

Under his able leadership, the postal service in San Rafael flourished.

Richard J. Murphy, assistant postmaster-general, wrote Williams and his fellow workers on Aug. 23, 1961, as follows:

"San Rafael led all postal installations in fiscal year 1961 in one of the most significant measurements of our employee suggestion program's effectiveness, the percentage of suggestions adopted.

"ADOPTABLE suggestions are preferrable to mere volume from which the government derives no benefits, and the adoption of 45.9 per cent of the suggestions originating in your office reflects a quality not equalled elsewhere. On a national basis, only 15.9 per cent were adopted."

It reflects, too, the high morale of the San Rafael staff.

Postmaster Williams credited as his top suggestion-makers Leon D. Arbini, general mechanic with 24 years of postoffice service; Jerry Van Soest, distribution clerk with 16 years seniority, and Elmo A. Rossi, civil service examiner with 15 years of postal experience.

Arbini received $120 in cash, Van Soest $90. Other employees were also recognized for their suggestions on how the postal service might be further improved.

FROM HIS many years with the San Rafael postoffice, Warren Williams was a source of many amusing and significant stories about that federal service and its local operations.

He would, for instance, relate how families would become sentimentally attached to a postoffice box, so that three and sometimes four generations would insist upon keeping the same box and number.

Williams could, without hesitation, rattle off the numbers of the boxes and the names of the boxholders.

I REMEMBER my astonishment when, without difficulty, he reached back through the years and recalled correctly the number of my own father's postoffice box number — 483.

It was a proud occasion for Williams when, on May 19, 1962, he delivered the welcoming address at the dedication program for the new, modernistic Civic Center branch of the San Rafael Postoffice on May 19, 1962, in the Santa Venetia district.

San Rafael Mayor John McInnis was master of ceremonies. Monsignor Clement J. McKenna of St. Vincent's School for Boys delivered the invocation. Walter R. Castro, chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, led the pledge of allegiance. The Flag was presented by Jesse J. France Jr., San Rafael Chamber of Commerce president, on behalf of Congressman Clem Miller.

THE RITES were concluded with the benediction by Rev. Lincoln Wirt, First Congregational Church pastor.

A Flag that had flown over the Washington D.C. Postoffice was presented to the new Kentfield office.

In addition to Kentfield, the San Rafael Postoffice also is in charge of the Terra Linda Postoffice.

POSTMASTER Williams' highest honor as a dedicatory official came, however, on Sept. 17, 1966, when a new main San Rafael Postoffice was opened at 40 Bellam Boulevard, outside the city's main business district.

A Flag that had flown over the Washington D.C. Postoffice was presented to the new Kentfield office.

In addition to Kentfield, the San Rafael Postoffice also is in charge of the Terra Linda Postoffice.

POSTMASTER Williams' highest honor as a dedicatory official came, however, on Sept. 17, 1966, when a new main San Rafael Postoffice was opened at 40 Bellam Boulevard, outside the city's main business district.

The Mail

exceedingly heavy and a fire was started in the sheds at the rear of the postoffice. One of the roof hoses was thrown down and this fire was extinguished.

"The prompt action of the postoffice crew stopped the fire from spreading to the McPhail Fuel Co. buildings. Another small fire did start in the Murray residence behind the postoffice (on Third), but was extinguished by the postoffice force.

"Meanwhile, Foreman Springett had completed preparing the mail for dispatch. Since it was realized that the. . .trucks could not operate to the postoffice, one clerk was sent to the highway entrance to hold them there, so that the mail could be shuttled to them by local vehicles that could negotiate the fire lines. This arrangement was successful and the regular exchanges of mail were made.

"IT WAS necessary to sort the mail in the loading area of the Northwestern Pacific freight sheds. It should be noted that this was done by three temporary clerks — (John) Abenschan, (Wayne) Cunningham and (James) Turner. These three managed the exchange of mails, made temporary provision for storage of mails and handled the exchange of registers without any supervision whatsoever.

"At the postoffice, the conflagration in the adjoining block was reaching its height. The fire had spread down the block and appeared ready to engulf the old two-story residence directly across the street from the postoffice. It had gotten completely into the paint store diagonally across the street.

"On the roof of the postoffice, the drains were stoppered with mail sacks to hold all the water possible on the roof.

"BY THIS time, shortly after 8 p.m., the postoffice was well inside the fire lines with hose crews and fire trucks operating directly in front of the postoffice. The postmaster and assistant were on the scene before the conflagration reached its height. Nearby apartments and postoffice vehicles were evacuated and preparations were made to remove the mail from the building.

HUGH CASSIDY, right, San Rafael's present postmaster, and his superintendent of mails, Donald W. Baird, center, discuss with Angelo Bon the operation of a Mark II Facer stamp-canceller that is among the modern equipment in use in the new main postoffice on Bellam Boulevard. Cassidy succeeded Warren Williams as acting San Rafael postmaster on Jan. 31, 1966.

"Shortly after 8 o'clock, power in the building went off. The front of the building was secured at this time and all windows closed to avoid any possibility of the swirling firebrands getting into the postoffice.

"Trucks were being moved beyond the fire lines, loaded with the household goods from the adjacent apartments. The first signs of panic were visible, as many householders tossed armloads of clothing and soft objects from the third story stairway.

"WITH THE paint store diagonally across the street burning, there was some danger of explosions from the paint and paint thinners stored in the rear of the building — the point closest to the postoffice.

"All the men, except the ones manning the fire hoses, were moved from the postoffice roof, and those remaining were warned to work from behind the protection of the parapets on the roof. Additional equipment arrived and brought a halt to the fire in the paint store. Shortly after 9 p.m., the fire had been checked, and it was apparent that, unless there was a disastrous turn, the danger to the postoffice was receding.

"The postoffice trucks were retrieved from their storage spaces some blocks from the postoffice. Coleman gasoline lanterns were procured to supply some illumination, and limited working of the mails commenced.

"THE 9 P.M. collection in the business areas was made about an hour late, but in time for the midnight dispatch. Collection boxes in the fire area were checked and found to be undamaged.

"Power was back on shortly after 10 p.m. The mail, stored, was brought to the postoffice and worked. By midnight, the office had returned to a regular schedule and the midnight PMT trucks operated in and out of the postoffice.

"Regular mail dispatches were made during the fire and deliveries were out on schedule in the morning."

NEVER HAD the spirit that neither fire nor flood must be allowed to stay the mails been better or more dramatically exemplified.

Under Hugh Cassidy's postmastership, the San Rafael postal employees have continued, under less exciting conditions and with modern equipment in pleasant surroundings, to render efficient and courteous service to appreciative patrons.

It is a service especially marked by the friendliness and cheerfulness of the men and women who man the windows in the postoffices, and who deliver the mails to homes and businesses.

Not only does the mail go through. But in San Rafael it goes through with smiles and warmth.

C.H. (PETE) HAYDEN, on the right, was postmaster when this photograph was taken inside the postoffice at Third and D streets. With him were Warren Williams, left, then assistant postmaster and later to become postmaster, and Thomas Falvey, superintendent of mails.

335 MOVE THE MAIL

The San Rafael postal system which began in 1851 with a part-time postmaster is composed today of 335 employees working under the direction of Postmaster Hugh Cassidy in the main and four branch postoffices and one vehicle maintenance unit to meet the needs of a growing population and a soaring volume of mail.

Personnel from the San Rafael, Civic Center, Kentfield and Terra Linda postoffices cover 70 routes in delivering mail to their patrons.

And the payroll of the 335 men and women processing and distributing the mails in San Rafael and its branch offices approximates $2,100,000 a year.

End Of The Anchorman Is Seen

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ned Calmer believes the day of pretty-boy television newscasters is over and the era of specialized broadcast reporting has begun.

Calmer is a considerable authority on such matters. After becoming a foreign correspondent for the Chicago Tribune Paris office, then for the New York Herald-Tribune's Paris edition, he turned to broadcasting, a career he pursued for 27 years.

HE RECENTLY took advantage of an "early retirement" program so, he explains, he could give himself time to think — and to write. One result is "The Anchorman," a recently published novel about the business he knows so well.

"Television news is getting farther and farther away from the concept of 'pretty boy' newscasters and anchormen," he said in an interview. "There was a time when the 'pretty boy' flourished, but I think that day is over."

That doesn't mean a matinee idol profile will disqualify anyone from television broadcasting and he pointed out that some particularly distinguished looking — as well as talented — types remain on the air.

"LOOK AT Howard K. Smith," he said. "He's a pretty good looking man. And Eric Sevareid looks like he ought to have his face carved on Mt. Rushmore.

"There's just one thing — you still have to have hair. A bald anchorman, at least one who is bald in front of the camera, is unthinkable. But otherwise TV is getting farther and farther away from that."

Calmer believes television is in for more serious changes in its news programs, particularly as to specialization. He said: "Television news has become less exploratory and more immediate — that could almost be a motto for television news. Great effort is being made to give more depth to television news. Compare television news with the press, or radio for that matter, and you find that television has far less time for news at its disposal."

HE SAID THAT in the effort to remedy television's lack of depth, the anchorman may be on his way out. First, he defined the anchorman:

"The anchorman, in the purest sense, is only an extension of the camera. But an anchorman can be what he wants to make of the job — that is, until he runs afoul of Spiro Agnew or the boss of the network or similar hazards with which television newsmen are familiar.

"Television network news programs are so complicated and cover such a vast field. Control is all in the choice of the news. Frequently the anchorman is so busy with the task of reading that he doesn't even have time to edit.

"WALTER CRONKITE calls himself managing editor, so you can see how he regards the job. David Brinkley writes his own stuff. But other anchormen neither edit nor write their own copy because there's so much to be done, one man just can't do the job."

That's why Calmer believes anchormen of the present kind are on the way out, that they will give way to teams of specialists, each of whom will take over the spot when the major emphasis of the news is in his area of knowledge.

Calmer, puffing on a pipe and speaking in a soft voice with perfect, regionless diction, defended the networks against their detractors, including Vice President Spiro Agnew.

"IN SO FAR as possible," he said, "I believe television news by and large is doing its level best to tell the whole story. Objectivity? In a pure sense, there's no such thing. Every man has his own bias and no matter how much he tries to control it, by the simple act of selecting one piece of news and omitting another, he must show it."

The veteran broadcaster had just returned from a speaking tour and said the question he was most asked was how he rated today's network anchormen. In diplomatic style, beginning with his former CBS colleague, he said:

"They each have their own quality. Cronkite is a superb reporter who never gets the chance to report anything on the regular evening news program. Instead he gets to read bulletins, then there's the commercial, then he introduces someone else who is on the scene. Even at the end, Sevareid does the commentary.

"BUT CRONKITE on a moonshot or any story he can cover independently — I think he's the greatest reporter on the air.

"Huntley and Brinkley make a good team, and Brinkley is the great stylist of television news. Every young television reporter in the country is trying to imitate Brinkley's delivery.

"As for ABC's Frank Reynolds — he's coming along very fast. He may turn out to be the towering figure on television news of the next generation, as the older men retire. That is, if anchormen last that long."

A Visit To Yesterday

Out in San Joaquin County's Delta country, where there are lots of quiet sloughs and fishing spots, there's also a lazy little town that is hard to believe.

It has, maybe, 300 Chinese residents and a few non-Orientals, and it looks like a setting for Huck Finn and the habitat of one of Mark Twain's riverboat adventures. It's the town of Locke, located just north of Walnut Grove.

AS YOU WALK down the narrow street that comprises most of the town you are apt to see an elderly Chinese man duck down one of the narrow walkways as if to avoid meeting you.

The weathered wooden stores and houses are dilapidated — but charming.

Locke had its beginning about 1916 when fire destroyed much of the Chinatown of Walnut Grove. The Chinese moved a mile up river and built a new settlement.

The name derives from an early-day rancher named George Locke, who owned the land.

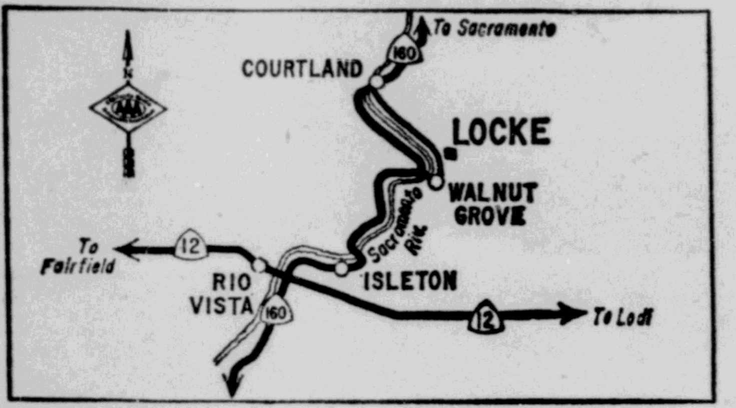
THE CHINESE HAD come to the area to work the rich farms as laborers. Some also helped build the system of levees. Most of those who settled in Locke were members of the Young Wah Tong.

Today the Chinese living there either work locally, in nearby Walnut Grove or in Sacramento, about 30 miles north of Locke. There are a few stores on the town's main street and they are straight out of the 1930s.

One restaurant, Al's Place, is quite popular with visitors and local people and a new one has just recently opened. It is located on the River Road, the highway that passes through the town.

DURING THE YEARS when 5,000 people lived in Locke it had 10 boarding houses, several Chinese herb stores, three chop suey restaurants, a bathhouse, two drygoods stores and a movie house. Not much remains now. But the old wooden buildings with their spindly pillars supporting upstairs porches are still there.

Locke is fun to walk through. It makes older people think of their days of youth in small quiet towns. And it makes the youngsters think they are stalking the set of an old Western movie.



TO REACH LOCKE, the motorist turns from Highway 160 to cross the Sacramento River into Walnut Grove. Locke is a mile farther to the north. (Map courtesy of California State Automobile Association)

WOODEN BUILDINGS with sagging porches that front on Locke's narrow main — and almost only — street give that San Joaquin Delta town the look of yesteryear, making a visit to it a nostalgic trip into the past for the visitor who might have grown up in just such a quiet, backwater town.

London Today Still Feels The Touch Of Charles Dickens

By PETER J. SHAW

LONDON — Charles Dickens died 100 years ago June 9 but time has spared some of the Victorian London he immortalized in words.

The fogs, poorhouses and wretched prisons so vividly portrayed by the great novelist have vanished.

Left behind, however, and almost as Dickens knew them, are haunts of David Copperfield, Ebenezer Scrooge, Oliver Twist, the Pickwickians and other characters born of his quill pen.

THE HORN TAVERN in Knightrider Street is little altered from the day when Mr. Pickwick sent a messenger there from Fleet Prison to get him "a bottle or six" of wine.

Similarly surviving is the George and Vulture tavern in Castle Court, where Dickens and his Pickwickians ate and where Ebenezer Scrooge likely supped before groping through the fog to his rooms up a nearby yard that fateful Christmas Eve.

But such unsullied nooks in modern London are a legacy Dickens himself might have scorned.

"DICKENS HAD NO great eye for architecture and he was not a lover of old buildings," writes Michael Hardwick in "Dickens' England."

If Dickens had had his way, Hardwick says, "he would have pulled down all those old places which people today find so romantic and built new homes for working people."

Hardwick's book is but one of many deluging bookstalls to mark the centenary of Dickens' death. The author's 38 principal works are being reprinted in special editions and his manuscripts are featured in several museums throughout the summer.

THERE WILL BE concerts, plays and readings in his memory. Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother will be among those who will gather at his grave in Westminister Abbey at noon next Tuesday to lead hundreds at a memorial service.

A century after his death, one place closely linked with Dickens is under fire as a possible mistake. Dickens scholars are voicing doubt the famous Old Curiosity Shop in Portsmouth Street is the one Dickens had in mind.

They say the shop probably was located in Green Street, behind the National Gallery, and vanished long ago. No one seems sure just when.

DICKENS WAS 58 when a massive stroke brought on by overwork killed him at the dinner table.

He had in his energetic lifetime sired 10 children, left his wife Catherine of 22 years for an 18-year-old actress and climbed from childhood poverty to the pinnacle of success as social critic, storyteller and reformer.

A short man with a beard and dazzling eyes, Dickens dressed flamboyantly. A red geranium, his favorite flower, was often in his buttonhole.

INWARDLY, DICKENS was turbulent and romantic. Outwardly, he was active and efficient. Scholars now agree he was an idealist of family life.

Dickens was in love with London as much as he hated its social inequities. The descriptive powers that urged public opinion to demand great social reforms also limned the soft heart of a great city.

Much of Dickens' London since 1870 has disappeared or changed beyond recognition as the author knew it, yet there's a goodly list of what remains intact, including Dickens' House at 48 Doughty Street, where the author lived from March, 1837, to December, 1839. Here he wrote "Oliver Twist" and "Nicholas Nickelby," finished the "Pickwick Papers" and began "Barnaby Rudge." His writing desk and chair are preserved.

The Grapes pub in Limehouse. Dickens called it Six Jolly Fellowship Porters in "Our Mutual Friend."

Ely Place, where David Copperfield looked up at the clock on St. Andrew's Church.

STAPLE INN, Holborn. The first courtyard is virtually unchanged from when Dickens wrote in Edwin Drood: " . . . turning into it out of the clashing street, it imparts to the relieved pedestrian the sensation of having put cotton in his ears, and velvet soles on his boots. It is one of those nooks where a few smoky sparrows twitter in smoky trees, as though they call to one another, 'let us play at country' ."

The Temple Inns. This ancient legal stronghold figures in many Dickens' books with loving detail.

London Transport, in association with the Dickens Fellowship, has compiled an alphabetical listing of all points of interest to Dickensian buffs called "The London of Charles Dickens."

On What To Wear And What To Pack

By MURRAY J. BROWN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Think light when planning a travel wardrobe, whether for a weekend visit to a nearby resort or a month-long tour of foreign lands. It could save headaches and money.

Traveling light should be no problem in this day of synthetics. Building a wardrobe around wash-and-wear and permanent-press material means savings on laundry and tailor bills. These can add up to a tidy sum, particularly on long trips.

You could save on porter and bellboy tips, too. Many travelers usually tip more for heavier bags than for light ones. Then again, it will be easier on you if you can't find someone else to carry your luggage—it happens.

IF YOU ARE traveling by plane, you will have to pay extra if you exceed the free weight limitations set by international and domestic air associations.

On international flights, passengers may check free of charge luggage weighing up to 66 pounds for a first-class ticket and 44 pounds for economy. Personal articles, such as purse, coat and camera, which can be carried into the cabin, are not weighed. But briefcases, parcels, typewriters and overnight bags are.

On flights within the United States, under a recent agreement approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board, airlines will carry two bags weighing no more than 70 pounds apiece for each passenger without charge. Anything heavier will cost extra. But personal articles and other items of limited size carried on by the passenger are not included and still go free.

BAGGAGE allowances on ships, buses and trains usually are more liberal, but even the wise traveler will avoid the temptation to overpack.

Naturally, the travel wardrobe will depend on where you are going, what you will do and the climate. Remember the seasons are different in the northern and southern hemispheres—when it is summer here, it is winter there and so on.

But regardless, you should have little difficulty in staying within even the 44-pound limit. A good rule of thumb if you are going overseas is to dress as you would under similar circumstances at home. Shorts, midriffs, slacks, aloha shirts may be appropriate for the beach and countryside but are as out of place on the boulevards of major cities in Europe, Asia and elsewhere as they are in New York, San Francisco, Chicago and Boston.

ANOTHER POINT to remember is that you probably won't see the same people more than once on your travels so you don't have to pack numerous changes. And it is not necessary to buy a whole new wardrobe—you will be meeting strangers who won't know whether your suit or gown is new or old, and probably won't care.

Take clothing you like and feel most relaxed in. And don't forget to include a pair of comfortable walking shoes for sightseeing and shopping.

For men and women, the secret to traveling lightly is mix-and-match. Stick to one basic color scheme and simple styles and leave the wild plaids and patterns in the closet at home.

MY BASIC wardrobe, for instance, includes:

One dark blue and one light gray suit, one neutral sports jacket and two pairs of slacks (up to 10 different outfits by mixing and matching), two pairs of pajamas, six ties, one pair of dress shoes and a pair of broken-in loafers, one sweater, one "sleep and shave" coat and an all-weather outer coat. I wear a jacket and slacks outfit and carry the coat over my arm while traveling.

Except for the suits, coats and shoes, all are permanent-press and wash-and-wear materials. I toss several packets of detergent into my shave kit to do my laundering on the go. Incidentally, if you want to take your electric razor or hair-dryer you will probably have to buy converters—voltages overseas are usually different than in the United States.

FOR WOMEN, my wife suggests the following basic wardrobe:

A raincoat dressy enough to wear during evenings, two knit suits (great for traveling), three daytime and three after-dark frocks, two extra skirts, six blouses, shirts and sweaters (for mixing and matching with the four skirts), four sets of lingerie, two girdles, two nightgowns or pajamas, six pairs of the same color nylons or panty-hose, a light bathrobe, three pairs of shoes—one dress, one casual and one for walking—and a pair of scuffs or house slippers.

Also two purses, one for daytime and traveling and the other for evening wear, six scarves of various colors to wear with the suits, skirts and dresses, and a selection of necklaces, ear rings, pins and other costume jewelry to add variety to the different outfits.

SHE WEARS a suit and carfor the raincoat while traveling.

Leave your good jewelry and fine furs at home unless you expect to mingle with high society or do lots of opera and theatergoing. If you do take them along, have them locked in the hotel safe when not being worn.

For cruises, beach and mountains, add swim suits and other resort wear. If formal events are scheduled, don't forget to pack your accessories along with your tuxedo or gown.

My wardrobe packs easily in a two-suiter while my wife uses a 29-inch pullman case. And there still is lots of room for purchases we may make on our travels.

The Biography Of A Marinite Tells Too Little Of The Man

WILLIAM PENN PATRICK by R. C. Allen; Best Books, 145 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

William Penn Patrick, Marin's remarkably successful cosmetics magnate and extremely controversial right-wing political figure, could be the subject of a most interesting book that would tell us much about our times. But this is no such book.

While it is labeled "a biography by R. C. Allen," it reads more like a "commissioned" promotional piece for Patrick the person and for his Holiday Magic business empire.

Allen, a veteran plower of the positive thinking furrows, gives us a thin book devoted largely to Patrick's own quotations summarizing — and re-summarizing — his personal philosophy of devotion to country, to the free enterprise system, to hard work and to the motivational pattern that is generally categorized as "positive thinking."

Allen quotes Patrick: " . . .if I can find 10 men, before I die, who can stand up as strong and unwavering in the Truth as I can and, if one of those 10 men can step out as the leader, then I will consider my life a success."

No shrinking violet, Bill Patrick. Yet even he might be embarrassed by the overly-effusive tone in which Allen sings his praises in the scant material by which the author connects Patrick's own monologues.

What biography there is to be found in the book after some skimpy coverage of Patrick's early years and meteoric rise in business revolves largely around Holiday Magic and his incentive, training and sales techniques employed there. There is a chapter on Patrick's California gubernatorial campaign. But one learns from it very little about the ultra-conservative cast of the Patrick platform. In fact, it is an account remarkably shy in details. For that matter, the Holiday Magic material also raises as many questions as it provides answers. For instance, we learn of Patrick's struggles with various state governments concerning his distribution methods — and of his eventual triumphs. But we are never told very specifically just what the controversy was all about.

The dynamic Patrick is unquestionably a fascinating personality who has left his mark upon the business and political worlds, and who, no doubt, will continue to be heard from in the future.He is deserving of something better than this one-dimensional piece which, if you will pardon the immodesty, tells us less about Patrick the man than did a one-page "Profile of a Marinite" feature that appeared in this magazine some time back. We are not urging a hatchet job upon this outspoken, strong-minded Marinite. That, too, has already been done — too often. Simply a study, or true biography, of some objectivity.

Patrick apparently is quite big right now with those who insist that the American system can still produce its Horatio Alger-type success stories, given the right kind of material with which to work. He is the subject of one entire chapter in "Succeed and Grow Rich Through Persuasion" (Hawthorn, $5.95) by Napoleon Hill and E. Harold Keown whose earlier work along this same line has enjoyed immense sales. It includes a long interview. And the co-authors rate Patrick as second only to another millionaire, W. Clement Stone, as a living and "splendid" example of the rewards of the Science of Personal Achievement philosophy they expound.

"A man to watch, a man who knows, and knows that he knows . . . He is a man to follow," they write of Patrick. R. C. Allen couldn't say it more flatteringly. But he tries.

A New Novel About Mussolini's Lost Millions

TREASURE by A. E. Hotchner; Random House, 304 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Wayne Hathaway.

April 1945, Milan, Italy: Front page photographs in all major newspapers show Benito Mussolini and Claretta Petacci, his mistress, hanging by their feet in front of a Milan gas station. Those of us who remember World War II will never forget those pictures.

Mussolini's violent end came at the hands of Italian partisans as he fled before the Allied advance, attempting to reach sanctuary in Switzerland. However, the fate of some 100 million dollars in currency, gold and jewels that he was known to have with him remains a mystery.

This intriguing puzzle is the basis of Hotchner's novel which begins in 1969 as Paul Selwyn is released from an Italian prison after serving 24 years for the murder of one of his fellow members of an allied investigating team attempting to trace the missing treasure.

Paul is consumed by the desire to be compensated for the 24 years of his life he has lost. He seeks to do this by launching an archeological expedition with his former compatriots as a cover for his search for the missing treasure that he feels is still in the area.

In addition to his search for the missing treasure Paul spends considerable time searching for the sexual virility he apparently lost during his imprisonment. He finally recovers his potency with the assistance of the daughter of the man he was convicted of murdering. (The head-shrinkers should have a field day with that.)

Paul gradually becomes aware that the treasure was not all lost; his fellow investigators had managed to recover some of it 24 years ago and used it to launch their successful civilian careers. He also finds the rest of the treasure;but this scene stretches credibility well beyond the breaking point.

In his book, Hotchner has passed up the opportunity to write two novels. He could have written a sensitive, moving story about a man in search of potency, or he could have drawn upon the fascinating historical events surrounding the disappearance of the treasure to write a gripping mystery; however, he did neither. His characters and situations are just not quite believable.

He could benefit greatly from study of the works of his friend Hemingway.

Contrived Modern Version Of Greek Tragedy

THE KILLING GROUND by Steven Linakis; McKay, 182 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Bob Raab.

A Long Island housewife is raped by two hoodlums. She knows the identity of the men and so it seems justice should be served swiftly. Not so.

Our housewife is an irresistible beauty who moonlights as an exotic dancer. The rape takes place in a sleazy nightclub. Her accosters are members of the Mafia and the Family pays off or threatens everybody in sight from police detectives through district attorney, even the victim's lawyer.

Her husband relentlessly pursues justice but is hampered by a criminal record for — rape. Finally, skewered between frustration and rage, he attempts to assassinate his tormentors. He fails and nearly gets killed by his own 45, which fortuitously misfires three or four times. At the end our protagonist, Johnny Hutchinson, is thrown out of his mother-in-law's house where his wife and family are staying after leaving him.

This is the second novel by Linakis. It is impossible to get emotionally involved with the characters in this book because they are one-dimensional.

Linakis can move things along in brisk fashion but his modern version of a Greek tragedy is too contrived, too strained, to be effective.

Marin Homemaker Joins Science Fiction Writers

STARBREED by Martha deMey Clow; Ballantine, 220 pages, paperback, 75 cents. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Martha deMey Clow, Ross housewife and mother of five children, has enjoyed the experience of having her first book manuscript accepted for publication.

It is also, she says, the first writing "for money" that she has done of any kind!

Her choice of the science fiction field, she says, was a natural one, "for my father fas an engineer who would read no fiction — except science fiction. So I read it, too."

Her book, written over a two-year period, is an imaginative, well-constructed, suspenseful tale of a menace confronting an already war-torn and suspicious earth by a hybrid, the offspring of centaurian and earthling, super intelligent and bent upon revenge against the civilization that has discriminated against and abused his kind. National and international politics are skillfully integrated with interstellar heroics.

The science fiction book market remains strong, and its supporters are certain to welcome Mrs. Clow to the ranks of favored suppliers.

The wife of certified public accountant John W. Clow, Mrs. Clow remains a homemaker. But she says, she is now also a professional writer as well.

THE BOOK PAGES

Has Man Pursued The Wrong Goals?

By DON KEOWN

PLEASURE by Dr. Alexander Lowen; Coward-McCann, 251 pages, $5.95.

The fundamental difficulty in which American society finds itself today stems from its wrong choice of objectives, writes Dr. Alexander Lowen, psychiatrist, in his "Pleasure: A Creative Approach to Life."

Goal-oriented Americans strive for profit, for power and for prestige.

Better, advises Dr. Lowen, that they should aim for pleasure.

This will strike many older generation Americans, accustomed to a system that glorifies work and derides play, as heresy.

But, when Dr. Lowen speaks of "pleasure," he is not referring to what we commonly call "fun" — that compulsive, almost frantic reaching out, often through childish escapades, for at least momentary change by denying life's serious realities. This obsession with the fallacy of fun only renders a person immune to genuine pleasure, Dr. Lowen argues.

What the author means by pleasure is a condition in which the person is wholly alive, breathing deeply, moving freely and feeling fully. "A person," he writes, "is in a state of pleasure when the movements of his body flow . . .rhythmically and in harmony with his surroundings."

It is, then, basically a condition of the body, not of the mind. But man has rejected his body and physical pleasures in favor of his mentality which he exalts. Thus, as for instance in our puritannical sexual mores, we have restricted our freedom to enjoy life and to experience true pleasure.

Bioenergetics is a therapeutic approach practiced by Dr. Lowen to return to man his sense of bodily harmony. It is advocated by the Institute of Bio-Energetic Analysis in New York City that he directs. And it is touched on rather lightly in his book, with an emphasis on proper breathing, although he is more concerned here with delineating the problem than he is in describing or prescribing curative techniques.

The problem has arisen, Lowen reasons, because man has allowed his ego to become the master of his body, not vice versa, as was intended.

And the ego desires power, while the body years for pleasure. When ego triumphs, the body is denied its pleasure. And the result is a frustrated, angry, self-destructive person caught up in what we commonly call "the rat race" of modern-day society.

"Man is a creative being, not a productive one," Dr. Lowen writes. "He is, in other words, biologically structured for pleasure, not for efficiency. Yet out of his pleasures have come great achievements. Unfortunately, out of his achievements he has found little joy; because productivity has become more important than pleasure."

With pleasure, "the only force strong enough to oppose the potential destructiveness of power," life is a creative adventure, Dr. Lowen tells us. Without pleasure, life is a grim and joyless struggle for survival.

With old codes and behavior patterns collapsing, Dr. Lowen believes we now have our opportunity to install this creative approach to life — providing we comprehend what creativity truly involves. "The creative person sees the world with a fresh vision . . . He starts with the proposition that he doesn't know the answers . . .The creative impulse begins with the imagination of the child but aims at the fulfillment of adult needs. The fusion of adult realism and childlike imagination is the key to all creative action . . ."

Dr. Lowen offers these steps by which the individual can remove himself from the ego's tyranny and its denial of reality:

1. The identification of oneself with one's body, rather than with the ego image.

2. Recognition of the pleasure principle as the basis for one's conscious action — that the natural motivation for all actions is the quest for pleasure and the avoidance of pain.

3. The acceptance of one's feelings — our spontaneous responses to our environment — as opposed to the manufactured products of our minds and wills.

4. An understanding of the interdependence of all personality functions — "thinking is related to feelings and determined by bodily responses . . .Even at its most abstract, thinking is not dissociated from its connection with the human condition."

5. The development of humility — the realization of man's relatively helpless position in regard to the most serious matters in this universe. "We do not make it (human life) and we cannot preserve it eternally. Our conscious concerns should be to live it fully."

"In a creative person," Dr. Lowen summarizes, "there is no separation or barrier between the child and the adult, between the heart and the mind, between the ego and the body."

Dr. Lowen may very well have put his fingers on the basic malaise of today's restless society. Perhaps his pleasure-oriented society — "pleasure" in its finest, fullest sense, as he defines it — is, indeed, the antidote to the failures of today's profit and power motivated people who have discovered that their profits rarely purchase them real satisfaction and that their power seldom commands them true enjoyment.

Certainly "Pleasure" is a persuasive exposition of an important thesis that deserves, indeed demands, our most thoughtful consideration.

Sleuths & Suspense

THE ASSASSIN by Evelyn Anthony; Coward - McCann, 253 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Evelyn Anthony, an English writer who divides her time between contemporary suspense and historical fiction, establishes herself as a challenger to Helen MacInnes, best of the women specializing in the first genre, with this expertly-crafted novel.

Elizabeth Cameron agrees to do a favor for her wealthy, politically-involved uncle — to travel to Lebanon and bring back with her into the United States a mystery man.

Unknown to the beautiful Miss Cameron, her companion is a hired professional assassin.

But she does find herself attracted to him and ultimately romantically involved.

Both the pace and suspense build steadily, and we thought the conclusion an appropriate and satisfying one that we won't spoil for you by giving it away.

If Evelyn Anthony is not quite yet the equal of Helen MacInnes, it is because the political background for "The Assassin" is just a bit too simplistic and naive. But the novel makes splendid reading fare, guaranteed to entertain and intrigue the reader who likes his or her spy thriller fiction sprinkled with romance yet laced with action.

EVELYN ANTHONY
A challenger for Helen MacInnes

"TWA'S BUDGET Guide to San Francisco" and "TWA's Budget Guide to Paris" are Arthur Frommer publications, distributed by Simon and Schuster, but the expense level is several cuts above the $5-a-day class.

These $1 paperbacks are intended for travelers of moderate, but not stringent, means. In San Francisco, the hotel range is between $12 and $16 a night for a double room, and meals vary from $2 to $4. In Paris, those figures are $11 and $15, and $2 to $3.

So fast-changing is the business of catering to tourists that the information compiled in 1969 for the San Francisco book is already outdated in a number of instances — the Hungry i, for instance, is no more. And the theater scene has changed considerably. But John Godwin, the author, has come up with a number of bargain ideas including some of our own favorites — the El Cortez Hotel for instance, and the Little Sweden restaurant with its splendid smorgasbord. With its eating and sleeping suggestions, its sightseeing ideas, etc., the book is easily worth a buck to the San Francisco visitor, and we recommend it unhesitatingly.

We are in a poorer position to evaluate the Paris guide, compiled by Godwin and Beth Bryant, but we were sufficiently impressed to have wished we had had it with us two years ago when we were hunting for that cuisine for which Paris is famous.

As added bonuses, both books contain detachable coupons calling for 10 per cent discounts at various establishments for the holder.

IT IS AN unfortunate indicator of today's conditions that "Practical Ways to Prevent Burglary and Illegal Entry" must be considered as timely.

The $1.45 Cornerstone Library paperback, distributed by Simon and Schuster, was written by consumer research consultant Val Moolman and deals largely with effective devices such as locks and alarms to thwart intruders.

The material on locks is especially exhaustive and there are illustrations of the various recommended devices.

"It is difficult to be overcautious," advises Moolman. And one suspects that a good, sound locks system is better protection against criminals than any gun — which may only wind up in the hands of the burglar if he enters while you are absent from home, or beats you to it.

BALLANTINE has added four more $1 paperbacks to its Illustrated History of World War II series — "PT Boats" by Bryan Cooper, "Airborne" by Charles MacDonald, "The Nuremberg Rallies" by Alan Wykes and "The Defense of Moscow" by Geoffrey Jukes, with the Nuremberg book a particularly important addition to the understanding of the beginnings of one of man's bloodiest episodes.

Last Album By Judy Garland Is A Collector's Item For Her Fans

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Those who were close to Judy Garland said she became emotionally involved whenever she sang "Over the Rainbow."

The song of hope by E. Y. Harburg and Harold Allen was Judy's first number in "The Wizard of Oz" and it remained a part of her throughout her life.

So it must have been an act of fate that made "Over the Rainbow" Judy's last song. It closed her engagement at a London night spot early in 1969 and only shortly thereafter Judy was dead.

Her husband used a tape recorder from his table to preserve her songs in this performance. These tapes form Judy's last album, "Judy, London, 1969" (June S-1000).

The sound reproduction is not as fine as in the confines of a studio but this is an asset. Judy is caught in a relaxed and witty mood as she banters with the cabaret audience with joins her on "For Me and My Gal."

The album includes two songs recorded by Judy for the first time—"I Belong to London" and "Just In Time." And there is an uninhibited rendition of "San Francisco."

But the last number, "Over the Rainbow," is an experience. Many years had passed since Judy first sang it in "The Wizard of Oz" but in this final performance is seems that time has rolled back and Judy is Dorothy once more. It is a collector's item for Judy Garland's fans.

SELECTED SINGLES—"Why Can't I Touch You" by Donna Theodore (Jubilee JB 5693), "Sweet Feeling" by Candi Station (Fame P-1466), "I'm Gonna Give You All My Love" by Garrett Scott (Mercury 73052), "Time To Get Together" by Smokey Roberts (Capitol PRO-5011), "Where's Everybody Going" by John Fred and His Playboy Band (Uni 55220), "Welfare Man" by Sonny Charles (A&M 1177).

TAPE DECK—The success of the controversial tribal rock musical, "Hair," on Broadway won begrudging admiration for Galt MacDermot's music from the show's harshest critics. Additional music by MacDermot recently was issued on a record "DisinHAIRited" (RCA LSO-2163) and is now available on eight-track stereo cartridge (RCA 08S-1043) and cassette (RCA OK-1043). Some of the music on "DisinHAIRited" is as wild as the music from "Hair."

ARTIST Edith Olson, a Marinite 10 years and a resident of San Anselmo, is currently showing her paintings at the Torrance Galleries in her home city. She is a native of Riga, Latvia, and has studied in Latvia and Germany and under Bay Area instructors, but is largely self-taught. She is a representational painter who has had her work shown widely in the Bay Area, and who has sold her art from coast to coast. Her show at Torrance Galleries has been extended through June 19. Also on display there, through next Friday, is work by Fay Bennett. (Photo by Tom O'Connell)

Tips on Purchase and Home Care of Your Wardrobe

MARIN CLEANERS Phone 454-4792—Member N.I.D. of San Rafael, Bel Aire & Fairfax

"Who Removed the Beading From My Expensive Dress?"

The beading was not "removed" by anyone. The beading on your dress was of plastic which dissolved in drycleaning solvent. As you mention, your dress was imported and high-priced. The trouble is that foreign manufacturers are not alert to the fact or do not care, that some plastics will dissolve in drycleaning. American manufacturers know this problem and do not use plastic beads and decorations that dissolve.

There is no way in which the loss of the beads on your dress can be restored. The fault is that of the manufacturer. Care should be taken in selecting beaded garments bearing foreign labels.

Marin Poets' Corner

(Editor's Note: The Independent-Journal, the I-J's Marin Magazine Poet's Corner and the Marin poets who supply its verse have been honored by the Ina Coolbrith Circle, Northern California literary organization, with a special citation for having published the greatest number of poems of any California newspaper in 1968-69. At the same time the Circle announced a citation for the Los Altos News for its contributions to the promotion of the art of poetry and verse in 1968 and 1969. James W. McLaughlin of Belmont is the Ina Coolbrith Circle president.)

SONG OF THE PAMPAS GRASS

'Tis pampas time once again
And giant-tall they stand
Enticing feathered panicles
Sheathed within a magic band
Aloof amid a ring of sharpened knives
Out to catch the wary
Lest watchfulness he does not exercise—
Slowly swaying in the winds
Slowly saying: "Feel the softness of the silk
Of my brush embrace—
If you can—upon your face . . .
You can—you can
Upon your face."

NOVATO DOROTHY HEFFINGTON

THREE NEW ROSES have been awarded All-American Rose Selections recognition for 1971. They are, left to right, the Aquarius, a grandiflora outstanding for its tall, vigorous growth and its beautifully marked pink blooms; Command Performance, a hybrid tea with fragrant, orange-red blooms on a compact, shapely plant, and Redgold, a bi-color floribunda with yellow and hot red blooms on a low, bushy plant. The last was hybridized in Ireland.

The All-American Rose Lineup For 1971

By EARL ARONSON

The 1971 All-America Rose Selections award-winning roses offer a choice for those favoring the grandiflora, the tea or the floribunda. That's because there are three winners.

Last year there was only one, and it was a grandiflora

Here are the 1971 champions, chosen after field and garden tests in various areas of the country:

THE GRANDIFLORA Aquarius, which has 30 to 35 nicely arranged petals of light pink, brushed with deep pink at the margins to make a pleasing contrast.

The buds are well-shaped and grow rather profusely on long, sturdy stems. The medium-sized, mildly fragrant flowers generally grow on single stems, sometimes in long-stemmed clusters. They are fine for cutting.

The roses are long-lasting and grow continuously during the season. The plants, tall and vigorous, have semi-glossy foliage.

THE HYBRID TEA, Command Performance, is a bright orange-red, somewhat fluorescent, with graceful buds that open to high-centered, many petaled star-shaped flowers.

They have good persisting fragrance and grow on long, strong stems that make them very showy for garden or flower arrangements.

THE FLORIBUNDA is the bright Redgold, bound to stand out in your garden.

Chrome yellow buds open slowly to flowers of the same hue, gradually acquiring brick-red edges that darken as the flower opens all the way. You will have blossoms that grow singly or in clusters, two inches across. The outer petals are slightly frilled. The flowers resemble miniature tea roses. They have a delicate fragrance and the roses last well.

The bushes average about two feet tall, are upright and bushy, with bright green foliage.

Aquarius is a cross between Armstrong Contrast, Fandango World's Fair Floradora. This is a hybrid by Dr. David L. Armstrong of Armstrong Nurseries, Ontario, Calif.

Command Performance is a hybrid of Bob Lindquist of the Howard Rose Co., of Hemet, Calif.

Redgold was hybridized by Pat Dickson in Ireland and is being put out by Jackson & Perkins. As to its parentage, you will recognize some of your favorites. First there were Independence, Peace, Golden Rapture and a seedling. Then came Goldilocks, Holiday, then Karl Herbst, Masquerade and Golden Scepter and just before Redgold, a seedling and Faust were the producers.

The AARS describes Aquarius as "exceptional in several respects — the color pattern of the open flower is unique among grandifloras especially, and the neat arrangement of the large number of light pink petals brushed with deep pink at the margins for pleasing contrast.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✓ Such plants as azaleas, camellias and rhododendrons should be fed this month with an acid-type fertilizer. Roses, fuchsias, chrysanthemums and hibiscus need regular feedings with complete plant food to keep their lush growth and bloom going.

✓ Pelargoniums and geraniums can be planted in full bloom now. Choose a sunny spot, and water them frequently.

✓ Consider some of the new floribunda roses as container plants. They'll thrive in large pots for years.

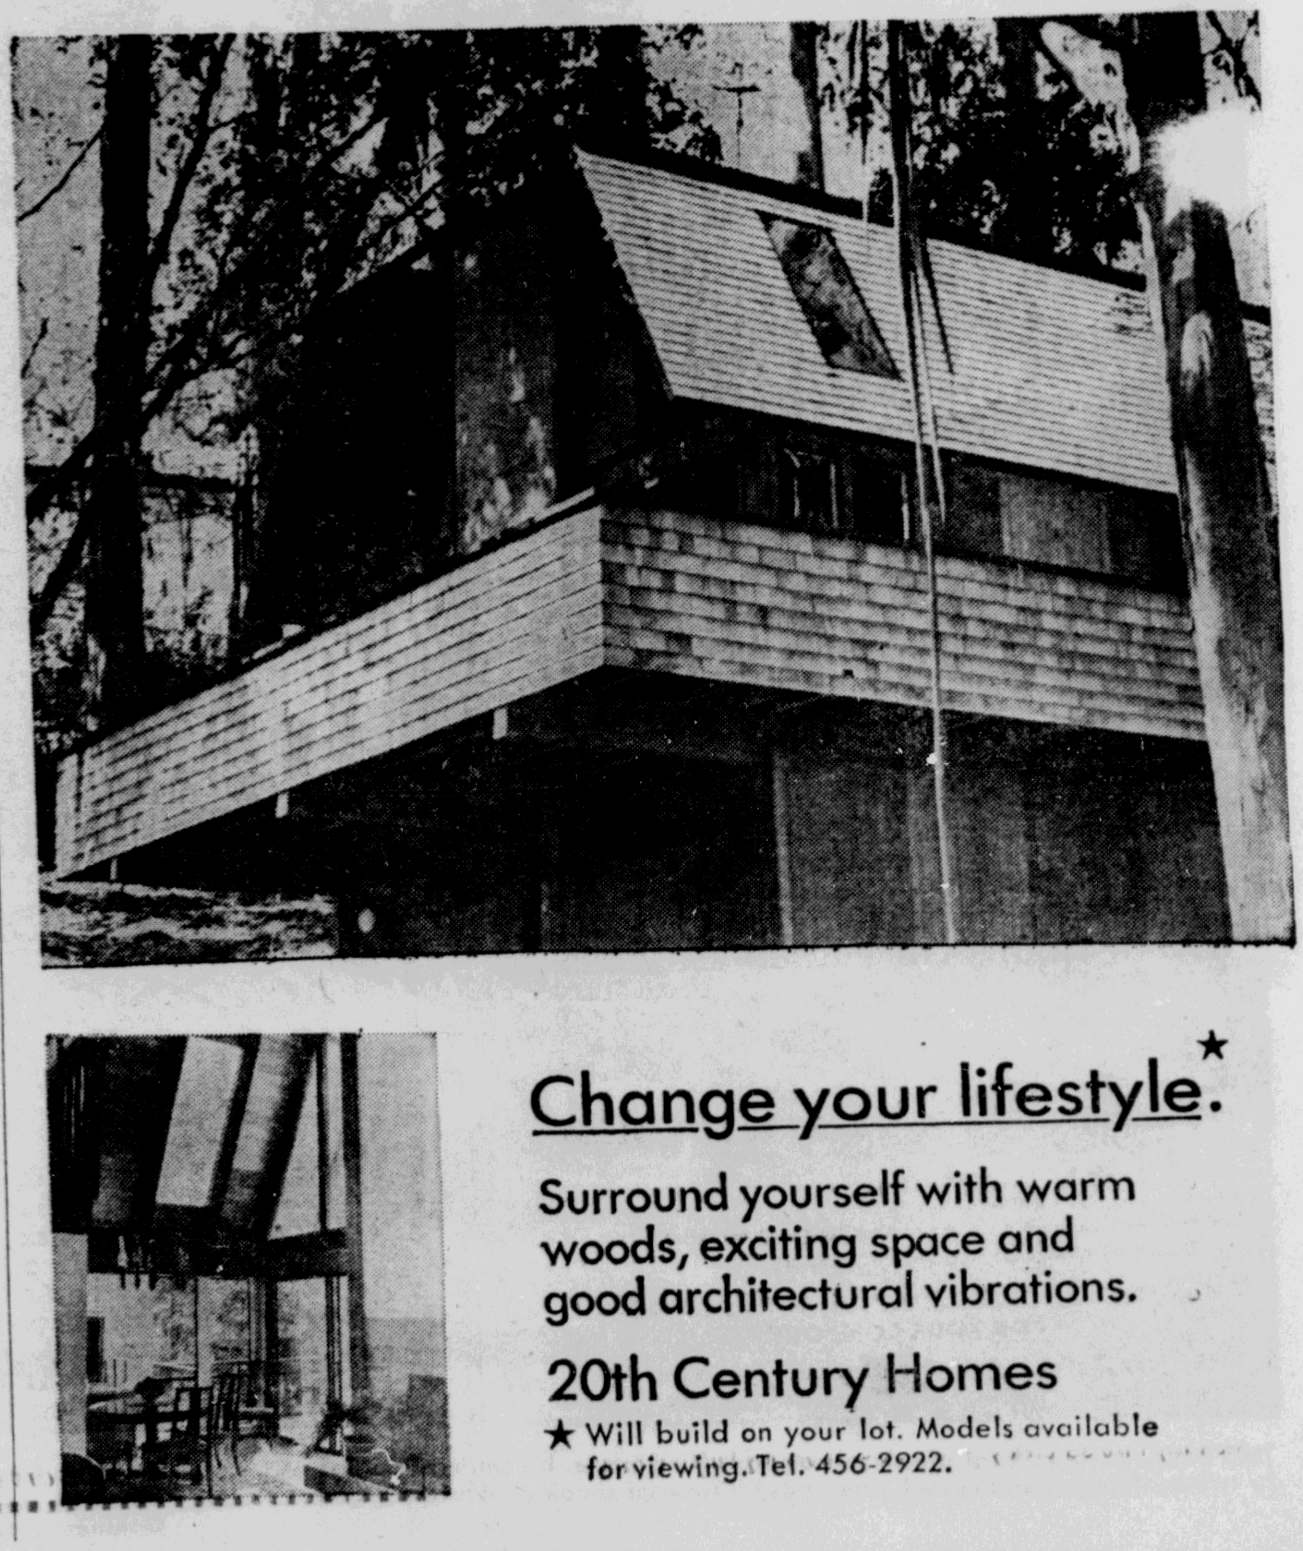
✓ June-planted fuchsias make a big splash of color in hanging baskets. Keep them well watered and pinch out the tips of new growth frequently to make the plants bushy and full of new flowering wood.

✓ Don't hesitate to thin out over-bearing fruit trees. This will result in larger, more perfect fruit.

✓ Begonias are excellent showpieces with evergreen shrubbery, in redwood planter boxes, or in raised beds.

✓ There is still time to plant annuals as bedding plants for quick garden color this summer. Nurseries are well stocked.

✓ In watering your lawn, concentrate on a deep soaking to do the grass the greatest good.



Change your lifestyle.★

Surround yourself with warm woods, exciting space and good architectural vibrations.

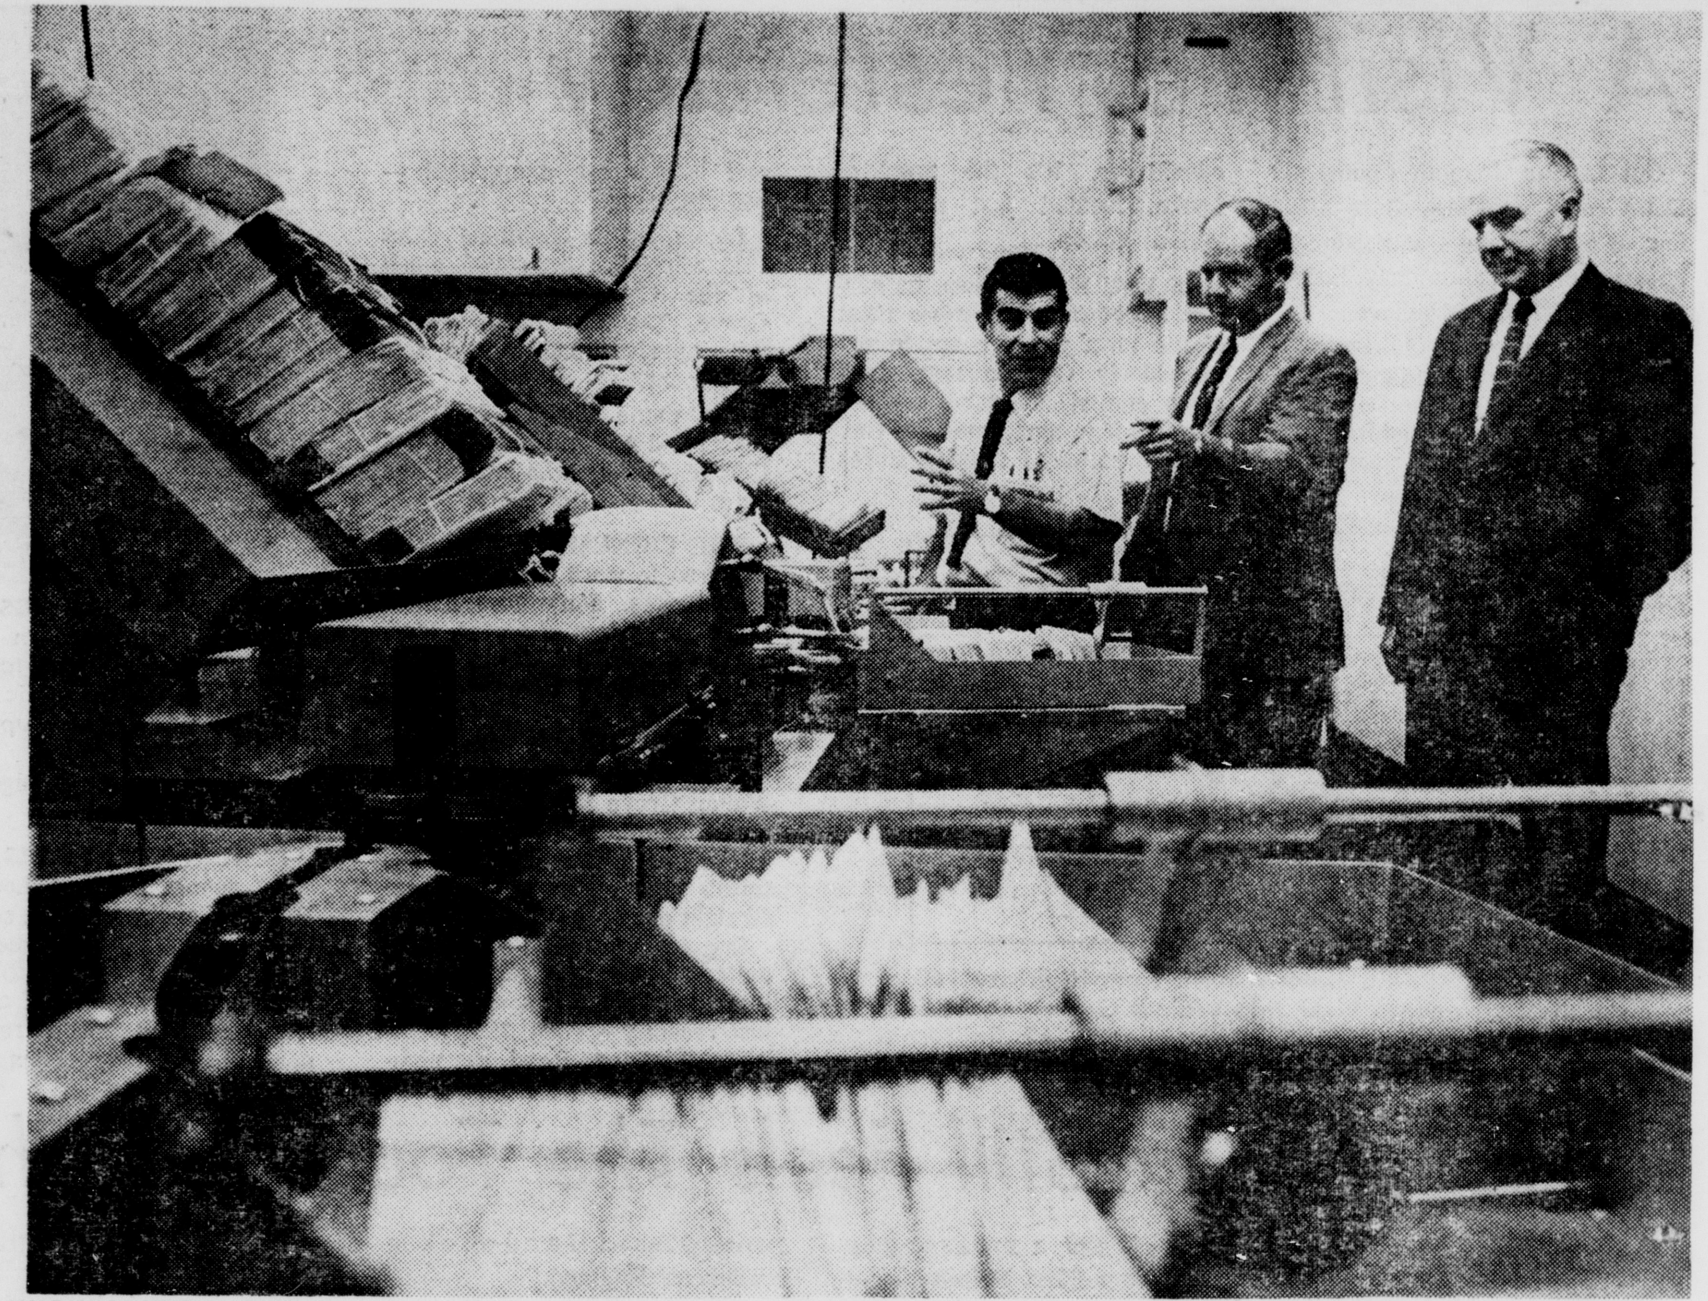
The Mail



HUGH CASSIDY, right, San Rafael's present postmaster, and his superintendent of mails, Donald W. Baird, center, discuss with Angelo Bon the operation of a Mark II Facer stamp-canceller that is among the modern equipment in use in the new main postoffice on Bellam Boulevard. Cassidy succeeded Warren Williams as acting San Rafael postmaster on Jan. 31, 1966.

exceedingly heavy and a fire was started in the sheds at the rear of the postoffice. One of the roof hoses was thrown down and this fire was extinguished.

"The prompt action of the postoffice crew stopped the fire from spreading to the McPhail Fuel Co. buildings. Another small fire did start in the Murray residence behind the postoffice (on Third), but was extinguished by the postoffice force.

"Meanwhile, Foreman Springett had completed preparing the mail for dispatch. Since it was realized that the. . .trucks could not operate to the postoffice, one clerk was sent to the highway entrance to hold them there, so that the mail could be shuttled to them by local vehicles that could negotiate the fire lines. This arrangement was successful and the regular exchanges of mail were made.

"IT WAS necessary to sort the mail in the loading area of the Northwestern Pacific freight sheds. It should be noted that this was done by three temporary clerks — (John) Abenschan, (Wayne) Cunningham and (James) Turner. These three managed the exchange of mails, made temporary provision for storage of mails and handled the exchange of registers without any supervision whatsoever.

"At the postoffice, the conflagration in the adjoining block was reaching its height. The fire had spread down the block and appeared ready to engulf the old two-story residence directly across the street from the postoffice. It had gotten completely into the paint store diagonally across the street.

"On the roof of the postoffice, the drains were stoppered with mail sacks to hold all the water possible on the roof.

"BY THIS time, shortly after 8 p.m., the postoffice was well inside the fire lines with hose crews and fire trucks operating directly in front of the postoffice. The postmaster and assistant were on the scene before the conflagration reached its height. Nearby apartments and postoffice vehicles were evacuated and preparations were made to remove the mail from the building.

"Shortly after 8 o'clock, power in the building went off. The front of the building was secured at this time and all windows closed to avoid any possibility of the swirling firebrands getting into the postoffice.

"Trucks were being moved beyond the fire lines, loaded with the household goods from the adjacent apartments. The first signs of panic were visible, as many householders tossed armloads of clothing and soft objects from the third story stairway.

"WITH THE paint store diagonally across the street burning, there was some danger of explosions from the paint and paint thinners stored in the rear of the building — the point closest to the postoffice.

"All the men, except the ones manning the fire hoses, were moved from the postoffice roof, and those remaining were warned to work from behind the protection of the parapets on the roof. Additional equipment arrived and brought a halt to the fire in the paint store. Shortly after 9 p.m., the fire had been checked, and it was apparent that, unless there was a disastrous turn, the danger to the postoffice was receding.

"The postoffice trucks were retrieved from their storage spaces some blocks from the postoffice. Coleman gasoline lanterns were procured to supply some illumination, and limited working of the mails commenced.

"THE 9 P.M. collection in the business areas was made about an hour late, but in time for the midnight dispatch. Collection boxes in the fire area were checked and found to be undamaged.

"Power was back on shortly after 10 p.m. The mail, stored, was brought to the postoffice and worked. By midnight, the office had returned to a regular schedule and the midnight PMT trucks operated in and out of the postoffice.

"Regular mail dispatches were made during the fire and deliveries were out on schedule in the morning."

NEVER HAD the spirit that neither fire nor flood must be allowed to stay the mails been better or more dramatically exemplified.

Under Hugh Cassidy's postmastership, the San Rafael postal employees have continued, under less exciting conditions and with modern equipment in pleasant surroundings, to render efficient and courteous service to appreciative patrons.

It is a service especially marked by the friendliness and cheerfulness of the men and women who man the windows in the postoffices, and who deliver the mails to homes and businesses.

Not only does the mail go through. But in San Rafael it goes through with smiles and warmth.

C.H. (PETE) HAYDEN, on the right, was postmaster when this photograph was taken inside the postoffice at Third and D streets. With him were Warren Williams, left, then assistant postmaster and later to become postmaster, and Thomas Falvey, superintendent of mails.

335 MOVE THE MAIL

The San Rafael postal system which began in 1851 with a part-time postmaster is composed today of 335 employees working under the direction of Postmaster Hugh Cassidy in the main and four branch postoffices and one vehicle maintenance unit to meet the needs of a growing population and a soaring volume of mail.

Personnel from the San Rafael, Civic Center, Kentfield and Terra Linda postoffices cover 70 routes in delivering mail to their patrons.

And the payroll of the 335 men and women processing and distributing the mails in San Rafael and its branch offices approximates $2,100,000 a year.

A Deck Adds To Your Summer Pleasure

Summer living is easy if landscaping is planned with leisure in mind. Some home owners who want an attrative outdoors with a minimum of gardening chores and maintenance find the answer in wood decking.

Besides its easy-care virtues, it can solve nicely the problems of uneven ground or sloping lots. Multi-levels can be connected by broad steps of matching decking that lead gently from one level to another.

EVERY OUTDOOR living center needs greenery and color. In situations where decks dominate the landscaping, certain areas are usually left open for level or raised planting beds, and tubs or pots of blossoming plants are used effectively.

The advantage is that you can choose exactly how much planting area you want to tend.

Contemporary decks are most often made of two-by-fours laid flat or on edge. The flat installation takes less lumber but has a shorter span and thus requires more supports than lumber laid on edge.

Wider dimensions may be used to create a more traditional appearance. Douglas fir makes excellent decking.

THE WOOD MAY be stained or left to weather. It generally takes about a year for it to attain a mellow sheen if left unfinished.

Members in contact with the ground should be treated with preservative.

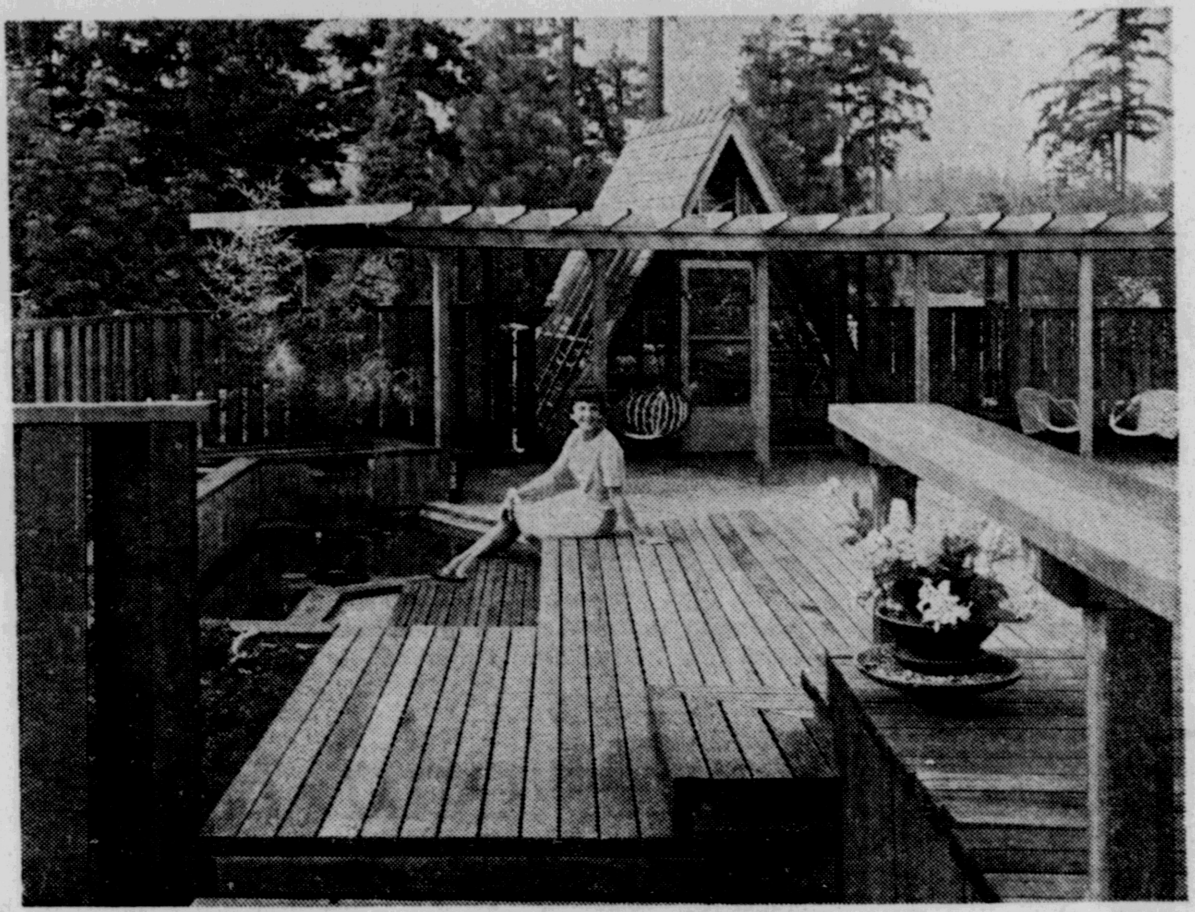
Benches do double duty by serving as low railings when built along the edge of steps. A two-by-12 inch plank will make a narrow bench-rail. Wider ones may be made from spaced lumber of narrower dimension.

Fencing is important because it defines the space and in most instances gives needed privacy. It may also serve as a windscreen, and for this purpose a good design is a fence of one-by-six inch resawn red cedar, board-on-board.

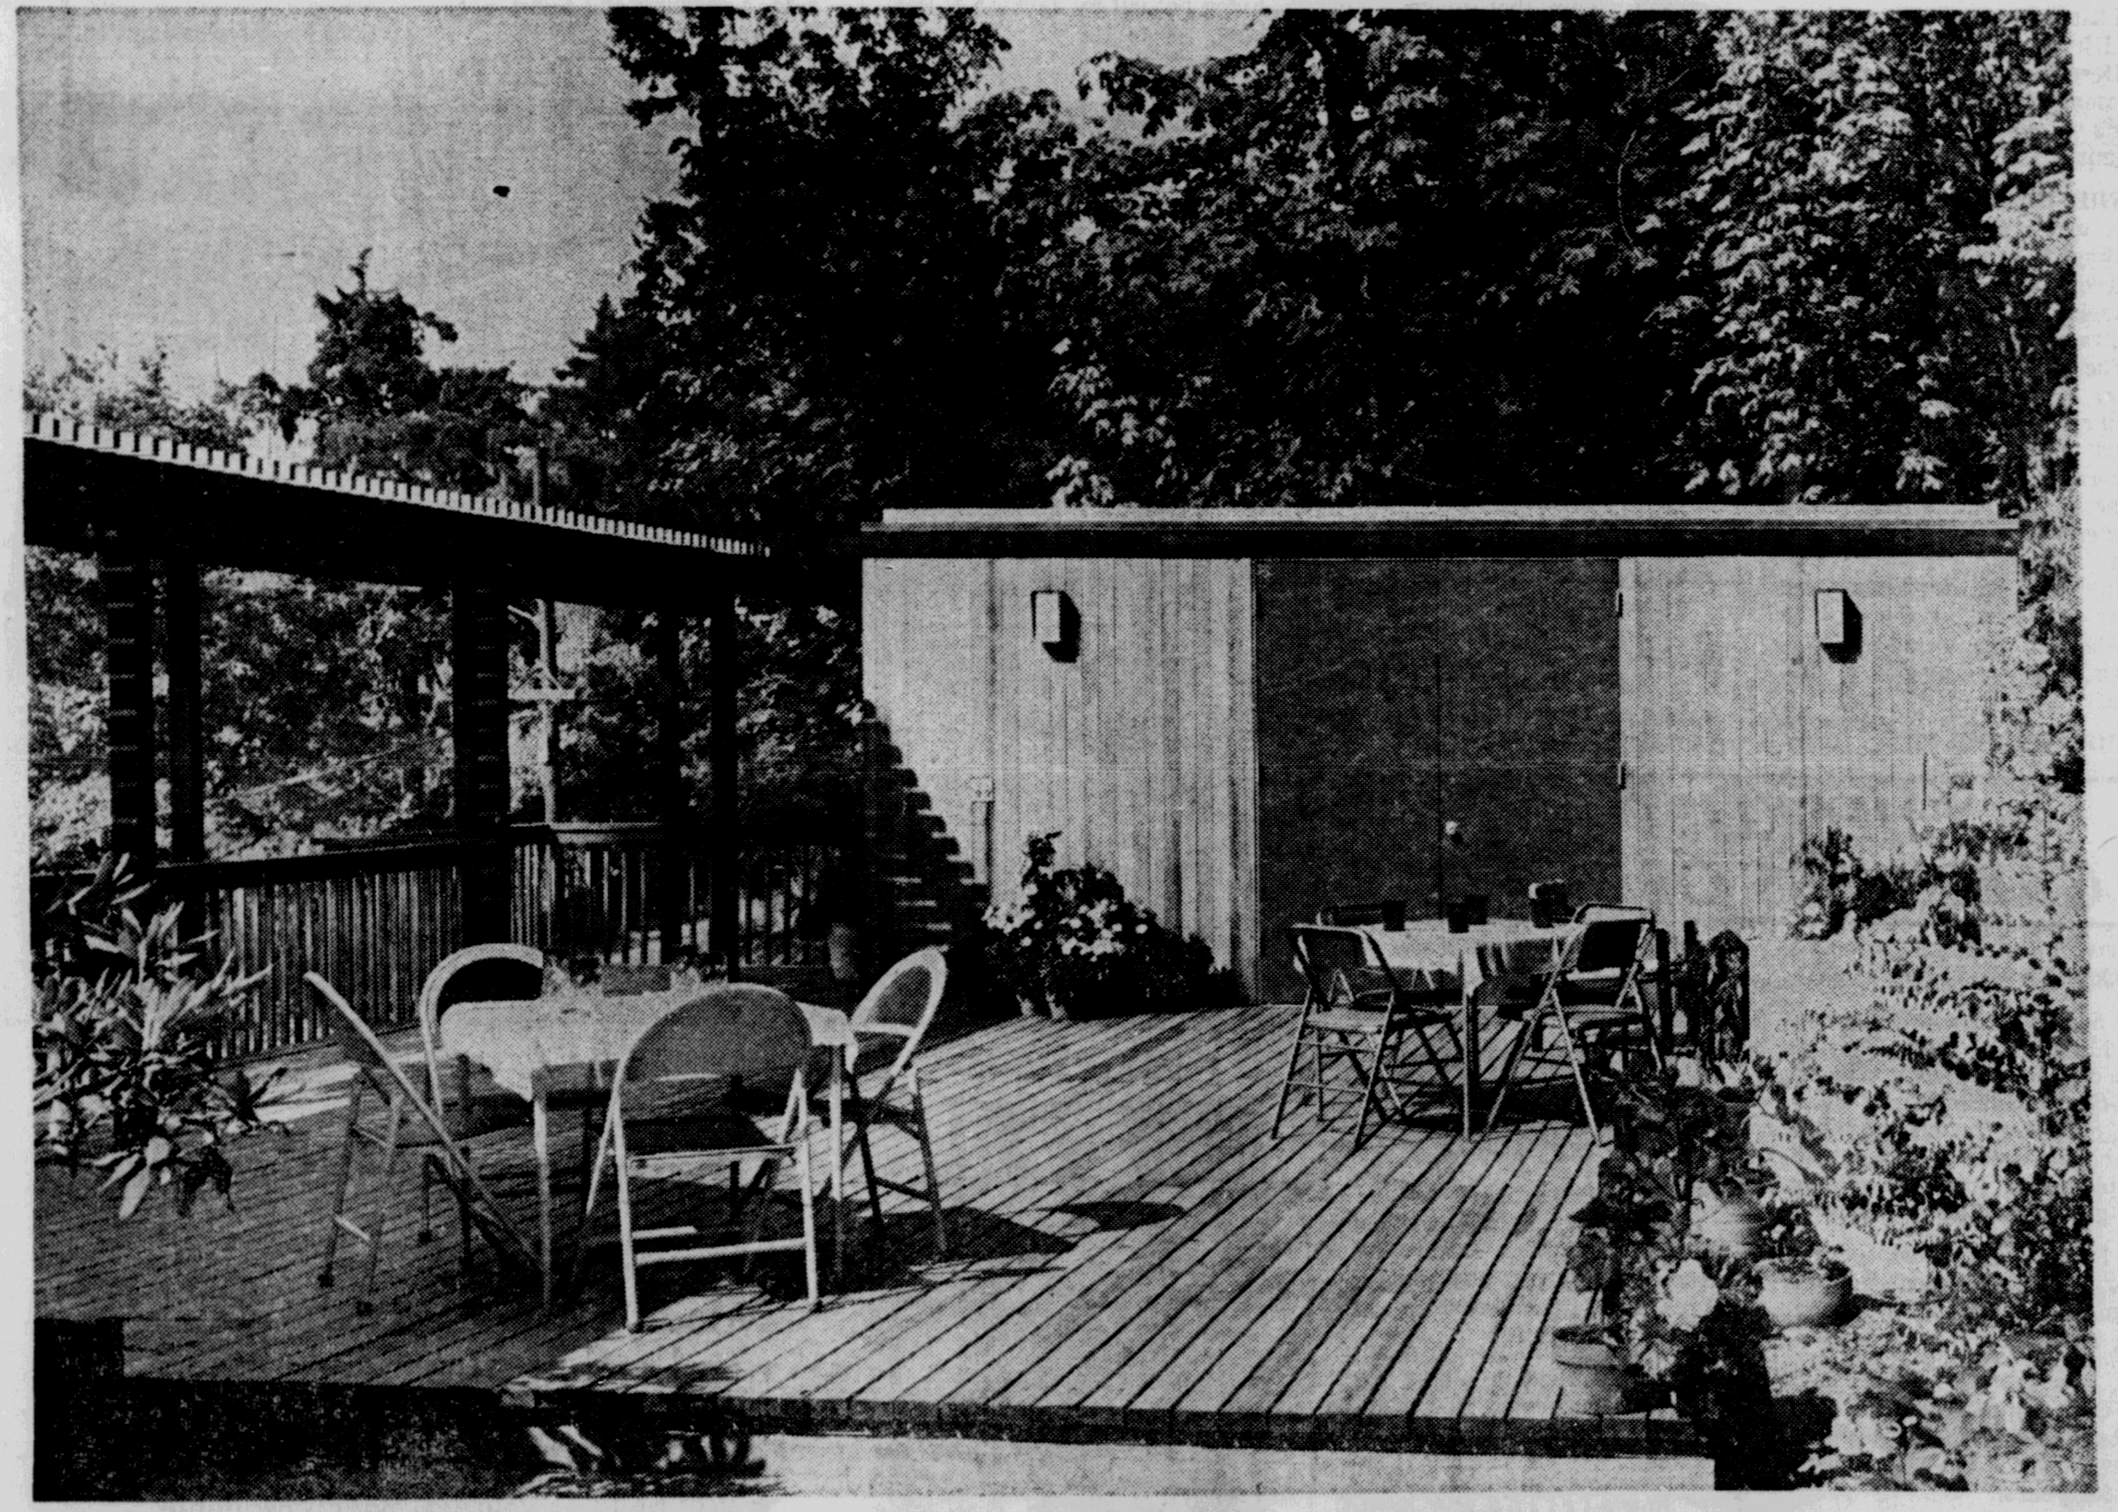
THE ADDITION OF a small greenhouse delights plant lovers. Lumber dealers can offer advice on how to construct one. A variety of prefabricated styles is available, also.

A greenhouse may be situated at the perimeter of a deck and integrated with the deck and fence by a trellis, or it may be built next to a carport or garage.

And what could be more enchanting than a two-level fishpond with re-circulating water falling from the upper to the lower level?

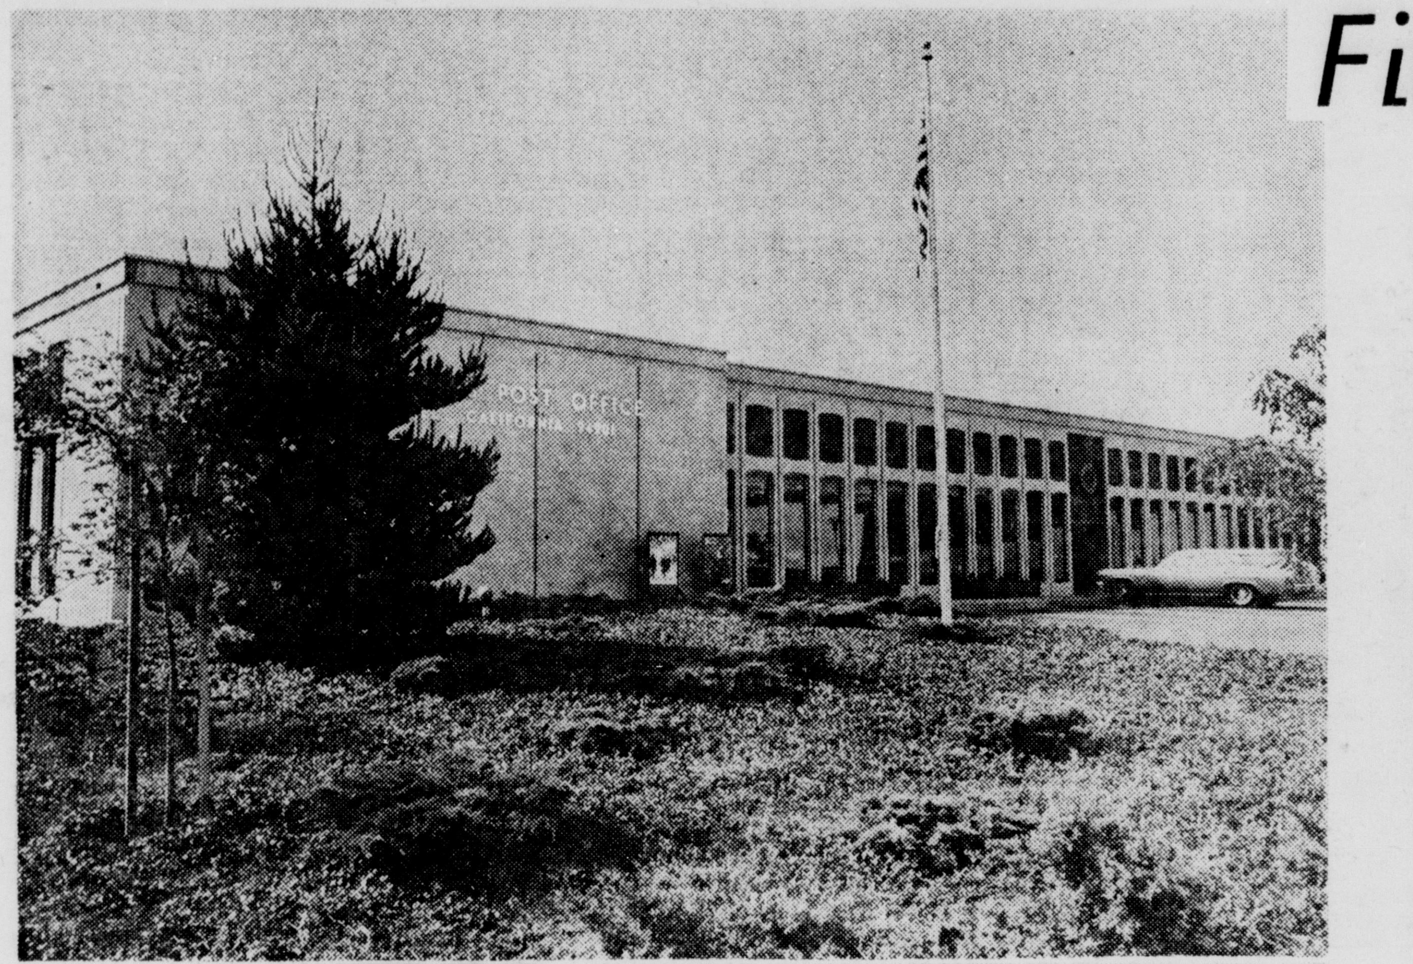


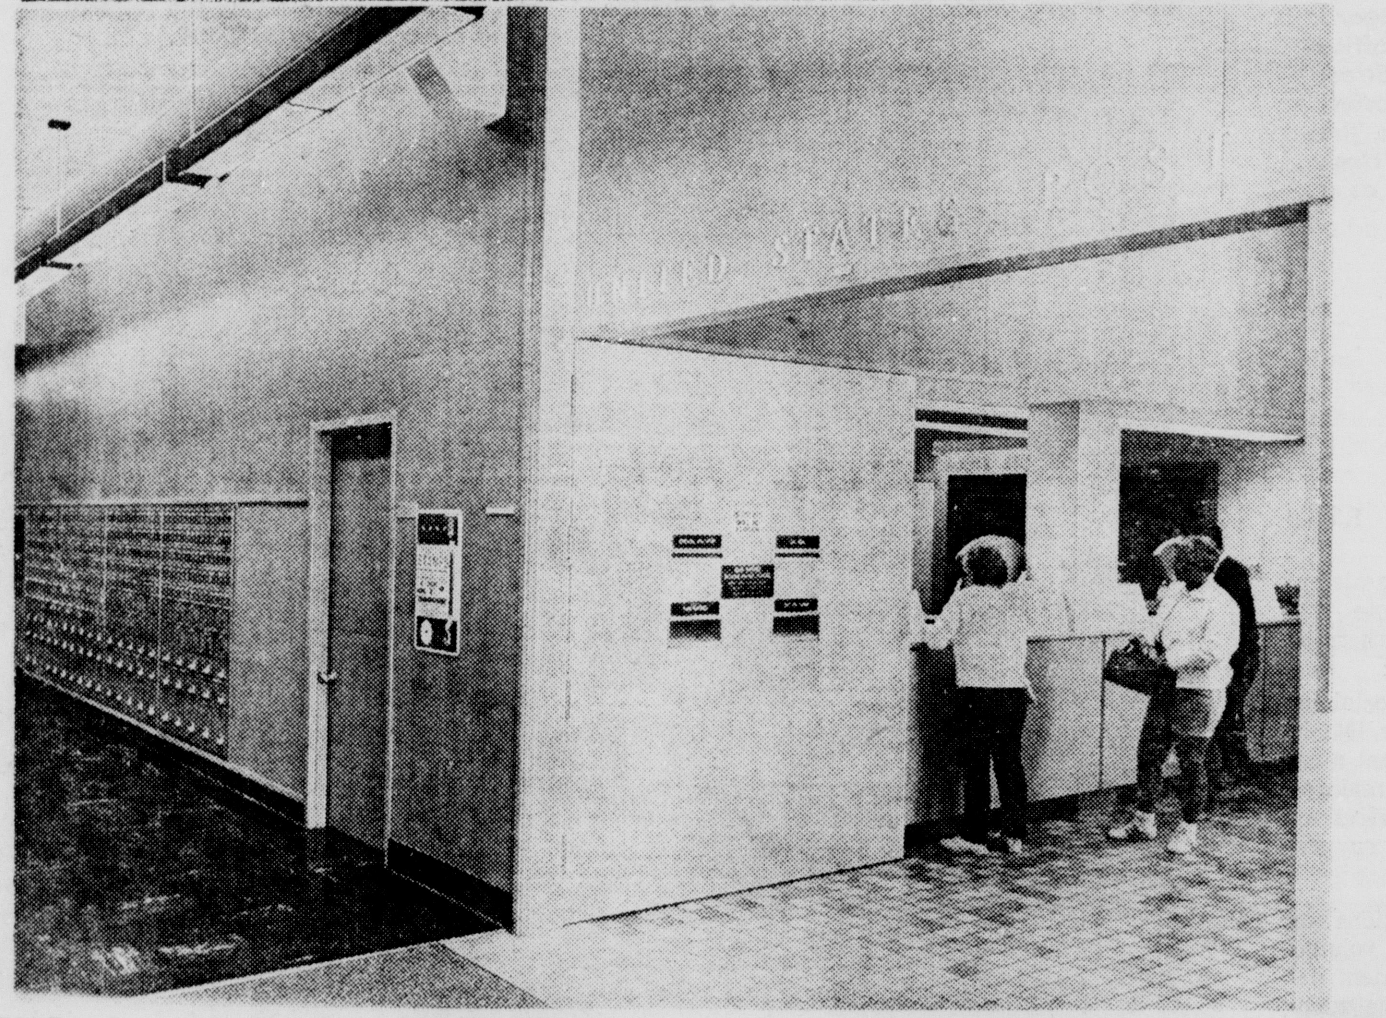
GARDENING CHORES and maintenance are minimized while enjoyment and privacy are maximized by a well-designed wood deck such as this one. Specia' features of this outdoor living area include an A-frame greenhouse and a fishpond with waterfall and windscreen. Decking is Douglas fir, while screens and railings are red cedar.

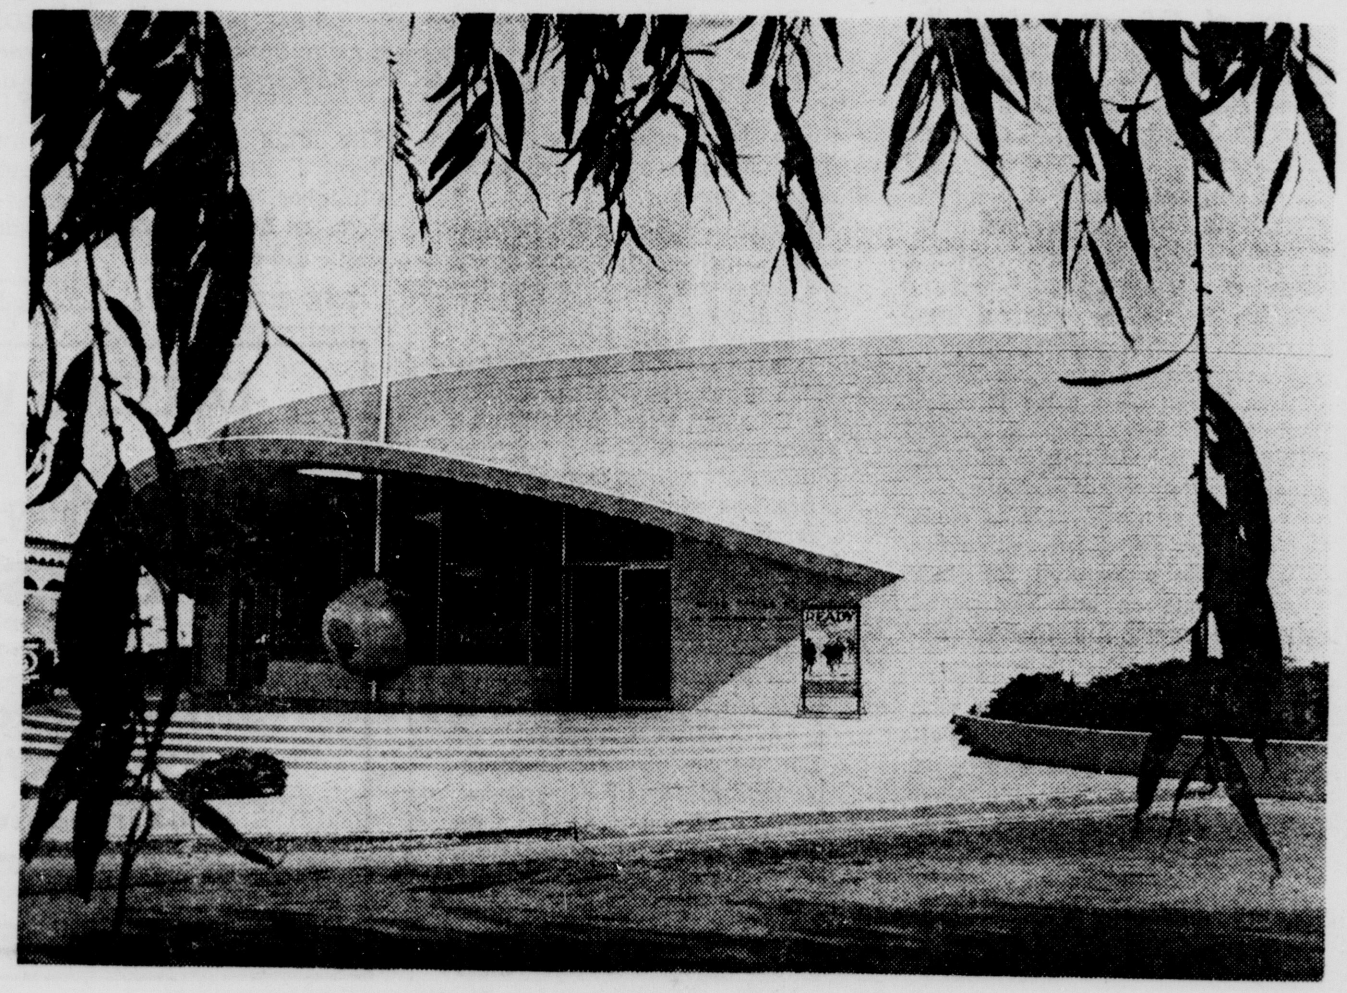


THIS DECK WAS built, of all places, on top of a garage, by setting Douglas fir two-by-fours upon the roof. The units lift for roof repairs. "Western Wood Decks," a free 16-page brochure, offers many such design ideas, and can be obtained by writing Wood Products Industry Fund, 1610 Harrison Street, Oakland, 94612.

Fire Didn't Stop The Mail







PERSONNEL in San Rafael postoffices today work in pleasant, modern surroundings, aided by the latest equipment. Shown at the top is the new main postoffice building on Bellam Boulevard, dedicated on Sept. 17, 1966, with 36,000 square feet of working space for the postal employees. In the middle photograph is shown the interior of the former main postoffice, at Third and D streets in downtown San Rafael, that underwent extensive remodeling and now serves as the busy Mission Branch Postoffice. The original building was dedicated Jan. 23, 1937. And in the photo on the right is shown the Civic Center Branch Postoffice, at Santa Venetia, dedicated May 19, 1962. Its modernistic architecture compliments the striking Frank Lloyd Wright design of the nearby Civic Center administration building. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)

from the early postoffice in the Pratt store in downtown San Rafael. Indeed, from the main postoffice then serving the public at D and Third.

It was one of the last products of the designing genius of the late Frank Lloyd Wright, complimenting well the nearby and world famous Wright-planned Civic Center county administration building.

JACK BENZ was named branch superintendent and Edward Burdisso his assistant. Kenneth Soldavini and Thomas Masterson handled the window service. And from the branch 13 regular carriers, one mounted carrier and two parcel post carriers operated. Service began May 26, 1962.

Less spectacular was the dedication of a new postoffice building in Kentfield at 822 College Avenue, across the street from the College of Marin.

Dedication ceremonies were held there Jan. 8, 1966, under the sponsorship of the Ross Valley Kiwanis Club.

WILLIAMS AGAIN gave the address of welcome. Other participants included Rev. John G. O'Connell, invocation; Dewitt MacDonald, Kiwanis Club past president, master of ceremonies; Tommy Burke, musical entertainment; and Bishop C. Ray Leininger of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, the benediction.

A Flag that had flown over the Washington D.C. Postoffice was presented to the new Kentfield office.

In addition to Kentfield, the San Rafael Postoffice also is in charge of the Terra Linda Postoffice.

POSTMASTER Williams' highest honor as a dedicatory official came, however, on Sept. 17, 1966, when a new main San Rafael Postoffice was opened at 40 Bellam Boulevard, outside the city's main business district.

The handsome new edifice provided 36,000 square feet of working space for a staff that had become more and more handicapped by congestion. And there were 76,000 square feet of parking space for postoffice vehicles and patrons.

This time the ceremonies included Williams' welcoming address; music by Ray Lucas; an invocation by Rev. Thomas Kennedy of St. Raphael's Church; the pledge of allegiance led by Mayor C. Paul Bettini; presentation of the Flag by Rep. Don Clausen; an address by Raymond H. Holmquist, regional director of the Post Office Department's San Francisco Region, and a benediction by Rev. Henry Kent of St. Luke Presbyterian Church.

JOHN L. Rockwell, past president of the San Rafael Kiwanis Club, was the master of ceremonies.

The former main postoffice at Third and D streets was remodeled extensively into an attractive Spanish style and designated as the Mission Branch Postoffice. San Rafael residents continue to patronize its convenient downtown location heavily.

As early as 1956 Postmaster Williams had indicated a desire to retire. But it was not until Jan. 31, 1966, that Hugh Cassidy was appointed acting postmaster. On Nov. 7, 1967, Cassidy was officially named postmaster.

HE WAS Williams' choice for the position. And like Williams and many of their predecessors, Cassidy was a member of a family that had lived in and contributed to San Rafael for many years.

The new postmaster had a long record of service with the postal department, and was well known for his participation in the programs of civic, patriotic and labor organizations.

Probably Cassidy's most dramatic incident of his postoffice career came in July of 1957 when he was called upon, as superintendent of mails, to prepare a report for postal authorities on the downtown San Rafael fire that wiped out a block of business houses and threatened the postoffice with its mail.

CASSIDY TOLD how, upon learning of the conflagration, he rushed to the postoffice. "The mailing crew, under acting foreman Thomas Springett, was preparing for the 8 p.m. dispatch. All collections had arrived at the postoffice before the fire started."

"Going to the roof," he wrote, "I noted the rapid spread of the fire along Fourth Street, reaching down to the Odd Fellows Hall. The wind was carrying smoke and ashes over the postoffice. As hot brands were falling on the roof, the hoses were procured from the basement and run to the roof. Two hoses were used and two clerks, Lewis Andrus and Robert Johnson, were assigned to wetting down the roof.

"The fire was rapidly increasing scope and had jumped Fourth Street to the south side and was burning down D toward the postoffice.

"THE FALLING brands were exceedingly heavy and a fire was started in the sheds at the rear of the postoffice. One of the roof hoses was thrown down and this fire was extinguished.

"The prompt action of the postoffice crew stopped the fire from spreading to the McPhail Fuel Co. buildings. Another small fire did start in the Murray residence behind the postoffice (on Third), but was extinguished by the postoffice force.

"Meanwhile, Foreman Springett had completed preparing the mail for dispatch. Since it was realized that the. . .trucks could not operate to the postoffice, one clerk was sent to the highway entrance to hold them there, so that the mail could be shuttled to them by local vehicles that could negotiate the fire lines. This arrangement was successful and the regular exchanges of mail were made.

"IT WAS necessary to sort the mail in the loading area of the Northwestern Pacific freight sheds. It should be noted that this was done by three temporary clerks — (John) Abenschan, (Wayne) Cunningham and (James) Turner. These three managed the exchange of mails, made temporary provision for storage of mails and handled the exchange of registers without any supervision whatsoever.

"At the postoffice, the conflagration in the adjoining block was reaching its height. The fire had spread down the block and appeared ready to engulf the old two-story residence directly across the street from the postoffice. It had gotten completely into the paint store diagonally across the street.

"On the roof of the postoffice, the drains were stoppered with mail sacks to hold all the water possible on the roof.

"BY THIS time, shortly after 8 p.m., the postoffice was well inside the fire lines with hose crews and fire trucks operating directly in front of the postoffice. The postmaster and assistant were on the scene before the conflagration reached its height. Nearby apartments and postoffice vehicles were evacuated and preparations were made to remove the mail from the building.

"Shortly after 8 o'clock, power in the building went off. The front of the building was secured at this time and all windows closed to avoid any possibility of the swirling firebrands getting into the postoffice.

"Trucks were being moved beyond the fire lines, loaded with the household goods from the adjacent apartments. The first signs of panic were visible, as many householders tossed armloads of clothing and soft objects from the third story stairway.

"WITH THE paint store diagonally across the street burning, there was some danger of explosions from the paint and paint thinners stored in the rear of the building — the point closest to the postoffice.

"All the men, except the ones manning the fire hoses, were moved from the postoffice roof, and those remaining were warned to work from behind the protection of the parapets on the roof. Additional equipment arrived and brought a halt to the fire in the paint store. Shortly after 9 p.m., the fire had been checked, and it was apparent that, unless there was a disastrous turn, the danger to the postoffice was receding.

"The postoffice trucks were retrieved from their storage spaces some blocks from the postoffice. Coleman gasoline lanterns were procured to supply some illumination, and limited working of the mails commenced.

"THE 9 P.M. collection in the business areas was made about an hour late, but in time for the midnight dispatch. Collection boxes in the fire area were checked and found to be undamaged.

"Power was back on shortly after 10 p.m. The mail, stored, was brought to the postoffice and worked. By midnight, the office had returned to a regular schedule and the midnight PMT trucks operated in and out of the postoffice.

"Regular mail dispatches were made during the fire and deliveries were out on schedule in the morning."

NEVER HAD the spirit that neither fire nor flood must be allowed to stay the mails been better or more dramatically exemplified.

Under Hugh Cassidy's postmastership, the San Rafael postal employees have continued, under less exciting conditions and with modern equipment in pleasant surroundings, to render efficient and courteous service to appreciative patrons.

It is a service especially marked by the friendliness and cheerfulness of the men and women who man the windows in the postoffices, and who deliver the mails to homes and businesses.

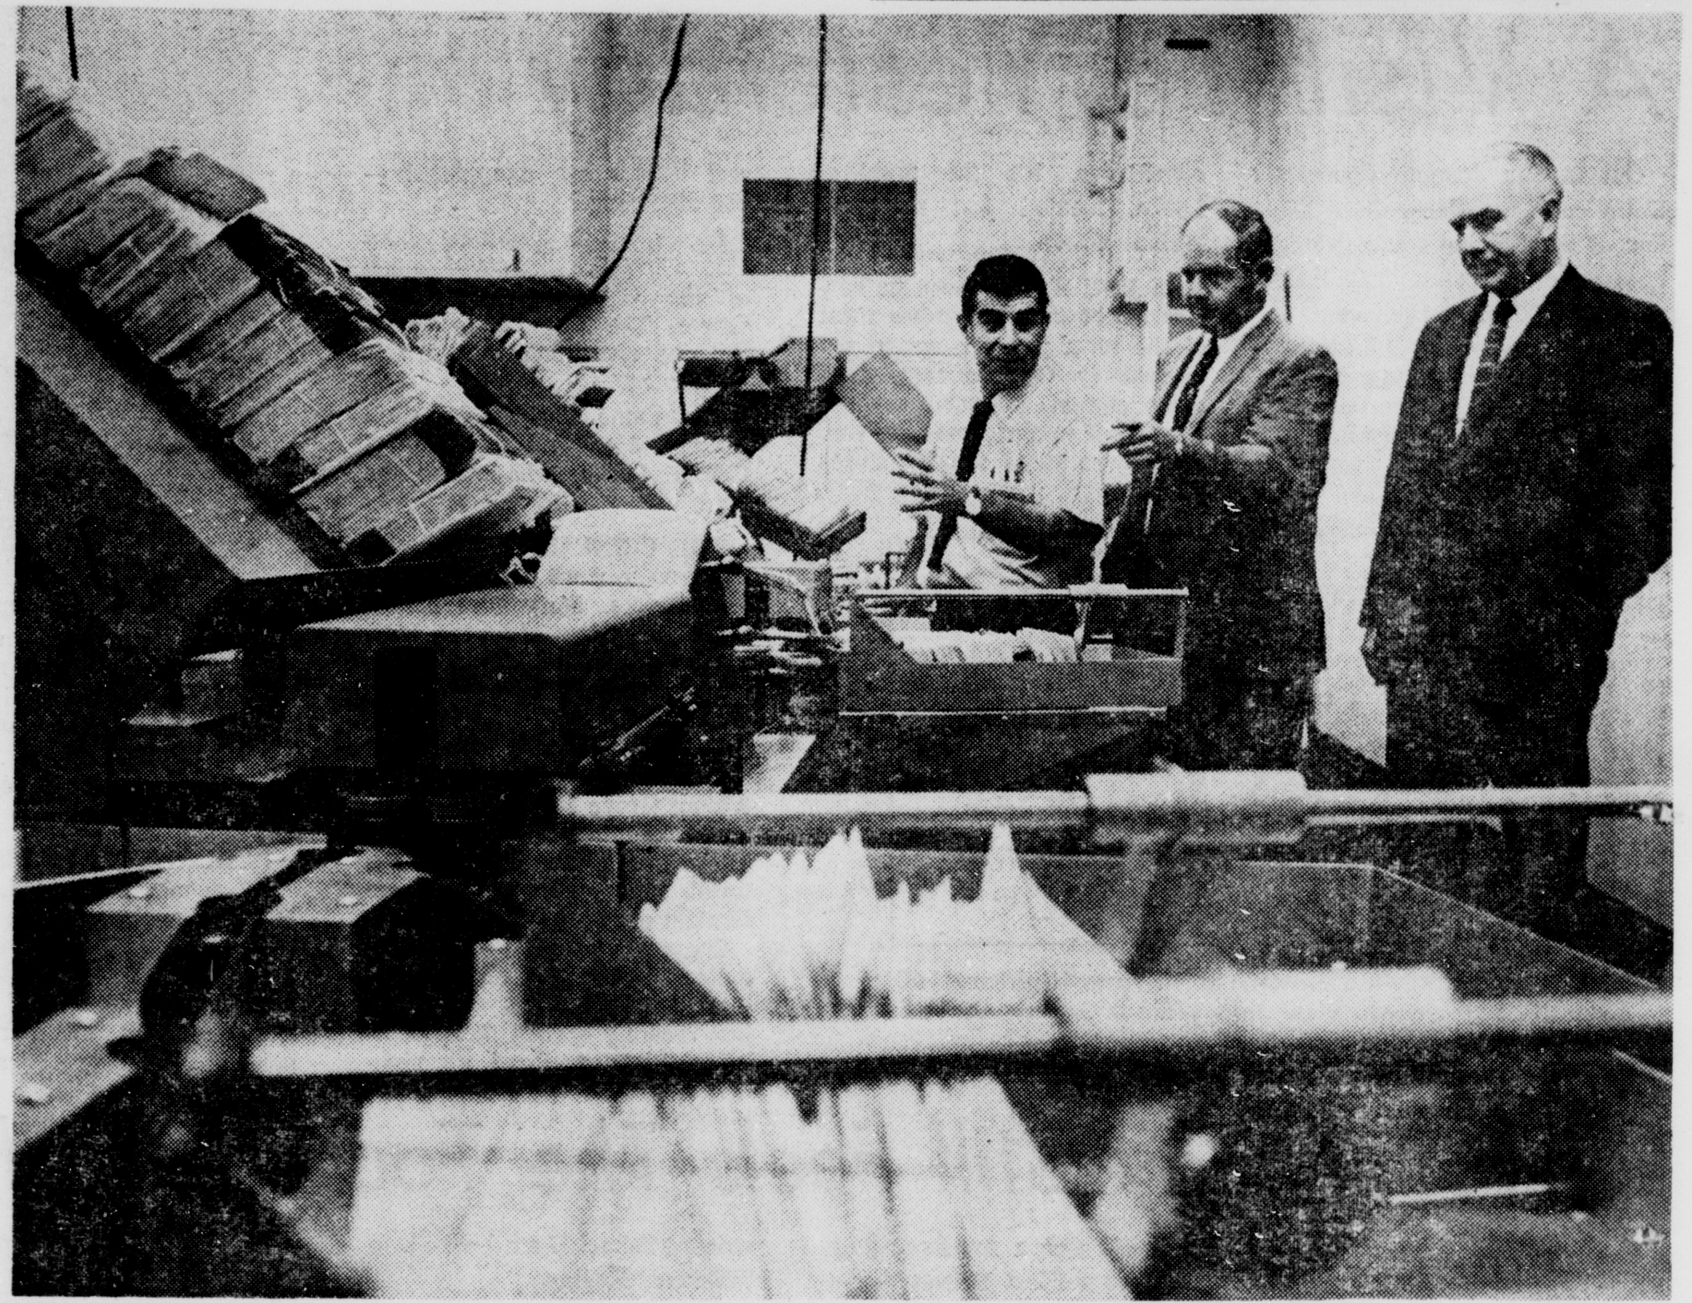
Not only does the mail go through. But in San Rafael it goes through with smiles and warmth.

335 MOVE THE MAIL

The San Rafael postal system which began in 1851 with a part-time postmaster is composed today of 335 employees working under the direction of Postmaster Hugh Cassidy in the main and four branch postoffices and one vehicle maintenance unit to meet the needs of a growing population and a soaring volume of mail.

Personnel from the San Rafael, Civic Center, Kentfield and Terra Linda postoffices cover 70 routes in delivering mail to their patrons.

And the payroll of the 335 men and women processing and distributing the mails in San Rafael and its branch offices approximates $2,100,000 a year.



HUGH CASSIDY, right, San Rafael's present postmaster, and his superintendent of mails, Donald W. Baird, center, discuss with Angelo Bon the operation of a Mark II Facer stamp-canceller that is among the modern equipment in use in the new main postoffice on Bellam Boulevard. Cassidy succeeded Warren Williams as acting San Rafael postmaster on Jan. 31, 1966.

C.H. (PETE) HAYDEN, on the right, was postmaster when this photograph was taken inside the postoffice at Third and D streets. With him were Warren Williams, left, then assistant postmaster and later to become postmaster, and Thomas Falvey, superintendent of mails.

Handyman's Pages

A Build-It-Yourself Workshop

Are you a now-and-then handyman? Or, perhaps, just beginning your tool collection?

Better Homes and Gardens' new "Handyman's Book" suggests a build-it-yourself workshop.

All you need is a set of metal shelves, a sheet of three-quarter-inch plywood and two folding sawhorses.

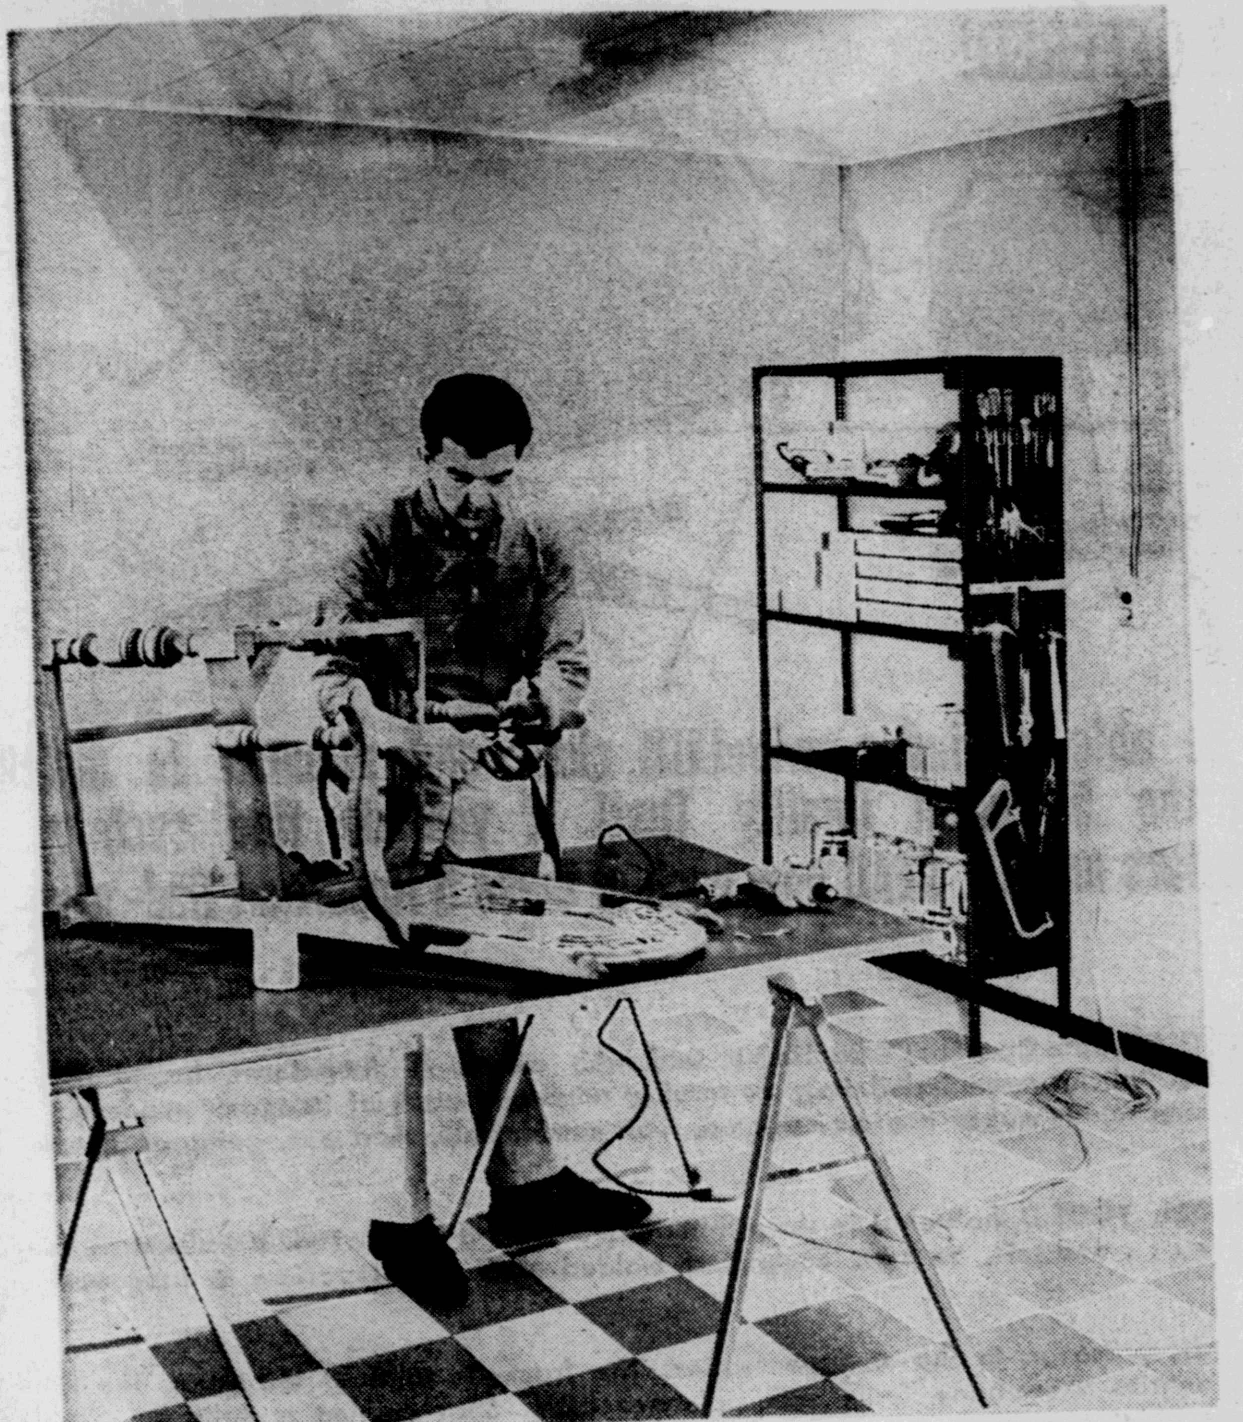
Begin constructing the sawhorses using a couple of two-by-fours or two-by-sixes for the crosspieces. Buy good quality metal legs and assemble them according to instructions. Also, buy the metal shelves and bolt them together.

Next, cut a piece of perforated hardboard to go on one end of the shelves for the tool board. Lay it over the end of the shelf unit and drill holes through the hardboard and shelf uprights to receive the bolts or self-tapping screws. Now cut a piece of three-quarter inch plywood with a few brads around the edges.

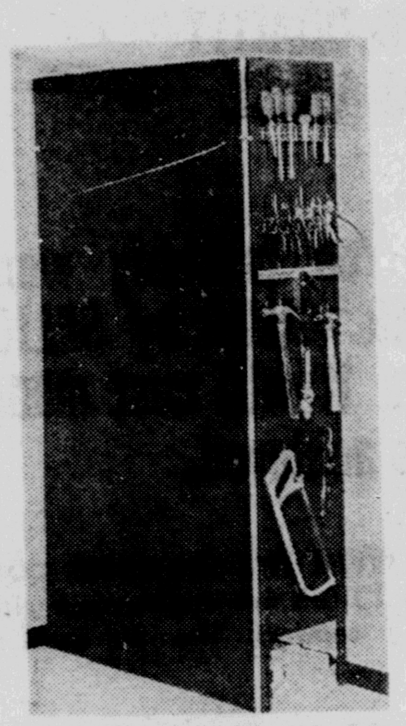
The hardboard makes a nice hard, smooth surface and when it gets scarred and dirty, simply remove the brads and flip it over for a fresh start.

Fasten on a couple of turnbuttons to the fronts of the shelf uprights. These keep the plywood cover in place. Attach them with long bolts through the uprights. Use a short length of compression spring under the turn-buttons as spacers, if necessary. Put some hooks on the tool board, hang up your tools and stow away the rest of your gear inside.

This handy workshop suggestion and tips on all phases of home maintenance appear in Better Homes and Gardens new "Handyman's Book." Over 1,500 how-to illustrations and up-to-date product information are included in this guide.



FOLDING SAWHORSES that you can build yourself, a sheet of plywood, metal shelves and some perforated hardboard are the simple materials from which this workshop for the home handyman, shown in Better Homes and Gardens' "Handyman's Book," was constructed.



THE PERFECT tool board is an easy project when the handyman uses perforated hardboard. There are shelves inside to hold other tools and supplies of the do-it-yourselfer.

Two Ways To Apply Laminate

There are two ways to apply plastic laminate to a large surface such as the dining room table.

One is not to use contact cement. Instead, use a strong glue which does not dry immediately. In that way, you can rearrange the plastic laminate if you don't get it on properly the first time.

But you'll have to clamp the laminate to the table top until it dries, a procedure which isn't necessary with contact cement.

The other solution is to apply contact cement to the table top and to the back of the laminate. Wait until both surfaces are dry to the touch. Then place a large sheet of brown paper over the table top. Fold a few inches of the paper at one end. Place the laminate over the entire paper and place it into position at the end where there is no paper.

Then carefully slide out the paper, pressing the laminate to the table top.

Use a kitchen rolling pin on the laminate to bond it securely to the wood.

Storage For Cans

If you need more room for canned goods but haven't the space for a full cabinet, try a narrow closet with shallow shelves. One of its benefits is that you don't have to go fumbling around in the back of a deep cabinet to find what you want.

A Visit To Yesterday

Out in San Joaquin County's Delta country, where there are lots of quiet sloughs and fishing spots, there's also a lazy little town that is hard to believe.

It has, maybe, 300 Chinese residents and a few non-Orientals, and it looks like a setting for Huck Finn and the habitat of one of Mark Twain's riverboat adventures. It's the town of Locke, located just north of Walnut Grove.

AS YOU WALK down the narrow street that comprises most of the town you are apt to see an elderly Chinese man duck down one of the narrow walkways as if to avoid meeting you.

The weathered wooden stores and houses are dilapidated — but charming.

Locke had its beginning about 1916 when fire destroyed much of the Chinatown of Walnut Grove. The Chinese moved a mile up river and built a new settlement.

The name derives from an early-day rancher named George Locke, who owned the land.

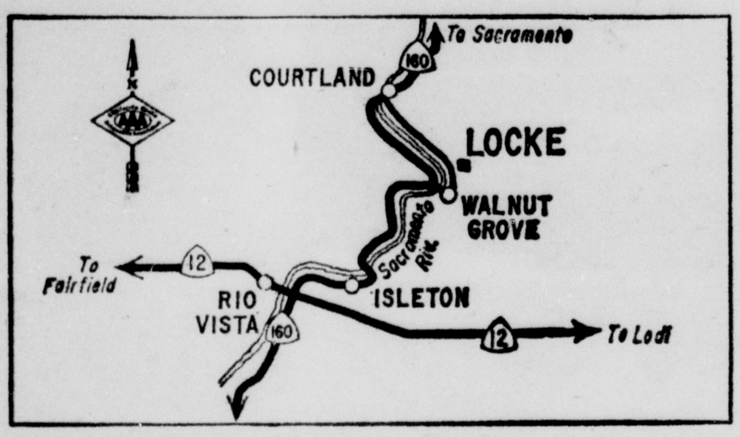
THE CHINESE HAD come to the area to work the rich farms as laborers. Some also helped build the system of levees. Most of those who settled in Locke were members of the Young Wah Tong.

Today the Chinese living there either work locally, in nearby Walnut Grove or in Sacramento, about 30 miles north of Locke. There are a few stores on the town's main street and they are straight out of the 1930s.

One restaurant, Al's Place, is quite popular with visitors and local people and a new one has just recently opened. It is located on the River Road, the highway that passes through the town.

DURING THE YEARS when 5,000 people lived in Locke it had 10 boarding houses, several Chinese herb stores, three chop suey restaurants, a bathhouse, two drygoods stores and a movie house. Not much remains now. But the old wooden buildings with their spindly pillars supporting upstairs porches are still there.

Locke is fun to walk through. It makes older people think of their days of youth in small quiet towns. And it makes the youngsters think they are stalking the set of an old Western movie.



TO REACH LOCKE, the motorist turns from Highway 160 to cross the Sacramento River into Walnut Grove. Locke is a mile farther to the north. (Map courtesy of California State Automobile Association)

WOODEN BUILDINGS with sagging porches that front on Locke's narrow main — and almost only — street give that San Joaquin Delta town the look of yesteryear, making a visit to it a nostalgic trip into the past for the visitor who might have grown up in just such a quiet, backwater town.

London Today Still Feels The Touch Of Charles Dickens

By PETER J. SHAW

LONDON — Charles Dickens died 100 years ago June 9 but time has spared some of the Victorian London he immortalized in words.

The fogs, poorhouses and wretched prisons so vividly portrayed by the great novelist have vanished.

Left behind, however, and almost as Dickens knew them, are haunts of David Copperfield, Ebenezer Scrooge, Oliver Twist, the Pickwickians and other characters born of his quill pen.

THE HORN TAVERN in Knightrider Street is little altered from the day when Mr. Pickwick sent a messenger there from Fleet Prison to get him "a bottle or six" of wine.

Similarly surviving is the George and Vulture tavern in Castle Court, where Dickens and his Pickwickians ate and where Ebenezer Scrooge likely supped before groping through the fog to his rooms up a nearby yard that fateful Christmas Eve.

But such unsullied nooks in modern London are a legacy Dickens himself might have scorned.

"DICKENS HAD NO great eye for architecture and he was not a lover of old buildings," writes Michael Hardwick in "Dickens' England."

If Dickens had had his way, Hardwick says, "he would have pulled down all those old places which people today find so romantic and built new homes for working people."

Hardwick's book is but one of many deluging bookstalls to mark the centenary of Dickens' death. The author's 38 principal works are being reprinted in special editions and his manuscripts are featured in several museums throughout the summer.

THERE WILL BE concerts, plays and readings in his memory. Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother will be among those who will gather at his grave in Westminister Abbey at noon next Tuesday to lead hundreds at a memorial service.

A century after his death, one place closely linked with Dickens is under fire as a possible mistake. Dickens scholars are voicing doubt the famous Old Curiosity Shop in Portsmouth Street is the one Dickens had in mind.

They say the shop probably was located in Green Street, behind the National Gallery, and vanished long ago. No one seems sure just when.

DICKENS WAS 58 when a massive stroke brought on by overwork killed him at the dinner table.

He had in his energetic lifetime sired 10 children, left his wife Catherine of 22 years for an 18-year-old actress and climbed from childhood poverty to the pinnacle of success as social critic, storyteller and reformer.

A short man with a beard and dazzling eyes, Dickens dressed flamboyantly. A red geranium, his favorite flower, was often in his buttonhole.

INWARDLY, DICKENS was turbulent and romantic. Outwardly, he was active and efficient. Scholars now agree he was an idealist of family life.

Dickens was in love with London as much as he hated its social inequities. The descriptive powers that urged public opinion to demand great social reforms also limned the soft heart of a great city.

Much of Dickens' London since 1870 has disappeared or changed beyond recognition as the author knew it, yet there's a goodly list of what remains intact, including Dickens' House at 48 Doughty Street, where the author lived from March, 1837, to December, 1839. Here he wrote "Oliver Twist" and "Nicholas Nickelby," finished the "Pickwick Papers" and began "Barnaby Rudge." His writing desk and chair are preserved.

The Grapes pub in Limehouse. Dickens called it Six Jolly Fellowship Porters in "Our Mutual Friend."

Ely Place, where David Copperfield looked up at the clock on St. Andrew's Church.

STAPLE INN, Holborn. The first courtyard is virtually unchanged from when Dickens wrote in Edwin Drood: " . . . turning into it out of the clashing street, it imparts to the relieved pedestrian the sensation of having put cotton in his ears, and velvet soles on his boots. It is one of those nooks where a few smoky sparrows twitter in smoky trees, as though they call to one another, 'let us play at country' ."

The Temple Inns. This ancient legal stronghold figures in many Dickens' books with loving detail.

London Transport, in association with the Dickens Fellowship, has compiled an alphabetical listing of all points of interest to Dickensian buffs called "The London of Charles Dickens."

On What To Wear And What To Pack

By MURRAY J. BROWN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Think light when planning a travel wardrobe, whether for a weekend visit to a nearby resort or a month-long tour of foreign lands. It could save headaches and money.

Traveling light should be no problem in this day of synthetics. Building a wardrobe around wash-and-wear and permanent-press material means savings on laundry and tailor bills. These can add up to a tidy sum, particularly on long trips.

You could save on porter and bellboy tips, too. Many travelers usually tip more for heavier bags than for light ones. Then again, it will be easier on you if you can't find someone else to carry your luggage—it happens.

IF YOU ARE traveling by plane, you will have to pay extra if you exceed the free weight limitations set by international and domestic air associations.

On international flights, passengers may check free of charge luggage weighing up to 66 pounds for a first-class ticket and 44 pounds for economy. Personal articles, such as purse, coat and camera, which can be carried into the cabin, are not weighed. But briefcases, parcels, typewriters and overnight bags are.

On flights within the United States, under a recent agreement approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board, airlines will carry two bags weighing no more than 70 pounds apiece for each passenger without charge. Anything heavier will cost extra. But personal articles and other items of limited size carried on by the passenger are not included and still go free.

BAGGAGE allowances on ships, buses and trains usually are more liberal, but even the wise traveler will avoid the temptation to overpack.

Naturally, the travel wardrobe will depend on where you are going, what you will do and the climate. Remember the seasons are different in the northern and southern hemispheres—when it is summer here, it is winter there and so on.

But regardless, you should have little difficulty in staying within even the 44-pound limit. A good rule of thumb if you are going overseas is to dress as you would under similar circumstances at home. Shorts, midriffs, slacks, aloha shirts may be appropriate for the beach and countryside but are as out of place on the boulevards of major cities in Europe, Asia and elsewhere as they are in New York, San Francisco, Chicago and Boston.

ANOTHER POINT to remember is that you probably won't see the same people more than once on your travels so you don't have to pack numerous changes. And it is not necessary to buy a whole new wardrobe—you will be meeting strangers who won't know whether your suit or gown is new or old, and probably won't care.

Take clothing you like and feel most relaxed in. And don't forget to include a pair of comfortable walking shoes for sightseeing and shopping.

For men and women, the secret to traveling lightly is mix-and-match. Stick to one basic color scheme and simple styles and leave the wild plaids and patterns in the closet at home.

MY BASIC wardrobe, for instance, includes:

One dark blue and one light gray suit, one neutral sports jacket and two pairs of slacks (up to 10 different outfits by mixing and matching), two pairs of pajamas, six ties, one pair of dress shoes and a pair of broken-in loafers, one sweater, one "sleep and shave" coat and an all-weather outer coat. I wear a jacket and slacks outfit and carry the coat over my arm while traveling.

Except for the suits, coats and shoes, all are permanent-press and wash-and-wear materials. I toss several packets of detergent into my shave kit to do my laundering on the go. Incidentally, if you want to take your electric razor or hair-dryer you will probably have to buy converters—voltages overseas are usually different than in the United States.

FOR WOMEN, my wife suggests the following basic wardrobe:

A raincoat dressy enough to wear during evenings, two knit suits (great for traveling), three daytime and three after-dark frocks, two extra skirts, six blouses, shirts and sweaters (for mixing and matching with the four skirts), four sets of lingerie, two girdles, two nightgowns or pajamas, six pairs of the same color nylons or panty-hose, a light bathrobe, three pairs of shoes—one dress, one casual and one for walking—and a pair of scuffs or house slippers.

Also two purses, one for daytime and traveling and the other for evening wear, six scarves of various colors to wear with the suits, skirts and dresses, and a selection of necklaces, ear rings, pins and other costume jewelry to add variety to the different outfits.

SHE WEARS a suit and carfor the raincoat while traveling.

Leave your good jewelry and fine furs at home unless you expect to mingle with high society or do lots of opera and theatergoing. If you do take them along, have them locked in the hotel safe when not being worn.

For cruises, beach and mountains, add swim suits and other resort wear. If formal events are scheduled, don't forget to pack your accessories along with your tuxedo or gown.

My wardrobe packs easily in a two-suiter while my wife uses a 29-inch pullman case. And there still is lots of room for purchases we may make on our travels.

The Biography Of A Marinite Tells Too Little Of The Man

WILLIAM PENN PATRICK by R. C. Allen; Best Books, 145 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

William Penn Patrick, Marin's remarkably successful cosmetics magnate and extremely controversial right-wing political figure, could be the subject of a most interesting book that would tell us much about our times. But this is no such book.

While it is labeled "a biography by R. C. Allen," it reads more like a "commissioned" promotional piece for Patrick the person and for his Holiday Magic business empire.

Allen, a veteran plower of the positive thinking furrows, gives us a thin book devoted largely to Patrick's own quotations summarizing — and resummarizing — his personal philosophy of devotion to country, to the free enterprise system, to hard work and to the motivational pattern that is generally categorized as "positive thinking."

Allen quotes Patrick: " . . .if I can find 10 men, before I die, who can stand up as strong and unwavering in the Truth as I can and, if one of those 10 men can step out as the leader, then I will consider my life a success."

No shrinking violet, Bill Patrick. Yet even he might be embarrassed by the overly-effusive tone in which Allen sings his praises in the scant material by which the author connects Patrick's own monologues.

What biography there is to be found in the book after some skimpy coverage of Patrick's early years and meteoric rise in business revolves largely around Holiday Magic and his incentive, training and sales techniques employed there. There is a chapter on Patrick's California gubernatorial campaign. But one learns from it very little about the ultra-conservative cast of the Patrick platform. In fact, it is an account remarkably shy in details. For that matter, the Holiday Magic material also raises as many questions as it provides answers. For instance, we learn of Patrick's struggles with various state governments concerning his distribution methods — and of his eventual triumphs. But we are never told very specifically just what the controversy was all about.

The dynamic Patrick is unquestionably a fascinating personality who has left his mark upon the business and political worlds, and who, no doubt, will continue to be heard from in the future.He is deserving of something better than this one-dimensional piece which, if you will pardon the immodesty, tells us less about Patrick the man than did a one-page "Profile of a Marinite" feature that appeared in this magazine some time back. We are not urging a hatchet job upon this outspoken, strong-minded Marinite. That, too, has already been done — too often. Simply a study, or true biography, of some objectivity.

Patrick apparently is quite big right now with those who insist that the American system can still produce its Horatio Alger-type success stories, given the right kind of material with which to work. He is the subject of one entire chapter in "Succeed and Grow Rich Through Persuasion" (Hawthorn, $5.95) by Napoleon Hill and E. Harold Keown whose earlier work along this same line has enjoyed immense sales. It includes a long interview. And the co-authors rate Patrick as second only to another millionaire, W. Clement Stone, as a living and "splendid" example of the rewards of the Science of Personal Achievement philosophy they expound.

"A man to watch, a man who knows, and knows that he knows . . . He is a man to follow," they write of Patrick. R. C. Allen couldn't say it more flatteringly. But he tries.

A New Novel About Mussolini's Lost Millions

TREASURE by A. E. Hotchner; Random House, 304 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Wayne Hathaway.

April 1945, Milan, Italy: Front page photographs in all major newspapers show Benito Mussolini and Claretta Petacci, his mistress, hanging by their feet in front of a Milan gas station. Those of us who remember World War II will never forget those pictures.

Mussolini's violent end came at the hands of Italian partisans as he fled before the Allied advance, attempting to reach sanctuary in Switzerland. However, the fate of some 100 million dollars in currency, gold and jewels that he was known to have with him remains a mystery.

This intriguing puzzle is the basis of Hotchner's novel which begins in 1969 as Paul Selwyn is released from an Italian prison after serving 24 years for the murder of one of his fellow members of an allied investigating team attempting to trace the missing treasure.

Paul is consumed by the desire to be compensated for the 24 years of his life he has lost. He seeks to do this by launching an archeological expedition with his former compatriots as a cover for his search for the missing treasure that he feels is still in the area.

In addition to his search for the missing treasure Paul spends considerable time searching for the sexual virility he apparently lost during his imprisonment. He finally recovers his potency with the assistance of the daughter of the man he was convicted of murdering. (The head-shrinkers should have a field day with that.)

Paul gradually becomes aware that the treasure was not all lost; his fellow investigators had managed to recover some of it 24 years ago and used it to launch their successful civilian careers. He also finds the rest of the treasure;but this scene stretches credibility well beyond the breaking point.

In his book, Hotchner has passed up the opportunity to write two novels. He could have written a sensitive, moving story about a man in search of potency, or he could have drawn upon the fascinating historical events surrounding the disappearance of the treasure to write a gripping mystery; however, he did neither. His characters and situations are just not quite believable.

He could benefit greatly from study of the works of his friend Hemingway.

Contrived Modern Version Of Greek Tragedy

THE KILLING GROUND by Steven Linakis; McKay, 182 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Bob Raab.

A Long Island housewife is raped by two hoodlums. She knows the identity of the men and so it seems justice should be served swiftly. Not so.

Our housewife is an irresistible beauty who moonlights as an exotic dancer. The rape takes place in a sleazy nightclub. Her accosters are members of the Mafia and the Family pays off or threatens everybody in sight from police detectives through district attorney, even the victim's lawyer.

Her husband relentlessly pursues justice but is hampered by a criminal record for — rape. Finally, skewered between frustration and rage, he attempts to assassinate his tormentors. He fails and nearly gets killed by his own 45, which fortuitously misfires three or four times. At the end our protagonist, Johnny Hutchinson, is thrown out of his mother-in-law's house where his wife and family are staying after leaving him.

This is the second novel by Linakis. It is impossible to get emotionally involved with the characters in this book because they are one-dimensional.

Linakis can move things along in brisk fashion but his modern version of a Greek tragedy is too contrived, too strained, to be effective.

Marin Homemaker Joins Science Fiction Writers

STARBREED by Martha de-Mey Clow; Ballantine, 220 pages, paperback, 75 cents. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Martha deMey Clow, Ross housewife and mother of five children, has enjoyed the experience of having her first book manuscript accepted for publication.

It is also, she says, the first writing "for money" that she has done of any kind!

Her choice of the science fiction field, she says, was a natural one, "for my father fas an engineer who would read no fiction — except science fiction. So I read it, too."

Her book, written over a two-year period, is an imaginative, well-constructed, suspenseful tale of a menace confronting an already war-torn and suspicious earth by a hybrid, the offspring of centaurian and earthling, super intelligent and bent upon revenge against the civilization that has discriminated against and abused his kind. National and international politics are skillfully integrated with interstellar heroics.

The science fiction book market remains strong, and its supporters are certain to welcome Mrs. Clow to the ranks of favored suppliers.

The wife of certified public accountant John W. Clow, Mrs. Clow remains a homemaker. But she says, she is now also a professional writer as well.

Has Man Pursued The Wrong Goals?

By DON KEOWN

PLEASURE by Dr. Alexander Lowen; Coward-McCann, 251 pages, $5.95.

The fundamental difficulty in which American society finds itself today stems from its wrong choice of objectives, writes Dr. Alexander Lowen, psychiatrist, in his "Pleasure: A Creative Approach to Life."

Goal-oriented Americans strive for profit, for power and for prestige.

Better, advises Dr. Lowen, that they should aim for pleasure.

This will strike many older generation Americans, accustomed to a system that glorifies work and derides play, as heresy.

But, when Dr. Lowen speaks of "pleasure," he is not referring to what we commonly call "fun" — that compulsive, almost frantic reaching out, often through childish escapades, for at least momentary change by denying life's serious realities. This obsession with the fallacy of fun only renders a person immune to genuine pleasure, Dr. Lowen argues.

What the author means by pleasure is a condition in which the person is wholly alive, breathing deeply, moving freely and feeling fully. "A person," he writes, "is in a state of pleasure when the movements of his body flow . . .rhythmically and in harmony with his surroundings."

It is, then, basically a condition of the body, not of the mind. But man has rejected his body and physical pleasures in favor of his mentality which he exalts. Thus, as for instance in our puritannical sexual mores, we have restricted our freedom to enjoy life and to experience true pleasure.

Bioenergetics is a therapeutic approach practiced by Dr. Lowen to return to man his sense of bodily harmony. It is advocated by the Institute of Bio-Energetic Analysis in New York City that he directs. And it is touched on rather lightly in his book, with an emphasis on proper breathing, although he is more concerned here with delineating the problem than he is in describing or prescribing curative techniques.

The problem has arisen, Lowen reasons, because man has allowed his ego to become the master of his body, not vice versa, as was intended.

And the ego desires power, while the body years for pleasure. When ego triumphs, the body is denied its pleasure. And the result is a frustrated, angry, self-destructive person caught up in what we commonly call "the rat race" of modern-day society.

"Man is a creative being, not a productive one," Dr. Lowen writes. "He is, in other words, biologically structured for pleasure, not for efficiency. Yet out of his pleasures have come great achievements. Unfortunately, out of his achievements he has found little joy; because productivity has become more important than pleasure."

With pleasure, "the only force strong enough to oppose the potential destructiveness of power," life is a creative adventure, Dr. Lowen tells us. Without pleasure, life is a grim and joyless struggle for survival.

With old codes and behavior patterns collapsing, Dr. Lowen believes we now have our opportunity to install this creative approach to life — providing we comprehend what creativity truly involves. "The creative person sees the world with a fresh vision . . . He starts with the proposition that he doesn't know the answers . . .The creative impulse begins with the imagination of the child but aims at the fulfillment of adult needs. The fusion of adult realism and childlike imagination is the key to all creative action . . ."

Dr. Lowen offers these steps by which the individual can remove himself from the ego's tyranny and its denial of reality:

1. The identification of oneself with one's body, rather than with the ego image.
2. Recognition of the pleasure principle as the basis for one's conscious action — that the natural motivation for all actions is the quest for pleasure and the avoidance of pain.
3. The acceptance of one's feelings — our spontaneous responses to our environment — as opposed to the manufactured products of our minds and wills.
4. An understanding of the interdependence of all personality functions — "thinking is related to feelings and determined by bodily responses . . .Even at its most abstract, thinking is not dissociated from its connection with the human condition."
5. The development of humility — the realization of man's relatively helpless position in regard to the most serious matters in this universe. "We do not make it (human life) and we cannot preserve it eternally. Our conscious concerns should be to live it fully."

"In a creative person," Dr. Lowen summarizes, "there is no separation or barrier between the child and the adult, between the heart and the mind, between the ego and the body."

Dr. Lowen may very well have put his fingers on the basic malaise of today's restless society. Perhaps his pleasure-oriented society — "pleasure" in its finest, fullest sense, as he defines it — is, indeed, the antidote to the failures of today's profit and power motivated people who have discovered that their profits rarely purchase them real satisfaction and that their power seldom commands them true enjoyment.

Certainly "Pleasure" is a persuasive exposition of an important thesis that deserves, indeed demands, our most thoughtful consideration.

Sleuths & Suspense

THE ASSASSIN by Evelyn Anthony; Coward - McCann, 253 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Evelyn Anthony, an English writer who divides her time between contemporary suspense and historical fiction, establishes herself as a challenger to Helen MacInnes, best of the women specializing in the first genre, with this expertly-crafted novel.

Elizabeth Cameron agrees to do a favor for her wealthy, politically-involved uncle — to travel to Lebanon and bring back with her into the United States a mystery man.

Unknown to the beautiful Miss Cameron, her companion is a hired professional assassin.

But she does find herself attracted to him and ultimately romantically involved.

Both the pace and suspense build steadily, and we thought the conclusion an appropriate and satisfying one that we won't spoil for you by giving it away.

EVELYN ANTHONY
A challenger for Helen MacInnes

If Evelyn Anthony is not quite yet the equal of Helen MacInnes, it is because the political background for "The Assassin" is just a bit too simplistic and naive. But the novel makes splendid reading fare, guaranteed to entertain and intrigue the reader who likes his or her spy thriller fiction sprinkled with romance yet laced with action.

"TWA'S BUDGET Guide to San Francisco" and "TWA's Budget Guide to Paris" are Arthur Frommer publications, distributed by Simon and Schuster, but the expense level is several cuts above the $5-a-day class.

These $1 paperbacks are intended for travelers of moderate, but not stringent, means. In San Francisco, the hotel range is between $12 and $16 a night for a double room, and meals vary from $2 to $4. In Paris, those figures are $11 and $15, and $2 to $3.

So fast-changing is the business of catering to tourists that the information compiled in 1969 for the San Francisco book is already outdated in a number of instances — the Hungry i, for instance, is no more. And the theater scene has changed considerably. But John Godwin, the author, has come up with a number of bargain ideas including some of our own favorites — the El Cortez Hotel for instance, and the Little Sweden restaurant with its splendid smorgasbord. With its eating and sleeping suggestions, its sightseeing ideas, etc., the book is easily worth a buck to the San Francisco visitor, and we recommend it unhesitatingly.

We are in a poorer position to evaluate the Paris guide, compiled by Godwin and Beth Bryant, but we were sufficiently impressed to have wished we had had it with us two years ago when we were hunting for that cuisine for which Paris is famous.

As added bonuses, both books contain detachable coupons calling for 10 per cent discounts at various establishments for the holder.

IT IS AN unfortunate indicator of today's conditions that "Practical Ways to Prevent Burglary and Illegal Entry" must be considered as timely.

The $1.45 Cornerstone Library paperback, distributed by Simon and Schuster, was written by consumer research consultant Val Moolman and deals largely with effective devices such as locks and alarms to thwart intruders.

The material on locks is especially exhaustive and there are illustrations of the various recommended devices.

"It is difficult to be overcautious," advises Moolman. And one suspects that a good, sound locks system is better protection against criminals than any gun — which may only wind up in the hands of the burglar if he enters while you are absent from home, or beats you to it.

BALLANTINE has added four more $1 paperbacks to its Illustrated History of World War II series — "PT Boats" by Bryan Cooper, "Airborne" by Charles MacDonald, "The Nuremberg Rallies" by Alan Wykes and "The Defense of Moscow" by Geoffrey Jukes, with the Nuremberg book a particularly important addition to the understanding of the beginnings of one of man's bloodiest episodes.

Last Album By Judy Garland Is A Collector's Item For Her Fans

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Those who were close to Judy Garland said she became emotionally involved whenever she sang "Over the Rainbow."

The song of hope by E. Y. Harburg and Harold Allen was Judy's first number in "The Wizard of Oz" and it remained a part of her throughout her life.

So it must have been an act of fate that made "Over the Rainbow" Judy's last song. It closed her engagement at a London night spot early in 1969 and only shortly thereafter Judy was dead.

Her husband used a tape recorder from his table to preserve her songs in this performance. These tapes form Judy's last album, "Judy, London, 1969" (June S-1000).

The sound reproduction is not as fine as in the confines of a studio but this is an asset. Judy is caught in a relaxed and witty mood as she banters with the cabaret audience with joins her on "For Me and My Gal."

The album includes two songs recorded by Judy for the first time—"I Belong to London" and "Just In Time." And there is an uninhibited rendition of "San Francisco."

But the last number, "Over the Rainbow," is an experience. Many years had passed since Judy first sang it in "The Wizard of Oz" but in this final performance is seems that time has rolled back and Judy is Dorothy once more. It is a collector's item for Judy Garland's fans.

SELECTED SINGLES—"Why Can't I Touch You" by Donna Theodore (Jubilee JB 5693), "Sweet Feeling" by Candi Station (Fame P-1466), "I'm Gonna Give You All My Love" by Garrett Scott (Mercury 73052), "Time To Get Together" by Smokey Roberts (Capitol PRO-5011), "Where's Everybody Going" by John Fred and His Playboy Band (Uni 55220), "Welfare Man" by Sonny Charles (A&M 1177).

TAPE DECK—The success of the controversial tribal rock musical, "Hair," on Broadway won begrudging admiration for Galt MacDermot's music from the show's harshest critics. Additional music by MacDermot recently was issued on a record "DisinHAIRited" (RCA LSO-2163) and is now available on eight-track stereo cartridge (RCA 08S-1043) and cassette (RCA OK-1043). Some of the music on "DisinHAIRited" is as wild as the music from "Hair."

"Who Removed the Beading From My Expensive Dress?"

The beading was not "removed" by anyone. The beading on your dress was of plastic which dissolved in drycleaning solvent. As you mention, your dress was imported and high-priced. The trouble is that foreign manufacturers are not alert to the fact or do not care, that some plastics will dissolve in drycleaning. American manufacturers know this problem and do not use plastic beads and decorations that dissolve.

There is no way in which the loss of the beads on your dress can be restored. The fault is that of the manufacturer. Care should be taken in selecting beaded garments bearing foreign labels.

End Of The Anchorman Is Seen

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ned Calmer believes the day of pretty-boy television newscasters is over and the era of specialized broadcast reporting has begun.

Calmer is a considerable authority on such matters. After becoming a foreign correspondent for the Chicago Tribune Paris office, then for the New York Herald-Tribune's Paris edition, he turned to broadcasting, a career he pursued for 27 years.

HE RECENTLY took advantage of an "early retirement" program so, he explains, he could give himself time to think — and to write. One result is "The Anchorman," a recently published novel about the business he knows so well.

"Television news is getting farther and farther away from the concept of 'pretty boy' newscasters and anchormen," he said in an interview. "There was a time when the 'pretty boy' flourished, but I think that day is over."

That doesn't mean a matinee idol profile will disqualify anyone from television broadcasting and he pointed out that some particularly distinguished looking — as well as talented — types remain on the air.

"LOOK AT Howard K. Smith," he said. "He's a pretty good looking man. And Eric Sevareid looks like he ought to have his face carved on Mt. Rushmore.

"There's just one thing — you still have to have hair. A bald anchorman, at least one who is bald in front of the camera, is unthinkable. But otherwise TV is getting farther and farther away from that."

Calmer believes television is in for more serious changes in its news programs, particularly as to specialization. He said: "Television news has become less exploratory and more immediate — that could almost be a motto for television news. Great effort is being made to give more depth to television news. Compare television news with the press, or radio for that matter, and you find that television has far less time for news at its disposal."

HE SAID THAT in the effort to remedy television's lack of depth, the anchorman may be on his way out. First, he defined the anchorman:

"The anchorman, in the purest sense, is only an extension of the camera. But an anchorman can be what he wants to make of the job — that is, until he runs afoul of Spiro Agnew or the boss of the network or similar hazards with which television newsmen are familiar.

"Television network news programs are so complicated and cover such a vast field. Control is all in the choice of the news. Frequently the anchorman is so busy with the task of reading that he doesn't even have time to edit.

"WALTER CRONKITE calls himself managing editor, so you can see how he regards the job. David Brinkley writes his own stuff. But other anchormen neither edit nor write their own copy because there's so much to be done, one man just can't do the job."

That's why Calmer believes anchormen of the present kind are on the way out, that they will give way to teams of specialists, each of whom will take over the spot when the major emphasis of the news is in his area of knowledge.

Calmer, puffing on a pipe and speaking in a soft voice with perfect, regionless diction, defended the networks against their detractors, including Vice President Spiro Agnew.

"IN SO FAR as possible," he said, "I believe television news by and large is doing its level best to tell the whole story. Objectivity? In a pure sense, there's no such thing. Every man has his own bias and no matter how much he tries to control it, by the simple act of selecting one piece of news and omitting another, he must show it."

The veteran broadcaster had just returned from a speaking tour and said the question he was most asked was how he rated today's network anchormen. In diplomatic style, beginning with his former CBS colleague, he said:

"They each have their own quality. Cronkite is a superb reporter who never gets the chance to report anything on the regular evening news program. Instead he gets to read bulletins, then there's the commercial, then he introduces someone else who is on the scene. Even at the end, Sevareid does the commentary.

"BUT CRONKITE on a moonshot or any story he can cover independently — I think he's the greatest reporter on the air.

"Huntley and Brinkley make a good team, and Brinkley is the great stylist of television news. Every young television reporter in the country is trying to imitate Brinkley's delivery.

"As for ABC's Frank Reynolds — he's coming along very fast. He may turn out to be the towering figure on television news of the next generation, as the older men retire. That is, if anchormen last that long."

The All-American Rose Lineup For 1971

By EARL ARONSON

The 1971 All-America Rose Selections award-winning roses offer a choice for those favoring the grandiflora, the tea or the floribunda. That's because there are three winners.

Last year there was only one, and it was a grandiflora

Here are the 1971 champions, chosen after field and garden tests in various areas of the country:

THE GRANDIFLORA Aquarius, which has 30 to 35 nicely arranged petals of light pink, brushed with deep pink at the margins to make a pleasing contrast.

The buds are well-shaped and grow rather profusely on long, sturdy stems. The medium-sized, mildly fragrant flowers generally grow on single stems, sometimes in long-stemmed clusters. They are fine for cutting.

The roses are long-lasting and grow continuously during the season. The plants, tall and vigorous, have semi-glossy foliage.

THE HYBRID TEA, Command Performance, is a bright orange-red, somewhat fluorescent, with graceful buds that open to high-centered, many petaled star-shaped flowers.

They have good persisting fragrance and grow on long, strong stems that make them very showy for garden or flower arrangements.

THE FLORIBUNDA is the bright Redgold, bound to stand out in your garden.

Chrome yellow buds open slowly to flowers of the same hue, gradually acquiring brick-red edges that darken as the flower opens all the way. You will have blossoms that grow singly or in clusters, two inches across. The outer petals are slightly frilled. The flowers resemble miniature tea roses. They have a delicate fragrance and the roses last well.

The bushes average about two feet tall, are upright and bushy, with bright green foliage.

Command Performance is a hybrid of Bob Lindquist of the Howard Rose Co., of Hemet, Calif.

Redgold was hybridized by Pat Dickson in Ireland and is being put out by Jackson & Perkins. As to its parentage, you will recognize some of your favorites. First there were Independence, Peace, Golden Rapture and a seedling. Then came Goldilocks, Holiday, then Karl Herbst, Masquerade and Golden Scepter and just before Redgold, a seedling and Faust were the producers.

The AARS describes Aquarius as "exceptional in several respects — the color pattern of the open flower is unique among grandifloras especially, and the neat arrangement of the large number of light pink petals brushed with deep pink at the margins for pleasing contrast.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✓ Such plants as azaleas, camellias and rhododendrons should be fed this month with an acid-type fertilizer. Roses, fuchsias, chrysanthemums and hibiscus need regular feedings with complete plant food to keep their lush growth and bloom going.

✓ Pelargoniums and geraniums can be planted in full bloom now. Choose a sunny spot, and water them frequently.

✓ Consider some of the new floribunda roses as container plants. They'll thrive in large pots for years.

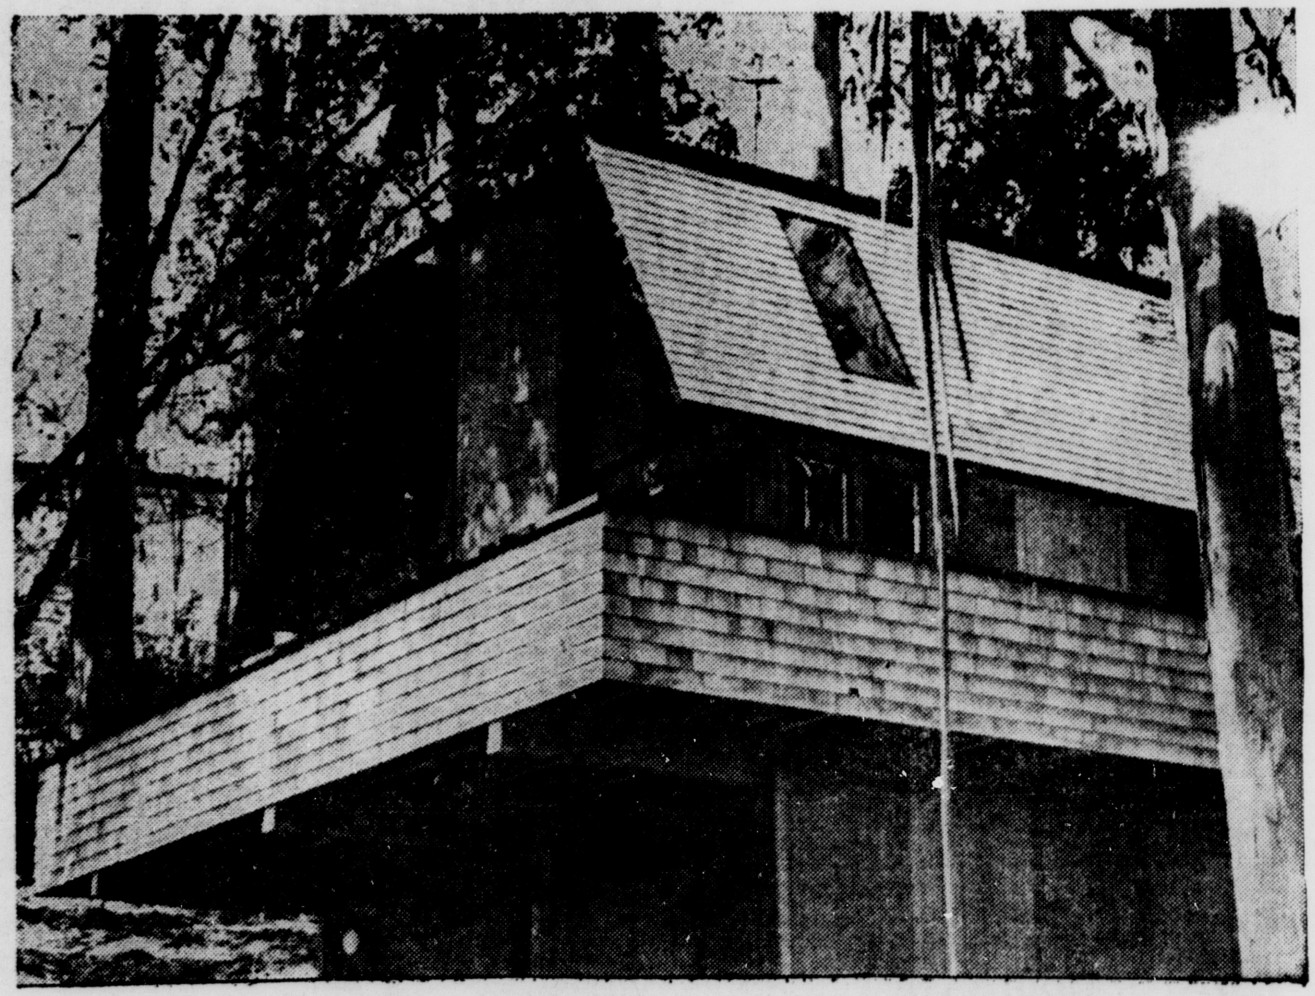
✓ June-planted fuchsias make a big splash of color in hanging baskets. Keep them well watered and pinch out the tips of new growth frequently to make the plants bushy and full of new flowering wood.

✓ Don't hesitate to thin out over-bearing fruit trees. This will result in larger, more perfect fruit.

✓ Begonias are excellent showpieces with evergreen shrubbery, in redwood planter boxes, or in raised beds.

✓ There is still time to plant annuals as bedding plants for quick garden color this summer. Nurseries are well stocked.

✓ In watering your lawn, concentrate on a deep soaking to do the grass the greatest good.



Change your lifestyle.★

Surround yourself with warm woods, exciting space and good architectural vibrations.

SHARING THE TASK of master of ceremonies at the "22nd Annual Television Academy Awards" presentations will be Dick Cavett, left, who will host from New York's Carnegie Hall, and Bill Cosby, who will be at the Century Plaza Hotel in Los Angeles. A Deck Adds To Your Summer Pleasure

Summer living is easy if landscaping is planned with leisure in mind. Some home owners who want an attrative outdoors with a minimum of gardening chores and maintenance find the answer in wood decking.

Besides its easy-care virtues, it can solve nicely the problems of uneven ground or sloping lots. Multi-levels can be connected by broad steps of matching decking that lead gently from one level to another.

EVERY OUTDOOR living center needs greenery and color. In situations where decks dominate the landscaping, certain areas are usually left open for level or raised planting beds, and tubs or pots of blossoming plants are used effectively.

The advantage is that you can choose exactly how much planting area you want to tend.

Contemporary decks are most often made of two-by-fours laid flat or on edge. The flat installation takes less lumber but has a shorter span and thus requires more supports than lumber laid on edge.

Wider dimensions may be used to create a more traditional appearance. Douglas fir makes excellent decking.

THE WOOD MAY be stained or left to weather. It generally takes about a year for it to attain a mellow sheen if left unfinished.

Members in contact with the ground should be treated with preservative.

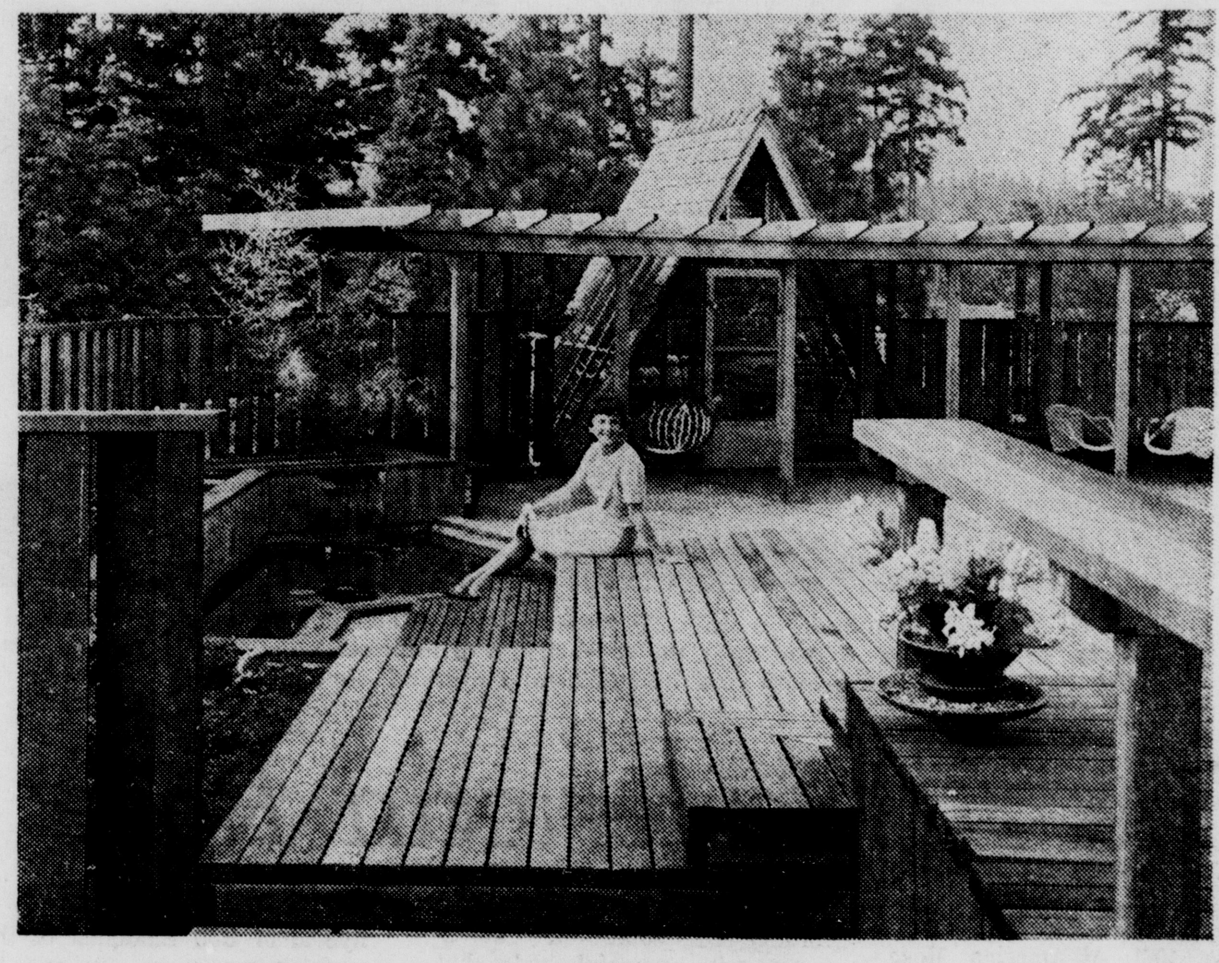
Benches do double duty by serving as low railings when built along the edge of steps. A two-by-12 inch plank will make a narrow bench-rail. Wider ones may be made from spaced lumber of narrower dimension.

Fencing is important because it defines the space and in most instances gives needed privacy. It may also serve as a windscreen, and for this purpose a good design is a fence of one-by-six inch resawn red cedar, board-on-board.

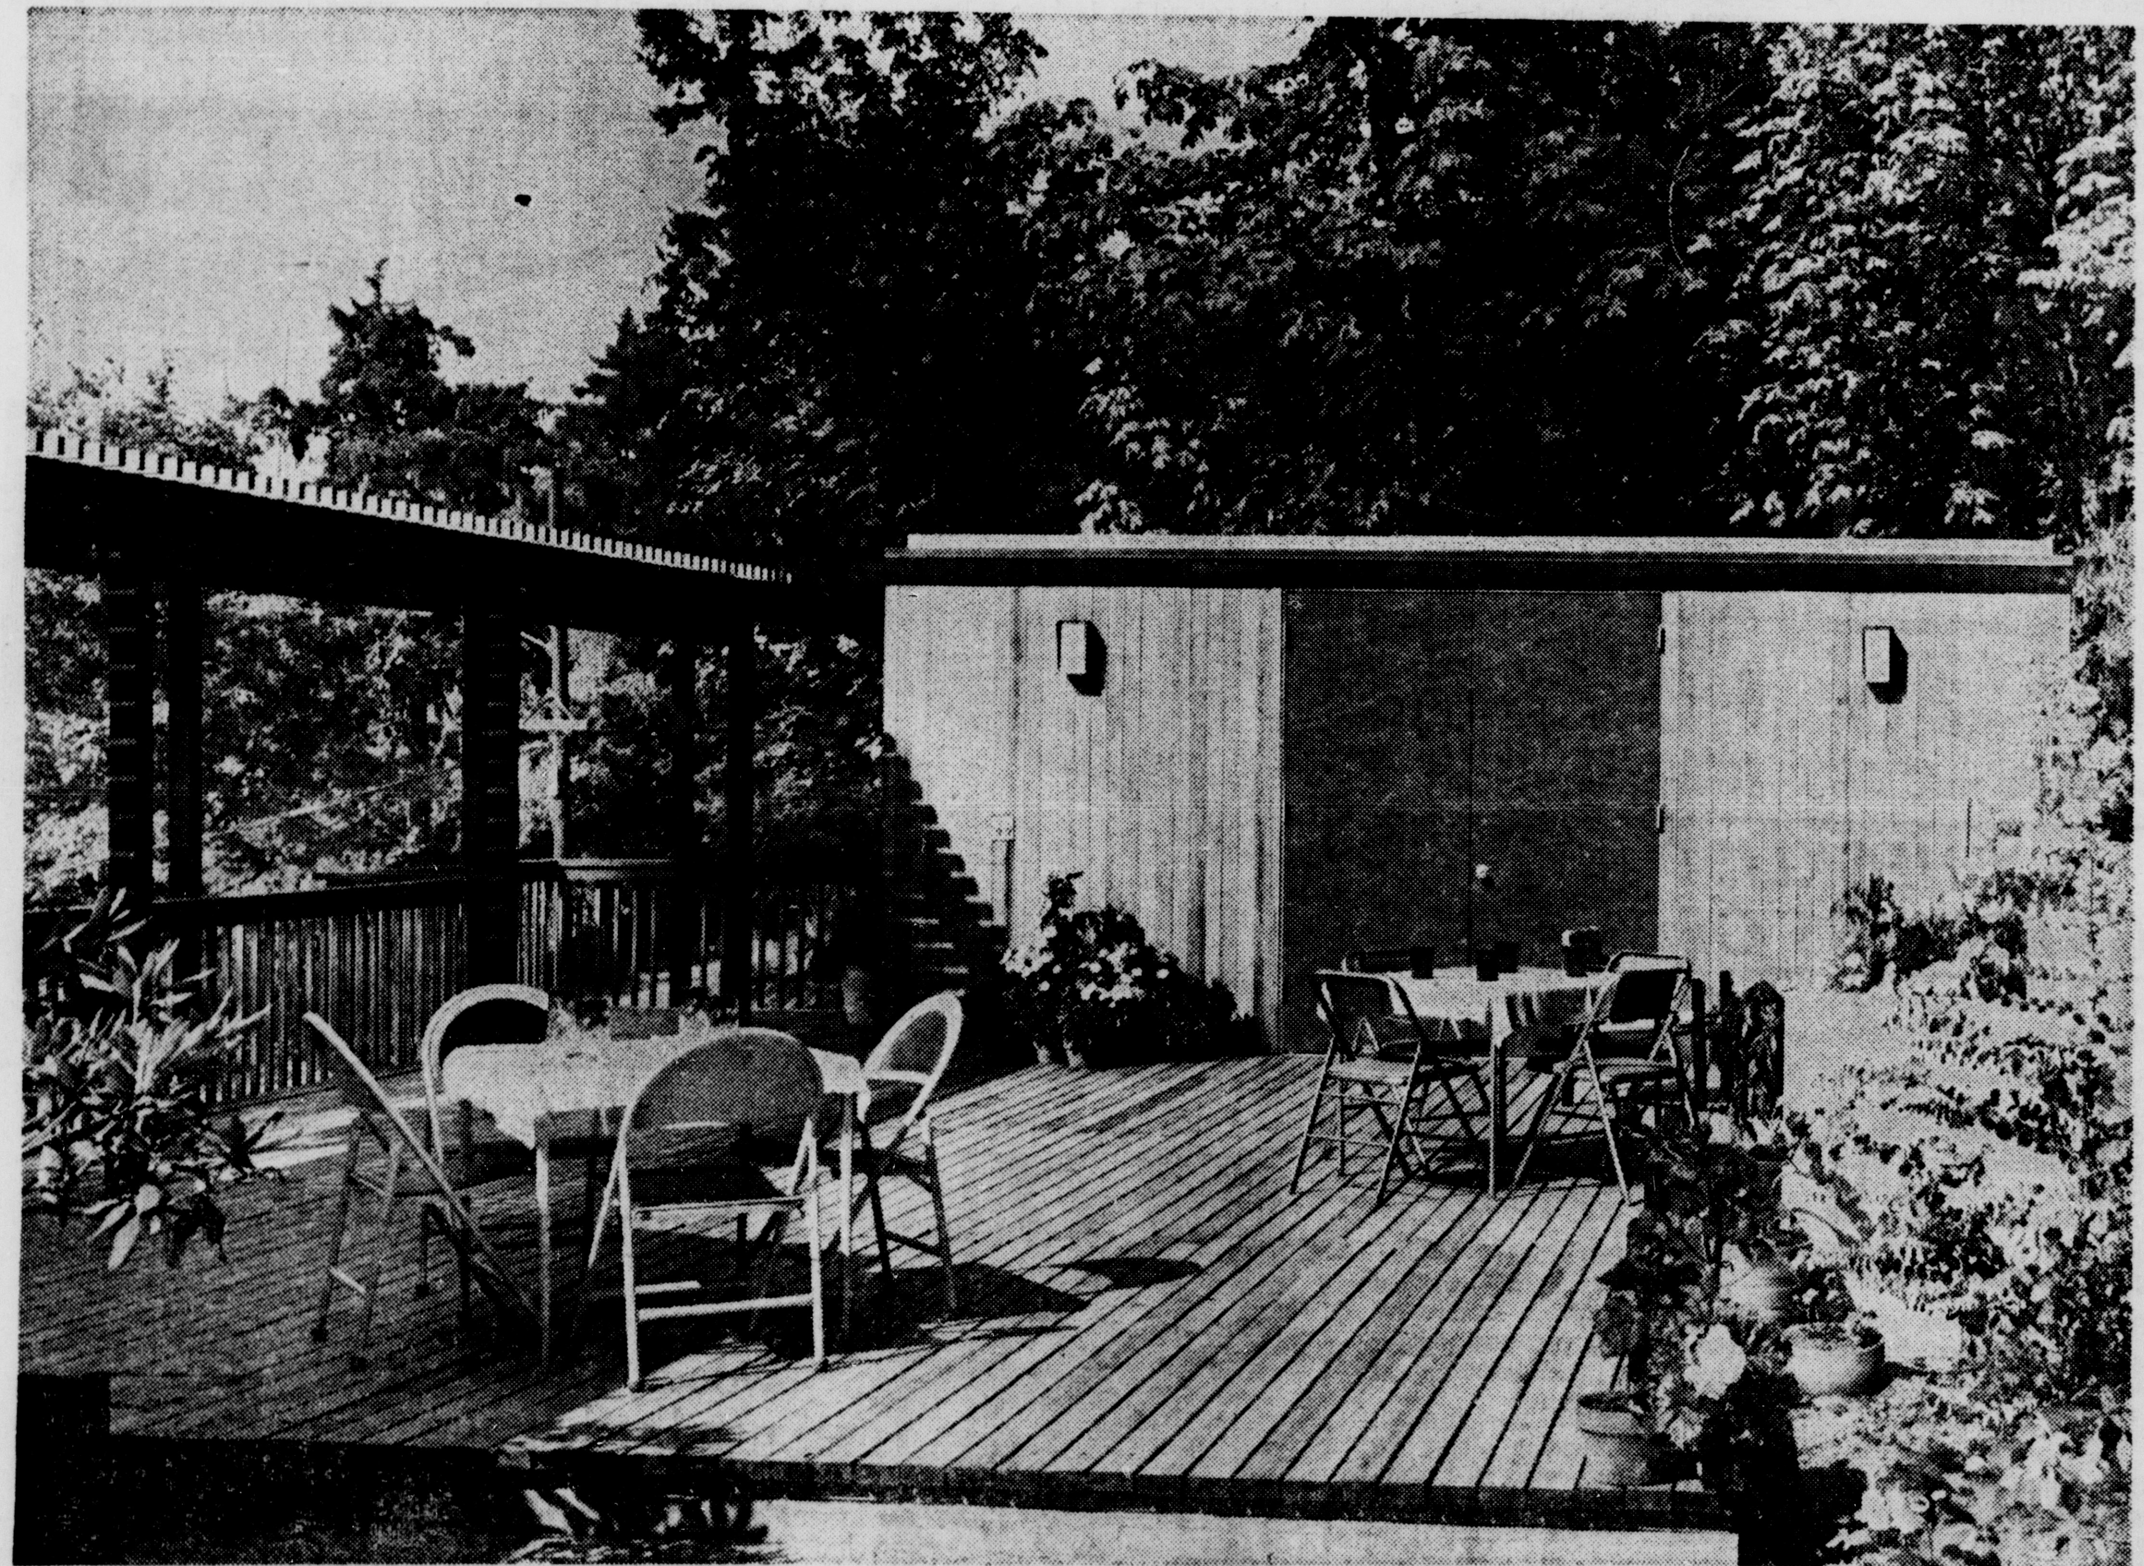
THE ADDITION OF a small greenhouse delights plant lovers. Lumber dealers can offer advice on how to construct one. A variety of prefabricated styles is available, also.

A greenhouse may be situated at the perimeter of a deck and integrated with the deck and fence by a trellis, or it may be built next to a carport or garage.

And what could be more enchanting than a two-level fishpond with re-circulating water falling from the upper to the lower level?



GARDENING CHORES and maintenance are minimized while enjoyment and privacy are maximized by a well-designed wood deck such as this one. Special features of this outdoor living area include an A-frame greenhouse and a fishpond with waterfall and windscreen. Decking is Douglas fir, while screens and railings are red cedar.



THIS DECK WAS built, of all places, on top of a garage, by setting Douglas fir two-by-fours upon the roof. The units lift for roof repairs. "Western Wood Decks," a free 16-page brochure, offers many such design ideas, and can be obtained by writing Wood Products Industry Fund, 1610 Harrison Street, Oakland, 94612.

A Build-It-Yourself Workshop

Are you a now-and-then handyman? Or, perhaps, just beginning your tool collection?

Better Homes and Gardens' new "Handyman's Book" suggests a build-it-yourself workshop.

All you need is a set of metal shelves, a sheet of three-quarter-inch plywood and two folding sawhorses.

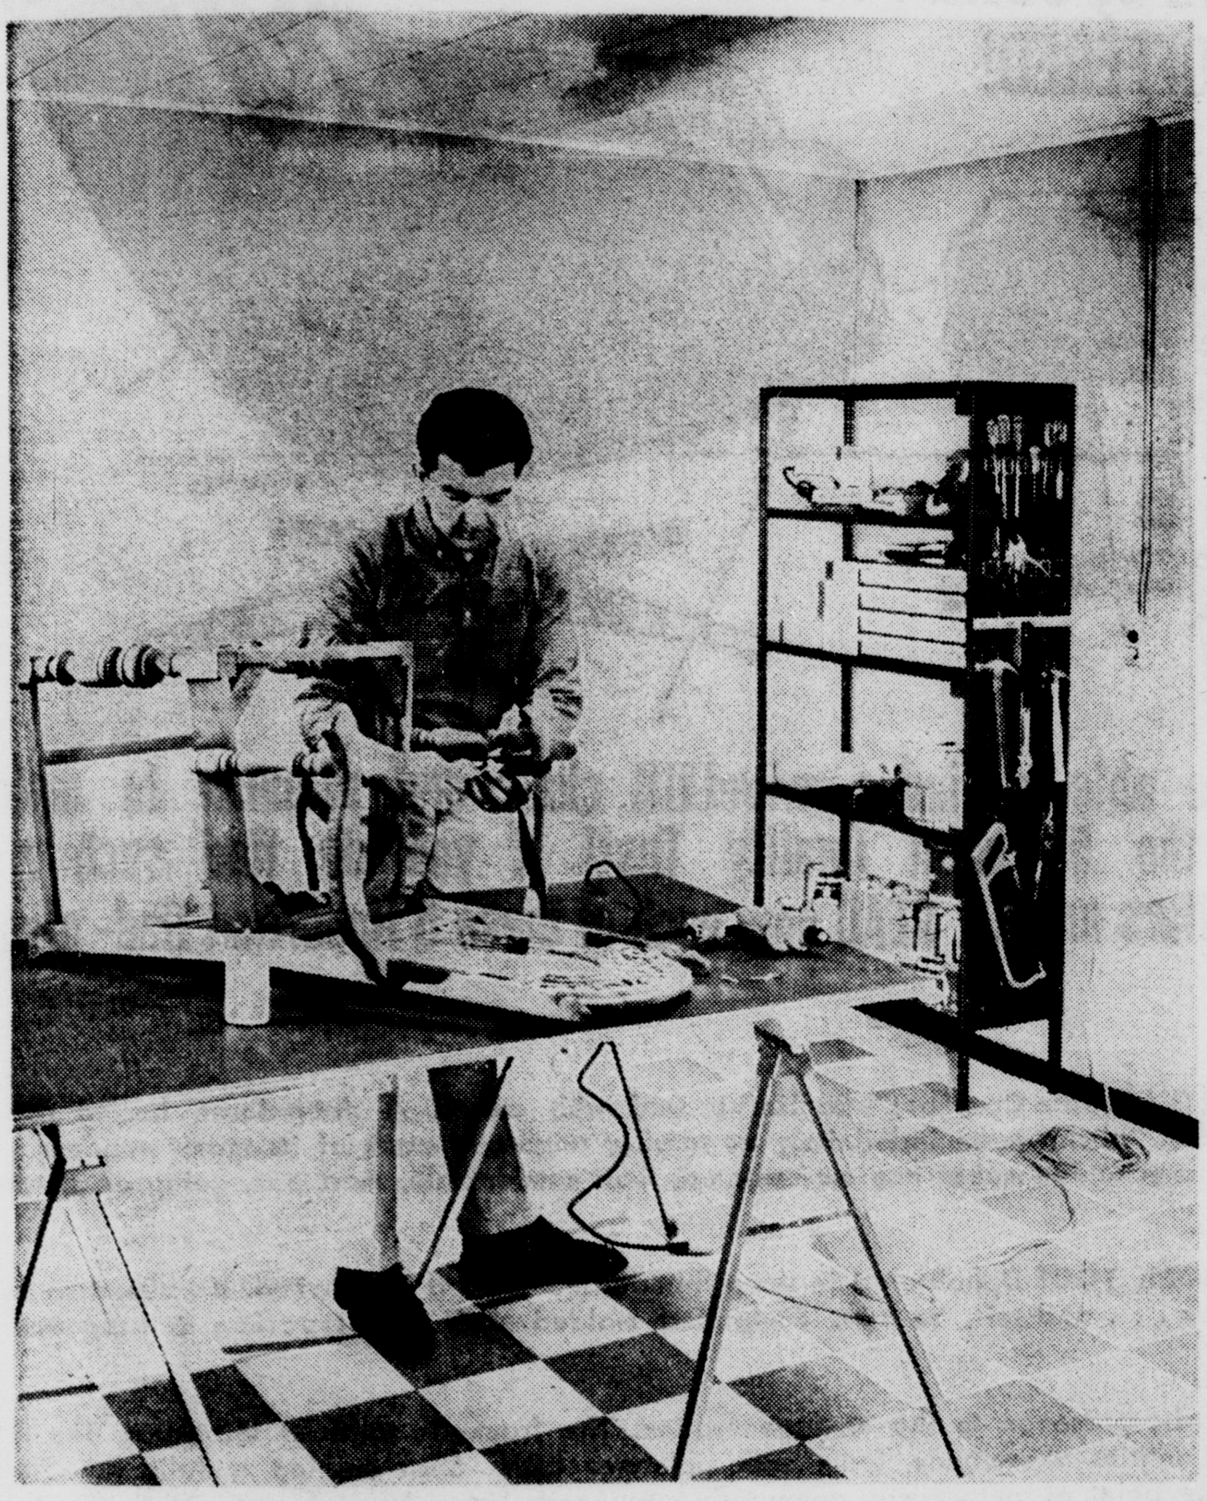
Begin constructing the sawhorses using a couple of two-by-fours or two-by-sixes for the crosspieces. Buy good quality metal legs and assemble them according to instructions. Also, buy the metal shelves and bolt them together.

Next, cut a piece of perforated hardboard to go on one end of the shelves for the tool board. Lay it over the end of the shelf unit and drill holes through the hardboard and shelf uprights to receive the bolts or self-tapping screws. Now cut a piece of three-quarter inch plywood with a few brads around the edges.

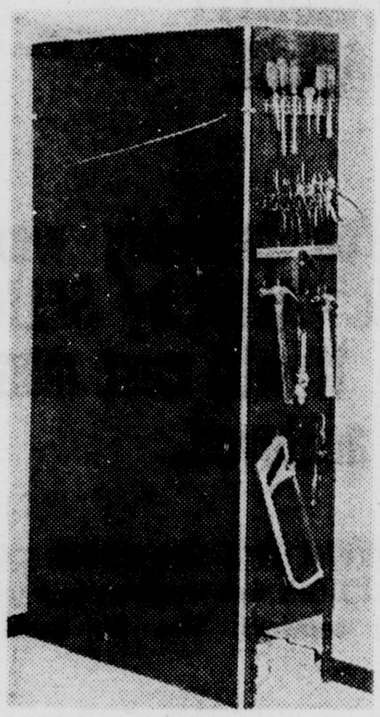
The hardboard makes a nice hard, smooth surface and when it gets scarred and dirty, simply remove the brads and flip it over for a fresh start.

Fasten on a couple of turn-buttons to the fronts of the shelf uprights. These keep the plywood cover in place. Attach them with long bolts through the uprights. Use a short length of compression spring under the turn-buttons as spacers, if necessary. Put some hooks on the tool board, hang up your tools and stow away the rest of your gear inside.

This handy workshop suggestion and tips on all phases of home maintenance appear in Better Homes and Gardens new "Handyman's Book." Over 1,500 how-to illustrations and up-to-date product information are included in this guide.



FOLDING SAWHORSES that you can build yourself, a sheet of plywood, metal shelves and some perforated hardboard are the simple materials from which this workshop for the home handyman, shown in Better Homes and Gardens' "Handyman's Book," was constructed.



THE PERFECT tool board is an easy project when the handyman uses perforated hardboard. There are shelves inside to hold other tools and supplies of the do-it-yourselfer.

Two Ways To Apply Laminate

There are two ways to apply plastic laminate to a large surface such as the dining room table.

One is not to use contact cement. Instead, use a strong glue which does not dry immediately. In that way, you can rearrange the plastic laminate if you don't get it on properly the first time.

But you'll have to clamp the laminate to the table top until it dries, a procedure which isn't necessary with contact cement.

The other solution is to apply contact cement to the table top and to the back of the laminate. Wait until both surfaces are dry to the touch. Then place a large sheet of brown paper over the table top. Fold a few inches of the paper at one end. Place the laminate over the entire paper and place it into position at the end where there is no paper.

Then carefully slide out the paper, pressing the laminate to the table top.

Use a kitchen rolling pin on the laminate to bond it securely to the wood.

Storage For Cans

If you need more room for canned goods but haven't the space for a full cabinet, try a narrow closet with shallow shelves. One of its benefits is that you don't have to go fumbling around in the back of a deep cabinet to find what you want.

LOOK AROUND! You probably won't be able to find a swivel tilt chair and ottoman to match this HOUSEMASTER® CHAIR by SELIG in the 5-point Quality Test! If you do find such a chair chances are it will cost many Dollars more. READ how each of these 5 important Dad-pleasing features was achieved.

1. SURE TO PLEASE DAD WITH IT'S SUPREME COMFORT! "Cuddle Comfort" Reclining and with swivel! A deep-down, lasting comfort achieved by experts. Seat and back are engineered with perfect "pitch," move indefinitely at varying angles in each of its many positions, providing perfect body'hugging comfort. The tilt and swivel mechanism makes it a most-wanted, most comfortable, most easy-going of all chairs of it's type.

2. LOOKS GOOD . . . MADE TO PLEASE DAD AND MOM, TOO! Upholstered in deep, handtufted rugged black vinyl. It's almost as tough as elephant hide. Yet has the look and feel of costly leather . . . and soft, so soft. Sculptured molded shell construction is supported on Swedish chrome steel base.

3. DAD PLEASING QUALITY . . . MADE TO LAST! Made to be passec on to the next generation. The frame is solid as Gibraltar. The final touch in ultimate luxury was achieved by adding great quantities of urethane foam with polyester fibre. Seat cushion is fully detachable for easy cleaning. Painstaking care was taken to assure each point of contact was generously cushioned. Listen how whisper-smooth the swivel rocking Swedish chrome base operates.

4. GENEROUS DAD-PLEASING PROPORTIONS! It's King Size big, a full 39" high, a generous 27" wide. Make no mistake, this is a "king size" chair in every sense of the word, not to be confused with skimpy imitations. Yet, for all of its generous heft, it is sleek and graceful, suitable for living room or a prideful position in a Dapper Dan's Den.

5. AT THIS LOW SALE PRICE . . . this swivel rocker chair and ottoman just has to be "DAD-Pleasingest" value in town! Before you invest in a nameless so-called "bargain" chair, we invite you to look this one over and compare it to chairs normally selling from $319.95 and up.

Bruce Again Asks Board To Fire Zucker

County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker, defeated in his attempt to unseat Supervisor Chairman John F. McInnis, will be up for dismissal by the county board of supervisors Tuesday afternoon.

County Administrator Alan Bruce recommended Zucker's dismissal in a strongly worded letter to the supervisors yesterday.

Bruce had recommended Zucker's firing in March when the planning director announced his decision to run against McInnis, but the board granted the planning director's request for a leave of absence. In 1969, Zucker survived another dismissal attempt, that time at the hands of McInnis and another supervisor, Louis H. Baar.

Of the two supervisors reached for comment yesterday and today, neither would disclose how he would vote on Zucker's dismissal.

"Frankly, I thought he would resign," said Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. "But I have no further comment at this time."

William A. Gnoss said that he would have to see Bruce's recommendations first. "I've been out of town for two days," he said. "In all fairness I would have to read Mr. Bruce's comments and study the matter before I decide."

Zucker, whose leave expires Tuesday, said again yesterday he does not intend to resign and will be present at the Tuesday afternoon meeting of the supervisors. He had no further comment.

Bruce, in his letter to the supervisors, said Zucker "no longer has my recommendation or my confidence."

"The planning director and other appointive department heads serve on the recommendation of the county administrator, and at the pleasure of the board of supervisors," wrote Bruce.

"I doubt that he has your confidence, or in any way pleasures your board.

"Under this circumstance, neither the cause of planning in Marin County nor any other public purpose could be served by his return to active duty.

"I have discussed this situation with Mr. Zucker. Unfortunately, through a resoning process which I can only describe as grotesque, he sees it otherwise. Accordingly, I have no alternative but to recommend that he be dismissed forthwith.

"This recommendation, which would end an experiment with a peculiar personality, is aimed to assure the continuity of Marin County leadership in dynamic environmental planning. . ."

The county administrator added he would make further recommendations next week and during budget time on the filling of Zucker's position.

Werner Von Gundell, named acting planning director when Zucker announced he would seek McInnis' seat, last March 19, is now on vacation. In his absence, Albert Solnit, chief of advance planning, is serving as

POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCES

Oh, the pomp, the ceremony and tradition of it all, as college days end and graduates, dressed in tasseled mortarboards and flowing gowns proceed to the podium to accept their degrees. Finch Replaced In Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced Saturday that Robert H. Finch is leaving his post as secretary of health, education and welfare to join the top White House staff and will be replaced in the department by Elliot Richardson, now undersecretary of state.

Appearing before newsmen in the White House press center, Nixon began by describing Finch as "my oldest and closest friend and associate within the administration." He declared:

"I regret losing him at HEW but I need him here."

The President indicated he felt there were areas in which he was not getting the full range of counsel that he expects Finch to provide.

Richardson, 49, has been undersecretary of state since the beginning of the Nixon administration and had served as assistant secretary of health, education and welfare in the Eisenhower administration.

Finch's departure from the Cabinet was the first in the Nixon presidency. At the White House, he will share the title of counselor to the President—the highest staff designation—with John D. Ehrlichman and Bryce N. Harlow.

Nixon told newsmen he and Finch had been discussing for some time the possibility of his old friend providing regular counsel to the chief executive in the domestic field and in some foreign policy areas.

Declaring that he had hoped Finch could serve both as private adviser and Cabinet secretary, Nixon said experience showed that running the Department of Health, Education and Welfare was a full-time job.

Finch, former Republican lieutenant governor of California, has been embroiled in a series of controversies while serving in the Cabinet and, from time to time, there had been rumors he might leave government entirely.

Talking to newsmen after Nixon announced his job shift, Finch said, "It's a higher calling but a lower salary."

Finch described the move as "coming home to be with Bob and John" and other Nixon aides—references to presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman and Ehrlichman.

Haldeman and Ehrlichman are regarded as the two most powerful figures on the White House staff.

Nixon, trying to nip in advance any speculation that Finch's arrival might precipitate staff rivalries, said all his top associates "are team players," and that the addition of Finch will strengthen the staff operation.

Richardson, a former Republican lieutenant governor of Massachusetts, said of his nomination for the Cabinet:

"I'm delighted, stunned and saddened all at once."

Richardson said he had enjoyed his work at the State Department, and added that he would be "rejoining old friends" at HEW. "I look forward to the assignment because it is a demanding one," he said.

Nixon, who has faced some criticism because of a supposed reliance on Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, his former New York law partner, suggested Finch

Gargantuan Jet's Arrival Is Scary

CHARLESTON, S. C. (UPI)—The first C-5 Galaxy aircraft delivered to the Air Force lost one wheel and blew a tire on another today while landing at Charleston Air Force Base, but the huge plane came to a safe stop on its other 26 wheels.

The plane, largest in the world, was being delivered to the Air Force from Marietta, Ga., where it was built, and a number of Air Force officials and Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S. C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, were on hand to see it land.

The 247-foot long plane knocked off a wheel on its left side as it touched down on the runway, and the wheel and tire rolled along several hundred feet behind the plane as it passed the reviewing stand where Rivers and Air Force officials were watching.

The plane also suffered a blowout on the adjacent tire, but the huge aircraft did not seem affected by the loss.

The craft, piloted by Gen. Jack Catton, commander of the Air Lift Command, came to a smooth stop, was turned around, and taxied up to the ceremony area where the Air Force was to take possession of the plane.

"Don't worry, it's got 26 tires left," an Air Force public information officer told newsmen as they pointed to the tire rolling down the runway by itself.

Officials of Lockheed-Georgia, manufacturers of the plane, clustered around the landing gear after the plane was brought to a halt, but refused to comment.

Reds Launch Attacks On Cambodian Cities

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces stepped up their pressure north and west of Phnom Penh Saturday in what was regarded in the capital as the biggest enemy offensive since the allies entered Cambodia last month.

Enemy attacks broke out at Siem Reap, a provencial capital about 185 miles northwest of Phnom Penh and continued at Kompong Thom, 80 miles north of the capital. Kompong Speu, a provincial capital 35 miles west of Phnom Penh, was being harassed by enemy forces.

The Cambodian high command was reported jolted by the appearance of strong enemy forces at Siem Reap, since it was supposed they were far from the town.

Informants thought the enemy was trying to score a propaganda victory here because Siem Reap is only about six miles south of the tourist mecca of Angkor Wat.

A qualified military source in Phnom Penh said a strong Cam-

Nixon Task Force Visits Viet Border

KOHPONG TRACH, Cambodia (UPI)—Thirteen members of President Nixon's fact-finding task force received military briefings, watched Vietnamization in progress and drank coconut juice with Asians today during a day-long tour of South Vietnam's Mekong Delta and the Cambodian border.

The group received military briefings from both U.S. forces and South Vietnamese in a border crossing which saw them meet with Cambodian officials in the district capital of Kompong Trach.

They also visited a "Chieu Hoi" center near Can Tho, largest community in the delta,

Draft Card Burners Found Guilty In Chicago Court

CHICAGO (AP) — Ten anti-war activists have been convicted in U.S. District Court of destroying thousands of draft records in a raid on a Selective Service office.

All were convicted on all four counts of the indictment in a verdict returned Friday by a jury of seven men and five women. The maximum penalty is 23 years in prison and fines totaling $32,000. Sentencing is scheduled Tuesday.

Three of the defendants were not present to hear the verdict. They disappeared near the end of the five week trial, and warrants have been issued for their arrest.

Judge Edwin A. Robson revoked the bonds of the seven defendants who were in court. He said they are a menace to the community and he would be

Bay Awash With Supertankers?

MARTINEZ, Calif. (AP) — A public hearing on a $4.5 million study of the shipping capacity of 85-mile long San Francisco Bay has disclosed the area must develop the ability to handle the giant supertankers that are becoming common.

The hearing held Friday at the Contra Costa County courthouse by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers heard James T. Ritch, general manager of the Contra Costa Development Association, say that Alaskan oil means a seventh and probably an eighth refinery in the northeast bay area.

Signal and Douglas both are considering putting up plants in addition to those at Oleum, Richmond, Martinez, Avon, Rodeo and Benicia, he said.

Ritch also said two more steel mills may go up, at Richmond and near Pittsburg.

"The use of shipping channels is increasing in the upper reaches of the bay," Ritch said.

He said tankers of 60,000 to 80,000 deadweight tons now can reach existing refineries. But he pointed out that 200,000 ton tankers are common with behemoths of 500,000 and even a million tons in the offing.

Planning now contemplated would deepen the Stockton channel above the refinery zone to 35 feet from its present depth of 30 feet.

Below that, the way to the refinery zone would be deepened to 45 feet, all the way from the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge.

Outward from that point, a 55-foot channel would be opened across the San Francisco bar outside the Golden Gate Bridge and maintained to the San Rafael-Richmond Bridge zone.

F. Ron Henrekin, executive director of the Solano County Industrial Development Agency, told the hearing that the United States is increasingly dependent on imported raw materials carried by both freighters and tankers of large size.

"The Pacific area and Alaska have large supplies of materials, so the San Francisco Bay system and its ports have a resopnsibility to the nation and not just the immediate area," he said.

"A modern navigation system with ship channels of sufficient depth is vital to the economic stature of the Bay Area. It is also extremely important to the balance of payments situation of the United States," he said.

Big Brother Rescues Youngster After Near-Drowning In Novato

An 11-year-old boy was credited yesterday with saving the life of his younger brother, who had fallen into a swimming pool in Novato.

Stephan Taylor dived into the pool at 6065 Hatch Road and pulled out his unconscious brother, Eric, 7, according to the boys' father, William M. Taylor.

Taylor and his wife, Carrie, who is a registered nurse, gave mouth-to-mouth resusciation to their son. After he started to breathe, he was taken to Novato General Hospital and given oxygen treatment.

Taylor said he was recently transferred to the western regional of the National Park Service and the family was looking at a house at the address at about 2:30 p.m. when Eris and his sister, Alyson, 9, began playing around the pool.

When Eric fell in, Alyson called out to her parents in the house, but they ignored her first call, Taylor said.

Stephan ran out of the house and when he saw his younger brother unconscious and blue at the bottom of the pool, he dove

MISERABLE MONSOON LIVING

Lawmen Arrest Indians

REDDING, Calif. (UPI)—In a surprise raid at dawn today, a caravan of law enforcement officers arrested 75 Indians seeking to reclaim for their people an area the size of Connecticut.

Sheriff's deputies, highway patrolmen and local police assembled in Redding and drove to a Pacific Gas and Electric Company campground where the Indians were staging a "camp-in."

"We shouldn't be arrested. PGE should be arrested," shouted one angry Indian. "This is our land and they are trespassing."

The police took the action after PGE said a dozen of their cabins were forcibly entered and asked for protection of their property.

Police booked the Indians on the spot and hauled them away by bus. Two of the Indians, who went limp, were carried off but the rest surrendered peacefully.

The Indians pitched camp at the site Friday morning and vowed to make it a beachhead in a drive to reclaim vast tribal lands.

The redmen were turned back Friday by rifle carrying federal marshals and park rangers at the entrance of Lassen Volcanic National Park, their original target. Then they drove to the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. camp ground northeast of here.

The "camp-in" opened a drive by the Pit River Indians and leaders of the Alcatraz Island Indian occupation to gain land they said was seized by the white man during the 1848 California Gold Rush.

A spokesman for the giant utility company said the Indians would be welcome to stay temporarily if they did not harm facilities. Several cabins are reserved for employes but the land has always been open to the public, he said.

The Indian Claims Commission conceded in 1959 that the land was taken "without compensation" but the government said the Indians agreed to settle for part of $29 million offered to all tribes. The money still is unpaid.

One of the world's most beautiful waterfalls is Sutherland Falls, New Zealand, where the water plunges 1,904 feet.

Six-Days' War Anniversary Marked By Air Activity

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israelis and Arabs marked the third anniversary of the six-day Middle East war with a new round of raids— the Israelis in the air, Arab commandos on the ground.

Israeli warplanes assaulted Egyptian military targets along the Suez Canal for 11 hours Friday and then returned at night for another 3½ hours.

The military command in Tel Aviv said the heavy bombing was aimed at reducing Israeli casualties along the waterway and preventing an Egyptian buildup.

Arab guerrillas staged sporadic border raids Friday and resumed them today, firing rockets from Iebanon into the Kirayat Shomona area of Upper Galilee, the Tel Aviv command said.

Mass demonstrations were staged and speeches delivered in various parts of the Arab world Friday.

Libya's strongman, Col. Muammar Kadafi, told a Damascus rally on the second day of his visit to Syria that all Arab armies must be thrown against Israel.

The 27-year-old leader pledged that his country would move its "regular forces directly into the conflict." Kadafi has been making the circuit of militant Arab capitals enlisting support for a united front strategy against Israel.

Arab leaders called for a general strike in all areas occupied by the Israelis in the 1967 war, but it was impossible to tell how many Arabs responded to the call because Friday is their holy day and most businesses closed anyway.

Aid Pours Into Peru; Toll May Hit 50,000

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Aid from the United States and other countries continued to pour into earthquake-devastated Peru today amid new estimates that the death count could reach 50,000 or more.

The United States dispatched the helicopter carrier Guam with 14 choppers aboard to help ferry supplies into the stricken Huylas canyon and carry out residents injured in the massive quake Sunday.

U.S. Ambassador Taylor Belcher said U.S. aid would top the $1 million mark by today. Belcher also reported that an American mining company, Cerro de Pasco Corp., had succeeded in opening a circuitous "back door" route to the shattered valley in north-central Peru, and that two other American firms were working on a more direct route from coastal areas to the inland region.

The Canadian government sent six transport planes to help drop supplies into the valley.

Peru's director of information, Augusto Zimmerman, said he could not confirm new estimates of 50,000 dead, cabled to U.N. headquarters from a representative of the world organization in Lima.

But Zimmerman said: "If you asked me whether 40,000 died instead of 30,000, I would have to say maybe. I don't know."

The disaster also hit to the west of the Huaylas Canyon, in the snowcapped cordillera Blanca, or White Range. Rescue crews still have had no time to search for survivors there but a cursory survey showed hundreds of villages and hamlets probably buried by landslides.

Disease posed a major problem. Rivers were polluted as melting snow trickled over bodies and found its way into the streams.

Senate Sets Asia Curbs Voting Date

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate, after nearly four weeks of debate, will speak at last next week on America's move into Cambodia and whether it should be permitted to happen again.

An agreement was reached Friday for a vote at 1 p.m. EDT next Thursday on a gut issue in the long debate: whether the Congress should restrict the President from sending forces into Cambodia without the express prior approval from Congress.

Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., a former diplomat, and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, believe they have the thin majority necessary to write that restriction into law.

But Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., backed by President Nixon and the Senate Republican leadership, thinks he has the votes to tone down the restriction and — in the Church-Cooper view—make it meaningless.

The vote will come on Byrd's proposal to add this caveat to the Cooper-Church proposal to bar future Cambodian operations:

"Except that the foregoing provisions this clause shall not preclude the President from taking such action as may be necessary to protect the lives of United States forces in South Vietnam or to facilitate the withdrawal of United States forces from South Vietnam."

Cooper, Church and their supporters contend that if the Byrd amendment is tacked onto their proposal it would mean the Senate will have spoken without saying anything. They say Nixon would have a blank check to declare it "necessary to protect the lives" of GIs and send Americans into Cambodia

Korea Sinking: U.S. Denials, Asia Mixup?

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea claims it sank a "heavily armed" U.S. spy ship in the Yellow Sea, but the U.S. Navy has denied the charge, saying it has no ships operating in the area.

South Korea announced Friday that one of its vessels on a routine mission to prevent South Korean fishing boats from straying north of the border, was attacked by two North Korean patrol boats and towed off toward the north. North Korea issued its claim later in the day, and there was speculation the two Korean governments were referring to the same incident.

North Korea's official Korean Central News Agency said an American spy ship "intruded deep into the coastal waters" about 11.30 p.m. Friday. "Officers and men of the navy of the Korean People's army ... instantly sent to the bottom of the sea the enemy's armed spy ship," the broadcast said.

The Navy reported in a statement issued in Washington: "The U.S. Navy had no ships of any kind operating in that area."

The North Korean dispatch said the ship was sunk off Haeju, about 50 miles south of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

The South Korean Defense Ministry said its boat was accosted by two North Korean vessels just south of the seaward extension of the Demilitarized Zone, about 70 miles west of the South Korean capital of Seoul.

The location given by the North Koreans would put the ship slightly north of the DMZ, and that given by the South Koreans would put it south of the line.

Isla Vista Bank Branch Fire-Bombed

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — Scattered rock throwing and window breaking erupted for the second straight night Friday as a crowd of young persons milled about in the Isla Vista community adjacent to the University of California campus here.

Authorities said that at one time the crowd swelled to between 800 - 1,000, as participants — identified as mostly students — milled in the area of an embattled branch of the Bank of America in the predominantly student community north of here.

However, deputies said, possible major violence was avoided because a small group of apparent moderate students and UCSB professors worked through the crowd, attempting to persuade the young people to return to their residences.

Most of the windows in the bank — the object of violence in April which resulted in the accidental shooting death of a UCSB student by a deputy sheriff — were broken out and the doors had been broken open.

Several of the bank's neon signs were also damaged and a fence surrounding the facility was temporarily torn down on one side, only to be put back up by the moderate group, deputies said.

A Molotov cocktail was tossed on the bank's roof early in the evening but burned itself out before doing any damage, they said.

It was the second night of disorder, stemming from student anger following the indictments earlier this week of 17 persons in connection with the burning down of the original Isla Vista Bank of America branch last Feb. 25 during four nights of rampage.

Despite its name, barely one-eighth of Iceland remains ice-covered year-round.

CONTROVERSIAL PLANES IN LIMELIGHT

The supersonic B1 bomber (above) has apparently resolved the Nixon Administration to give manned warplanes a place alongside missile forces. Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seaman Jr. yesterday said North American Rockwell Co. of El Segundo has a $1.3 billion contract to develop and produce the controversial bomber by 1974. The decision was protested by competing Boeing and other aircraft manufacturers. Meanwhile, in Boeing's Seattle plant (below) Secretary of Transportation John Volpe spoke at unveiling of wooden model of the proposed SST, saying he was sure Congress would allocate $290 million to continue work on the 1,800 miles-per-hour passenger plane.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Boat Doing Well

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI)—Thor Heyerdahl's papyrus boat RA-2 radioed Friday it was encountering sunny weather and making good headway in its effort to cross the Atlantic.

Amateur radio operator Richard Ehrhorn said the report from the RA-2 put its position at 350 miles due west of Villa Cisneros on the coast of Africa.

China Executions

HONG KONG (UPI)—A Hong Kong newspaper said today 10 Chinese were executed last month on Communist China's Hainan Island apparently in connection with a rash of fires hitting food and supply shops on the southern coast of Mainland China.

Murphy Pays Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., has told the Securities and Exchange Commission that he has repaid Technicolor Inc. $10,413 as a result of a "small discrepancy" discovered by the SEC in a number of Technicolor shares he owns.

Murphy said he had paid interest on the profit made on the sale of his Technicolor stock and that he had paid Technicolor a total of $12,616. He said neither he nor his business manager were aware of a federal law under which he conceded he "might have a liability to Technicolor."

Cairo Welcome

CAIRO (UPI) — Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia was given a 21-gun salute and a personal welcome from Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser Friday when he arrived for a two-day official visit.

D-Day Recalled

BAYEUX, France (UPI)—French and American officials made a pilgrimage to the battlesites of World War II today on the 26th anniversary of D-Day—the allied invasion of Nazi-occupied Europe.

Laird In Italy

VENICE, Italy (UPI)—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird arrived today to attend a meeting of the NATO nuclear defense planning group.

The two-day session begins Monday.

The mission is part of a European trip in which Laird will visit NATO bases in Italy, Belgium, West Germany, Spain and Britain.

Kennedy Grave Visit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robert F. Kennedy's widow visited his grave shortly after dawn this morning on the second anniversary of his burial in Arlington National Cemetery.

Ethel Kennedy was accompanied by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and his wife Joan, who stood by silently as she placed a pink rose on his grave and knelt, her head bowed and her hands clasped for about 10 minutes.

None of the Kennedy children was present.

Sugar Pact Rejected

CROCKETT (UPI)—Negotiators from C & H Sugar Co. and Sugar Workers Union No. 1 will have to try to work out another contract proposal.

Striking sugar workers, who have been out since June 1 over wages and fringe benefits, rejected the company's latest offer Friday by a nine-vote margin, 440-431.

Eggs, Arguments

SLOUGH, England (AP) — "We have all the arguments, they have all the eggs," Prime Minister Harold Wilson said after being hit by two eggs during a campaign rally.

At another rally Friday, a group of youths tossed tomatoes at the prime minister, who is campaigning for re-election. The tomatoes missed.

LBJ Granddaughter

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was a girl for Maj. and Mrs. Charles S. Robb Jr. and the fourth grandchild for former President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

The baby, weighing 8 pounds, 13 ounces at birth yesterday, was the second girl for Lynda Robb and her Marine Major husband.

Sonny Tufts Dies

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Sonny Tufts, Boston-born actor who played both cowboys and suave leading-man roles with equal verve, is dead of pneumonia at 58.

The blond, tall actor died at St. John's Hospital Thursday night. His death was not made public until Friday.

Dr William Bergin, the physician who attended him, said Bowen Charleston Tufts II—his true name—succumbed to a "virulent organism" that caused him to be hospitalized last Sunday.

Cosmonauts Well

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet spaceship Soyuz 9, launched Monday night, continued its solitary orbit of the earth today with its two passengers reported "feeling well."

Poles Claim Capital

WARSAW (AP) — Eight hundred descendents of Count Caimir Palaski, a Pole who fought and died in the American Revolutionary War, have filed a claim with the U.S. government for 350 acres of land in Washington, D.C.

The U.S. State Department acknowledged in 1779 that Pulaski's heirs were entitled to a land bounty, but the case dragged on until 1859 and the department then ruled that the law providing for the grants had expired.

Bus Srike Over

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The 48-day-long bus strike over, buses returned to the streets at 4 a.m. today with the highest-paid drivers in the country.

And passengers pay 40 cents for a basic fare, 10 cents more than before the strike.

The three-year contract was ratified by union drivers Friday by a vote of 349 to 23. The pact provides wage increases of $1.12 an hour over three years.

Marin Poets' Corner

(Editor's Note: The Independent-Journal, the I-J's Marin Magazine Poet's Corner and the Marin poets who supply its verse have been honored by the Ina Coolbrith Circle, Northern California literary organization, with a special citation for having published the greatest number of poems of any California newspaper in 1968-69. At the same time the Circle announced a citation for the Los Altos News for its contributions to the promotion of the art of poetry and verse in 1968 and 1969. James W. McLaughlin of Belmont is the Ina Coolbrith Circle president.)

SONG OF THE PAMPAS GRASS

'Tis pampas time once again
And giant-tall they stand
Enticing feathered panicles
Sheathed within a magic band
Aloof amid a ring of sharpened knives
Out to catch the wary
Lest watchfulness he does not exercise—
Slowly swaying in the winds
Slowly saying: "Feel the softness of the silk
Of my brush embrace—
If you can—upon your face . . .
You can—you can
Upon your face."

negligent in his duties if he allowed them to remain at large "to wrack the same havoc" elsewhere in the nation.

It is only a step from burning draft records to burning buildings, the judge said in denying defense motions that the seven remain free on bond pending sentencing. The defendants' actions amounted to anarchy, he said.

The defendants admitted during the trial that they took part in the raid on a complex of draft offices and destroyed records by pouring paint on them and dumping them into a bonfire.

But an attorney for four defendants argued that his clients were innocent on grounds they were "culturally insane" because their views on Vietnam and racism differ from those of the majority of Americans.

The four defendants represented by attorney Frank Oliver were examined by a psychiatrist who testified for the prosecution that all four were mentally sound and able to tell the difference between right and wrong at the time of the raid.

The four were the Rev. Nicholas J. Riddell, 40, of Milwaukee, a Carmelite priest; Linda J. Quint, 22, of Chicago; and Edward Gargan, 19, and William Durkin, 20, both of Milwaukee.

They were among 18 persons arrested May 25, 1969, during the raid on a southwest side Selective service office. Three of the 18 were dismissed because they were newsmen observing the demonstrations.

Ex-Marinite Booked In Dual Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Jaime Sandoval, ex-convict and central figure in a Peninsula death mystery a decade ago, has been booked on murder charges in the slaying of two persons last weekend.

Sandoval, 39, former male nurse in San Rafael, was booked on the more serious charges Friday. He had been held only for investigation in the slayings of Edelmiro Huertas and Carmen Acenzio. Both of their bodies were found near Devil's Slide last weekend.

Police said they had "solid evidence" the two were killed in Huertas' San Francisco home and then dumped in San Mateo County.

Sandoval was the only witness to the 1960 death of Mrs. Virginia Douglas of Millbrae, who was fatally injured when she fell from a cliff in Puerto Rico. Ten days later, her husband committed suicide, leaving a note saying he doubted that his wife's death was accidental and asserting that Sandoval had bilked him of $32,000.

The following year Sandoval was conviced of molesting the Douglas couple's two young boys and served time in San Quentin Prison.

Only One Inmate Knows Death Date

Only one of 77 persons condemned to die in San Quentin Prison's gas chamber has an execution date set, Associate Warden James W. L. Park said yesterday.

Harold Roger Terry, 33, of Alameda County, is scheduled to die Aug. 12. He was convicted of the murder of two men in two separate robberies in Oakland in February 1965.

Terry's partner, Juanelda Allen, is serving a life sentence at the California Institution for Women at Corona.

Seventy-three condemned men are at San Quentin, three are out of the prison for court appearances, and one woman is at Corona. The sentences of 72 have either been stayed or are being appealed.

No Charge Yet On Dope In Jail

No charges were filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against two persons arrested Thursday on suspicion of trying to smuggle a heroin kit into Marin County Jail.

Harold Don Lee Jenkins, 25, of Richmond, and Dolores Lockhard, 25, of San Francisco, were released pending an investigation by the district attorney's office.

They had allegedly handed a jailer an envelope containing three burned spoons, one of which contained a white crystal substance, and a needle and a syringe, asking that it be delivered to inmate Mark Jenkins, 28, of San Francisco.

Ecologist Warns Foresters Man Must Change His Ways

Ecologist Paul F. Brandwein told approximately 200 professional foresters meeting in San Rafael last night that man must drastically change his habits in order to save his environment.

"We're polluting our environment for no other reason than that we're habituated to it," the president of the Center for Study of Instruction in Natural and Social Sciences said, glaring at several in the audience who were smoking cigarettes. "We, alone among all the species, have the freedom to suicide."

He told the Northern California Section of the Society of American Foresters that man's misuse of technology has resulted in an almost unbearable noise level and lack of privacy, "which are making us more and more irritated with one another." While emphasizing that he was not calling for a return to primitivism, Dr. Brandwein said his ideal civilzaton would be "when man invests a machine and doesn't use it. Major species have died," he said, "of that which has made them great. Is man to die because of his technology?"

He pointed out that America's technology has reached the point where it uses 35 times the resources of the rest of the world, and what is needed is a global resources policy.

"How do we get a global resources policy?" he asked rhetorically. "I don't know. I can't even get a policy in my own neighborhood," indicating that people are not aware of their habits that are destroying their environment.

He pointed to the habit of producing more human beings on a finite earth with finite resources to support them.

"In 200 years, at a birth rate of 1.7 per cent, we can look forward to one person per square foot of land."

The answer, he said, is to change our cultural values to achieve control of reproduction.

This would help maintain a balance between man and the finite resources to maintain him. Also, he said, "we need an ecumenical council between industry and conservationists," to figure out realistic ways of maintaining a healthy environment.

The foresters travel today to West Marin for a tour of Point Reyes National Seashore, the Audubon Canyon Ranch, and the Righetti Ranch.

Four-Car Span Crash Hurts Four

Four members of a San Francisco family were injured last night in a four-car collision on the Golden Gate Bridge.

Treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts and bruises were the driver, William K. Chan, 22, and three passengers, Lewis Chan, 16; John Chan, 13, and Kai Fog Chan, 11.

The California Highway Patrol said the Chan vehicle was southbound on the bridge about 7:30 p.m. when it hit the guard rail and then rebounded over the divider strip into the northbound lanes, hitting a car driven by Marie C. Laughlin, 50, of 65 Crescent Lane, Novato. Two other cars, driven by Melva A. Warner, 36, of Eureka, and Alma J. Christiansen, 40, of San Mateo, struck the rear of the Laughlin vehicle, the officers said.

Collision Hurts Both Drivers

Two San Rafael drivers were treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for bruises sustained when their autos collided on Woodland Avenue near Davidson Junior High School, San Rafael.

The hospital said Evelyn L. Townsend, 35, of 125 Woodland Avenue, was treated for a bruised forehead and Antonio M. Saavedra, 35, of 55 Woodland Avenue, for a bruised chest.

Police quoted a witness as saying the Saavedra auto had struck a school crossing sign on Woodland prior to the 2:50 p.m. accident.

Locusts cannot fly until their body temperature reaches about 70 degrees F. The cool of night stiffens their muscles and they must bask in the sun before taking wing.

Probation, Fines Set For Drivers

Two persons have been sentenced by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Clay Hardin Lynch, 48, of Las Vegas, Nev., arrested April 13 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Carlos Camilo Romero, 28, of San Francisco, arrested last Sunday in Tiburon, was also placed on probation for one year and fined $175.

Gallinas Board Eyes Budgeting

The Gallinas Village Improvement Association board will discuss proposed cutbacks in the 1970-71 Marin County budget at a meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at the Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church, 635 Adrian Way.

The board will discuss the recommendations of County Administrator Alan Bruce to abolish the county5s human rights department and the well-baby clinic.

Bruce last May 5 suggested that the human rights department be eliminated from the budget to help keep next year's property ta from soaring to about $3 per $100 of assessed valuation. He also recommnded that the clinic be cut out of the health department budget.

VISIT

where Communist defectors are reclassified and relocated by the South Vietnamese government and two villages in contrasting stages of pacification.

Herbert G. Klein, White House communications director and group leader, said "We've learned a lot and we've seen a lot. It's been very helpful." This is Klein's first trip to Vietnam.

The group was expected to tour other Cambodian border regions Sunday before flying to Hawaii Monday where the members will prepare a report for the President and Congress.

The military briefers emphasized to the senators, congressmen, governors and White House staff the overall effects of the U.S. offensive into Cambodia.

Maj. Gen. Ngo Dzu, acting IV Corps commander for the South Vietnamese army, was anxious to tell them that his forces worked closely with the Americans and Cambodians "and took over when the Americans reached the 21.7 mile limit."

Nixon and his military advisers decided that U.S. forces would not exceed that limit into Cambodia.

"We call that Nixon's Line," Dzu told the group.

The task force, traveling in a fleet of Uhi Huey helicopters, flew six inside the Cambodian border to Kampong Trach where they met with local officials and reviewed two cadres of Cambodian forces.

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania, a Republican, behaved like he was campaigning at home in the Keystone state. He held Vietnamese and Cambodian babies, shook hands with their parents and examined arms caches.

Bryce Harlow, Presidential counselor, asked for and was presented with a Communist rifle captured during mid-May raids in Neak Luong, Cambodia. He said he would take it back to the United States as a souvenir.

Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., questioned village officials at Huu Thanh in Vinh Long province, South Vietnam, on the success of their village elections.

The village, which now has 2,000 families, was destroyed during the Tet offensive of 1968 by the Communists.

Child Critically Hurt In Street

A 7-year-old San Rafael boy was listed in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital from head injuries suffered yesterday when he darted from between two parked cars and was struck by an eastbound auto on Ross Street, near his home.

Police said Shane Kimberly Shaw of 224 Marin Street ran into the path of a car driven by Andrew Birge Zimmerman, 21, of 115 Fairway Drive, San Rafael, at about 6:45 p.m.

Zimmerman told police he was traveling at a slow rate of speed but did not see the child.

Supervisors are scheduled to consider Zucker's dismissal at 1:45 p.m.

At the time of his dismissal recommendation in March, Bruce explained, "Mr. Zucker's decision to run for elective office, unaccompanied by resignation from his appointive office, evidences unsound and immature judgment, and results in an intolerable situation as to relationships with the board of supervisors."

will play a major advisory role.

Besides serving on the domestic affairs council, Nixon said Finch will travel with him regularly—whether to foreign countries or to Florida or Southern California for working vacations.

The White House later made a point of emphasizing that counselors to the President hold Cabinet rank although their top pay is $42,500 a year compared to $60,000 for Cabinet secretaries.

After his stint at HEW during the Eisenhower administration, Eisenhower appointed Richardson as U.S. attorney for Massachusetts.

Richardson led a probe of highway landtaking frauds in Massachusetts as U.S. attorney and in 1964 won election as lieutenant governor. In 1966 he was elected attorney general of Massachusetts.

California Job Picture Darker Than U.S. Norm

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The growing unemployment rate in California reached 5.9 per cent last month, the highest rate in almost five years and .9 per cent higher than the nationwide rate.

The Reagan administration announced Friday that 470,000 workers were without jobs during May in California, an increase of 32,000 over April and 142,00 over the level one year ago.

The Department of Human Resources Development said the jobless figure during the month climbed from 5.5 per cent in April and compared with 4.2 per cent for the same period in 1969.

"The rate of 5.9 per cent for California was last recorded in August 1965," the agency said.

The U.S. Labor Department reported Friday that the nation's unemployment rate hit 5 per cent last month, the highest rate in more than five years.

In the HRD's monthly report, the department said about 10,000 jobs were cut in the California aerospace manufacturing industries alone.

Driver Faces Felony Charge On Tear Gas

Gary Lee Yoder, 24, of San Francisco, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a felony charge of carrying a tear gas device. His case was continued to Friday.

Yoder was arrested Thursday on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Inverness after being stopped for speeding. A check revealed that he had an outstanding traffic warrant and after being arrested for this, a search produced a tear gas container which he said he had bought for protection.

bodian force had blunted the attack on Siem Reap and enemy troops were withdrawing toward Angkor Wat.

He added that this posed a problem of whether to risk a battle that might damage the famous 700-year-old ruins of Angkor Wat.

A high command spokesman said enemy forces attacked Siem Reap before sunrise, then followed up with a push against the airport in daylight hours.

The heaviest fighting was around the airport, two miles northwest of Siem Reap, and enemy forces were cleared from it, the source reported. Military reports indicated fighting inside Siem Reap had died down but there were some enemy troops there.

There are reports that the enemy plans to set up bases in the Elephant Range, 75 miles west of Phnom Penh. If so, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong would have to be supplied by sea, and the South Vietnamese navy has set up a blockade along the southern coast.

The multiple enemy attacks pointed up the Cambodia government's contention that it needs troops from Thailand and that South Vietnamese forces must remain in Cambodia after the Americans pull out by June 30.

The U.S. Command, meanwhile, reported generally light and scattered fighting between enemy and American troops both in Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Officers Elected For Tam High

Ann Folker of Mill Valley was elected 1970-71 student body president of Tamalpais High School in Thursday's school election, defeating Tom Donaghue and Bruce Morgan for the post.

Peter Yamamoto defeated Vickie Goodman and Mario Cipollino for vice president. Julie Riedel was elected treasurer and Alice Jacobs secretary, both without opposition.

Approximately 1,000 students voted, reported Joseph E. Petterle, dean of student activities. The school, fearful of embarrassing losers, does not report individual vote totals, he said.

Elected as 1970-71 class presidents were Mike Goldberg, senior, who defeated Lorna Freeman; Becky Brockway, junior, who defeated Milan Calloway, and Robert Combs, sophomore, who was unopposed.

East Bay Motorist Denies Weed Charge

Steve Brian Hennagir, 18, of Hayward, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing marijuana when arrested May 22 on the Golden Gate Bridge. A preliminary hearing was set for June 23.

Hennagir was arrested after a California Highway Patrol officer stopped to assit him with a flat tire and noticed two suspected pot cigarettes in his pocket.

Mail Thefts Are Reported

Sheriff's deputies yetserday reported two mail thefts on Vernal Avenue in Homestead Valley.

Mail boxes at the homes of Paul T. Rigby of 926 Vernal Avenue and Ann Jenkins of 906 Vernal Avenue were opened Tuesday and packages taken from each.

All the contents of Rigby's package which contained jewelry was found nearby except a topaz ring deputies said. Taken from Mrs. Jenkins were two tape cartridges.

Wholesale Price Spiral Continues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices increased 0.2 per cent in May, according to the Labor Department, indicating a continuing rise in retail prices is ahead.

The announcement by the department's Bureau of Labor Statstics (BLS) followed an earlier report Friday that jobless rose last month from 4.8 to 5.0 per cent, the highest unemployment rate in five years.

Final BLS figures on wholesale prices were little changed from a preliminary estimate made May 26. Industrial commodities advanced 0.3 per cent, including an increase of 2.9 per cent by refined petroleum products. Fresh and dried fruits and vegetables rose 9.6 per cent.

The most significant decline in farm product prices was a 16 per cent decrease for eggs, which fell to just below their price level of the previous May.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

'Is There A Rule I've Missed That Says A Person Must Get Married?'

DEAR HELEN:

Is there a rule I've missed that says a person must get married? I often hear kids of four or five say, "When I grow up and get married, I'm going to be. . ." almost as if marriage was a prerequisite to gaining adulthood, or at least adult status in society.

Let's face it, marriage has become something that if you don't achieve, you will wind up a dried-up old maid or a dirty old man in the eyes of your associates.

But marriage isn't for everyone. I mean, the only logical reason for a high divorce rate is a high marriage rate. Seems to me you aren't a failure if you remain single, but only if you jump into a partnership that is bound to fail because you acted in desperation. — NOT FOR ME

DEAR N.F.M.:

Good thinking. But when that certain person happens along — whose love will forevermore protect you from loneliness — your thoughts may change. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Whatever happened to the fellow who first invented the phrase, "Don't trust anyone over 30?" And is the generation gap really that great? — TWO QUESTIONS

DEAR TWO:

Jack Weinberg, who says "that phrase" was his "absurd answer to an absurd question," turned 30 on April 4, 1970.

He launched it back in 1965 during the Free Speech Movement at Berkeley. When a newspaper reporter asked him if outside adults were masterminding the program, Weinberg reports, "That made me kind of mad because of the old 'Communist conspiracy' implication, so I said the thing about not trusting anybody over 30. I didn't mean it then and I mean it even less today."

Advanced age has not led Jack into the Establishment meatchopper. "I'm still going to be a revolutionary," he says.

Second question: "Generation gap" is another popular phrase blown up out of all proportion. "Idea gap" seems more accurate, for there are as many older people who relate to the young, as there are young people who reject the leadership of their radical peers.

America is polarized, divided, splintered not so much by age as by fear and distrust. . .of war, the economy, politicians, Communism, race, poverty, crime — you name it and somebody will surely start a movement, which may or may not turn into a riot.

I look to the day when the Three R's: Race, Riotin' and Revolution will give way to concern over the Three P's: Pollution, Pollution (and its byproduct, Poverty) and Peace. Then, the generation gap will be a forgotten term. — H.

Deb Emphasis On Volunteer Work

A new and different approach will be given to the Marin Debutante program this year — an emphasis on volunteer work in Marin County during the summer months.

As preparation the sponsoring Marin Charitable Foundation has set up a three-day orientation to volunteer work and a tour of Marin County agencies, with Mrs. Alfred P. Otto Jr. of Ross as its organizing chairman.

The orientation series will begin on June 15 at the Volunteer Bureau of Marin in San Rafael. The 1970 debutantes will meet at 9:30 a.m. for a short talk and then from 10 a.m. to noon will tour the Family Service Agency, Planned Parenthood Association and the Marin Chapter of the American Red Cross, all in San Rafael, and have lunch and visit the Marin County Department of Social Services and Marin County Probation Department at the Civic Center.

Tuesday the girls will meet at 9:30 a.m. at the Marin Aid to Retarded Children, the Atypical Infant Development Program and the Department of Public Health, all in San Rafael. In the afternoon they will continue to Marin City to visit the Boys Club of Southern Marin and the Manzanita Center Summer Child Care Program.

The following day the debs will meet at the Ross Post Office at 9:30 a.m. and go on to the Community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital and then tour the hospital itself including the Marin Speech and Hearing Center. The tour will conclude at the Ross Psychiatric Clinic at Ross General Hospital.

Afterward the girls will go to the home of Mrs. Gregory Solon for an instructional meeting with the debutante ball committee of the Marin Charitable Foundation and to have luncheon.

Know Your Figure Type To Select Correct Patterns

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE,

I have bought my clothes all of my life but with the continued rise in costs of ready-made clothes, I have begun to make some of my own things. I'm just not satisfied with the results, seems I never choose the correct pattern. What can you suggest as a workable solution to this problem; I'm sure it must be shared by others?

MRS. M. K.

DEAR MRS. M.K.

Since you have been buying ready-made clothes, you should have some idea of what is becoming on you and what is not. It is astonishing to find the number of women who do not know how to buy patterns and fabric.

Never choose a pattern without knowing what type of figure you have. Pictures of models always have perfect figures which very few real, ordinary, everyday folks like us do. Clothes aren't made by professional dressmakers and designers helter-skelter without thought as to how they are going to look on those going to model them. Usually, they are fitted directly on the model, fitting details and style lines are decided upon at that time.

The same careful planning must be done by us. As an example, a woman with a large bust needs darts in this area. If your neck is short, a rolled collar is not becoming. Not thinking and planning carefully beforehand how a certain fabric is going to look with the pattern you have chosen on your particular figure makes for some pretty dismal, unprofessional clothes that shout to the world that it is made by an amateur sewer.

Most fabric shops offer a personal service to customers by experienced women who will be more than happy to advise you on your pattern selections if you will only ask them, and then please, take their advice. Every shop wants happy customers, and happy customers are those who are pleased with their results.

DEAR EUNICE,

I have several dress patterns that I like for my daughter, and now I would like to make a blouse from one of those patterns. We would prefer buttons down the back intead of the zipper closing, but know that if we add the extra width for the buttons, the neckline will be too large. Please give me help on this matter.

MRS. J. D. H.

DEAR MRS. J. D. H.:

I was hoping you would all clip this information out of my column when it appeared recently. It is a simple matter to change the back from a zipper to buttons or from a button closing to a zipper. You must remember that the center back markings never change. If the pattern has a button closing, the center pack will be clearly marked and your closing seam for the zipper will be exactly at the center back.

If your pattern calls for a zipper and you wish to use buttons, the buttonholes will begin at the center back mark. Before cutting, you must add additional width for a lap at the back. You will need about ¾ inch plus a seam allowance to be measured from the center back mark.

If you wish a fold back facing instead of a seam, the fold line will be at the seamline, then add at least 3 inches for the facing.

Perhaps it would help if you would compare the construction of this detail by checking two patterns, one with buttons, the other with a center back seam. Once you have this detail clearly in your mind, you will find how easy it is to make simple pattern changes.

Get the booklet, "Your Pattern and You," for help on how to give yourself a custom fit. Send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Eunice Farmer in care of the Independent-Journal.

Girls State Delegates Chosen

Juniors from five Marin County high schools have been selected delegates to attend the American Legion Auxiliary sponsored Girls State program in government training to be held at the University of California at Davis July 6 through 14.

They are Kathy Green, Redwood High School; Judy Austen, Sir Francis Drake High School; Dorene Classon, Terra Linda High School; Kathy Van Herwynen, San Rafael High School; and Susan Desmond, Marin Catholic High School. Sponsoring groups of the delegates are San Anselmo Unit 179 and Twin Cities Unit 313 of Larkspur.

At the 27th annual session of California Girls State 560 high school juniors will be enrolled in a week of intensive training in Americanism and government, limited to one girl from each of California's high schools.

Directing the statewide program this year is Mrs. Richard Brown of Greenbrae.

The project in practical Americanism and citizenship honors juniors selected on basis of qualities in leadership, character, scholarship and citizenship.

At Girls State each girl will learn functions of government by organizing into mythical cities, then carrying out county form of government, holding primaries and finally electing state officials and holding an inauguration of Girls State governor and officials.

Climax of the program is selection of governor and outstanding citizen to attend Girls Nation in Washington, D.C., along with two representatives from each of the 50 states, also sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary. The national program carries out the government training experience of federal offices and responsibilities in citizenship, culminating with election of Girls Nation President.

Do Something About The Way You Look

By JANE ROGERS

London Express Service

A leading London store has just hit on a bright idea — they've installed an electronic mirror machine to show would-be buyers what they really look like to others.

It's a clever idea, really, a robot television recording system which shoots a 50 second film of you as you parade on a minute catwalk — but it is tending to back-fire from a sales point of view.

Suddenly faced with the truth about the way she looks, particularly from the back, many a customer has leapt straight out of the dress that she so nearly bought — and out of the store as well!

The reason? For many of us, a candid camera look at ourselves comes as an unpleasant shock. To see yourself on film is, for some reason, more shattering than the sight of yourself in a mirror.

The truth is that we very often only see what we want to see, but the real secret of successful dressing is to size up your bad points, honestly, and then do something about them.

THE FIGURE defect that most people moan about is a large bottom. To quote one actress "I seem to be two completely different people, joined together I'm small and slim down to the waist—I even have a bony face — but from the waist down — pow! I'm almost outsized."

With the summer holidays on the way the problem looms even larger. The ultimate exposure of stripping off on the beach makes everyone feel nervous.

What can be done?

First of all, do go on a diet, if you've time to do so. But be sensible, don't crash-diet down in a few days, be strong-willed and cut out all starch, and that includes sauces and gravies. Then tackle the offending area with a spot-reducing program. Exercise does, at the least, tone up your muscles and give you firm, rather than wobbling avordupois. But leg exercises can and will reduce your thighs if you follow them faithfully. A good one is simple to do if you have a towel rail or something of a convenience waist height to hold: grasp the rail and then swing each leg in turn across in front of you, as far as you can go on either side. You will feel the muscles pulling and tautening, and it will thin down that terrible bulge that appears just where your pantie-girdle ends.

Get yourself a tan — it's surprising how much better you look with a brown skin if you're overweight. Clearly you can't hope to tan yourself before your holiday the normal way, but there's nothing to stop you using an overnight tanning cream

Metal Necklines

Chrome and stainless steel touches will embellish fall and winter clothes. Necklines in the Pierre Cardin collection were outlined with three inches of metal. Some cuffs, too. Shoes from Beth Levine, worn by models in Geoffrey Beene's show, had metal heels.

Miss Sommer In Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sommer of Petaluma have announced the engagement of their daughter, Saandra, to Robert Berolini, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aristide Berolini of Santa Rosa.

Saandra and Robert will both be graduated this month from Santa Rosa Junior College. The future bride is a Petaluma High School graduate, and her fiance was graduated from Santa Rosa High School.

Lawrence, Louis and Ernest Berolini, Mrs. Rita Gondola, Mrs. Delia Bondi and Mrs. Mary Ann Dowdall, all of Santa Rosa, are Robert's brothers and sisters. He is employed by Western Farm Center in Santa Rosa.

Elderly Live Independently

The day of the three-generation household appears lost since more and more grandparents are "making it on their own."

At the turn of the century, when the economy was mainly agricultural, it was common for parents to move in with married children or vice versa so that the older couple would not spend the twilight years alone.

However, today, pension plans and Social Security are providing elderly persons with more funds to function independently and continue their own mode of life, the Institute of Life Insurance reports.

It is estimated that by 1985 there will be 25 million persons aged 65 and over, as compared with 19 million counted in 1969 and less than 10 million in 1940. Many of these retired persons will continue living in their own homes, either owned or rented.

Some will set up housekeeping in government-subsidized housing for older persons. Others will sell their homes and move into smaller apartments. Whatever the plan for an elderly household, the important thing is that their life continues comfortably and independently for as long as possible.

Several factors can aid an older person's choice of living independently of his children or relatives. One is continuing income. The most common income plans for retirement include Social Security benefits, pension plans from former employers, savings and annuities.

An Institute of Life Insurance survey in the fall of 1969 showed that income from present retirement plans was inadequate in the judgment of many persons contacted. An earlier study found that one in four persons covered by pensions plans, and about to retire, reported they expected their funds to completely meet their projected retirement needs.

In forecasting a retirement plan, it is advisable to provide an income that wouldn't necessitate a change in the former mode of life. Provided that the older person or couple is not incapacitated by poor health or a scarcity of cash and prefers to live alone, maintaining a separate household from his children, he should be able to do so. The senior couple's independence ought to be preserved as long as possible following retirement, which is in itself a blow enough to persons in a job-oriented society.

Following retirement, many couples feel the plessure of loneliness. Their former working companions are gone and they may be separated from friends and family. However, this might well be the time that the grandparent has the leisure to grow closer to his children and grandchildren, who especially benefit from exposure to the older generation.

In January, 1970, a census of the Federal Government's Foster Grandparent Program showed some 60 projects underway in 40 states and Puerto Rico, employing nearly 4,200 older persons. Participants, whose income must be $1,800 or less if single and $2,400 if married, are employed for $1.60 an hour, four hours a day, five days a week. They provide personal care and attention to 8,400 children under 16 each day and the program is financed by the Office of Health, Education and Welfare and local contributions.

'Bartered Bride' To Lead Inverness Festival Fare

A three-act opera and a program of four-hand piano will highlight the annual Inverness Music Festival, to be held Aug. 14-15 and 16 and 23 at St. Columba's Church and ampitheater in Inverness.

The major program Smetana's "The Bartered Bride," will be sung in English and staged in the amphitheater. The three-act opera, directed from the piano by festival director Fae McNally, will be presented Aug. 16 and 23 at 2 p.m.

Lead roles will be sung by Bay Area artists Margery Tede, Walter Matthes, James Eitze, Dianne Trethowan, Robert Grant, Roberta Wain, Dorothea Durante, Mike Peterson and Richard Deats. Choreography will be done by Dan Holland, stage direction by Sam Shaffer and set and costumes by Nancy Blunk.

Nancy Lyle Bennett and McNally will open the festival with a recital of four-hand piano music in the church on Aug. 14 at 8 p.m. Their program will include works by Haydn, Schubert, Mozart, Bizet, Dvorak and Mendelssohn.

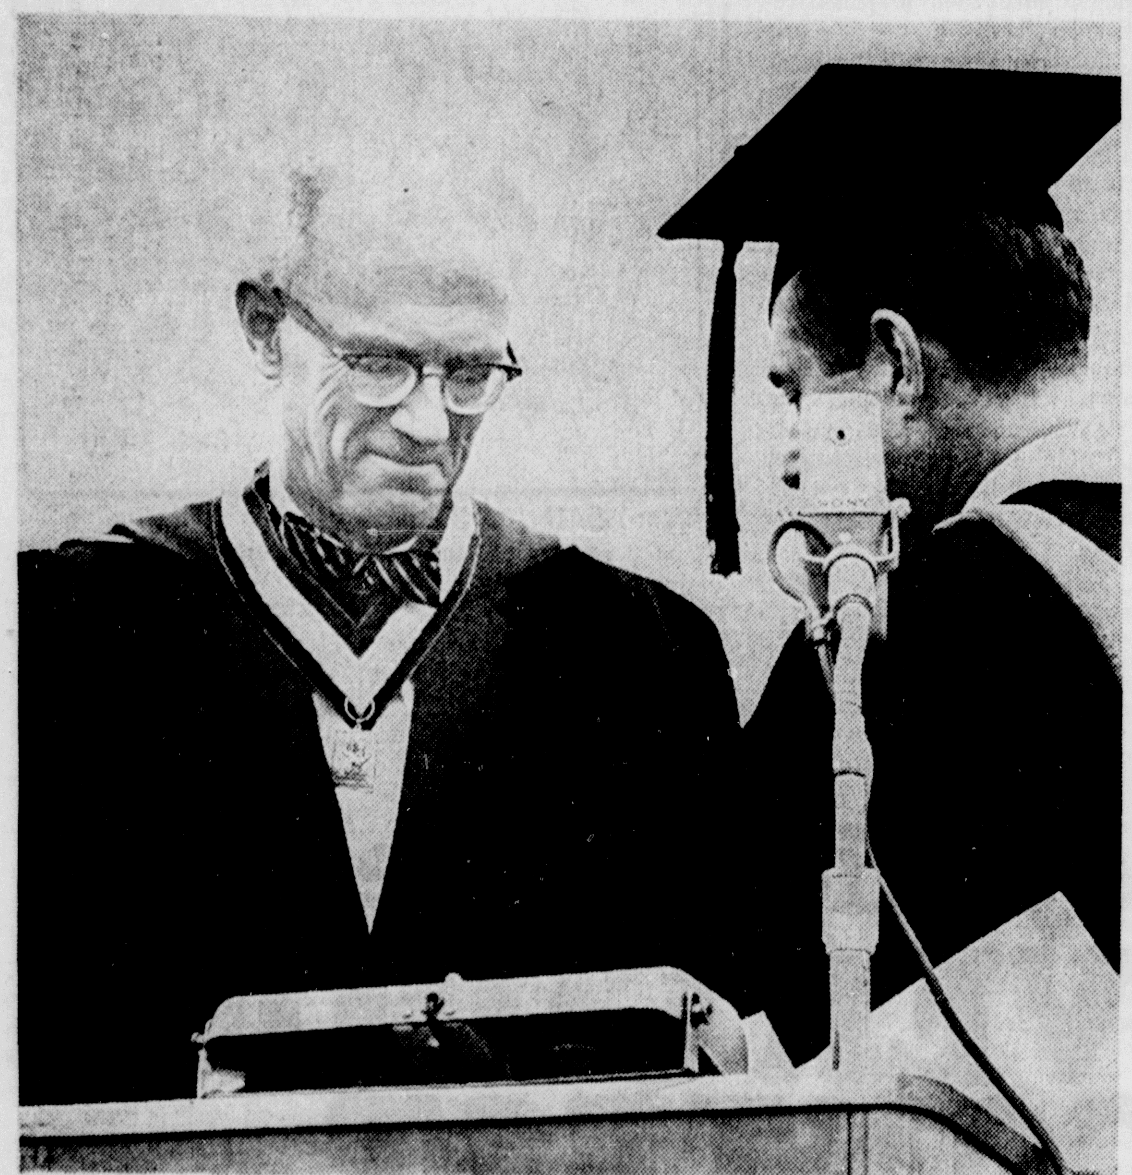
On Aug. 15 at noon in the amphitheater, chorus director Darrell Parker and the San Geronimo Valley Singers will present the "Missa Brevis" by Palestrina accompanied by Renaissance period chamber instruments.

On Aug. 15 at 3 p.m., the performing group from Mills College will give a recital of contemporary chamber music for violin, clarinet and piano by Milhaud Crum, Berg and Satie. Members of the trio will be Nathan Robin, concertmaster of the Oakland Symphony Orchestra, clarinetist Donald O'Brien and pianist Naomi Sparrow.

Soprano Margery Tede, baritone Walter Matthes and pianist Thomas Griswald will present "Bluebeard's Castle" by Bartok, followed by a series of songs by Mahler at 8 p.m. Aug. 16.

Haydn's "The Songstress," a chamber opera, will be directed by Parker Aug. 16 at 8 p.m. in the church.

Persons interested in understudy roles or singing in the chorus for "The Bartered Bride" may write to the festival at Box 2, Inverness 94937. Ticket information may also be obtained by writing this address.



PRESIDENT — Ambrose R. Nichols Jr., who has resigned as president of Sonoma State College, receives a medal from Richard M. D. Childs, college business manager.

FASHION PARADE — Robes and sandals for the male, a shawl and flowers in the hair for the female set this graduating couple apart from the traditionally dressed commencement participants behind them.

Colorful Costumes Mix With Mortarboards At Sonoma Rites

Staid academic regalia was spurned by about 50 Sonoma State College graduates yesterday as commencement exercises — stressing the peace theme — were conducted beside the campus lake.

While most of the 500 seniors who attended the ceremony entered wearing the traditional cap and gown, a minority chose colorful and offbeat outfits sometimes bedecked with flowers, flags and militant slogans.

Peace was stressed in both commencement addresses and some students who strode up to get their diplomas stopped to flash the peace sign.

Dr. Ambrose R. Nichols Jr., resigning president, closed the main address with a plea for peace at home and abroad.

"We must reach out to each other," he said. "Fear, hatred and misunderstanding demand our commitment. We all have work to do. Let us be about it."

Nichols, envisioning higher education in the year 2000, predicted that physical, social and cultural boundaries that divide colleges from the nonacademic world will grow less distinct.

He said that with more leisure time, many persons will be returning to college for a continuing education and that other changing concepts will require more education in the world.

Nichols said he foresaw the end to specialized education and a greater emphasis placed on a broader education, noting that all problems are interlocking.

The student speaker, Jean Anne Fortier of Petaluma, told her fellow graduates, "we can be the hope and not the destruction of our own futures."

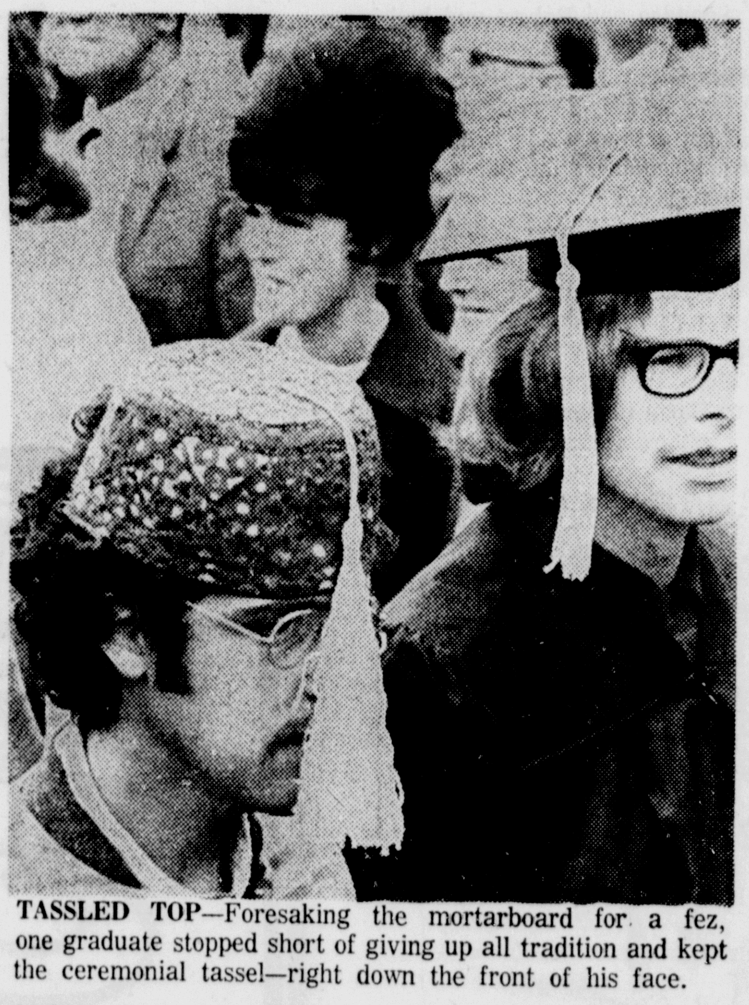
Noting the growing negative attitude toward education as a whole, the soft-spoken brunette said, "Black, brown, yellow, red and white students are becoming the new niggers."

She also advocated an end to the war in Southeast Asia, but noted the war is virtually everywhere. "The war is in our heads . . .our dumb senses."

"We're killing each other by trying to save each other," Miss Fortier said, calling for a new U.S. policy of self-determination for other nations.

"It's time to start loving yourselves," she said. "It's time to find out what peace means to you."

Nichols was honored as the college's first president.



TASSLED TOP—Foresaking the mortarboard for a fez, one graduate stopped short of giving up all tradition and kept the ceremonial tassel—right down the front of his face.

Making the special presentation, a medal, was Richard M. D. Childs, college business manager, who said Nichols was responsible for an open campus atmosphere that permitted a great amount of academic and personal freedom.

Childs lauded Nichols for using self-restraint while in a positios of power. "We salute you," he said, leading the audience in lengthy applause.

When Nichols leaves his position on July 1, he will begin a tour of Europe and work at the Brookhaven National Laboratory in New York for a semester before returning to the chemistry department at Sonoma State as a professor.

LAST GASP—One graduate's garb called for relevance in education and peace.

Charges Pending In Case Of Beating

No charges have been filed in Marin Municipal Court against two men arrested Tuesday in connection with the beating of a San Anselmo man in San Rafael.

The case of John William Rundle, 22, of no known address, and Herman Joseph Sanchez, 24, of San Rafael, is still being investigated by the district attorney's office.

Juvenile Court Asked To Take Pot Case

The case of Mark Alling Harris, 18, of Larkspur, yesterday was refused by Marin Juvenile Court. A preliminary hearing was set in municipal court for June 23 for Harris, who is accused of growing marijuana near the Alexander Avenue bridge in Larkspur.

Jail, Probation In Burglary Case

Judge E Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court has placed Ronald Lynn Hall, 18, of no known address, on probation for two years and ordered him to spend nine months in jail.

Hall had earlier admitted burglarizing a Forest Knolls residence on Feb. 28.

Judge McGuire Thursday turned down a suggestion from a probation officer that Hall be committed to the California Youth Authority after learning that the youth had served time there earlier.

Quorom Lack Stalls Fairfax Rec Meeting

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission did not meet last night because of lack of a quorum, according to secretary Marie Whissell.

The commission adjourned to Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Women's Club when it will discuss whether to hire a full-time recreation director, Mrs. Whissell said.

Eureka Springs, Ark., has 63 famous mineral springs.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

This choice location, on Terrace Ave., offers the rare opportunity of owning a 4-bdrm., 2-bath home with lovely grounds and mature trees plus a gigantic outdoor deck and a patio, all designed to blend in with the beautiful natural resawn cedar exterior. The kitchen is all electric and features custom cabinet work. All windows and patio doors are aluminum and recently installed. The large master bdrm. features beam ceiling and a dressing room with patio doors opening out to the large outdoor deck. You will wonder why the ridiculously low price. The reason is that the remodeled kitchen, 1 bath and some of the trim and painting is not completed. However we have an estimate for completion or do it yourself. You cannot lose either way. Owner moving to east coast and must sell immediately. Don't miss this rare opportunity. Only $33,950.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

If Your Doctor Seems Boastful, There Is Way To Check On Him

Mrs. H. H. writes: "Our physician is always bragging about his fine education and degrees. Is there any way we can check up on him?"

Yes, there is. But as part of his act, I'm surprised he does not display his diplomas and state license on the walls of his office. If these are not available, ask him where he went to medical school and had his internship. There are many ways to verify his claims.

WRITE TO THE medical school and hospital where he had his training. In addition, consult the hospital where he is on the staff. You might also write to the local or state medical society, the American Medical Association (535 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, 60610), or to your state department of registration.

The American Medical directory also lists all its members and their credentials. All pertinent data can be found in it, except the physician's class standing and whether or not he is an honest doctor.

IF YOUR PHYSICIAN specializes, look him up in the directory of medical specialists to determine if he is certified or a self-appointed expert. These directories can be found in a medical library. Certification requires several years of formal (residency) training beyond the usual internship.

After this, his ability is evaluated by his peers who decide if he is eligible to take the written examination. If he passes (33 per cent flunk(, he is given an oral examination. Passing this, he is considered a diplomate in his field. A few physicians go beyond this and are certified in a more limited specialty (such as allergy or cardiovascular diseases).

SOME DOCTORS BRAG because they are proud of their training; others try to impress the doubting Thomases.

In my experience, the best physicians have no need to brag or charge high fees to give the impression they are good and in demand. They believe that God always takes care of a dedicated doctor, and they will always be able to make a living.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

YOUNG FOR CLAMS

Mrs. S. writes: My baby and my 3 year old love raw clams? Is there any danger in allowing them to eat this food?

REPLY

No, provided the clams are fresh and come from water that is free of typhoid. Hepatitis also is transmitted via contaminated seafood. The baby is a bit young for adult food, but we can't be too critical if she is thriving on it.

ITCHY BACK

E. A. U. writes: I have severe pruritus, mostly on my back and arms. What are some of the causes and is there any cure?

REPLY

If there is no rash, the most common cause is dryness or a mild sensitivity to soap or some of the chemicals used in the manufacture of the clothes you wear.

CONCEPTION AND NURSING

A. K. B. writes: Is it true that a woman will not get pregnant while she is nursing her baby?

REPLY

No, it is not true. The mother can conceive even before the menstrual process resumes.

SCIATICA AND ARTHRITIS

W. A. writes: Is sciatica caused by an arthritic spine?

REPLY

This is one cause but 90 per cent of all cases of sciatica are said to be associated with slipped disk. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on sciatica.

Sausalito Doctor Loses Try For Another Trial

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A motion for a new trial for Dr. Donald A. Churchill of Sausalito was denied by Charles E. Goff of Municipal Court yesterday.

Churchill, convicted May 8 of misbranding a drug, unlawful advertising and unlawful sale of a new drug, was ordered to appear July 1 for sentencing.

Dr. Churchill was arrested last April for the sale of Vitarth, which he claimed during his trial is an aphrodisias and a cure-all. He was on probation at the time of his arrest for earlier charges of illegally prescribing narcotics and falsifying medical records.

His license was revoked effective March 26 by the state Board of Medical Examiners after a hearing on the earlier charges, according to William E. Low, a federal investigator.

Low said he was charged by the board with giving drugs to 80 addicts and admitted to 65.

Smaller Novato Lots Are Asked

Lots in west Novato should not be smaller than one acre and that recommendation will be sent to the Marin County Planning Commission.

Jack O. Burgi, president of the newly formed west Novato Associates, said that "An overwhelming majority" of the 70 people at the associates' meeting Thursday night at Hill Junior High School, voted for that lot size with a show of hands.

The county planning commission is considering rezoning to half-acre and one-acre lot sizes for the area outside of the Novato city limits. The residents of the rural area did not want lots smaller than one acre, Burgi said.

Innocent Plea In Boat Theft

I-J Special Report

SAN MATEO — A Florida man has pleaded innocent in San Mateo Municipal Court to a charge of stealing a Sausalitan's 40-foot schooner.

Laurence Michael Ruksnatis, 24, of Fort Lauderdale, was ordered Thursday to appear at 3:30 p.m. Friday for preliminary hearing. He is charged with stealing the "Don Quixote," owned by Bartlett A. Jackson. He was arrested Saturday when he stopped to refuel the boat near Half Moon Bay, after Jackson reported it stolen from Sausalito Yacht Harbor.

Many people literally will have to eat their words if scientists succeed in making protein out of old newspapers. Researchers at Louisana State University have found a microorganism that breaks down cellulose waste and converts it into pure protein the color of straw and the texture of rough flour.

Printer Trio Slingshot Hearing Due Thursday

A preliminary hearing was set yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for Thursday for three International Typographical Union members charged with conspiring to damage property of Independent-Journal advertisers.

The attorney for the three men, Robert D. Carrow of Novato, asked yesterday that the hearing be set prior to the next meeting of Marin Grand Jury, scheduled for June 16, so that Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales could not get the defendants indicted at that time.

(If the men were indicted, their cases would go immediately to superior court because they are charged with felonies. At a preliminary hearing a municipal court judge decides whether there is enough evidence to hold defendants for trial in superior court.)

Dennis Joseph Crowley, 41, of San Jose; James Robert Brucato, 31, of Santa Rosa, and Grant William Anders, 30, of Pleasant Hill, were arraigned yesterday on the conspiracy charge.

The complaint alleges that they "did conspire to maliciously destroy or injure real or personal property belonging to business in Marin County which either were or had advertised in the Independent-Journal."

Acts cited by Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales to back up the charge included allegations that the three union members had sling shots, chunks of lead and nuts and bolts in their car.

They are accused of destroying property on June 3 belonging to Bellach Furniture, DeLong Chevrolet, McPhail's Inc., Cain's Tire, Marin Sports Imports and Martin and Harris Appliance Service, all in San Rafael, and Young Brothers of Novato, Johnson's Red Barn and Stan's for Sports, in Novato.

The three union members were arrested by two sheriff's deputies about 1:30 a.m. Wednesday on a frontage road leading to the Strawberry Shopping Center after the deputies heard a bulletin from San Rafael police describing broken windows in that city.

Earlier that night, windows of six San Rafael stores and three Novato businesses had been smashed, the latest in a series of about 40 such incidents since San Francisco Typographical Union 21 went on strike against the Independent-Journal in January.

Garbage Is Described As Real Treasure

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Garbage is a treasure far greater than the '49 gold rush or the Comstock Lode, the keynote speaker at the annual International Refuse Show told delegates yesterday.

"Today," said Sen. J. Caleb Boggs, R-Del., "the piles of solid wastes provide to America a treasure of far greater value than the Comstock Lode. It is a resource for which we must seek new uses."

Boggs, ranking member of the Senate Subcommittee on Air and Water Pollution, told the 3,000 delegates the key word was "recycle."

"That is what we must seek to do with increasing regularity with our solid wastes," he said. "We must convert them into products that once again are useful."

Boggs said the federal government must continue its efforts to stimulate initiative and new ideas for action to tap "our trash baskets."

"Private enterprise at all levels," he said, "has a key role in solid waste management —now and in the future."

Boggs said debate in Congress related to efforts to make federal grants to individual communities for waste disposal on a basis of both public or private financing.

To cite one example, Boggs said the government annually buys one billion pounds of paper for its civilian use.

Planners To Discuss Bruce's Budget Cuts

County Administrator Alan Bruce's proposal to cut $29,000 from the planning department budget for 1970-71 will be questioned by the planning commission at its regular meeting Monday at 9 a.m. in the Civic Center.

The department's request of $426,990 was cut to $398,100 in the proposed budget submitted by Bruce.

Bruce would top $13,700 for the balanced transportation study and make it a separate budget item to be financed largely by the Marin County Transit District. Bruce also wants to cut in half the $15,000 for Nicasio planning and $10,800 for an environmental quality study.

Other items on the Monday agenda include:

SILVER HILLS — Tentative map of Silver Hills subdivision south of Inverness near Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Bear Valley Road. Twenty-eight lots are planned on 40 acres.

LAND DIVISION — Robert R. Bergis' appeal to create a 30,000 square foot lot by cutting it from his 25-acre property at 177 Crest Road, Novato.

TOMALES FILL — Sven B. Berg of El Cerrito wants to build an eight-foot retaining wall about 35 feet into the bay at Marshall and fill behind the wall to provide space for summer homes. He owns 1.6 acres just south of Marshall Hotel.

AUTO COURT — Residents of Tamalpais Valley will oppose a use permit granted to Marie Beinhouse for a 60-unit auto court and five apartment units at Shoreline Highway and Pinehill Road.

CHEESE FACTORY SIGN — Marin French Cheese Factory at 7500 Red Hill Road near Petaduma will ask for a 272-square foot free standing sign, 21 feet high. The planning staff has recommended denial.

Youth Admits To Knuckles Charge

Daniel Lee Temple, 22, of San Rafael, is to be sentenced July 3 in Marin Superior Court on a charge of carrying brass knuckles.

He pleaded guilty to the felony count before Judge Joseph G. Wilson Thursday.

Temple was arrested Feb. 2 in San Rafael.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIALS

Here We Go On Another Looking-Glass Journey

Mental Health Alice may be about to begin another strange journey through Looking-Glass Land.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors is to hire a director for the Community Mental Health Center at Marin General Hospital — who may or may not be Dr. Donald P. Wilson, the man who has headed the center ever since it was opened.

Already, the hiring process is taking on those strange overtones which seem to afflict everything that has to do with mental health, at least in Marin County.

LAST YEAR, one of the most prolonged and least elevating of the board of supervisors' debates arose over Dr. Wilson's position and that of Dr. Clyde G. Miller, who then headed the county mental health department. During it, the board held 10 closed-door sessions ostensibly to consider charges against the two psychiatrists, and during them re-structured the mental health setup. County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney found it necessary to stretch the law about as far as some roundly criticized Supreme Court decisions have stretched the Constitution in order to hold the sessions were legal.

The upshot was that Dr. Miller was fired, and the board notified Marin General Hospital District directors — who are in joint charge with the supervisors of the mental health center — that Dr. Wilson's contract would not be renewed for next fiscal year.

THE HOSPITAL DISTRICT directors balked at that. They like Dr. Wilson.

The bubbling pot of discord was moved to the back burner by supervisors' appointment of a committee to screen candidates for a new mental health center director. Included on the committee were hospital district representatives — along with known foes of Dr. Wilson.

Then 18 candidates applied for the job. And among them was Dr. Wilson. And the supervisors did an about-face, agreeing unanimously that Dr. Wilson would be reappointed if he were recommended by the screening committee.

THIS MADE the screening committee makeup take on a new importance.

It includes County Administrator Alan Bruce, who during last year's strange goings-on appeared as no friend of Dr. Wilson; Dr. Seymour Boorstein, a consultant at the mental health center whose wife formerly was employed by Dr. Miller; Dr. Richard Brunstetter, who backed Miller.

Included also are Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, county coroner-medical director who was given the added job of mental health director after the firing of Dr. Miller, and whose recommendation to the supervisors was credited in large part with their deciding Dr. Wilson might be reappointed; Ray H. Bolinger, Marin General Hospital administrator who is a backer of Dr. Wilson; Dr. Bradford Simmons, chief of staff of Marin General Hospital and reportedly a Wilson backer.

The balance of the committee consists of three members of the Marin Mental Health Advisory Board, which was up to its ears in the Miller-Wilson feud: Martha Valiant, George D. Monardo, and Jack Williams.

If any member of this committee could be called non-partisan, we don't know who it would be.

So the stage seems set for a re-run of last year's Alice in Mental Health Land production, with a few variations.

QUESTION: If the board of supervisors now has no objection to Dr. Wilson, why a committee to screen candidates for the job he wants to keep?

Question: If the search is intended as an objective search for the best possible man to head the mental health center, why is the committee made up of partisans in last year's fight, who by no stretch of the imagination (though possibly by psychoanalysis) can be expected to be objective where Dr. Wilson is concerned?

Question: Since the Marin Hospital District board wants Dr. Wilson, and Dr. Cooke, who heads the mental health department, wants Dr. Wilson, why all the fuss? Why any screening committee?

Question: If the purpose of the committee setup is to get rid of Dr. Wilson, why does it include some of his partisans?

THERE SEEMS little logic in the whole affair. But then, one should not expect logic in Mental Health (or Looking Glass) Land except, perhaps, the kind of logic explained to Alice by Tweedledee:

"Contrariwise, if it was so, it might be; and if it were so, it would be; but as it isn't, it ain't. That's logic."

Do Skunks Have Rights?

For at least 25 years a succession of striped skunks have made their summer home in a 40-foot drain under our driveway. Before the ancient house and drain were even thoughts in an amateur architect's mind, even before white man came and divided up the land into neat little parcels and built fences, skunks must have lived here, catching rats and mice and searching out grubs and insects on the forest floor.

The coming of large numbers of people and the conversion of Marin into suburbia must have taxed the skunks' survival powers. But they are adaptable creatures and they found they could live and thrive near the home of man in mutual respect and tolerance, if not always harmony. After all, both creatures are armed.

Skunks are still quite numerous in Marin, but being nocturnal they are smelled more often than they are seen. When we do see them, they impress us as rather stolid little fellows, deadly intent upon the business of the moment.

Because they carry a weapon which makes a very bad odor when used, they probably will never be our most popular animal. But doughty Mr. and Mrs. Skunk have their fanciers, too. And maybe skunks have a few rights here also.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to all the winning candidates in Tuesday's primary elections, but . . .

BRICKBATS to those candidates whose signs are still up four days after the election.

A special BOUQUET to County Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley J. Fontez, who amassed the third highest vote among Marin's unopposed candidates. Why a special bouquet for Fontez? Because we inadvertently left him out of an editorial accolade to those county officials without opposition for re-election.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Many Mothers Have To Take Jobs

Regarding the item in the May 27 issue, wherein a woman on welfare, with a disabled husband and two sons (age 11 and 13) spoke to the San Rafael Board of Education protesting a proposed cutback in her welfare payments:

She stated that she was a trained person, but did not wish to work because she wanted to stay home and raise her sons.

It seems very strange indeed that she felt she should stay home, on tax paid welfare, when many, many wives find it necessary to hold a job in order to pay the confiscatory taxes necessitated by the existing level of welfare payments. I am sure they, too, would prefer to stay home with their children, but the cost of living does not permit it!

The board of supervisors would be very well advised to cut the supplemental grants to AFDC, particularly in any case where one parent can work and the children are old enough to be in school and take care of themselves.

Working wives in particular should take due notice of the situation. It is their tax dollars that are used to pay for such welfare.

LINES ON LIVING

Suicides Of Soul Portray Sinking Level Of Man

By Rabbi HAIM KEMELMAN

It has been truly stated that there are three levels of human experience: Extermination, toleration and appreciation.

Which is our level of humanity? More and more we witness the tendency of exterminatory aggression, not only in dealing with others but also in dealing with ourselves. When we don't like an idea, we will not tolerate it; when we don't like a person with an idea, we want him out of the way. And there are times when we don't like the idea and the person in ourselves and seek to commit suicide, or do it partially by exterminating the soul.

The statistics of physical suicide are spiraling ever upward. But even more so are the statistics of spiritual suicide. The drug syndrome, seizing some of the best of our youth, is ample proof to a quiet death of soul in the process of human self-extermination.

Why do so many among us seek escape? What makes the impulse to cop out such a terrible and irrepressible compulsion?

LISTEN TO the message of the young. You will hear more in what they do than in what they say. Their toughness of outer appearance is only a mask to inner frailty. What they seek desperately — in the dream of their youth — is the love of human relationships and the human relationships of love. It has been lost somewhere in the commercials of false promise; it has been concealed somehow in the heap of words that more than clarify meaning, falsify hope.

Listen to the message of youth, through the things they do: some walk like ghosts in dark corners; some pass secret and garbled codes; some handle lethal chemicals; some find themselves in dimly darkened rooms to pass, through weeds, an impulse of warmth and closeness — a high euphoria from hand to hand, amidst the vapors of drifting oblivion.

Why do they do these strange and unthinkable things? Whatever happened to human relations that they have to relate in obscurity?

WHY? IT'S PLAIN and the words are known to us in ancient prose: Man does not live by bread alone. Neither by the abundance of goods, nor by the indulgence of pleasure.

The creature of the idea, man, must in the end seek the ideal. He can live only temporarily on the level of toleration. For tolerance is only a discipline which must ultimately lead to the highest and most constructive level of humanity — appreciation, loving kindness and the extension of human worth and personal fulfillment. It is not good enough to say, "I hate you, but I'll tolerate you." That's heart-failure in human relations.

THE ONLY alternative is the level of human appreciation, the loving extension of humanity to a deeper empathy and recognition of the worth of the individual: to respect a person, or people, for what they are, as they are — without having to put on a smile or makeup to the style and whim of our personal liking — to be what they want to be in their bare soul and self.

Human love is no luxury. It's an imperative of life. It evinces appreciation and recognition to every living individual. It permits him to grow and to realize his fullest spectrum of dreams and expectations. And there is no one on earth who can't use a little more of it.

"Love . . as . . thyself." Allow yourself to be yourself, to experience yourself: and as "thyself," encourage your neighbor to be himself, to fulfill himself — this is the level of man's highest realization, the level of his noblest humanity.

Government Class Supports Teacher

We the undersigned in Mr. Roger T. Lim's first period American Government class have decided to write this letter in response to the letter the editor's column entitled "New Low Reached in Sick Society," May 21.

We feel we are mature enough to be exposed to the vital issues of our society, such as draft laws, war, ecology, socialism, capitalism, homosexuality, civil rights, etc.

We have always made it a point to have the opposite sides in contrast to the subject. These subjects are preparing us for the outside world which we will soon be entering. We are focusing on contemporary problems we all have to face, which the older establishment is not facing.

Therefore we, the undersigned in Mr. Lim's first period class, feel that it is unjust and not valid for someone to examine part of the course of study without examining the entire substance of the class.

Wallace Victory Points Up Need For Direct Election Of President

WASHINGTON — George Wallace's narrow victory in Alabama is a bad break for President Nixon and the southern strategy. It exposes the essential weakness of that strategy.

In the runoff primary against Gov. Albert P. Brewer, the little Napoleon of the South conducted a racist campaign. The crudest appeals to southern fears and southern prejudices were at the base of the Wallace campaign. The threat, if not made openly by the candidate himself then by most of his propagandists, was that "the niggers" will take over the next 50 years if Wallace is defeated.

An able governor and by southern standards a moderate, Brewer could not compete with that kind of demagoguery. Neither can the presidential candidate of one of the major parties and therein lies the fallacy of the southern strategy.

REPORTS from Alabama have it that Wallace will concentrate his presidential campaign in 1972 in the South. If these reports are correct and he saves all his fire for the states where integration versus segregation is still a live issue, he will be a serious threat to the President's re-election.

In 1968 Wallace carried only five states — Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana and Mississippi — with 45 electoral votes. Mr. Nixon's margin of victory came from nine southern and border states that gave him 90 electoral votes. Having turned his back on the northeast with states that rack up large electoral totals, he will need every one of those votes.

Tennessee is a prime example of the Wallace potential. The vote for Wallace in that state in '68 was 425,000 to 472,000 for Mr. Nixon, with Hubert Humphrey low man with 351,000. There is no reason to believe the Wallace faction in Tennessee is any smaller today. The frustrations and the resentments — the emotional base of the Wallace support — are, if anything, greater than they were two years ago.

WALLACE'S GOAL in '68 was to deny an electoral majority to either of the major party candidates. The election would be thrown into the House of Representatives where he could bargain for position and power. Concentrating on the South in the next go-round, that will be a goal which he can come much closer to achieving.

The invitation to chaos will still be outstanding in 1972 unless the Senate acts quickly to abolish that ancient relic, the electoral college. Sen. Birch Bayh's amendment calling for direct election of the President by popular vote was reported out of the Senate Judiciary Committee more than a month ago by a vote of 11 to 6. It had previously passed the House by an overwhelming majority, 337 to 70.

Bayh is optimistic, once the long-embittered hassle over Cambodia is out of the way, that the Senate will follow the House and approve the amendment. It takes a two-thirds vote and the southern strategists can be counted on to do everything in their power, including perhaps a filibuster, to defeat it.

HERE IS the paradox of the Nixon-Agnew-Thurmond position. The electoral college is the antique device whereby the President can be denied re-election or forced in a contest in the House of Representatives to pay such a price that the victory would be an empty one. Yet the same southern states that gave Nixon his majority two years ago can frustrate the amendment to abolish the relic, enabling men of Wallace's stamp to undermine the system itself.

Once the amendment has passed the Senate, assuming it does, the next hurdle is even more formidable. It must be approved by legislatures of three-fourths of the states. Here again the South may supply the veto.

Bayh, however, is hopeful. He points out that all but four of the states have legislative sessions next year and in those states special sessions could be called. Support for the direct election amendment is being generated in the South by groups such as the League of Women Voters.

Memo To Fathers Of Graduates: Don't Take Junior To Dinner

WASHINGTON — You don't see as many fathers and sons dining out as you used to. The problem seems to be that not many restaurants are set to handle some of the clothes their clients' sons are wearing.

The other night my friend McGrory suggested to his son, Marshall, that they go to a first-class restaurant to celebrate his graduation from high school.

"GREAT," said Marshall, "let's go."

"I think you'd better put on a shirt," McGrory suggested.

"I have a sweat shirt on. What's wrong with it?"

"I thought you might put on a shirt and a tie," McGrory said.

"What are we going to, a wedding?" Marshall demanded.

"Most good restaurants prefer you to wear a tie," McGrory said.

"WHAT FOR" Marshall demanded.

"So you can get soup on it!" McGrory shouted. "Now put on a shirt and tie and don't give me any lip."

McGrory's wife came rushing in. "What's all the shouting about?"

McGrory said, "I'm taking him to Paul Young's restaurant for graduation and he won't even put on a tie!"

"I don't want to go if I have to wear a tie!" Marshall yelled.

"Put on a tie," Mrs. McGrory said. "And a coat, too. Your father wants to be proud of you."

"WHAT DOES putting on a shirt and tie have to do with him being proud of me!"

McGrory shouted, "It isn't that I want to be proud of you. It's just that I don't want to be ashamed of you!"

Marshall came down in a few minutes with a wrinkled shirt and a torn tie on. His face was red.

McGrory was just about to leave the house when he looked down.

"You have no shoes on," McGrory said.

"YOU DIDN'T say anything about shoes," Marshall said. "Why do I have to put on shoes?"

"It's a health regulation!" McGrory screamed.

"Nobody's going to see my feet," Marshall protested. "They'll be under the table."

"Someone will see your feet as you're escorted to the table. People get very upset when they see a customer without shoes walking in a good restaurant."

"But it's summer. No one wears shoes in the summer."

MRS. McGRORY said, "Marshall, go upstairs and put on some sneakers. Your father asks so little of you."

Marshall stomped upstairs. "I didn't want to go to a restaurant in the first place."

He came down a few minutes later and got into the car and didn't say anything.

"Marshall," McGrory said, "would you take the red band off your head before we go into the restaurant?"

"What kind of place are we going to where they won't let a guy wear a band on his head?"

"It's a very good place, Marshall. They have fine food. You're growing up now, and you should be interested in other things besides milk shakes and French fries."

"YOU MEAN they don't have milk shakes and French fires at this place? I thought you said it was a good restaurant.

"Marshall," McGrory said quietly, "you see the McDonald's hamburger stand? Well, here's two bucks. You go over there and have anything you want for your graduation."

"You coming?" Marshall said.

McGrory shook his head sadly. "No, you'd only be ashamed of me."

Churches Will Honor Nitz On 40th Ordination Anniversary

Dr. Arthur C. Nitz, pastor of Trinity and Resurrection Lutheran churches in San Rafael, will be honored at the 11 a.m. service tomorrow at Trinity on the 40th anniversary of his ordination.

Pastor of Trinity since 1966 and Resurrection since 1967, Nitz has also served churches in St. Louis and San Francisco.

A native of Bellingham, Wash., he graduated from Concordia Seminary in St. Louis in 1930. He received his doctorate from the St. Louis seminary in 1960.

Since assuming pastorates in California he has served as president of the California and Nevada District. He also has served as vice president of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod as well as on the Board of Commission on Missions and Ministry. He is currently on the Board of Commission on Theology and Church Relations.

A buffet luncheon will follow the service at the church which is located at 333 Woodland Avenue.

Thunderbolt Hits Church's Echelon

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

For several days, he later related, he remained in seclusion, praying, wrestling with his conscience. Then he emerged to hurl the thunderbolt that is reverberating through the ruling echelons of Roman Catholicism.

In a rare skirmish, on a basic issue, it has pitted a cardinal in contention with the Pope.

"I will not hide from you the suffering this entailed," Cardinal Leo Joseph Suenens commented in an ensuing sermon recently in his home Cathedral of Malines in Belgium. "But I felt obliged, in conscience, before God, to assume my responsibilities as bishop."

He says the primary issue, underlying the incidental matters that have brought it into focus, is how the church is to be governed, whether by jointly shared deliberation, or only by papal decision.

"A DEADLOCK"

"It is a deadlock," he said in the controversial interview in France two weeks ago that touched off the repercussions. The full text was published this week in a major Catholic weekly in this country, the National Register.

What brought the issue to a head, he said, was the action of Pope Paul VI in forbidding collegial consideration with the church's bishops of the question of mandatory celibacy of priests.

The Pope earlier also excluded the problem of birth control from joint consideration by the bishops, the cardinal said, adding that these rulings disallowed exercise of the principle of coresponsibility espoused by the 1962-'65 Second Vatcan Council.

It puts the bishops in an "impossible situation," he said, of being barred from discussing a queston (of priestly celibacy) that is being widely and openly discussed by others in the Church—laity, priests and theologians.

"The bishops are apparently caught between two conflicting choices: either they appear disloyal to Rome, or they appear to dodge their responsibility in their local churches. Either lose credit or lose credibilty."

IS ASTONISHED

Pope Paul subsequently has expressed "pained astonishment" at the criticism. He said it was delivered "in a manner that does not seem to us fitting to the brotherly style required by collegiality itself."

He emphasized his respect for the Vatican Council's teaching in regard to the "collegiality of bishops" in sharing guidance of the church.

Cardinal Suenens, 66, a learned, frank-talking prelate, a former university rector and theologian, said later in an interview in the Long Island Catholic this week that his criticisms were aimed only at the way the Church government was operating.

"It was not an attack on the Pope, the person, but an attack on the Church government—the system," he told the paper's Vatican correspondent, Robert R. Holton.

He said that actually, his views were in support of papal primacy since, in order to strengthen present-day authority in Church leadership, it should be used in a shared, collegial way, rather than in the opposite way.

"THAT'S NONSENSE"

Asked about speculation that he sought to develop the issue as a springboard toward becoming the next Pope, he chuckled and said, "That's nonsense. If you wish to aim at that, you must not take the positions I am taking."

He said he realized he had risked being removed from his position as cardinal by his criticisms, but was willing to face the costs. He said his main hope is "that the Church today should be adapted to the needs of today."

In his sermon last week, he emphasized that he had in no way sought to judge the issue of celibacy itself, its values, or the options being advocated in the blanket rule, but only to obtain mutual examination of the matter.

The Dutch bishops have made a similar plea.

"In our post conciliar Church, as in our contemporary civil society, free and frank expression of thought is normal and healthy, Cardinal Suenens said.

The cardinal, who recently visited the United States in company with the Anglican Archbishop of Canterbury, Michael A. Ramsay, said then: "The paternalistic style of Church government is dead. We have to create new forms of coresponsibility ... methods to ensure that the entire people of God works together."

IN RECENT BOOK

His recent book, "Coresponsibility in the Church," stresses the same theme. He has urged decentralization of Church authority, claiming the Church, including the Pope, is imprisoned in a rigid system of the Vatican Curia. He advocates lay participation in election of bishops, and involvement of bishops in electing the Pope, rather than just the College of Cardinals.

FATHER AND SON

Carters To Share Pulpit Tomorrow

The Carters — father and son — will share the pulpit at tomorrow's 11 a.m. service at the Methodist Church of Mill Valley as part of the congregation's effort to honor retired persons in the community.

According to the younger Carter, George P., pastor, "The church honors persons when they graduate, when they marry or give birth. . .why not when they complete professional service in the community?"

The senior Carter will speak with a view of work and the active ministry from the perspective of having recently retired.

Rev. Allen J. Carter retired as a Methodist minister two years ago, having served in Tennessee, Virginia and California. Since his retirement he has been active as a consultant in finance with churches and other institutions.

An invitation to retired persons in the community to attend the service has been extended by the younger Carter.

Membership Drop By Lutheran Body

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Lutheran Church in America, largest of North America's Lutheran denominations, had 3,250,558 members at the beginning of 1970, a decrease of 21,212 from the year before, reports Dr. George F. Harkins, secretary of the church.

It is the second time since the LCA was formed in 1962 by the merger of four Lutheran bodies that the membership total had declined. Peak membership of 3,288,037 was reached in 1967.

Guest Speaker

Rev. Reuben J. Dequeira, pastor of the Central Assembly of God Church in San Rafael, will be guest speaker at an "Impact '70" session at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Woodacre Improvement Club.

Lutheran Merger Slated In 1971

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jan. 1, 1971, has been set as the date for merger of the 20,500-member Synod of Evangelical Lutheran Churches with the 2.9 million-member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

Under a merger agreement, the Synod will become a district in the larger church body. After seven years, it will be dissolved and its pastors and congregations will be assigned to Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod geographical districts.

Novato Church Sets An Ecology Crusade

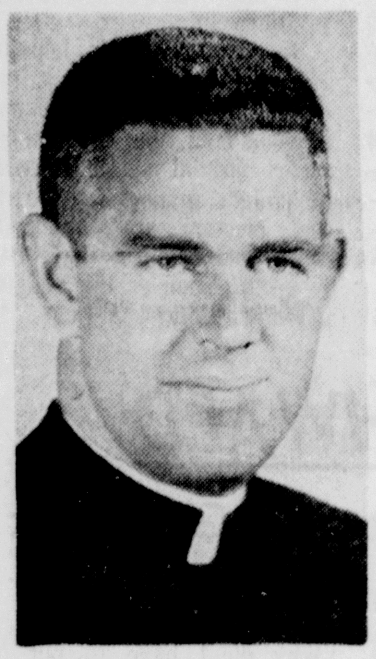
An ecology crusade in North Marin is being sponsored from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., June 20, by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints at the church yard, 375 Calle Arboleda in the Loma Verde section of Novato.

The church is asking residents to help with the collection of usable rubbish. This includes newspaper, (no magazines) tied in bundles; clean and smashed aluminum cans, tin cans with the labels removed, both ends cut out and flattened, and soft drink cans with seams, clean and smashed.

Purpose of the drive is to show the community that such a drive can be successful in hopes that other churches and organizations will start similar campaigns, according to publicity chairman Pamela Mize.

Helping the church in the project are: Boy Scout Troop 73; Novato Jets Novato Valley, Olompali and Granados 4-H Clubs and Ecology Action—Marin.

Further information on the drive, or anyone wishing to volunteer help may get in touch with Pamela Mize at 2433 Center Road, Novato.



REV. BERNARD CUMMINS
To discuss aid

Director Of Schools Will Speak

Rev. Bernard Cummins, superintendent of schools for the Archdiocese of San Francisco, will address members of the Knights of Columbus, San Rafael Council, following their regular meeting Wednesday.

Cummins will speak on "State Aid to Parochial Schools."

A teacher at Marin Catholic High School from 1952 to 1961, he has also taught at Serra High School. He became assistant superintendent of the archdiocese in 1962, being elevated to his current post in 1966. He is also currently president of the Northern California Education Association superintendent's department.

The council meets at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 167 Tunstead Avenue in San Anselmo.

Ministers In Novato To Seat New Slate Wednesday

New officers of the Novato Ministerial Fellowship will be installed at a luncheon meeting at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday at the officers club at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Rev. Arthur W. Sorensen of All Saints Lutheran Church will be installed as president; Rev. Donald M. Rayment of the Presbyterian Church of Novato, vice president, and Rev. Lewie H. Miller Jr., chaplain at Hamilton, secretary.

During the past year the Novato ministers have instituted monthly meetings with local doctors at Novato General Hospital to discuss working together with persons with medical problems. The ministers also meet twice monthly with representatives of the Marin County mental health program in working on pastoral counseling.

Faith In Russia

PARIS (AP) — More young people are attending church in Russia today than in many years, and more men are applying to enter the priesthood, Bishop Ioore L'Huillier, Western European representative of the Moscow Orthodox Patriarchate, told a gathering here. He says 40 million to 60 million Russians are practicing their faith regularly.

New Missionaries

REV. BEN WEIR
A special night

Weir Family To Deliver Church Talks

An evening with the Ben Weir family will be held between 5:30 and 8 p.m. tomorrow at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

Weir, an ordained Presbyterian minister, has served with his family in Lebanon since 1953. They are returning to Lebanon again in August.

The Weirs and their four children will demonstrate Arabic folk dances and clay modeling as well as show slides of their work in Lebanon using as their theme: "This Treasure We Have in Earthen Vessels."

Following the family's discussion on Lebanon, a potluck supper will be served at 6:30 p.m.

Ninth Pentecostal World Session Set

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI)—The Ninth Pentecostal World Conference, to be held in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 3-8 is expected to attract 11,000 delegates from more than 40 countries.

"The Spreading Flame of Pentecost" is the theme of the conference, which will be addressed by 14 Pentecostal leaders from 12 countries. Speakers' topic will relate to the contemporary manifestations and applications of the power of the Holy Spirit, says the Rev. Thomas F. Zimmerman, general superintendet of the Assemblies of God and chairman of the conference's steering committee.

MARIN PREP SOARS TO STATE FINALS

Mark Jones, Terra Linda High School pole vaulter, qualified for the finals of the California Interscholastic Federation Track and Field Championships at 13 feet 6 inches yesterday in trials at University of California's Edwards Stadium in Berkeley. San Rafael long jumper Bob Peterson and Novato discus thrower Ray Sparling reached the trials but did not qualify for the finals which were being held this afternoon.

Super Bowl Star's Big Switch

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Garrett's status as a potential professional baseball player, after helping Kansas City win pro football's Super Bowl, was the most startling development of baseball's annual summer free agent draft that also saw the San Francisco Giants pick a USC pitcher-outfielder as their number one selection.

Al Campanis, general manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers, startled the draft meeting Friday by announcing he was selecting the negotiation rights to Garrett on behalf of the Dodgers' Bakersfield, Calif., farm in the California League.

Garrett, an outfielder, played baseball in his college days at Southern California, prompting the Dodgers to draft him for baseball at the time. However, a five-year contract with the Kansas City Chiefs reportedly for $450,000, was too attractive to turn down. The former Heisman Trophy winner gained over 1,000 yards for the Chiefs in 1967 and scored in the Super Bowl victory over Minnesota.

WILL NEGOTIATE

At the age of 26, the 5-foot-9 Garrett told the Associated Press Friday night, "I intend to play baseball and will negotiate with the Dodgers."

He has called a news conference for Monday afternoon to explain his decision to quit football after the 1971 season when his contract expires.

"We will, of course, honor the fact Garrett is under contract to the Kansas City football club," Campanis was quoted in Los Angeles by a Dodger spokesman, "and make no attempt to sign him until his contract has been concluded. He is a good baseball prospect with power and still young enough to start in a new sport which he obviously wishes to do."

In Kansas City, Jack Steadman, executive Vice President and General Manager of the Chiefs said, "We will have no comment on the Garrett situation at this time."

In his college days at USC, Garrett hit .390 in 38 games in 1965, slammed six homers and drove in 20 runs.

The baseball executives completed their two-day draft meetings with a total of 1,038 selections as compared to 1,147 a year ago and a record 1,169 in 1967. The draft gives the club the exclusive negotiating right to the player for a stated period. If he does not sign, he goes back into the pool for future re-draft. Players who had been drafted previously but did not sign are covered in a secondary phase.

BALTIMORE BUSY

Baltimore led with 67 draft picks, 57 in the regular phase and 10 in the secondary. Pittsburgh had the most, 60, in the regular phase.

David Kingman, a pitcher-outfielder, from Southern California, was the first selection in the secondary phase. He was taken by the San Francisco Giants who rate him "way above average," according to farm director, Jack Schwarz. Kingman, 6-6 and 210, suffered a broken arm this spring and switched to the outfield with success.

The Oakland Athletics' first choice was a catcher, Bernard Boehmer of Flint Hill, Mo., and Meremack Commercial College in St. Louis.

Among the familiar names to pop up in the later stages of the draft were the sons of Calvin McLish, Montreal pitching coach, Roy Smalley, former major league infielder, Bud Metheny, former New York Yankee outfielder and the brother of Bob Heise, San Francisco infielder.

The Strange Format Of World Cup Soccer

MEXICO CITY — To begin with, the "World Cup" is no cup. It's a statue of a golden lady, and some think she is no lady or at least a lady of easy virtue. At best, she's a coquette. She leads you on.

The 16 world's best teams are by no means the ones she winks at. She is as indiscriminate as Lady Chatterley. Even the gamekeepers, so to speak, get her favors.

First of all, the host team gets in on a pass. The sense of this condition may be seen from the fact that 108,000 people jammed Azteca to see Mexico and Russia play a very poor game, while slightly more than half of the 70,000 capacity came to Guadalajara to see England and Romania play a very good one. The travel agencies, compelled by the organizing committee to pay a 20 per cent surcharge for tickets, some in venues where the native population is more interested in selling than in waving them, are stuck with enough tickets to make confetti for the next 10 years of weddings.

Next, there is the universally - conceded point that there are nearly half - a - dozen teams in this thing because of geographical advantage, not athletic. El Salvador, Israel and Morocco, in particular, are cluttering up the draw. Morocco had to beat such powerhouses as Sudan, Senegal and Nigeria. They eliminated Tunisia on the toss of a coin after the teams had played three tie games, two of them scoreless.

Mighty Teams Left On The Shore

Meanwhile, such might "sides" as Portugal, Spain, Yugoslavia and Hungary are left waving on the shore — to say nothing of Scotland, Northern Ireland and East Germany.

For an American analogy, you would have to imagine USC forced into a playoff with Notre Dame, Ohio State, the University of Texas, and Penn State, while Cal Tech could get in by playing off Pomona, MIT, Hastings (Nebraska(, and Immaculate Heart.

The real competition in the World Cup is between

Great Relief For A's

OAKLAND (AP) — Last year the Oakland A's had problems in their bullpen that probably cost them the American League pennant.

This year, relief pitching has kept the A's in the pennant race.

Diego Segui and Marcel Lachemann blanked the Detroit Tigers in the final 4 2-3 innings Friday night for a 4-2 victory.

Segui was credited with the his first save of the season by pitching three scoreless innings.

"That gives us two short relief men we can count on," manager Johm McNamara said.

His other short man is Mudcat Grant who has saved six games this season and won another.

POOR PERFORMANCE

McNamara could not explain the poor performance of starting pitcher John Odom against the Tigers. Odom walked five batters and gave up five hits before Segui replaced him in the fifth inning.

"There was nothing wrong with his arm," McNamara said of Odom. The A's pitcher went to Los Angeles earlier this week for an examination of his sore right elbow by Dr. Robert Kerlan, an expert on athletic injury. Odom had a shot of cortisone after the examination.

"Odom had trouble throwing strikes" McNamara said of his performance against Detroit.

Oakland scored four unearned runs in the sixth inning after an error by Detroit pitcher Earl Wilson.

LEE LEAVES RED SOX; SIX MONTHS IN ARMY

Bill Lee, former Terra Linda High School pitching star, left the Boston Red Sox yesterday for a six month tour of Army duty at Fort Polk, La.

The 23 year old southpaw, in his first full season in the majors, had appeared in 11 games, posting an earned run average of 4.62 while winning two and losing two. He allowed 48 hits, struck out 19 and walked 14.

The Red Sox are expected to recall right-handed pitcher Gary Wagner from Louisville of the International League to take Lee's place.

Giants Bugged? It's Just A Big Laugh

CHICAGO (AP)—Charlie Fox, manager of the San Francisco Giants, and Leo Durocher, manager of the Chicago Cubs, both laughed off the possibility that the visiting clubhouse in Wrigley Field might be "bugged."

A story had circulated that Fox held his pre-series meeting with his pitchers at the hotel rath er than the clubhouse because Durocher usually would find out how opposing pitchers would work against Cub hitters.

Fox' information supposedly came from Bill Faul, a former Cub who was farmed out by the Giants two days ago. Faul, among other things, has the reputation of being a hypnotist and karate expert.

Following Friday's 12-8 loss to the Cubs, Fox was confronted with his pitchers at the hotel rather than the clubhouse because Durocher usually would find out how opposing pitchers would work against Cub hitters.

Durocher was beside himself when informed that Fox held the meeting in a hotel room rather than the ball park because of a possible information leak.

"You must be kidding, he must be kidding," said Durocher. "Maybe Faul's hypnosis is really working. Look, the plate is only so mide and a pitcher must get the ball over.

"Tell Charlie Fox he can come in and sit on all our meetings," said Leo. "He's not going to learn anything he doesn't know.

"If Willie McCovey doesn't know how we're going to pitch than he must be asleep. And if we don't know how they are going to pitch us, than we must be asleep. It's all ridiculous."

As an afterthought, Durocher said "I don't know what Fox told his pitchers in the hoter meeting but I just hope they keep it up. We got 16 hits out there today.

"After all, what good is it going to do me or Fox to know who's going to do what. All we do is sit on the bench. The guys on the field are performing and when they're not right, all the information in the world isn't going to help."

U.S. Star Loses British Amateur

Bonallack Clobbers Hyndman

NEWCASTLE, Northern Ireland (AP)—Mike Bonallack of England became the first man ever to win the British Amateur Golf Championship three years in succession, routing weary Bill Hyndman of Philahelphia 8 and 7 today in the 36-hole final.

The 54-year-old American veteran, who bowed to Bonallack 3 and 2 in last year's final and earned a rematch with a series of marathon victories in this week's match play, blew sky-high after holding a one-hole lead through today's morning round.

Bonallack closed out the match with a par four on the 29th hole to capture the title for the fifth time in the last nine years.

THIRD LOSS

Hyndman, a beaten finalist for the third time in 10 years, lost his advantage when the 35-year-old Briton birdied the 19th hole, went one down to another Bonallack birdie on the 20th and then came completely apart.

Bonallack went seven up on the 28th with a seven-foot putt for a birdie two, then put the title under wraps on the next hole as Hyndman staggered to a bogey five.

NOVATO'S TOM CORDER DRAFTED BY DODGERS

Tom Corder, San Jose State shortstop and former star at Novato High School, has been drafted by the Los Angeles Dodgers of the National League for their Bakersfield farm club in the class A California League.

Corder, the most valuable player in the West Coast Athletic Conference in 1969, was selected number 328 in the regular major league baseball draft conducted Thursday in New York.

Corder, 21 and married, is a senior majoring in advertising. He could not be reached for comment at his San Jose home.

Mates, Ump Betray Juan

CHICAGO (AP) — There's nothing like being on top of the world, especially when you're a major league pitcher and both Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs and Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants agree.

Jenkins outdueled Marichal 12-8 Friday in a battle of a couple of National League righthanders who have been premier 20-game winners in the past but currently are struggling.

Despite the final score, both showed indications they might be ready to resume their roles as top pitchers.

Marichal's problem is physical. Juan had an ear and neck glandular infection and reacted against penicillan shots which added to his miseries to such an extent that he is limping along with a 2-4 record, hoping to find the magic of the past.

STRING OF ERRORS

He worked 5 2-3 innings Friday but was sabotaged by a string of San Francisco errors.

"My control was good and I felt stronger," said Marichal after the game. "I'm at about 185 pounds, still seven below my best weight, but I felt a lot stronger today.

"I wasn't getting the calls I usually get," continued Marichal. "When I was going good, the umpires were giving me the corners. Now that I'm struggling, they're calling balls on pitches that are over the plate.

"I lost out there today but I think it's all coming back and I'll be ready to go when we're home next Tuesday."

Jenkins, boosting his record to 5-7, also was critical of the umpiring crew which consisted of Nick Colosi behind the plate and Tom Gorman, Mel Steiner and Billy Williams on the bases.

GIANT HOMERS

Jenkins was staked to a 4-0 lead in the first inning as the Cubs picked up three unearned runs off Marichal. Ken Henderson's homer followed by a double by Dick Dietz and a run-scoring single by Tito Fuentes made it 4-2. Willie McCovey crashed his 17th homer in the third, a drive which carried about 450 feet out of the park against the wind.

Jenkins then retired the next 17 batters before running into trouble. Three walks and a couple of scratch singles helped the Giants score five runs in the ninth," said Jenkins. "There were at least five bad calls on balls and strikes."

Jenkins indicated his displeasure early in the game. He thought he had Henderson on strikes before Ken smacked his ninth homer in the second inning.

After the homer, Fergie stormed in on Colosi to obviously complain. What did Jenkins say to Colosi?

"Why don't you guys print it? They're showing naked movies aren't they?"

Marin Crew Wins Four-Oared Race

Marin Rowing Association's four-oared crew composed of Redwood High School students convincingly defeated a crew from Richmond's Salesian High yesterday at Berkeley Aquatic Park.

The Marin shell won the 1,000-meter duel by four boat lengths, approximately 175 feet.

Members of the Marin crew were bow John Vallee, No. 2 Woody Buckner, No. 3 Mike Sullivan and stroke Steve Barbour. Eric Gray of Kentfield Elementary School was the coxswain.

Ex-Ram Booked As A Bookmaker

COMPTON (UPI)—Former Los Angeles Rams defensive back Woodley Lewis was booked Friday on a warrant charging him with bookmaking.

Sheriff's vice squad investigators said the former All-American at Oregon University had been accepting bets for horse races.

Lewis, 45, played for the Rams from 1950 to 1955 and later was traded to the Chicago Cardinals and the Dallas Cowboys.

3:56.3 Mile In Oregon; Dallas Trades Lineman

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Roscoe Divine, a senior at the University of Oregon, posted the nation's best recorded time of 3:56.3 in the mile this year as he led four other runners under the four-minute mark in Friday's annual Twilight Meet.

Steve Prefontaine, Oregon freshman, was second in 3:57.4, followed by Dave Wilborn of the Oregon Track Club with 3:58.2. Norm Trerise, Vancouver, B.C., was fourth with 3:59.1, and fifth was Steve Savage of Oregon with 3:59.2.

Football

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals moved Friday to fortify their offensive line by acquiring starting guard John Wilbur from the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League in exchange for a high draft choice.

Wilbur, 6-3 and 240, joined the Cowboys as a free agent in 1966 and was a regular the past two seasons. The 27-year-old California native was a college standout at Stanford.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rich Saul, Michigan State linebacker who was an eighth round draft choice of the Los Angeles Rams has agreed to contract terms, the Rams announced.

Saul is 6-foot-3, 235 pounds. The 22-year-old lineman has two brothers in the league. Ron Saul was drafted by Houston and Bill Saul is with New Orleans.

Auto Racing

KAUKAUNA, Wis. (AP) — Roger McCluskey of Tucson led for a total of 180 laps Friday night to win a 200-lap, 100-mile, mishap-muddled U.S. Auto Club feature at the K-K Sports Arena.

His 1970 Plymouth was one of the eight cars involved in a first-lap accident which eliminated two of the 26 starting cars and forced a race re-start. There were no injuries.

ODESSA, Mo. (AP) — Gary Bettenhausen of Kinley Park, Ill., the defending champion of the U.S. Auto Club sprint car circuit, won the 40-lap feature race at the I-70 Speedway Friday night.

Europe and South America. No one else has ever won it, although, in 1966, a team came out of North Korea to knock Italy out of the Cup and to build up a 3-0 lead over Cup favorite Portugal before losing.

Uruguay held the first World Cup competition in 1930 and won it over a paltry company of 13 nations. Uruguay, like a host who had sent out thousands of invitations and only his brother - in - law and three guys who owe him money show up, angrily refused itself to go to the Cup for the next 20 years. They were particularly bitter at England, the fount of soccer, which had scorned their games. Italy won in 1934 at Rome and in 1938 at Paris, but there were still only a baker's dozen of nations taking part.

True Status As Summit Of Soccer

In 1950, the World Cup reached true status as the summit of soccer. Today, over 70 nations try for it. Two of them started shooting at each other.

To an American journalist (I counted only three of us here out of 2,000), it is a bewildering miasma of waiting in corridors by the hour for accreditation while a pretty girl (and "educacione I believe") comes out periodically to smile and say "momentito."

They haze us because this is their world, and they scold you for "putting in your request late" (i.e., anytime after June of 1965). You arrive at a venue to be told, as I was, that I could wait underneath the stands, and listen to the crowd noise but that a seat in the "press tribunal" was out of the question. You are made to feel as welcome as an ant at a picnic.

This is curious because no less a spokesman for the game than Bobby Moore, "The King of Diamonds" himself, has publicly delored the lack of genuine U. S. interest in his game. Bobby, captain of the victorious side in '66 as well as of the present one, has written, "once again . . . America will not be represented. To me, this is one of the strangest, saddest facts of the world sports scene. America leads the world in so many sports . . . yet Americas are surely going to feel rather left out of it this summer when the World Cup is played right on their doorstep and they experience at close range the tremendous interest and prestige it involves. It will be surprising to me if a good many Americans do not start asking, 'Why can't we have a part of all this?' "

It is not only that the resources and facilities of the U. S. are not thrown behind international football but the presence of an American team can give the World Cup what every attraction from the Orioles vs. the Mets or Bobo Brazil vs. the Masked Hangman must have — a villain. There are those who think the hooting of the English team here comes about because, as our progenitors as it were, they are a surrogate for us hated gringoes.

Bill Veeck May Testify For Flood

NEW YORK (AP) — The Curt Flood case has reached the seventh-inning stretch with possibly four more witnesses, including controversial former club owner Bill Veeck, scheduled to take the witness stand next week.

Veeck, a onetime owner of the Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, is on the lineup card being carried about by Flood's attorneys, but at the moment there is still some question about whether he will be sent up to hit.

If Veeck were to testify, he likely would do so Wednesday, closing out the case in which Flood has brought a $3 million antitrust challenging the legality of baseball's reserve system.

According to the timetable established by the attorneys, baseball will call its last defense witness, an economist, when the case resumes Monday and then Flood's lawyers will call Marvin Miller, executive direcor of the Players' Association, and Dick Moss, its attorney, as rebuttal witnesses.

LABOR MAN

The defendant club owners called John Gaherin, their labor relations' negotiator, as their 10th witness Friday. He testified that the owners had negotiated in good faith in an attempt to reach agreement with the Players' Association on modifying the reserve system.

Gaherin pointed out that the owners had recognized their obligation to bargain collectively on the issue during 1967 and had done so in several meetings with the Players' Association before institution of Flood's suit halted proceedings.

Gaherin said the Players' Association had first made specific recommendations in August last year and said the owners "were shocked by the extent of the proposals" because of the "obvious harm they would do to baseball."

FREE AGENT

He said those proposals included a provision for a baseball player to gain free agent status after three years service; a reduction in the number of players a team could control; a salary arbitration procedure, and a provision that no trade could be made without a player's consent.

Under cross-examination, Gaherin said the owners had not made any specific proposals to change the option renewal clause that binds a player to the club that signs him or any of the other matters on which the Players' Association made formal proposals.

Marin DiMag League Opens

The Marin County Joe DiMaggio baseball league, for boys 16, 17 and 18 years of age who have at least one year of high school eligibility remaining opens its fourth season tomorrow.

The league is divided into two divisions, with Healdsburg, Terra Linda, Novato and San Rafael from the North, and Toby's Truckers (Marin Catholic), the Italian Club (Redwood), Drake, Mill Valley and the Presidio of San Francisco representing the South.

The season schedule is in the form of a double round robin, with each team playing a total of 16 games. Division winners will play in a regional tournament next month at Albert Park in San Rafael.

Tomorrow at 1 p.m. Terra Linda meets San Rafael at San Rafael High School, and Healdsburg plays at the Presidio. Novato goes against the Italian Club in a 5 p.m. game at Novato High.

Monday at 5 p.m. Toby's Truckers play Mill Valley at Tamalpais High.

NICKLAUS OUSTED

Unhappy Leader In Kemper Open

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Lou Graham took the lead and said he wasn't satisfied. John Schroeder said he couldn't believe he'd failed to sign his scorecard. Jack Nicklaus said so long.

"I'm always satisfied with a 68, you've got to be," Graham drawled after taking the second round lead with a 135 in the $150,000 Kemper Open Golf Tournament Friday.

"But I'm not at all satisfied with the way I hit the ball."

"I just can't believe it," the dismayed young Schroeder said, his mouth a tight line and his head down, "I just know I signed the card."

But he didn't, and a 69 for 138 and spot among the leaders was wiped out on the disqualification for the promising youngster who gained national attention when he outscored partners Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus in their showdown for the Byron Nelson Classic five weeks ago.

And the powerful Nicklaus, the pre-tourney favorite who hadn't finished out of the top 20 this season, had putting woes, took a 74 and failed to make the cut for the final two rounds at 147. It was the first he's missed the cut in almost 18 months.

Graham, a 32-year-old Nashville, Tenn., native, whose only victory in 5½ years on the tour came in the 1967 Minnesota Classic, finished early and said he didn't think his nine-under-par round would stand up.

"They'll shoot some great rounds out here," the pleasant, soft-spoken Graham said.

They did. But the 135 remained at the top of the heap, one stroke in front of 46-year-old former Masters champion Art Wall, who took his second consecutive 68.

Lionel Hebert, the 42-year-old amateur trumpet player who won the 1957 PGA National championship, slipped from an opening 66 to a 71 but remained in contention in third place at 137.

Arnold Palmer delighted his huge gallery with another 69 for 138, just three strokes away. But the game's all-time leading money winner obviously was far from pleased himself.

"I'm going to have to do better to get any place here," he said. He was tied with Larry Hinson, who matched the course record at 65, Monsanto winner Dick Lotz, with a 66, and Grier Jones, 69.

Graham, who didn't have a bogey and missed only one green, said he "played only fair—not nearly as good as the day before.

"I didn't drive as well, I didn't hit my irons as well and I didn't putt as well."

He was particularly critical of his iron play. But it was good enough.

He chipped back to three feet on the only green he missed, ran in one 30-foot putt and put three wedge shots within four feet for his birdies.

Los Altos Prep Sets State Mark

BERKELEY (AP)—Los Altos, led by weightman Chris Adams, was the team to beat today in the California High School Track and field championships at Edwards Stadium.

Adams bettered the meet discus record in qualifying Friday with a throw of 190 feet, 4 inches. He also has a shot put mark of 62-2¼, qualifying for that event too.

Santa Ana, Castlemont of Oakland and El Cerrito were expected to furnish most of the competition for Los Altos.

Adams has a pending national high school discus record of 201 feet. His teammate, Rick Brown, qualified in three events, the 440, 880 and mile relay.

Adams' discus throw bettered the meet record of 189-1, set by Jim Peters of Piedmont in 1966.

Santa Ana's 440 relay team, anchored by Jackie White, tied the meet record of 41.1 set last year by Stockton Edison.

White tied several runners with 9.7 in the 100 and won his heat in the 220 with a time of 21.6.

Los Altos qualified five individuals and its mile relay team.

Ex-Kansas Stater Will Coach Suns

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Saying he was there to win, Lowell Fitzsimmons Friday accepted the job as coach of the Phoenix Suns of the National Basketball Association.

Fitzsimmons succeeds General Manager and interim coach Jerry Colangelo who assumed the job after regular coach Johnny Kerr quit at mid-season this year.

During two years as head coach at Kansas State University, Fitzsimmons' teams compiled a 34-20 record and the league title last season.

Sports Car Rally Scheduled Tonight

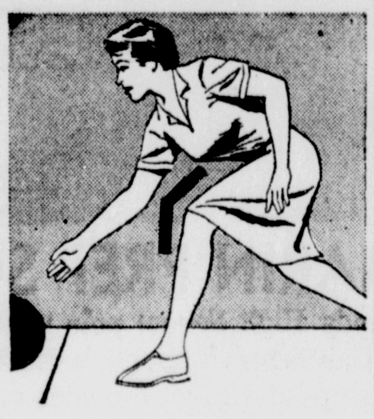
A sports car rally starting from Sears Point raceway will be held tonight by the Marin G.T. Sports Car Club.

The field for the event, which is being sponsored in conjunction with the Northern California Sports Car Counsel, will include the first 100 cars to register outside the Southern Sonoma County track beginning at 6 o'clock.

Each car will receive rally instructions and a starting time upon payment of a $3.50 entry fee. Any car can be entered.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



From an upright position at release, it is likely you will throw the ball out too far, which takes spin and subsequent action at the pins. At release, bend the left knee (see illustration). This smooths the delivery and places the bowler in good position to pitch the ball out only six inches or so past the foul line.

Brothers Grab Bowling Honors

Brothers Rich and Mike McPherson had a fine week of bowling, rolling series of 649 and 608 respectively in the Greenbrae Adult-Junior League.

Top scores of the week:

COUNTRY CLUB BOWL

Men—Lou Eastland, 872 (4); Lee Stetson, 861 (4); Ray Miller, 829 (4); Ron Baccei, 808 (4).

Women—Anne Baccei, 617; Pat Piver, 592; Sylvia Knutson, 588; Jeanne Wilson, 567; Sylvia Knutson, 562; Pat Hudnell, 562.

Juniors—Kent Dlugokenski, 531.

GREENBRAE LANES

Men—Bob Crowhurst, 832 (4); Frank Uyeda, 790 (4); Jerry Fullerton, 779 (4).

Women—Nikki Powell, 550; Lu Sharp, 508.

Juniors—Rich McPherson, 649; Mike McPherson, 608.

NAVE LANES

Men—Paul Panholzer, 800 (4); Joe Kenney, 589.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

MARSEILLES, France — Bruno Arcari, 141¼ Italy, outpointed Joao Dos Santos, 141, Brazil, 10.

SAN DIEGO — Rogelio Fernandez, 135, Durango, Mexico, outpointed Eddie Mazon, 137, San Diego, 10.

Novato Run Scheduled Next Week

More than 250 runners will be jogging through the streets of Novato Saturday, June 13, in the ninth annual Novato Ridge Run, part of the Western Weekend celebration.

The run, covering 6.87 miles, starts at 9 a.m. from the firehouse on Grant Avenue and 101 Highway. It is sponsored by the Marin Athletic Club and sanctioned by the Pacific Association of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Daryl Beardal of the Marin A.C. will be trying for his third straight victory in the race. He set the record of 38 minutes and 4.2 seconds in winning in 1968 and won again last year.

The route will go from the firehouse, west out Grant Avenue to Novato Boulevard, then to McClay Road to Center, then south down Center to Tamalpais Road to Hill, then right on Canyon Road to Ridge and Half Moon Road to the water tower, and then back.

Trophies will go to the first, second and third place winners, and medals and ribbons to the next 72. There will also be a team trophy, won last year by the Marin A.C., and special awards to first high school runner and oldest runner.

Entry blanks can be obtained at Marin Auto Parts in San Rafael or from J.E. Neuhaus by mail, at 155 Kent Avenue, Kentfield.

Mrs. Risdon Winner In Golf Tournament

Mrs. William G. Risdon won a match vs. par golf tourney at Mill Valley yesterday with a plus 6. In second place was Mrs. R. S. MacDonald with a plus 5, and tying for third with plus 4 were Mrs. Robert Ritter and Mrs. William Wheeler.

"My favorite letter to print is "I" because you don't have to worry about which way to swing it!"

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, June 6, the 157th day of 1970 with 208 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn.

The vening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1816 ten inches of snow fell in New England, starting what was to be known as "The year in which there was no summer."

In 1933 a motion picture drive-in theater, first of its kind, opened in Camden, N.J.

In 1944 the greatest invasion in history began. General Dwight D. Eisenhower sent thousands of ships, planes and entire divisions of Allied troops across the English Channel into France. It was "D-Day."

In 1968 Sen. Robert Kennedy died of an assassin's bullet at age 42. President Lyndon Johnson declared June 9 a day of national mourning.

A thought for the day: General D. Eisenhower said, "In the final choice a soldier's pack is not so heavy a burden as a prisoner's chains."

Pair Of Petaluma Annexations Approved

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Local Agency Formation Commission has approved two annexations to the City of Petaluma.

A 40-acre section at South McDowell Boulevard, Casa Grande Road and Lakeville Highway was approved as well as 28 acres on North McDowell Boulevard adjacent to the Candlewood mobile home park. Both new areas are uninhabited and had received approval from the Petaluma City Council.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

An Elementary Rule For Good Player–Count Tricks

It isn't enough to be a good player; you must also play well. Even a great expert must count his tricks, just like anybody else. If he doesn't, he winds up looking foolish, as in today's hand, played in the 1966 world championships.

AUTOMATIC PLAY

West led the ten of spades, and declarer, one of the stars of the Venezuelan team. won with the ace of spades and made an automatic play of a low trump. Dummy's jack lost to the ace, and back came a spade to dummy's king.

Now there was no side entry to the clubs, and South had to fall back on some sort of crossruff. He took the ace of clubs and ruffed a club, ruffed a diamond in dummy, got back by ruffing a spade, and ruffed another diamond in dummy.

He wound up making four trumps in his own hand, two ruffs in the dummy, two top spades and a top club. The total was nine tricks, just as he should have foreseen.

REASONABLE CHANCE

South had a reasonable chance for ten tricks, depending only on finding the ace of hearts in the East hand. But he couldn't afford to lead a trump.

At the second trick South should ruff a diamond in dummy, cash the ace of clubs, ruff a club in his hand, and then ruff another diamond in dummy. He cashes the king of spades, ruffs a spade and ruffs a third diamond in dummy.

CLUB FROM DUMMY

Now declarer leads another club from dummy. This would work out well if East had only two clubs. When East follows suit, South must ruff with the queen of hearts.

By this time South has accumulated nine tricks. He gets out with a diamond and waits to make a tenth trick with his guarded king of hearts.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your left, opens with one club, and your partner doubles.

The next player passes.

You hold:
♠- Q 10 9 6 4
♥- 10 6
♦ A Q 9 4
♣- 10 6.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

This jump response is not forcing but merely promises about nine or 10 points and a suit of some merit. If partner has minimum values for his takeout double he may pass, and you will not miss a game.

Joint Rec, Council Meeting For Tiburon

The Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission did not meet Thursday night, but adjourned the meeting to a joint commission and city council meeting at 8 p.m. next Thursday.

Asst. City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert said the purpose of the joint meeting will be to formulate a better means of communication between the council and the commission and to discuss projects and goals of the commission.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

Wall Street Antics Dominate The News

By ROBERT J. REGAN

UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market held stage center again this week, although the performance was a bit wobbly compared with the socko finish the week before.

There wasn't much else in the business and financial news to put a center spotlight on, and there didn't seem to be too much waiting in the wings either, beyond the June 30 deadline on the troop pull-out from Cambodia. The stream of poor first quarter earnings reports was down to a trickle and the bulk of the second quarter report cards aren't due for more than a month yet.

By Friday, stocks had about 75 to 80 per cent of the gains made when the market suddenly reversed field during the middle of the final week of May. There was, however, faltering during the final sessions although the White House continued its current program of friendly persuasion on as many fronts as possible.

The debate on wage and price controls continued in fits and starts and it began to look as if the White House is leaning to another attempt at restraining inflationary wage increases and price boosts by asking labor and management to restrain themselves.

This means guidelines again, or a system lacking teeth but dependent upon the power of the jawbone as wielded by top-level government officials. This time around, however, the jawbone may be brandished by a special blue ribbon "citizen's panel" charged with putting the publicity spotlight on wage or price actions deemed inflationary.

Best guess in financial circles is that President Richard M. Nixon may announce establishment of such a panel at a state-of-the-economy report scheduled for mid-June.

Meanwhile the architects of anti-inflation policies, who are

WEEK IN BUSINESS

Wall Street Antics Dominate The News

obliged to regard bad as good, took some encouragement from indications business and industry are trimming their capital spending this year.

A steady rise in expansion spending has been a principal fuel to the overheated economy which has proved unexpectedly resistant to traditional cooling-off procedures.

The latest quarterly survey by the Commerce Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission put the rate of gain for 1970 at 7.8 per cent. That's a much duller sword than the projected 10.8 per cent increase that was hanging over the inflation-fighters' heads three months ago. The one that dropped on them in 1969 had quite an edge to it; capital spending jumped 11.4 per cent last year to $75.56 billion, making every percentage point this year worth $755,600,000.

Construction spending was down 1.3 per cent in April, compared with 0.4 per cent the month before, with commercial and residential building contributing to the decline in that order. Public spending was higher.

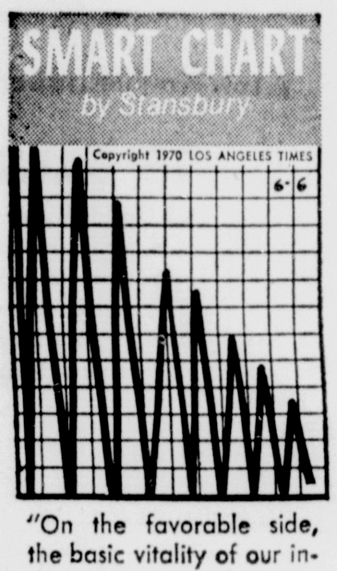
Detroit had some — but not much — good news this week for the first time in months. Car sales in late May showed a per diem gain for the first time in more than six months. Actual sales in the final 10-day period were down to 267,548 from 304,627 a year earlier, but the 1970 period lacked one selling day.

Less heartening for Detroit, however, was the record performance turned in during May by the imported cars. The month's total was a record 109,000 cars and the daily sales rate was 10 per cent higher.

Toyota turned in the biggest gain on a unit basis — 15,100 sold her last month and 10,765 in May 1969 — turning up the pressure not only on Detroit, but on Volkswagen as well. Volkswagen sales rose to 52,444 last month from 52,019 in May 1970, which means the Japanese narrowed the gap by about 9.4 per cent.

Ling-Temco-Vought stayed up front in the merger scene. As part of its effort to pay off its $110 million short-term debt, the company agreed in principle to sell its 75 per cent interest in Wilson Pharmaceutical and Chemical Corp. to American Can Co. for $16 million, continuing the recent pattern of selling off subsidiaries to raise cash. Last February LTV sold its 75 per cent interest in Wilson Sporting Goods Inc. to Pepsico Inc. for $63 million in cash and notes.

Earlier in the week, LTV promised its takeover of Jones and Laughlin Steel Co. wouldn't cause plant closings, workforce cutbacks or pension fund raids. Consequently, the steelworkers union withdrew its objections to an antitrust settlement permitting the takeover.



"On the favorable side, the basic vitality of our industry is cause for confidence."

Passing Accident Injures Driver

Randolph T. Guerin, 23, of 437 Riviera Circle, Larkspur sustained scrapes and cuts on his right forearm and elbow after his car rolled over and struck a tree, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

The accident happened at 8:44 a.m. Thursday when Guerin speeded up to pass a San Rafael City Schools bus on Marin Street and lost control of his car after turning into San Rafael Avenue, police reported.

Guerin was given first aid by Patrolman Ronald M. Averiette.

Students Confirm Salary Decision

The student government at College of Marin has affirmed its plans to pay approximately $700 in wages to cafeteria employees who lost five days' pay during the campus shutdown in May.

A student committee met Thursday with Irwin P. Diamond, dean of students, to discuss the move, reported secretary Nancy Oliva. Diamond's position was that the cafeteria catering firm should be asked to pay part or all of the sum.

The Associated Students will investigate the possibility of inserting a clause into the caterer's contract requiring him to pay salaries in such cases.

Court Refuses Case

The case of David Paul Underhill, 18, of Mill Valley, yesterday was refused by Marin Juvenile Court. A preliminary hearing was set in municipal court for June 23 for the youth, who is charged with possessing marijuana and petty theft on May 20.

COVER PHOTO

MARIN'S homing pigeon fanciers have produced a number of racing birds that have won attention regionally and nationally. The three shown on this page are all from the San Rafael Galaxy Lofts of Al Boccone, a Tamalpais Racing Pigeon Club member. Above, The Dalles Hen, mother of three selectees for pigeon racing's state and regional halls of fame and grandmother of two additional birds so honored. At right, Restless One, nephew of The Dalles Hen and 1969 Bay Area Hall-of-Fame winner, valued at $500. And below, Freddie, a 1967 All-American Hall-of-Fame choice who compiled a brilliant record before his death in 1968.

Pigeon Racing—A Sport For Enthusiasts

By GIL PEARSON

Marin County isn't exactly a hotbed of activity for the international sport of racing homing pigeons.

There are many localities, including some here in the Bay Area, where more sportsmen own and race more birds.

But Marin's devotees make up in dedication what they might lack in numbers. And they have enjoyed successes that have attracted, not just regional, but national attention.

Consider, for instance, some of the feats of the pigeons from Al Boccone's Galaxy Lofts in San Rafael.

FROM THERE came Steady Eddie, the 1969 Martinez 500-mile winner. Steady Eddie, in turn, was the 3-year-old son of Fast Eddie, a multiple sprint prize winner, and a nephew of the 1968 Martinez victor, inappropriately named The Loser.

From Galaxy, too, came Freddie to earn, in 1967, the highest honor that can be paid to a competitive homing pigeon — election to the sport's All American Hall-of-Fame.

Valued at $1,000, the pure-Belgium-blooded Freddie averaged 50 miles an hour in defeating 2,000 competitors in each of seven Bay Area spring races. Included was the Redding 200-mile event, covered in less than four hours, and a Yakima,

HOMING PIGEONS

Speed, Accuracy Win The Races

Wash., 600-mile event that required 14 hours for completion.

THE FLEET-winged Freddie met an untimely demise on an Easter Sunday morning while on a training flight, falling into a gasoline service station sign, the victim of what a veterinarian diagnosed as a heart attack.

The mysterious ability of these fascinating little creatures to fly from dawn to dusk at seemingly lightening-like speeds over unfamiliar territory, and to touch down at home base unerringly, has baffled scientists for generations.

Nor can breeders offer any certain answer. But it is a secret of nature that challenges man's curiosity and has produced many theories and triggered many experiments.

FOR INSTANCE, in Georgia, during the solar.eclipse of March 7, 1970, Andre Gobert, as loft manager for the Pigeon Research Department of Cornell University, conducted a test of the theory that the pigeons navigated by the sun.

The complete results have not yet been released, but indications are that flights were effected by the sun's disappearance. Significantly, the "homers" race only in the daylight. They are not nocturnal travelers.

Gobert in his experiment used seven groups of racers that he released at one-hour intervals, before, during and after the eclipse, on a 44-mile course.

THE FIRST three groups, freed in time to complete the course before the eclipse commenced, were on schedule.

But there was mass confusion among the last four groups, totalling 44 birds. Only three showed up that day — just before sundown, some six hours later than their normal arrival time. Most did not return to their lofts until the following day. A week later, five birds were still missing.

The eclipse, it seemed, had added an average of 24 hours to the normal flying time for the course.

WHAT INTERESTED observers particularly was the fate of the fifth group, released from the starting basket at 1:19 p.m. just as the moon passed in front of the sun beginning to eclipse. The temperature had dropped rapidly seven degrees, the humidity had risen, the barometric pressure had fallen, and the wind had started blowing from the northwest at five to 10 miles an hour.

The reaction of the pigeons to these shenanigans of Mother Nature was to take wing slowly and reluctantly, to take additional minutes before vanishing, and to display indecision as to direction.

If Gobert's experiment has produced some interesting data on the directional magic of the homing pigeon, it is unlikely to have ended further speculation or controversy.

BUT AMONG homing pigeon fanciers there is agreement as to "why" if not "how" the birds head for their home lofts when released many miles away.

And the pigeon breeders and owners use that knowledge in the planning of their races.

"We use two systems," explains Gary Wallace of Corte Madera. "The widow-hood system is used when the bachelor cock alone is raced. His lure is the hen back in the home coop with whom he has been flirting outrageously through a wire screen for some days prior to the race. With mating awaiting him as his reward, he loses no time speeding homeward.

STRONG, HEALTHY WINGS are vital to the competitive success of a racing pigeon, and are the result of breeding via carefully chosen parentage, good feeding and other care and proper, expert flight training.

"THE NATURAL system is based on the nesting instinct, and thus mated cocks and hens are entered in these races, since they share a strong desire to get back home to protect their nest and young."

Wallace is a member of the Tamalpais Racing Pigeon Club, whose president is Don Spence.

It is a club with a long history, with honorary member Don Fraser as the chief link between the present and its earlier years.

BOB BROCKMAN and Bud Sthymmel are two long-time members and sparkplugs who are still active.

Other members include Boccone, Ed Bland, Warren Coffin, Erwin Eickele, George Flockhart, Tony Huhn, Jim Lewis, Bill Manges, Bob Marshall, Joe Johnson and Don Twine.

Normally, the club meets once a month on a Wednesday night at the Marin County Humane Society Education Center at Ignacio. But during the two racing seasons of each year, the club members gather at least once a week and usually more frequently.

THE 12-WEEK spring season is for the racing of the older birds.

The eight-week fall season competition is restricted to the "baby" birds.

Marinites interested in learning more about the sport of homing pigeon racing, and the breeding of the birds, are invited by Wallace to call him at his Corte Madera home.

"MOST PIGEON men will give birds to beginners," he said. "And they will take the time to give instructions in caring, feeding and loft construction."

The more converts, the better, believe Wallace and his colleagues. And they would like to see Marin County right up there near the front numerically as one of the centers for their favorite sport.

San Rafael's Postal History Goes Back More Than Century

Mail Service For The Village Had Its Beginnings In 1851

(Editor's Note: This is another of the manuscripts on early Marin subjects completed by Independent-Journal Historian Florence Donnelly prior to her death. Her subject: The San Rafael postal system.)

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

That the mail must go through is a time-honored axiom that the more-than-a-century-old San Rafael postal system has practiced faithfully.

But in the early days, mail was sometimes painfully slow in reaching San Rafael residents.

Letters and newspapers were brought from the East on board Pacific Mail steamships to San Francisco, sent on by small boats to Marin's shores, and then taken by couriers to the various town north of the bay for final distribution.

"THE HISTORY of Marin County," published in 1880, stated:

"The 1851 mails were received from San Francisco by the rather tortuous route of Benicia, Napa and Sonoma." Riders on horseback carried the mails over trails that cut through forests, and in winter often had to deal with flooded rivers and fallen trees.

It was in 1851, on Nov. 6, that a San Rafael postoffice was established in Short's Hall, Fourth and C, with Moses Stoppard as its postmaster.

HISTORIAN Hubert Howe Bancroft wrote of Stoppard: "He came to California in 1847 with Company K, New York Volunteers."

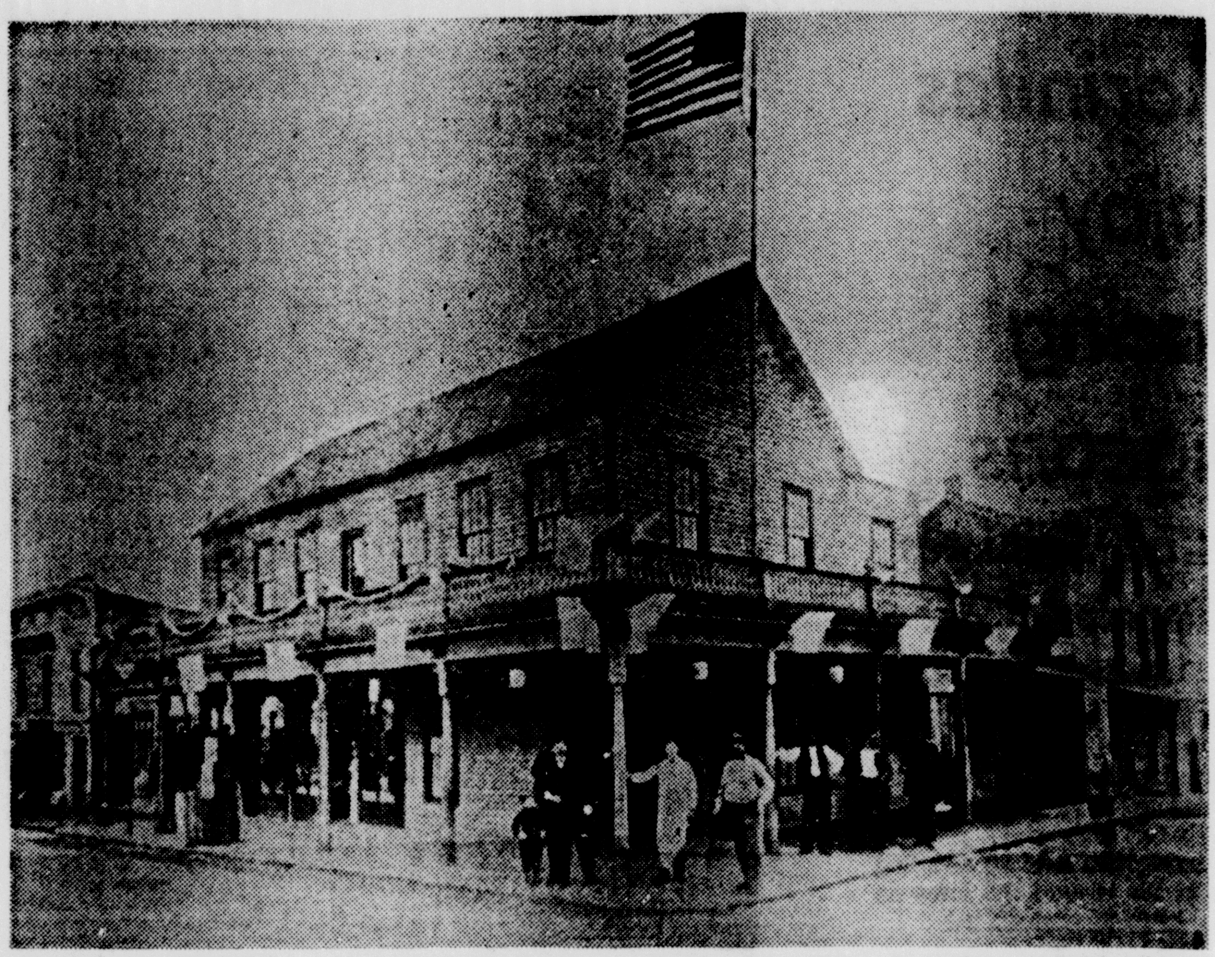
The San Rafael postoffice was discontinued on Oct. 18, 1853, then reinstated on March 31, 1854.

The population of San Rafael — indeed, of Marin County — was small at the time. And it was the practice to send letters via horsemen bound for other areas in order to communicate with friends and relatives.

MORE AND more, however, the official postal system began to perform the service. Walter Skidmore, then Marin County's district attorney, was appointed to the additional post of postmaster on March 31, 1954. He was succeeded by Daniel Block, named to the office March 6, 1860.

In those early years the postoffice was generally housed in a store. And the storekeeper was often the postmaster.

There were difficulties, however, and the government, in 1860, again terminated service to San Rafael. Citizens took over the responsibility. The arrangement was for the mail to be "made up" in San Francisco and put aboard the steamer Petaluma which carried it to the San Quentin Wharf. There it was picked up by the San Rafael Stage Co. and delivered to the San Rafael postoffice.



GENERALLY ACCEPTED as San Rafael's first postoffice was Short's Hall, southeast corner of Fourth and C streets. This picture was taken in about 1860 after what was originally a one-story building had been converted to two stories. McAllister's Saloon flourished below, while town council meetings and other civic affairs were held upstairs.

HOWEVER, under this unofficial arrangement, payment to the stage company fell in arrears. The company announced the service would be terminated.

Citizens appealed to postal authorities in Washington, D.C. And in May, 1862, the government awarded a contract to E. H. Pomeroy for daily carrying of the mail from San Quentin to the San Rafael office.

Timothy Mahon became postmaster on Feb. 14, 1863. He had come to California from New York in 1849 and purchased property in San Rafael including the adobe hacienda of Don Timoteo Murphy that he sold to Marin County for a courthouse.

IN SAN RAFAEL he was joined by his brother, Edward Barry Mahon, a lawyer who was to serve as Marin's county treasurer and district attorney.

In 1867, Frederick H. Pratt became the postmaster and his place of business the postoffice.

The Marin Journal noted: "The postoffice is now in Pratt's store," and added on Jan. 29, 1867, that "a money order department has been established at the San Rafael postoffice."

THE PRATT store, selling general merchandise, was located on the northeast corner of B and Fourts streets. It was a two-story brick structure, with the top floor occupied by the Pratt family.

Pratt's successor was Simon Fitch Barstow, named postmaster on Jan. 17, 1882.

He had been a printer's apprentice in Jamestown, N.Y., before coming to California in 1854 via the Isthmus of Panama. He worked for the San Francis-

EARLY postoffices in San Rafael were often located in stores, with the storekeepers doubling as the postmasters. One such postmaster was Frederick H. Pratt who was appointed to the post in 1867 and served until 1882. His market, dealing in groceries and general merchandise, on the northeast corner of B and Fourth streets, was also the headquarters for the village's mail service. Pratt was succeeded by Simon Fitch Barstow, one of a number of pioneer newspapermen who were to fill the job of postmaster in those early years.

co Bulletin and then for the Alta California. He moved to Tulare County and was with the Visalia Delta. Then in October of 1872 he came to San Rafael and bought the Marin County Journal.

RUSSELL CHAPMAN held the postmastership for a few years, then Barstow was renamed to the post on Oct 19, 1889. On Dec. 21, 1893, William J. Miller, son of pioneers Mr. and Mrs. James Miller, became postmaster. He had large Marin holdings and was extremely active in public affairs, being one of the petitioners to the supervisors urging the purchase of San Rafael's Heuston Block as a courthouse site.

On Jan. 10, 1896, William N. Anderson took over from Miller. New York born, he had come to California from around Cape Horn in 1849. He owned stores in several cities including San Francisco, Sacramento and Watsonville. But in 1867 he moved to San Rafael's benign climate for his health and opened a meat market and grocery store on the northwest corner of Third and B that also became the postoffice.

THE YEAR WAS 1917 and mail was being delivered along San Rafael's Lincoln Avenue by horse and cart. Free delivery service was a triumph for San Rafael residents who began agitating for it in the last 1800s but were not successful until the early 1900s.

HISTORY OF A POSTOFFICE

Corner Stores To Modern Buildings

San Rafael residents were then clamoring for free mail delivery service to stores and their homes. But their pleas were not to be granted until early in the 20th Century, when three carriers, Frederick O'Toole, James Redmond and Victor Becker, were added to the personnel, making their deliveries on foot.

ANDERSON SERVED as postmaster for a decade, then Stanley P. Morehead was appointed to the office on Dec. 19, 1906. He was a building contractor and insurance agent.

His successor, on Feb. 16, 1911, was the well known and popular William P. Taylor, son of Samuel Penfield Taylor, builder of the Marin papermill that was the first on the Pacific Coast. William Taylor was better remembered as a Marin County sheriff.

As the population of San Rafael grew and postal receipts increased, the federal government began leasing various available buildings as the postoffice.

In 1899, Kinsella's plumbing shop advertised that it was on B Street, "opposite the postoffice."

WARREN H. Williams "grew up" with the San Rafael postoffice, his association beginning in 1922 when he was still in high school and worked there during summer vacations and and at Christmas time.

Michael F. Cochrane who had been appointed postmaster Nov. 29, 1913, still held the position. According to Williams, the postoffice was then on the south side of Third between B and C. Williams recalled how he often drove a horse and mail cart to deliver letters, publications and parcels in those days.

Cochrane, publisher of the San Rafael Independent, was succeeded by another newspaper man, Cassius C. Olmsted, on March 3, 1923. He and his brother owned and published the Marin Journal. And it was Olmsted who announced that the acquisition of a site for the construction of a San Rafael postoffice was under consideration.

IT WAS, HOWEVER, to be a good many years before any such edifice was to be built.

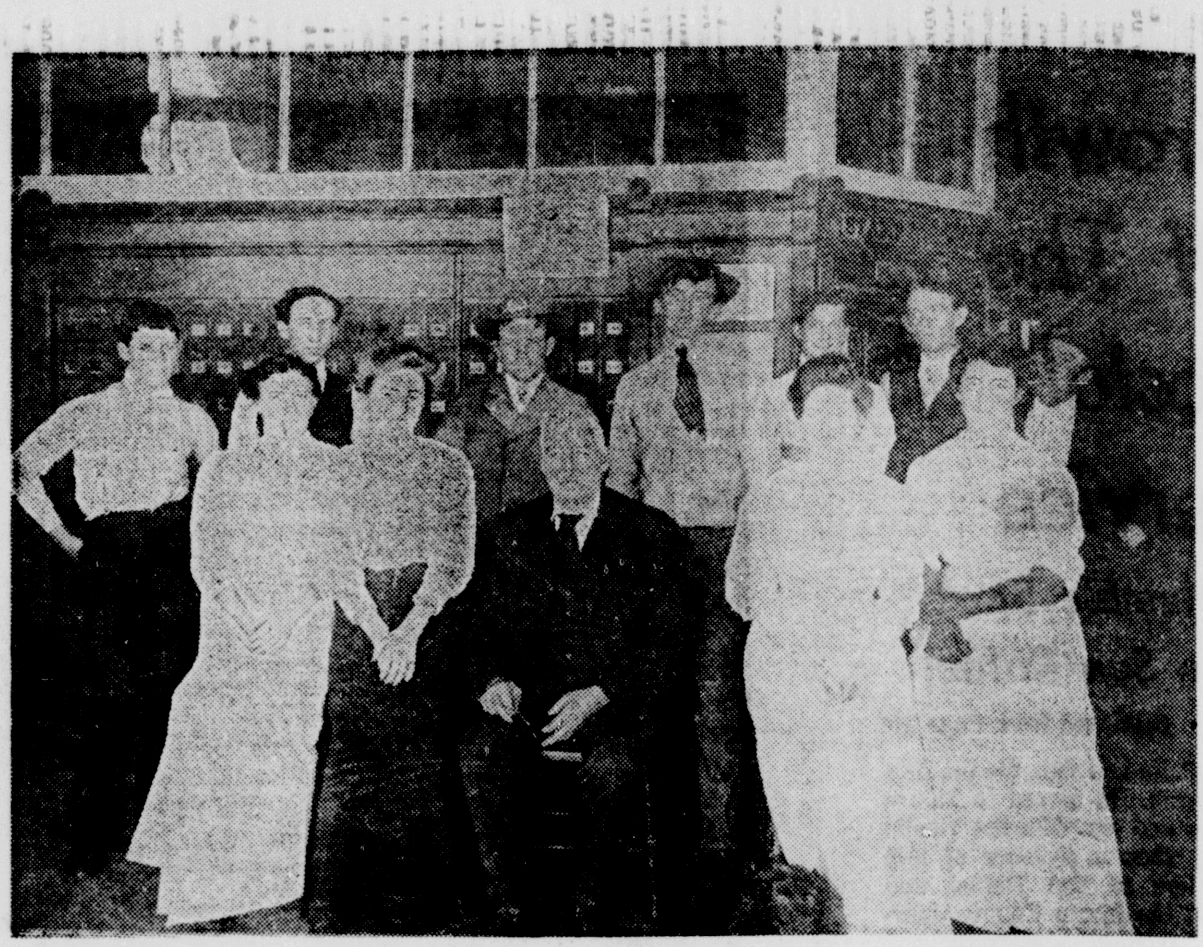
San Rafael druggist Thomas M. Day became postmaster in 1934. And it was while he was in office that the postoffice building downtown on D between Third and Fourth, with which San Rafael residents today are familiar, was erected. In the interim, the postoffice had been moved from Third Street to the south side of Fourth between A and Lootens Place.

The new building on D was a product of the depression years.

DIRECTORS OF the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce learned in July, 1932, that Congress had enacted legislation that provided for the construction of federal buildings as an unemployment relief measure. The chamber approached Rep. Clarence F. Lea concerning the possibility of securing a new postoffice for San Rafael.

Through those efforts and with the support of the Secretary of the Treasury and the Postmaster-General, San Rafael was included on a list of 1,500 cities under consideration for new federal buildings. Later, 600 of those cities were deleted from the list. But San Rafael's name remained.

In September, 1932, the chamber was notified that bids would be received for acquisition of a site. It was stipulated that the property would have to be located on a main street of the city.



SAN RAFAEL'S postoffice was on the west side of B street between Third and Fourth in 1907 when Postmaster Stanley P. Morehead, center, posed with his staff that included a Mrs. Saunders, Irene Howe, Nettie Ryan, James Redmond, Fred O'Toole, Harry Kramer and Ray O'Brien. Others were not identified.

TWO MONTHS later, the postal inspectors investigated all sites under consideration. And in February, 1933, the parcel on the east side of D at Third was chosen and announced by the Treasury Department.

It was, however, not until January of 1934 that negotiations were begun with the property owner, the prominent merchant Jacob Albert.

The original allocation was $90,000 for site, building and equipment. And when bids were first opened, in February, 1935, it was announced that the low bid was $25,000.

BUT THE chamber, discovering the type of building the government planned to erect in San Rafael, protested strongly. It would be, the chamber claimed, inadequate. Appeals went out to congressmen, senators, postal and treasury officials for a larger, more substantial structure.

The award of the contract was held up at the request of the chamber which sent its representative, Edwin T. Coman, to Washington to appeal directly for additional funds for a better building.

Congressman Lea gave Coman his valuable support. Additional monies were allotted. And the plans were altered.

BIDS WERE opened on the second set of plans on July 9, 1935. This time the low bid was $56,680. But the bid was rejected so that still more changes could be made in the building plans.

A third and final set of plans was submitted, and bids opened on Nov. 1, 1935. This time low bid was $58,350. But the usual 30-day period expired without the awarding of the contract. The Treasury Department's Procurement Division requested an additional 30 days time. Three weeks of that time, too, went by without action. But finally the anxiety of San Rafael citizens was put to rest.

On Dec. 23, 1935, as a Christmas present to the community, the contract for the San Rafael Postoffice was awarded.

THE BUILDING was completed and dedicated on Jan. 23, 1937.

Ceremonies included an invocation by Rev. George A. O'Meara, remarks by San Rafael Chamber of Commerce Vice President Charles T. Lund, a welcoming address by Mayor Frank Riede, remarks by Postmaster Thomas M. Day, dedicatory address by City Atty. Jordan L. Martinelli and benediction by Dr. John Jefferson Canoles.

The postoffice staff then included, in addition to Postmaster Day, his assistant, Katherine (Hattie) Henry; clerks Irene Howe, Lorenzo (Lawrence) Corti, Russell Scott, Charles Mueller, Warren Williams and Thomas Falvey; sub clerk Rafael Clark; rural carrier Walter Brush; star route carriers Loyal Carter and Ernest Kearn; mail messenger William D. Merk; and city carriers Harry Hock, Leon Sigard, Daniel Saultry, Thomas Brown, Ernest Brazil, Henry Loper and John Otten.

MILO ROUNTREE and John Bodenhamer were the substitute carriers, and there was a three-man custodial staff.

In the basement of the new

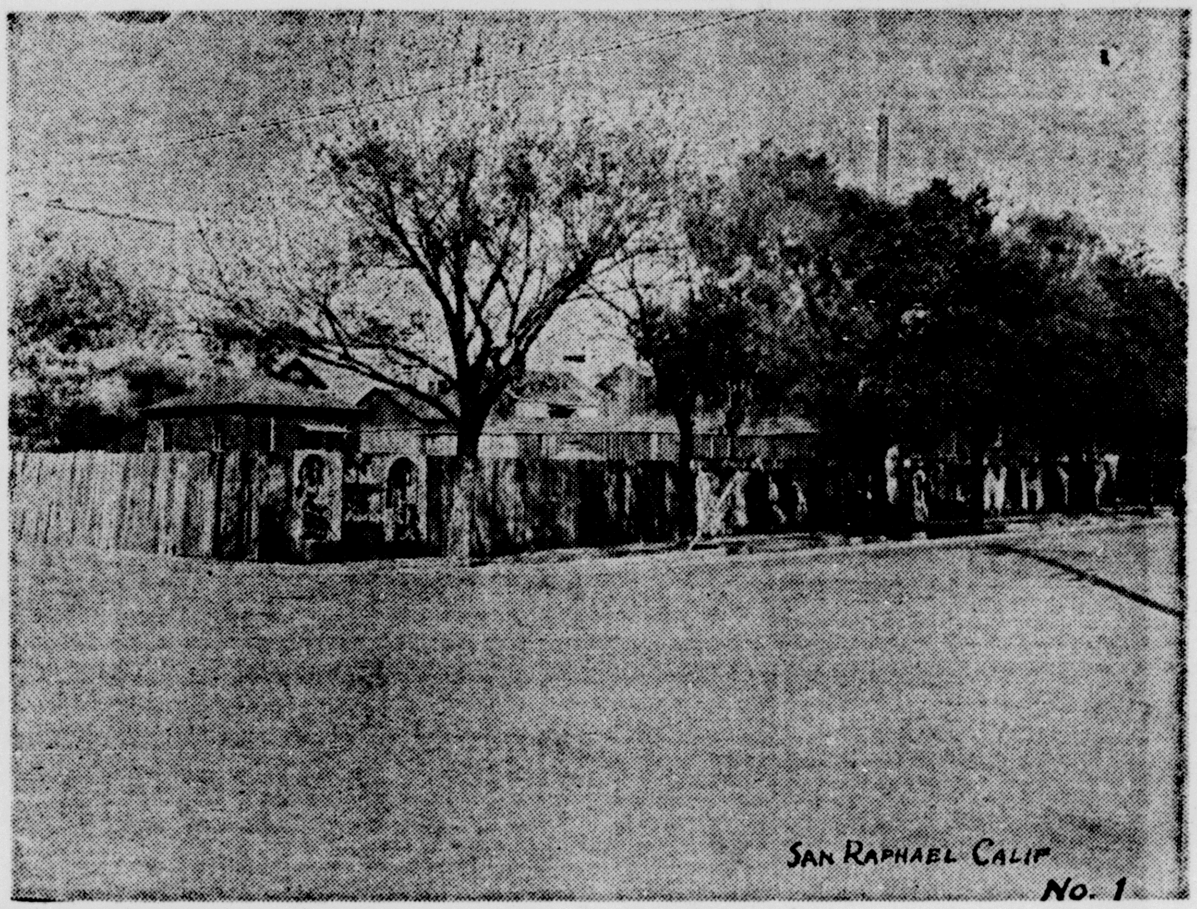
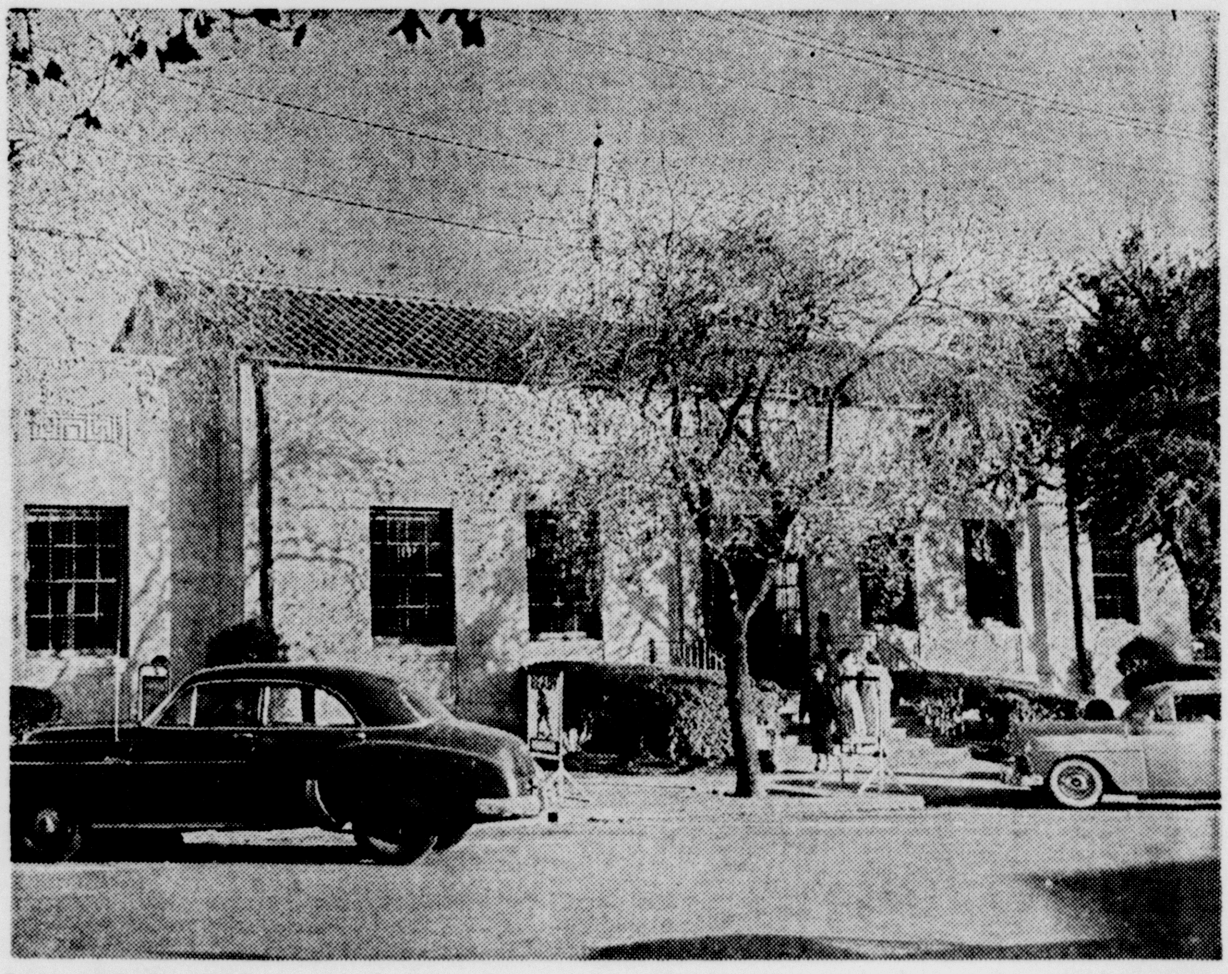
CITY LETTER CARRIERS Harry Hock, left, and Leon Sigard posed in about 1928 in front of the San Rafael Postoffice which was then located in the 1200 block on Third Street close to the site where the first government-owned postoffice on the corner of Third and D was built in the 1930s. The vehicle in back was a horse-drawn delivery wagon. Hock retired in 1940 and died in the 1950s. Sigard retired as a foreman in 1955.



THE CORNER OF Third and D streets in San Rafael looked like this in the early 1930s when it was under consideration as a site for the proposed new postoffice building. It was owned by merchant and philanthropist Jacob Albert, who sold it to the federal government for a bargain $10,000.



SAN RAFAEL WAS a proud city when, in 1937, it dedicated its first government-owned postoffice building on the corner of Third and D. This picture was taken in 1951. Recently remodeled, it now serves as the downtown branch postoffice.

building along with its central oil-fueled heating plant and an air conditioning system were the offices of Farm Advisor M. B. Boissevain, the chief postoffice inspector, the commandant of the 12th Naval District Volunteer Communications Reserve, the district manager of the 12th U.S. Civil Service District, the Internal Revenue collector and the assistant district manager of the Department of Labor's Naturalization and Immigration Service.

The building had been constructed by contractor Leo Epp of San Francisco. And the site, 92 feet fronting on D and 98 feet along Third, had been sold to the government by the public-spirited Albert for a bargain $10,000.

SERVING ON the dedication day committee with Postmaster Day were Mayor Riede, Rube Brown and Fred Cebalo.

Day continued as postmaster until May 9, 1934, when his wife Marian became acting postmaster, pending the appointment of Charles Hilary (Pete) Hayden, who was named on March 22, 1940.

On April 21, 1954, Hayden was able to report that a number of star routes were operating out of the San Rafael office "to such places as Jenner, San Quentin, Santa Rosa, Crockett and Hamilton Air Force Base."

HAYDEN DIED in November of 1955, and on Jan. 1, 1956, the veteran among the employees, Warren Williams, was designated the acting postmaster. On June 20, 1956, he became the official postmaster.

Under his able leadership, the postal service in San Rafael flourished.

Richard J. Murphy, assistant postmaster-general, wrote Williams and his fellow workers on Aug. 23, 1961, as follows:

"San Rafael led all postal installations in fiscal year 1961 in one of the most significant measurements of our employee suggestion program's effectiveness, the percentage of suggestions adopted.

"ADOPTABLE suggestions are preferrable to mere volume from which the government derives no benefits, and the adoption of 45.9 per cent of the suggestions originating in your office reflects a quality not equalled elsewhere. On a national basis, only 15.9 per cent were adopted."

It reflects, too, the high morale of the San Rafael staff.

Postmaster Williams credited as his top suggestion-makers Leon D. Arbini, general mechanic with 24 years of postoffice service; Jerry Van Soest, distribution clerk with 16 years seniority, and Elmo A. Rossi, civil service examiner with 15 years of postal experience.

Arbini received $120 in cash, Van Soest $90. Other employees were also recognized for their suggestions on how the postal service might be further improved.

FROM HIS many years with the San Rafael postoffice, Warren Williams was a source of many amusing and significant stories about that federal service and its local operations.

He would, for instance, relate how families would become sentimentally attached to a postoffice box, so that three and sometimes four generations would insist upon keeping the same box and number.

Williams could, without hesitation, rattle off the numbers of the boxes and the names of the boxholders.

I REMEMBER my astonishment when, without difficulty, he reached back through the years and recalled correctly the number of my own father's postoffice box number — 483.

It was a proud occasion for Williams when, on May 19, 1962, he delivered the welcoming address at the dedication program for the new, modernistic Civic Center branch of the San Rafael Postoffice on May 19, 1962, in the Santa Venetia district.

San Rafael Mayor John McInnis was master of ceremonies. Monsignor Clement J. McKenna of St. Vincent's School for Boys delivered the invocation. Walter R. Castro, chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, led the pledge of allegiance.

The Flag was presented by Jesse J. France Jr., San Rafael Chamber of Commerce president, on behalf of Congressman Clem Miller.

THE RITES were concluded with the benediction by Rev. Lincoln Wirt, First Congregational Church pastor.

from the early postoffice in the Pratt store in downtown San Rafael. Indeed, from the main postoffice then serving the public at D and Third.

It was one of the last products of the designing genius of the late Frank Lloyd Wright, complimenting well the nearby and world famous Wright-planned Civic Center county administration building.

JACK BENZ was named branch superintendent and Edward Burdisso his assistant. Kenneth Soldavini and Thomas Masterson handled the window service. And from the branch 13 regular carriers, one mounted carrier and two parcel post carriers operated. Service began May 26, 1962.

Less spectacular was the dedication of a new postoffice building in Kentfield at 822 College Avenue, across the street from the College of Marin.

Dedication ceremonies were held there Jan. 8, 1966, under the sponsorship of the Ross Valley Kiwanis Club.

WILLIAMS AGAIN gave the address of welcome. Other participants included Rev. John G. O'Connell, invocation; Dewitt MacDonald, Kiwanis Club past president, master of ceremonies; Tommy Burke, musical entertainment; and Bishop C. Ray Leininger of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, the benediction.

A Flag that had flown over the Washington D.C. Postoffice was presented to the new Kentfield office.

In addition to Kentfield, the San Rafael Postoffice also is in charge of the Terra Linda Postoffice.

POSTMASTER Williams' highest honor as a dedicatory official came, however, on Sept. 17, 1966, when a new main San Rafael Postoffice was opened at 40 Bellam Boulevard, outside the city's main business district.

The handsome new edifice provided 36,000 square feet of working space for a staff t had become more and n handicapped by congestion. there were 76,000 square fee parking space for postoffice hicles and patrons.

This time the ceremonies cluded Williams' welcoming dress; music by Ray Lucas invocation by Rev. Thon Kennedy of St. Raphae Church; the pledge of allegia led by Mayor C. Paul Bet presentation of the Flag by Don Clausen; an address Raymond H. Holmquist, reg al director of the Post O Department's San Franc Region, and a benediction Rev. Henry Kent of St. Presbyterian Church.

JOHN L. Rockwell, past p dent of the San Rafael Kiw Club, was the master of monies.

The former main postoffic Third and D streets was r deled extensively into an at tive Spanish style and desig ed as the Mission Branch I office. San Rafael resid continue to patronize its con ient downtown location hea

As early as 1956 Postma Williams had indicated a d to retire. But it was not Jan. 31, 1966, that Hugh Cas was appointed acting post ter. On Nov. 7, 1967, Cas was officially named post ter.

HE WAS Williams' choice the position. And like Will and many of their predeces Cassidy was a member of a ily that had lived in and co buted to San Rafael for r years.

The new postmaster ha long record of service witl postal department, and was known for his participatio the programs of civic, pat and labor organizations.

Probably Cassidy's most matic incident of his posto career came in July of when he was called upon, a perintendent of mails, to pare a report for postal aut ties on the downtown San R fire that wiped out a bloc business houses and threat the postoffice with its mail.

CASSIDY TOLD how, learning of the conflagratio rushed to the postoffice. mailing crew, under acting man Thomas Springett, preparing for the 8 p.m. patch. All collections had rived at the postoffice b the fire started."

"Going to the roof," he w "I noted the rapid spread o fire along Fourth Street, r ing down to the Odd Fe Hall. The wind was car smoke and ashes over the office. As hot brands were ing on the roof, the hoses procured from the base and run to the roof. Two were used and two clerks, is Andrus and Robert Joh were assigned to wetting the roof.

"The fire was rapidly inc ing scope and had jum Fourth Street to the south and was burning down D to the postoffice.

PERSONNEL in San Rafael postoffices today work in pleasant, modern surroundings, aided by the latest equipment. Shown at the top is the new main postoffice building on Bellam Boulevard, dedicated on Sept. 17, 1966, with 36,000 square feet of working space for the postal employees. In the middle photograph is shown the interior of the former main postoffice, at Third and D streets in downtown San Rafael, that underwent extensive remodeling and now serves as the busy Mission Branch Postoffice. LEAD A DOUBLE LIFE

Sneak away on weekends to your
OCEANA MARIN HIDEAWAY!

Forget your worries and the stresses of daily living . . . the hurry-scurry and the crowds . . . ease up those 5-day tensions . . .

ESCAPE TO YOUR OWN SUNBATHED HIDEAWAY ON THE MOST SPECTACULAR COASTLINE BETWEEN MONTEREY AND THE OREGON COAST – 50 MINUTES FROM SAN RAFAEL!

Lead a double life! Own a piece of peace at OCEANA MARIN.

Slip away Friday afternoon to your hilltop in the sun, your trail to the beach. You're in a secluded private community 4 miles off State Highway 1, near Dillon Beach.

Come back Sunday night with browner skin and sand in your shoes, smelling of oysters and barbecue smoke. When you put on your good clothes and start the humdrum half of your double life, you'll be better able to cope with it!

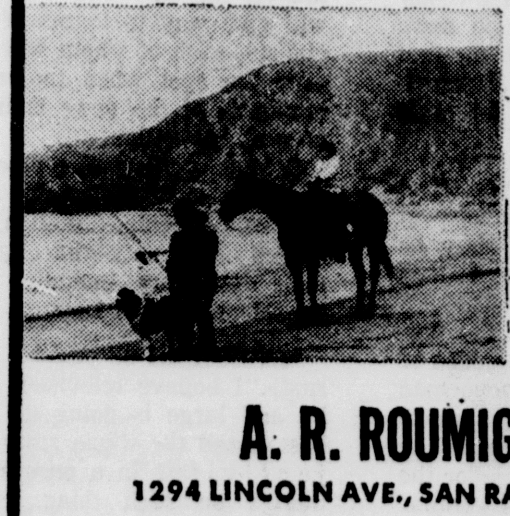
SPECTACULAR HOMESITES . . . SCENERY . . . SECLUDED BEACHES

Gorgeous new homesites are ready for your choice—from $8,900 to $25,000 (convenient terms for qualified buyers). Underground utilities and wide private streets. Sites with unsurpassed views of Pt. Reyes National Seashore . . . Tomales Bay . . . Bodega Head . . . great expanses of white sand . . . the wild surf crashing on sentinal rocks.

Private roads and paths lead to beautiful, secluded beaches and intriguing coves. —Swimming, surfing, spear-fishing, clam-digging, oystering, rock fishing, bay and surf fishing—in your "front yard!" —And, nearby, a fine marina with docking and berthing facilities.

A Risk-Free Investment

Your weekend/vacation hideaway will be a valuable financial asset . . . ocean-front land is the only risk-free investment. And, if you wish it for income property (there's a demand for rentals in the area), we'll help you through our Rental Program.



EASY TO REACH . . .

Oceana Marin is easy and pleasant to reach —over gently rolling hills from U.S. 101. Exit at Washington St. off-ramp in Petaluma, go through city to Bodega Ave., follow west through Tomales toward Dillon Beach. (Just find Dillon Beach on your road map . . . We're right next door.)

End Of The Anchorman Is Seen

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ned Calmer believes the day of pretty-boy television newscasters is over and the era of specialized broadcast reporting has begun.

Calmer is a considerable authority on such matters. After becoming a foreign correspondent for the Chicago Tribune Paris office, then for the New York Herald-Tribune's Paris edition, he turned to broadcasting, a career he pursued for 27 years.

HE RECENTLY took advantage of an "early retirement" program so, he explains, he could give himself time to think — and to write. One result is "The Anchorman," a recently published novel about the business he knows so well.

"Television news is getting farther and farther away from the concept of 'pretty boy' newscasters and anchormen," he said in an interview. "There was a time when the 'pretty boy' flourished, but I think that day is over."

That doesn't mean a matinee idol profile will disqualify anyone from television broadcasting and he pointed out that some particularly distinguished looking — as well as talented — types remain on the air.

"LOOK AT Howard K. Smith," he said. "He's a pretty good looking man. And Eric Sevareid looks like he ought to have his face carved on Mt. Rushmore.

"There's just one thing — you still have to have hair. A bald anchorman, at least one who is bald in front of the camera, is unthinkable. But otherwise TV is getting farther and farther away from that."

Calmer believes television is in for more serious changes in its news programs, particularly as to specialization. He said: "Television news has become less exploratory and more immediate — that could almost be a motto for television news. Great effort is being made to give more depth to television news. Compare television news with the press, or radio for that matter, and you find that television has far less time for news at its disposal."

HE SAID THAT in the effort to remedy television's lack of depth, the anchorman may be on his way out. First, he defined the anchorman:

"The anchorman, in the purest sense, is only an extension of the camera. But an anchorman can be what he wants to make of the job — that is, until he runs afoul of Spiro Agnew or the boss of the network or similar hazards with which television newsmen are familiar.

"Television network news programs are so complicated and cover such a vast field. Control is all in the choice of the news. Frequently the anchorman is so busy with the task of reading that he doesn't even have time to edit.

"WALTER CRONKITE calls himself managing editor, so you can see how he regards the job. David Brinkley writes his own stuff. But other anchormen neither edit nor write their own copy because there's so much to be done, one man just can't do the job."

That's why Calmer believes anchormen of the present kind are on the way out, that they will give way to teams of specialists, each of whom will take over the spot when the major emphasis of the news is in his area of knowledge.

Calmer, puffing on a pipe and speaking in a soft voice with perfect, regionless diction, defended the networks against their detractors, including Vice President Spiro Agnew.

"IN SO FAR as possible," he said, "I believe television news by and large is doing its level best to tell the whole story. Objectivity? In a pure sense, there's no such thing. Every man has his own bias and no matter how much he tries to control it, by the simple act of selecting one piece of news and omitting another, he must show it."

The veteran broadcaster had just returned from a speaking tour and said the question he was most asked was how he rated today's network anchormen. In diplomatic style, beginning with his former CBS colleague, he said:

"They each have their own quality. Cronkite is a superb reporter who never gets the chance to report anything on the regular evening news program. Instead he gets to read bulletins, then there's the commercial, then he introduces someone else who is on the scene. Even at the end, Sevareid does the commentary.

"BUT CRONKITE on a moonshot or any story he can cover independently — I think he's the greatest reporter on the air.

"Huntley and Brinkley make a good team, and Brinkley is the great stylist of television news. Every young television reporter in the country is trying to imitate Brinkley's delivery.

"As for ABC's Frank Reynolds — he's coming along very fast. He may turn out to be the towering figure on television news of the next generation, as the older men retire. That is, if anchormen last that long."

(Editor's Note: The Independent-Journal, the I-J's Marin Magazine Poet's Corner and the Marin poets who supply its verse have been honored by the Ina Coolbrith Circle, Northern California literary organization, with a special citation for having published the greatest number of poems of any California newspaper in 1968-69. At the same time the Circle announced a citation for the Los Altos News for its contributions to the promotion of the art of poetry and verse in 1968 and 1969. James W. McLaughlin of Belmont is the Ina Coolbrith Circle president.)

SONG OF THE PAMPAS GRASS

'Tis pampas time once again
And giant-tall they stand
Enticing feathered panicles
Sheathed within a magic band
Aloof amid a ring of sharpened knives
Out to catch the wary
Lest watchfulness he does not exercise—
Slowly swaying in the winds
Slowly saying: "Feel the softness of the silk
Of my brush embrace—
If you can—upon your face . . .
You can—you can
Upon your face."

The Mail

exceedingly heavy and a fire was started in the sheds at the rear of the postoffice. One of the roof hoses was thrown down and this fire was extinguished.

"The prompt action of the postoffice crew stopped the fire from spreading to the McPhail Fuel Co. buildings. Another small fire did start in the Murray residence behind the postoffice (on Third), but was extinguished by the postoffice force.

"Meanwhile, Foreman Springett had completed preparing the mail for dispatch. Since it was realized that the. . .trucks could not operate to the postoffice, one clerk was sent to the highway entrance to hold them there, so that the mail could be shuttled to them by local vehicles that could negotiate the fire lines. This arrangement was successful and the regular exchanges of mail were made.

"IT WAS necessary to sort the mail in the loading area of the Northwestern Pacific freight sheds. It should be noted that this was done by three temporary clerks — (John) Abenschan, (Wayne) Cunningham and (James) Turner. These three managed the exchange of mails, made temporary provision for storage of mails and handled the exchange of registers without any supervision whatsoever.

"At the postoffice, the conflagration in the adjoining block was reaching its height. The fire had spread down the block and appeared ready to engulf the old two-story residence directly across the street from the postoffice. It had gotten completely into the paint store diagonally across the street.

"On the roof of the postoffice, the drains were stoppered with mail sacks to hold all the water possible on the roof.

"BY THIS time, shortly after 8 p.m., the postoffice was well inside the fire lines with hose crews and fire trucks operating directly in front of the postoffice. The postmaster and assistant were on the scene before the conflagration reached its height. Nearby apartments and postoffice vehicles were evacuated and preparations were made to remove the mail from the building.

"Shortly after 8 o'clock, power in the building went off. The front of the building was secured at this time and all windows closed to avoid any possibility of the swirling firebrands getting into the postoffice.

"Trucks were being moved beyond the fire lines, loaded with the household goods from the adjacent apartments. The first signs of panic were visible, as many householders tossed armloads of clothing and soft objects from the third story stairway.

"WITH THE paint store diagonally across the street burning, there was some danger of explosions from the paint and paint thinners stored in the rear of the building — the point closest to the postoffice.

"All the men, except the ones manning the fire hoses, were moved from the postoffice roof, and those remaining were warned to work from behind the protection of the parapets on the roof. Additional equipment arrived and brought a halt to the fire in the paint store. Shortly after 9 p.m., the fire had been checked, and it was apparent that, unless there was a disastrous turn, the danger to the postoffice was receding.

"The postoffice trucks were retrieved from their storage spaces some blocks from the postoffice. Coleman gasoline lanterns were procured to supply some illumination, and limited working of the mails commenced.

"THE 9 P.M. collection in the business areas was made about an hour late, but in time for the midnight dispatch. Collection boxes in the fire area were checked and found to be undamaged.

"Power was back on shortly after 10 p.m. The mail, stored, was brought to the postoffice and worked. By midnight, the office had returned to a regular schedule and the midnight PMT trucks operated in and out of the postoffice.

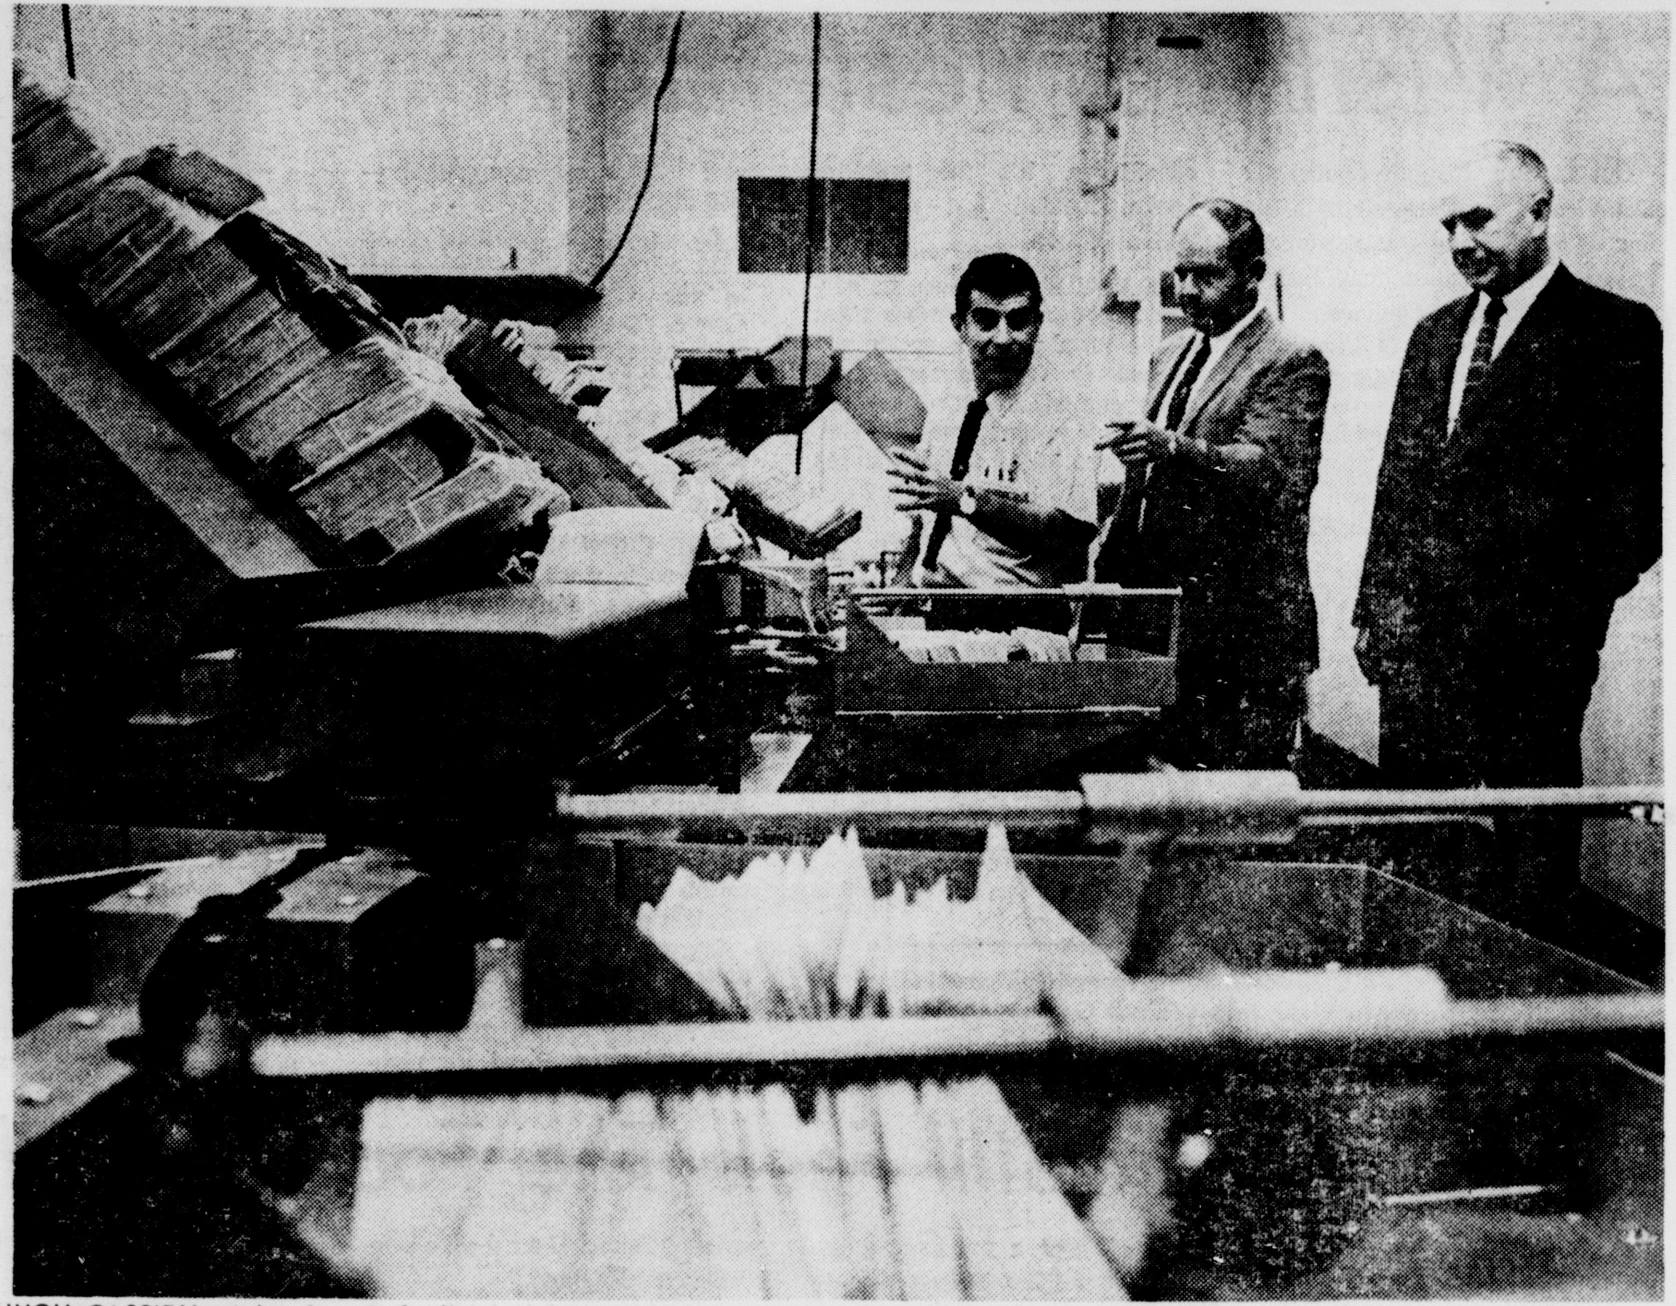
"Regular mail dispatches were made during the fire and deliveries were out on schedule in the morning."

NEVER HAD the spirit that neither fire nor flood must be allowed to stay the mails been better or more dramatically exemplified.

Under Hugh Cassidy's postmastership, the San Rafael postal employees have continued, under less exciting conditions and with modern equipment in pleasant surroundings, to render efficient and courteous service to appreciative patrons.

It is a service especially marked by the friendliness and cheerfulness of the men and women who man the windows in the postoffices, and who deliver the mails to homes and businesses.

Not only does the mail go through. But in San Rafael it goes through with smiles and warmth.



HUGH CASSIDY, right, San Rafael's present postmaster, and his superintendent of mails, Donald W. Baird, center, discuss with Angelo Bon the operation of a Mark II Facer stamp-canceller that is among the modern equipment in use in the new main postoffice on Bellam Boulevard. Cassidy succeeded Warren Williams as acting San Rafael postmaster on Jan. 31, 1966.

C.H. (PETE) HAYDEN, on the right, was postmaster when this photograph was taken inside the postoffice at Third and D streets. With him were Warren Williams, left, then assistant postmaster and later to become postmaster, and Thomas Falvey, superintendent of mails.

335 MOVE THE MAIL

The San Rafael postal system which began in 1851 with a part-time postmaster is composed today of 335 employees working under the direction of Postmaster Hugh Cassidy in the main and four branch postoffices and one vehicle maintenance unit to meet the needs of a growing population and a soaring volume of mail.

Personnel from the San Rafael, Civic Center, Kentfield and Terra Linda postoffices cover 70 routes in delivering mail to their patrons.

And the payroll of the 335 men and women processing and distributing the mails in San Rafael and its branch offices approximates $2,100,000 a year.

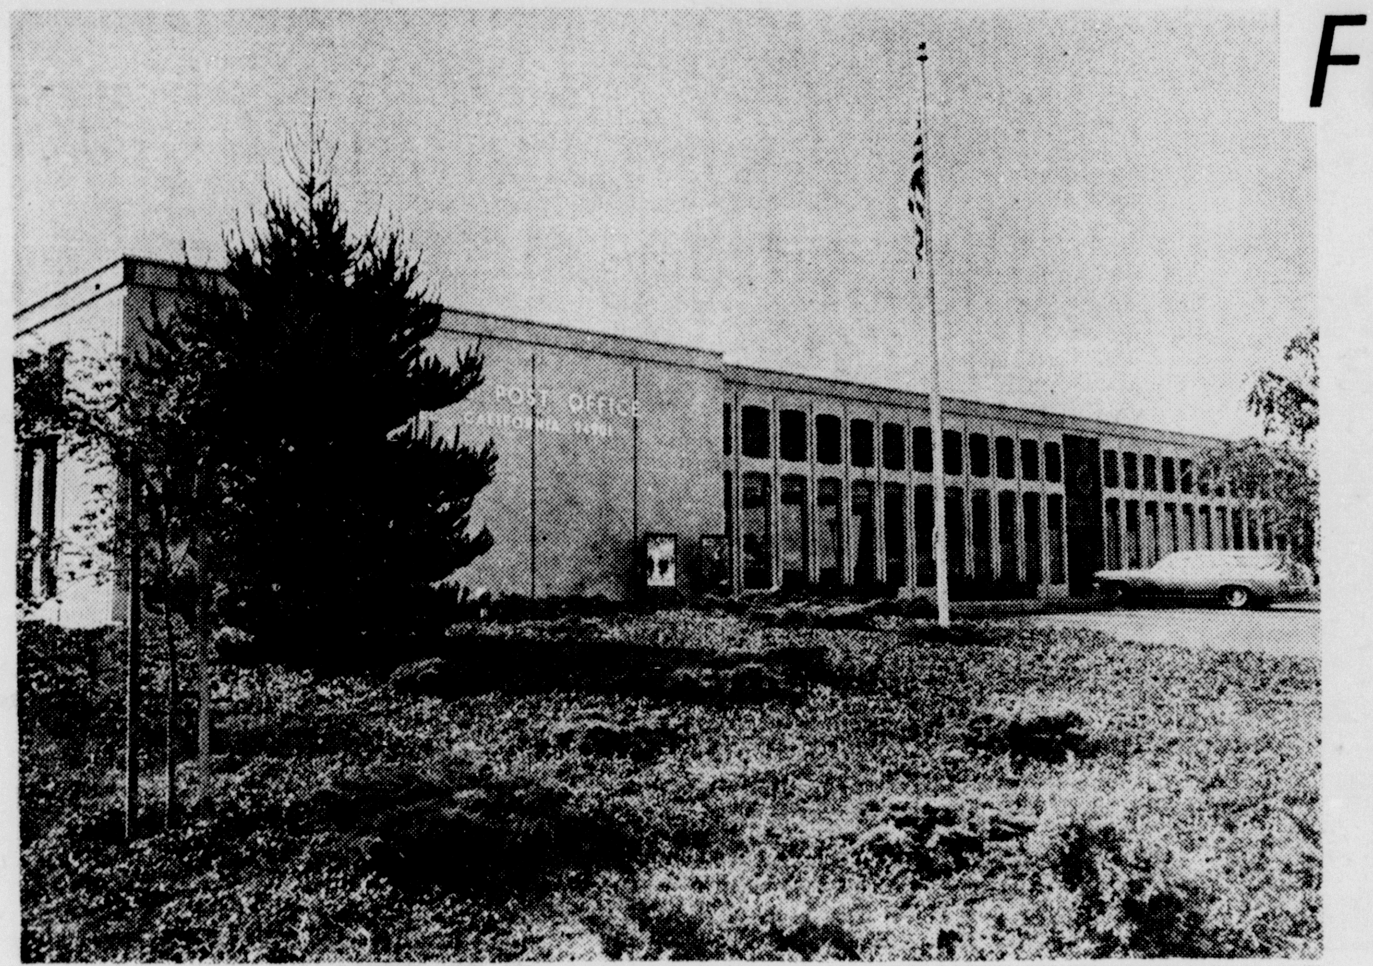
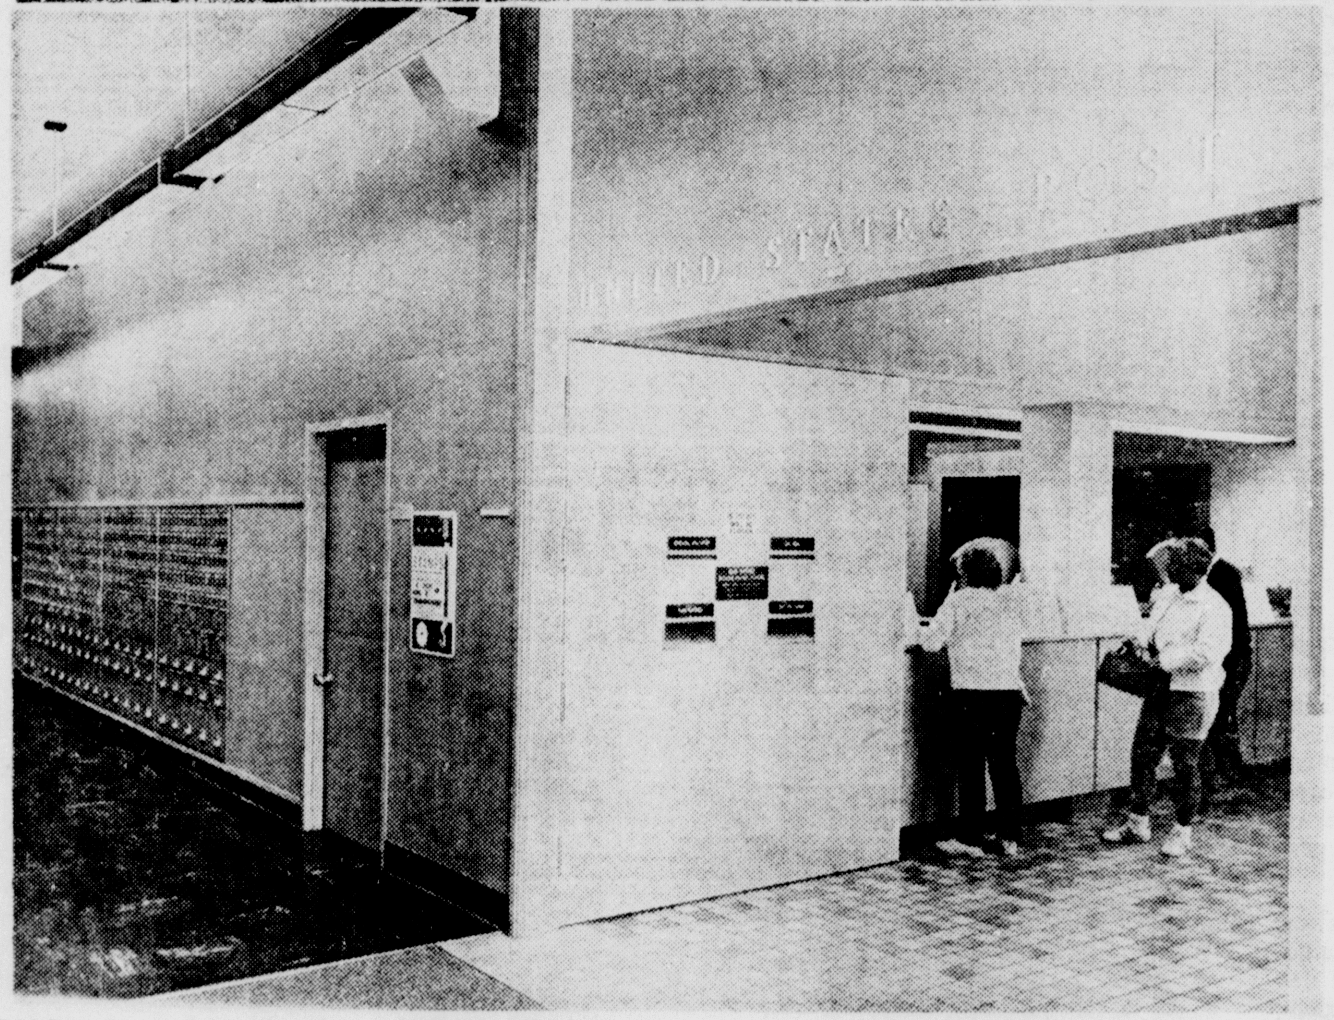
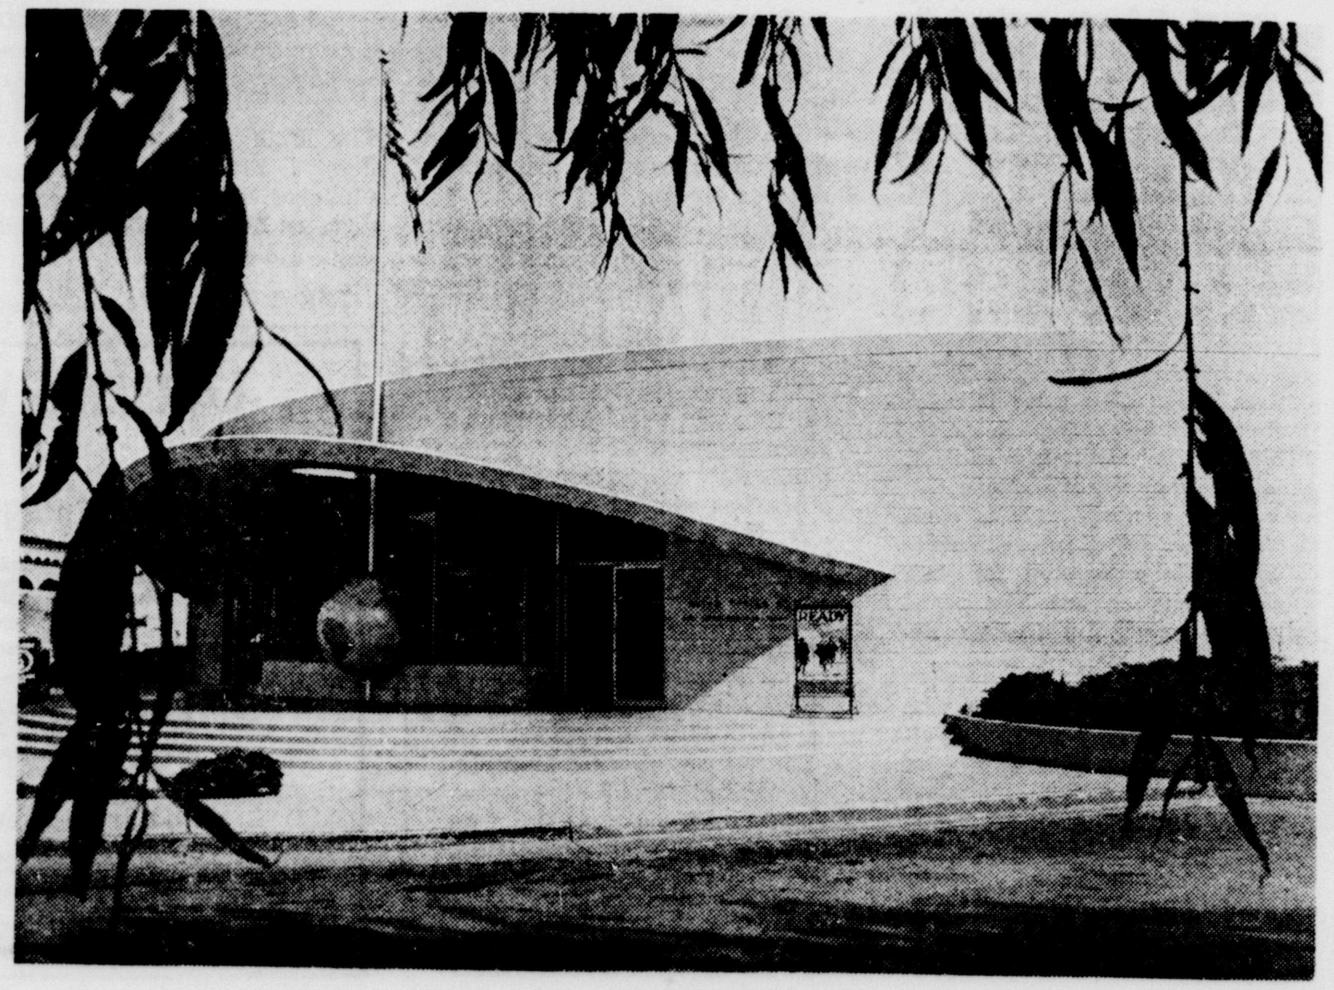
Fire Didn't Stop The Mail







PERSONNEL in San Rafael postoffices today work in pleasant, modern surroundings, aided by the latest equipment. Shown at the top is the new main postoffice building on Bellam Boulevard, dedicated on Sept. 17, 1966, with 36,000 square feet of working space for the postal employees. In the middle photograph is shown the interior of the former main postoffice, at Third and D streets in downtown San Rafael, that underwent extensive remodeling and now serves as the busy Mission Branch Postoffice. The original building was dedicated Jan. 23, 1937. And in the photo on the right is shown the Civic Center Branch Postoffice, at Santa Venetia, dedicated May 19, 1962. Its modernistic architecture compliments the striking Frank Lloyd Wright design of the nearby Civic Center administration building. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)

from the early postoffice in the Pratt store in downtown San Rafael. Indeed, from the main postoffice then serving the public at D and Third.

It was one of the last products of the designing genius of the late Frank Lloyd Wright, complimenting well the nearby and world famous Wright-planned Civic Center county administration building.

JACK BENZ was named branch superintendent and Edward Burdisso his assistant. Kenneth Soldavini and Thomas Masterson handled the window service. And from the branch 13 regular carriers, one mounted carrier and two parcel post carriers operated. Service began May 26, 1962.

Less spectacular was the dedication of a new postoffice building in Kentfield at 822 College Avenue, across the street from the College of Marin.

Dedication ceremonies were held there Jan. 8, 1966, under the sponsorship of the Ross Valley Kiwanis Club.

WILLIAMS AGAIN gave the address of welcome. Other participants included Rev. John G. O'Connell, invocation; Dewitt MacDonald, Kiwanis Club past president, master of ceremonies; Tommy Burke, musical entertainment; and Bishop C. Ray Leininger of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, the benediction.

A Flag that had flown over the Washington D.C. Postoffice was presented to the new Kentfield office.

In addition to Kentfield, the San Rafael Postoffice also is in charge of the Terra Linda Postoffice.

POSTMASTER Williams' highest honor as a dedicatory official came, however, on Sept. 17, 1966, when a new main San Rafael Postoffice was opened at 40 Bellam Boulevard, outside the city's main business district.

The handsome new edifice provided 36,000 square feet of working space for a staff that had become more and more handicapped by congestion. And there were 76,000 square feet of parking space for postoffice vehicles and patrons.

This time the ceremonies included Williams' welcoming address; music by Ray Lucas; an invocation by Rev. Thomas Kennedy of St. Raphael's Church; the pledge of allegiance led by Mayor C. Paul Bettini; presentation of the Flag by Rep. Don Clausen; an address by Raymond H. Holmquist, regional director of the Post Office Department's San Francisco Region, and a benediction by Rev. Henry Kent of St. Luke Presbyterian Church.

JOHN L. Rockwell, past president of the San Rafael Kiwanis Club, was the master of ceremonies.

The former main postoffice at Third and D streets was remodeled extensively into an attractive Spanish style and designated as the Mission Branch Postoffice. San Rafael residents continue to patronize its convenient downtown location heavily.

As early as 1956 Postmaster Williams had indicated a desire to retire. But it was not until Jan. 31, 1966, that Hugh Cassidy was appointed acting postmaster. On Nov. 7, 1967, Cassidy was officially named postmaster.

HE WAS Williams' choice for the position. And like Williams and many of their predecessors, Cassidy was a member of a family that had lived in and contributed to San Rafael for many years.

The new postmaster had a long record of service with the postal department, and was well known for his participation in the programs of civic, patriotic and labor organizations.

Probably Cassidy's most dramatic incident of his postoffice career came in July of 1957 when he was called upon, as superintendent of mails, to prepare a report for postal authorities on the downtown San Rafael fire that wiped out a block of business houses and threatened the postoffice with its mail.

CASSIDY TOLD how, upon learning of the conflagration, he rushed to the postoffice. "The mailing crew, under acting foreman Thomas Springett, was preparing for the 8 p.m. dispatch. All collections had arrived at the postoffice before the fire started."

"Going to the roof," he wrote, "I noted the rapid spread of the fire along Fourth Street, reaching down to the Odd Fellows Hall. The wind was carrying smoke and ashes over the postoffice. As hot brands were falling on the roof, the hoses were procured from the basement and run to the roof. Two hoses were used and two clerks, Lewis Andrus and Robert Johnson, were assigned to wetting down the roof.

"The fire was rapidly increasing scope and had jumped Fourth Street to the south side and was burning down D toward the postoffice.

"THE FALLING brands were exceedingly heavy and a fire was started in the sheds at the rear of the postoffice. One of the roof hoses was thrown down and this fire was extinguished.

"The prompt action of the postoffice crew stopped the fire from spreading to the McPhail Fuel Co. buildings. Another small fire did start in the Murray residence behind the postoffice (on Third), but was extinguished by the postoffice force.

"Meanwhile, Foreman Springett had completed preparing the mail for dispatch. A Visit To Yesterday

Out in San Joaquin County's Delta country, where there are lots of quiet sloughs and fishing spots, there's also a lazy little town that is hard to believe.

It has, maybe, 300 Chinese residents and a few non-Orientals, and it looks like a setting for Huck Finn and the habitat of one of Mark Twain's riverboat adventures. It's the town of Locke, located just north of Walnut Grove.

AS YOU WALK down the narrow street that comprises most of the town you are apt to see an elderly Chinese man duck down one of the narrow walkways as if to avoid meeting you.

The weathered wooden stores and houses are dilapidated — but charming.

Locke had its beginning about 1916 when fire destroyed much of the Chinatown of Walnut Grove. The Chinese moved a mile up river and built a new settlement.

The name derives from an early-day rancher named George Locke, who owned the land.

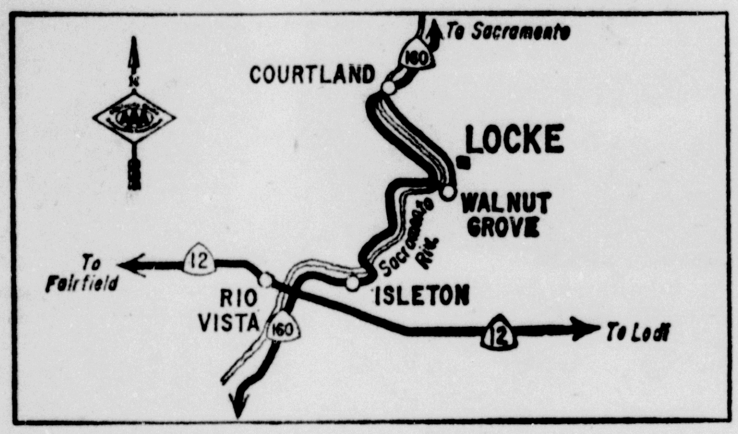
THE CHINESE HAD come to the area to work the rich farms as laborers. Some also helped build the system of levees. Most of those who settled in Locke were members of the Young Wah Tong.

Today the Chinese living there either work locally, in nearby Walnut Grove or in Sacramento, about 30 miles north of Locke. There are a few stores on the town's main street and they are straight out of the 1930s.

One restaurant, Al's Place, is quite popular with visitors and local people and a new one has just recently opened. It is located on the River Road, the highway that passes through the town.

DURING THE YEARS when 5,000 people lived in Locke it had 10 boarding houses, several Chinese herb stores, three chop suey restaurants, a bathhouse, two drygoods stores and a movie house. Not much remains now. But the old wooden buildings with their spindly pillars supporting upstairs porches are still there.

Locke is fun to walk through. It makes older people think of their days of youth in small quiet towns. And it makes the youngsters think they are stalking the set of an old Western movie.



TO REACH LOCKE, the motorist turns from Highway 160 to cross the Sacramento River into Walnut Grove. Locke is a mile farther to the north. (Map courtesy of California State Automobile Association)

WOODEN BUILDINGS with sagging porches that front on Locke's narrow main — and almost only — street give that San Joaquin Delta town the look of yesteryear, making a visit to it a nostalgic trip into the past for the visitor who might have grown up in just such a quiet, backwater town.

London Today Still Feels The Touch Of Charles Dickens

By PETER J. SHAW

LONDON — Charles Dickens died 100 years ago June 9 but time has spared some of the Victorian London he immortalized in words.

The fogs, poorhouses and wretched prisons so vividly portrayed by the great novelist have vanished.

Left behind, however, and almost as Dickens knew them, are haunts of David Copperfield, Ebenezer Scrooge, Oliver Twist, the Pickwickians and other characters born of his quill pen.

THE HORN TAVERN in Knightrider Street is little altered from the day when Mr. Pickwick sent a messenger there from Fleet Prison to get him "a bottle or six" of wine.

Similarly surviving is the George and Vulture tavern in Castle Court, where Dickens and his Pickwickians ate and where Ebenezer Scrooge likely supped before groping through the fog to his rooms up a nearby yard that fateful Christmas Eve.

But such unsullied nooks in modern London are a legacy Dickens himself might have scorned.

"DICKENS HAD NO great eye for architecture and he was not a lover of old buildings," writes Michael Hardwick in "Dickens' England."

If Dickens had had his way, Hardwick says, "he would have pulled down all those old places which people today find so romantic and built new homes for working people."

Hardwick's book is but one of many deluging bookstalls to mark the centenary of Dickens' death. The author's 38 principal works are being reprinted in special editions and his manuscripts are featured in several museums throughout the summer.

THERE WILL BE concerts, plays and readings in his memory. Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother will be among those who will gather at his grave in Westminister Abbey at noon next Tuesday to lead hundreds at a memorial service.

A century after his death, one place closely linked with Dickens is under fire as a possible mistake. Dickens scholars are voicing doubt the famous Old Curiosity Shop in Portsmouth Street is the one Dickens had in mind.

They say the shop probably was located in Green Street, behind the National Gallery, and vanished long ago. No one seems sure just when.

DICKENS WAS 58 when a massive stroke brought on by overwork killed him at the dinner table.

He had in his energetic lifetime sired 10 children, left his wife Catherine of 22 years for an 18-year-old actress and climbed from childhood poverty to the pinnacle of success as social critic, storyteller and reformer.

A short man with a beard and dazzling eyes, Dickens dressed flamboyantly. A red geranium, his favorite flower, was often in his buttonhole.

INWARDLY, DICKENS was turbulent and romantic. Outwardly, he was active and efficient. Scholars now agree he was an idealist of family life.

Dickens was in love with London as much as he hated its social inequities. The descriptive powers that urged public opinion to demand great social reforms also limned the soft heart of a great city.

Much of Dickens' London since 1870 has disappeared or changed beyond recognition as the author knew it, yet there's a goodly list of what remains intact, including Dickens' House at 48 Doughty Street, where the author lived from March, 1837, to December, 1839. Here he wrote "Oliver Twist" and "Nicholas Nickelby," finished the "Pickwick Papers" and began "Barnaby Rudge." His writing desk and chair are preserved.

The Grapes pub in Limehouse. Dickens called it Six Jolly Fellowship Porters in "Our Mutual Friend."

Ely Place, where David Copperfield looked up at the clock on St. Andrew's Church.

STAPLE INN, Holborn. The first courtyard is virtually unchanged from when Dickens wrote in Edwin Drood: " . . . turning into it out of the clashing street, it imparts to the relieved pedestrian the sensation of having put cotton in his ears, and velvet soles on his boots. It is one of those nooks where a few smoky sparrows twitter in smoky trees, as though they call to one another, 'let us play at country' ."

The Temple Inns. This ancient legal stronghold figures in many Dickens' books with loving detail.

London Transport, in association with the Dickens Fellowship, has compiled an alphabetical listing of all points of interest to Dickensian buffs called "The London of Charles Dickens."

On What To Wear And What To Pack

By MURRAY J. BROWN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Think light when planning a travel wardrobe, whether for a weekend visit to a nearby resort or a month-long tour of foreign lands. It could save headaches and money.

Traveling light should be no problem in this day of synthetics. Building a wardrobe around wash-and-wear and permanent-press material means savings on laundry and tailor bills. These can add up to a tidy sum, particularly on long trips.

You could save on porter and bellboy tips, too. Many travelers usually tip more for heavier bags than for light ones. Then again, it will be easier on you if you can't find someone else to carry your luggage—it happens.

IF YOU ARE traveling by plane, you will have to pay extra if you exceed the free weight limitations set by international and domestic air associations.

On international flights, passengers may check free of charge luggage weighing up to 66 pounds for a first-class ticket and 44 pounds for economy. Personal articles, such as purse, coat and camera, which can be carried into the cabin, are not weighed. But briefcases, parcels, typewriters and overnight bags are.

On flights within the United States, under a recent agreement approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board, airlines will carry two bags weighing no more than 70 pounds apiece for each passenger without charge. Anything heavier will cost extra. But personal articles and other items of limited size carried on by the passenger are not included and still go free.

BAGGAGE allowances on ships, buses and trains usually are more liberal, but even the wise traveler will avoid the temptation to overpack.

Naturally, the travel wardrobe will depend on where you are going, what you will do and the climate. Remember the seasons are different in the northern and southern hemispheres—when it is summer here, it is winter there and so on.

But regardless, you should have little difficulty in staying within even the 44-pound limit. A good rule of thumb if you are going overseas is to dress as you would under similar circumstances at home. Shorts, midriffs, slacks, aloha shirts may be appropriate for the beach and countryside but are as out of place on the boulevards of major cities in Europe, Asia and elsewhere as they are in New York, San Francisco, Chicago and Boston.

ANOTHER POINT to remember is that you probably won't see the same people more than once on your travels so you don't have to pack numerous changes. And it is not necessary to buy a whole new wardrobe—you will be meeting strangers who won't know whether your suit or gown is new or old, and probably won't care.

Take clothing you like and feel most relaxed in. And don't forget to include a pair of comfortable walking shoes for sightseeing and shopping.

For men and women, the secret to traveling lightly is mix-and-match. Stick to one basic color scheme and simple styles and leave the wild plaids and patterns in the closet at home.

MY BASIC wardrobe, for instance, includes:

One dark blue and one light gray suit, one neutral sports jacket and two pairs of slacks (up to 10 different outfits by mixing and matching), two pairs of pajamas, six ties, one pair of dress shoes and a pair of broken-in loafers, one sweater, one "sleep and shave" coat and an all-weather outer coat. I wear a jacket and slacks outfit and carry the coat over my arm while traveling.

Except for the suits, coats and shoes, all are permanent-press and wash-and-wear materials. I toss several packets of detergent into my shave kit to do my laundering on the go. Incidentally, if you want to take your electric razor or hair-dryer you will probably have to buy converters—voltages overseas are usually different than in the United States.

FOR WOMEN, my wife suggests the following basic wardrobe:

A raincoat dressy enough to wear during evenings, two knit suits (great for traveling), three daytime and three after-dark frocks, two extra skirts, six blouses, shirts and sweaters (for mixing and matching with the four skirts), four sets of lingerie, two girdles, two nightgowns or pajamas, six pairs of the same color nylons or panty-hose, a light bathrobe, three pairs of shoes—one dress, one casual and one for walking—and a pair of scuffs or house slippers.

Also two purses, one for daytime and traveling and the other for evening wear, six scarves of various colors to wear with the suits, skirts and dresses, and a selection of necklaces, ear rings, pins and other costume jewelry to add variety to the different outfits.

SHE WEARS a suit and carfor the raincoat while traveling.

Leave your good jewelry and fine furs at home unless you expect to mingle with high society or do lots of opera and theatergoing. If you do take them along, have them locked in the hotel safe when not being worn.

For cruises, beach and mountains, add swim suits and other resort wear. If formal events are scheduled, don't forget to pack your accessories along with your tuxedo or gown.

My wardrobe packs easily in a two-suiter while my wife uses a 29-inch pullman case. And there still is lots of room for purchases we may make on our travels.

The Biography Of A Marinite Tells Too Little Of The Man

WILLIAM PENN PATRICK by R. C. Allen; Best Books, 145 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

William Penn Patrick, Marin's remarkably successful cosmetics magnate and extremely controversial right-wing political figure, could be the subject of a most interesting book that would tell us much about our times. But this is no such book.

While it is labeled "a biography by R. C. Allen," it reads more like a "commissioned" promotional piece for Patrick the person and for his Holiday Magic business empire.

Allen, a veteran plower of the positive thinking furrows, gives us a thin book devoted largely to Patrick's own quotations summarizing — and resummarizing — his personal philosophy of devotion to country, to the free enterprise system, to hard work and to the motivational pattern that is generally categorized as "positive thinking."

Allen quotes Patrick: " . . .if I can find 10 men, before I die, who can stand up as strong and unwavering in the Truth as I can and, if one of those 10 men can step out as the leader, then I will consider my life a success."

No shrinking violet, Bill Patrick. Yet even he might be embarrassed by the overly-effusive tone in which Allen sings his praises in the scant material by which the author connects Patrick's own monologues.

What biography there is to be found in the book after some skimpy coverage of Patrick's early years and meteoric rise in business revolves largely around Holiday Magic and his incentive, training and sales techniques employed there. There is a chapter on Patrick's California gubernatorial campaign. But one learns from it very little about the ultra-conservative cast of the Patrick platform. In fact, it is an account remarkably shy in details. For that matter, the Holiday Magic material also raises as many questions as it provides answers. For instance, we learn of Patrick's struggles with various state governments concerning his distribution methods — and of his eventual triumphs. But we are never told very specifically just what the controversy was all about.

The dynamic Patrick is unquestionably a fascinating personality who has left his mark upon the business and political worlds, and who, no doubt, will continue to be heard from in the future.He is deserving of something better than this one-dimensional piece which, if you will pardon the immodesty, tells us less about Patrick the man than did a one-page "Profile of a Marinite" feature that appeared in this magazine some time back. We are not urging a hatchet job upon this outspoken, strong-minded Marinite. That, too, has already been done — too often. Simply a study, or true biography, of some objectivity.

Patrick apparently is quite big right now with those who insist that the American system can still produce its Horatio Alger-type success stories, given the right kind of material with which to work. He is the subject of one entire chapter in "Succeed and Grow Rich Through Persuasion" (Hawthorn, $5.95) by Napoleon Hill and E. Harold Keown whose earlier work along this same line has enjoyed immense sales. It includes a long interview. And the co-authors rate Patrick as second only to another millionaire, W. Clement Stone, as a living and "splendid" example of the rewards of the Science of Personal Achievement philosophy they expound.

"A man to watch, a man who knows, and knows that he knows . . . He is a man to follow," they write of Patrick. R. C. Allen couldn't say it more flatteringly. But he tries.

A New Novel About Mussolini's Lost Millions

TREASURE by A. E. Hotchner; Random House, 304 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Wayne Hathaway.

April 1945, Milan, Italy: Front page photographs in all major newspapers show Benito Mussolini and Claretta Petacci, his mistress, hanging by their feet in front of a Milan gas station. Those of us who remember World War II will never forget those pictures.

Mussolini's violent end came at the hands of Italian partisans as he fled before the Allied advance, attempting to reach sanctuary in Switzerland. However, the fate of some 100 million dollars in currency, gold and jewels that he was known to have with him remains a mystery.

This intriguing puzzle is the basis of Hotchner's novel which begins in 1969 as Paul Selwyn is released from an Italian prison after serving 24 years for the murder of one of his fellow members of an allied investigating team attempting to trace the missing treasure.

Paul is consumed by the desire to be compensated for the 24 years of his life he has lost. He seeks to do this by launching an archeological expedition with his former compatriots as a cover for his search for the missing treasure that he feels is still in the area.

In addition to his search for the missing treasure Paul spends considerable time searching for the sexual virility he apparently lost during his imprisonment. He finally recovers his potency with the assistance of the daughter of the man he was convicted of murdering. (The head-shrinkers should have a field day with that.)

Paul gradually becomes aware that the treasure was not all lost; his fellow investigators had managed to recover some of it 24 years ago and used it to launch their successful civilian careers. He also finds the rest of the treasure;but this scene stretches credibility well beyond the breaking point.

In his book, Hotchner has passed up the opportunity to write two novels. He could have written a sensitive, moving story about a man in search of potency, or he could have drawn upon the fascinating historical events surrounding the disappearance of the treasure to write a gripping mystery; however, he did neither. His characters and situations are just not quite believable.

He could benefit greatly from study of the works of his friend Hemingway.

Contrived Modern Version Of Greek Tragedy

THE KILLING GROUND by Steven Linakis; McKay, 182 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Bob Raab.

A Long Island housewife is raped by two hoodlums. She knows the identity of the men and so it seems justice should be served swiftly. Not so.

Our housewife is an irresistible beauty who moonlights as an exotic dancer. The rape takes place in a sleazy nightclub. Her accosters are members of the Mafia and the Family pays off or threatens everybody in sight from police detectives through district attorney, even the victim's lawyer.

Her husband relentlessly pursues justice but is hampered by a criminal record for — rape. Finally, skewered between frustration and rage, he attempts to assassinate his tormentors. He fails and nearly gets killed by his own 45, which fortuitously misfires three or four times. At the end our protagonist, Johnny Hutchinson, is thrown out of his mother-in-law's house where his wife and family are staying after leaving him.

This is the second novel by Linakis. It is impossible to get emotionally involved with the characters in this book because they are one-dimensional.

Linakis can move things along in brisk fashion but his modern version of a Greek tragedy is too contrived, too strained, to be effective.

Marin Homemaker Joins Science Fiction Writers

STARBREED by Martha deMey Clow; Ballantine, 220 pages, paperback, 75 cents. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Martha deMey Clow, Ross housewife and mother of five children, has enjoyed the experience of having her first book manuscript accepted for publication.

It is also, she says, the first writing "for money" that she has done of any kind!

Her choice of the science fiction field, she says, was a natural one, "for my father fas an engineer who would read no fiction — except science fiction. So I read it, too."

Her book, written over a two-year period, is an imaginative, well-constructed, suspenseful tale of a menace confronting an already war-torn and suspicious earth by a hybrid, the offspring of centaurian and earthling, super intelligent and bent upon revenge against the civilization that has discriminated against and abused his kind. National and international politics are skillfully integrated with interstellar heroics.

The science fiction book market remains strong, and its supporters are certain to welcome Mrs. Clow to the ranks of favored suppliers.

The wife of certified public accountant John W. Clow, Mrs. Clow remains a homemaker. But she says, she is now also a professional writer as well.

Has Man Pursued The Wrong Goals?

By DON KEOWN

PLEASURE by Dr. Alexander Lowen; Coward-McCann, 251 pages, $5.95.

The fundamental difficulty in which American society finds itself today stems from its wrong choice of objectives, writes Dr. Alexander Lowen, psychiatrist, in his "Pleasure: A Creative Approach to Life."

Goal-oriented Americans strive for profit, for power and for prestige.

Better, advises Dr. Lowen, that they should aim for pleasure.

This will strike many older generation Americans, accustomed to a system that glorifies work and derides play, as heresy.

But, when Dr. Lowen speaks of "pleasure," he is not referring to what we commonly call "fun" — that compulsive, almost frantic reaching out, often through childish escapades, for at least momentary change by denying life's serious realities. This obsession with the fallacy of fun only renders a person immune to genuine pleasure, Dr. Lowen argues.

What the author means by pleasure is a condition in which the person is wholly alive, breathing deeply, moving freely and feeling fully. "A person," he writes, "is in a state of pleasure when the movements of his body flow . . .rhythmically and in harmony with his surroundings."

It is, then, basically a condition of the body, not of the mind. But man has rejected his body and physical pleasures in favor of his mentality which he exalts. Thus, as for instance in our puritannical sexual mores, we have restricted our freedom to enjoy life and to experience true pleasure.

Bioenergetics is a therapeutic approach practiced by Dr. Lowen to return to man his sense of bodily harmony. It is advocated by the Institute of Bio-Energetic Analysis in New York City that he directs. And it is touched on rather lightly in his book, with an emphasis on proper breathing, although he is more concerned here with delineating the problem than he is in describing or prescribing curative techniques.

The problem has arisen, Lowen reasons, because man has allowed his ego to become the master of his body, not vice versa, as was intended.

And the ego desires power, while the body years for pleasure. When ego triumphs, the body is denied its pleasure. And the result is a frustrated, angry, self-destructive person caught up in what we commonly call "the rat race" of modern-day society.

"Man is a creative being, not a productive one," Dr. Lowen writes. "He is, in other words, biologically structured for pleasure, not for efficiency. Yet out of his pleasures have come great achievements. Unfortunately, out of his achievements he has found little joy; because productivity has become more important than pleasure."

With pleasure, "the only force strong enough to oppose the potential destructiveness of power," life is a creative adventure, Dr. Lowen tells us. Without pleasure, life is a grim and joyless struggle for survival.

With old codes and behavior patterns collapsing, Dr. Lowen believes we now have our opportunity to install this creative approach to life — providing we comprehend what creativity truly involves. "The creative person sees the world with a fresh vision . . . He starts with the proposition that he doesn't know the answers . . .The creative impulse begins with the imagination of the child but aims at the fulfillment of adult needs. The fusion of adult realism and childlike imagination is the key to all creative action . . ."

Dr. Lowen offers these steps by which the individual can remove himself from the ego's tyranny and its denial of reality:

1. The identification of oneself with one's body, rather than with the ego image.

2. Recognition of the pleasure principle as the basis for one's conscious action — that the natural motivation for all actions is the quest for pleasure and the avoidance of pain.

3. The acceptance of one's feelings — our spontaneous responses to our environment — as opposed to the manufactured products of our minds and wills.

4. An understanding of the interdependence of all personality functions — "thinking is related to feelings and determined by bodily responses . . .Even at its most abstract, thinking is not dissociated from its connection with the human condition."

5. The development of humility — the realization of man's relatively helpless position in regard to the most serious matters in this universe. "We do not make it (human life) and we cannot preserve it eternally. Our conscious concerns should be to live it fully."

"In a creative person," Dr. Lowen summarizes, "there is no separation or barrier between the child and the adult, between the heart and the mind, between the ego and the body."

Dr. Lowen may very well have put his fingers on the basic malaise of today's restless society. Perhaps his pleasure-oriented society — "pleasure" in its finest, fullest sense, as he defines it — is, indeed, the antidote to the failures of today's profit and power motivated people who have discovered that their profits rarely purchase them real satisfaction and that their power seldom commands them true enjoyment.

Certainly "Pleasure" is a persuasive exposition of an important thesis that deserves, indeed demands, our most thoughtful consideration.

Sleuths & Suspense

THE ASSASSIN by Evelyn Anthony; Coward-McCann, 253 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Evelyn Anthony, an English writer who divides her time between contemporary suspense and historical fiction, establishes herself as a challenger to Helen MacInnes, best of the women specializing in the first genre, with this expertly-crafted novel.

Elizabeth Cameron agrees to do a favor for her wealthy, politically-involved uncle — to travel to Lebanon and bring back with her into the United States a mystery man.

Unknown to the beautiful Miss Cameron, her companion is a hired professional assassin.

But she does find herself attracted to him and ultimately romantically involved.

Both the pace and suspense build steadily, and we thought the conclusion an appropriate and satisfying one that we won't spoil for you by giving it away.

EVELYN ANTHONY
A challenger for Helen MacInnes

If Evelyn Anthony is not quite yet the equal of Helen MacInnes, it is because the political background for "The Assassin" is just a bit too simplistic and naive. But the novel makes splendid reading fare, guaranteed to entertain and intrigue the reader who likes his or her spy thriller fiction sprinkled with romance yet laced with action.

"TWA'S BUDGET Guide to San Francisco" and "TWA's Budget Guide to Paris" are Arthur Frommer publications, distributed by Simon and Schuster, but the expense level is several cuts above the $5-a-day class.

These $1 paperbacks are intended for travelers of moderate, but not stringent, means. In San Francisco, the hotel range is between $12 and $16 a night for a double room, and meals vary from $2 to $4. In Paris, those figures are $11 and $15, and $2 to $3.

So fast-changing is the business of catering to tourists that the information compiled in 1969 for the San Francisco book is already outdated in a number of instances — the Hungry i, for instance, is no more. And the theater scene has changed considerably. But John Godwin, the author, has come up with a number of bargain ideas including some of our own favorites — the El Cortez Hotel for instance, and the Little Sweden restaurant with its splendid smorgasbord. With its eating and sleeping suggestions, its sightseeing ideas, etc., the book is easily worth a buck to the San Francisco visitor, and we recommend it unhesitatingly.

We are in a poorer position to evaluate the Paris guide, compiled by Godwin and Beth Bryant, but we were sufficiently impressed to have wished we had had it with us two years ago when we were hunting for that cuisine for which Paris is famous.

As added bonuses, both books contain detachable coupons calling for 10 per cent discounts at various establishments for the holder.

IT IS AN unfortunate indicator of today's conditions that "Practical Ways to Prevent Burglary and Illegal Entry" must be considered as timely.

The $1.45 Cornerstone Library paperback, distributed by Simon and Schuster, was written by consumer research consultant Val Moolman and deals largely with effective devices such as locks and alarms to thwart intruders.

The material on locks is especially exhaustive and there are illustrations of the various recommended devices.

"It is difficult to be overcautious," advises Moolman. And one suspects that a good, sound locks system is better protection against criminals than any gun — which may only wind up in the hands of the burglar if he enters while you are absent from home, or beats you to it.

BALLANTINE has added four more $1 paperbacks to its Illustrated History of World War II series — "PT Boats" by Bryan Cooper, "Airborne" by Charles MacDonald, "The Nuremberg Rallies" by Alan Wykes and "The Defense of Moscow" by Geoffrey Jukes, with the Nuremberg book a particularly important addition to the understanding of the beginnings of one of man's bloodiest episodes.

Last Album By Judy Garland Is A Collector's Item For Her Fans

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Those who were close to Judy Garland said she became emotionally involved whenever she sang "Over the Rainbow."

The song of hope by E. Y. Harburg and Harold Allen was Judy's first number in "The Wizard of Oz" and it remained a part of her throughout her life.

So it must have been an act of fate that made "Over the Rainbow" Judy's last song. It closed her engagement at a London night spot early in 1969 and only shortly thereafter Judy was dead.

Her husband used a tape recorder from his table to preserve her songs in this performance. These tapes form Judy's last album, "Judy, London, 1969" (June S-1000).

The sound reproduction is not as fine as in the confines of a studio but this is an asset. Judy is caught in a relaxed and witty mood as she banters with the cabaret audience with joins her on "For Me and My Gal."

The album includes two songs recorded by Judy for the first time—"I Belong to London" and "Just In Time." And there is an uninhibited rendition of "San Francisco."

But the last number, "Over the Rainbow," is an experience. Many years had passed since Judy first sang it in "The Wizard of Oz" but in this final performance is seems that time has rolled back and Judy is Dorothy once more. It is a collector's item for Judy Garland's fans.

SELECTED SINGLES—"Why Can't I Touch You" by Donna Theodore (Jubilee JB 5693), "Sweet Feeling" by Candi Station (Fame P-1466), "I'm Gonna Give You All My Love" by Garrett Scott (Mercury 73052), "Time To Get Together" by Smokey Roberts (Capitol PRO-5011), "Where's Everybody Going" by John Fred and His Playboy Band (Uni 55220), "Welfare Man" by Sonny Charles (A&M 1177).

TAPE DECK—The success of the controversial tribal rock musical, "Hair," on Broadway won begrudging admiration for Galt MacDermot's music from the show's harshest critics. Additional music by MacDermot recently was issued on a record "DisinHAIRited" (RCA LSO-2163) and is now available on eight-track stereo cartridge (RCA 08S-1043) and cassette (RCA OK-1043). Some of the music on "DisinHAIRited" is as wild as the music from "Hair."

"Who Removed the Beading From My Expensive Dress?"

The beading was not "removed" by anyone. The beading on your dress was of plastic which dissolved in drycleaning solvent. As you mention, your dress was imported and high-priced. The trouble is that foreign manufacturers are not alert to the fact or do not care, that some plastics will dissolve in drycleaning. American manufacturers know this problem and do not use plastic beads and decorations that dissolve.

There is no way in which the loss of the beads on your dress can be restored. The fault is that of the manufacturer. Care should be taken in selecting beaded garments bearing foreign labels.

THREE NEW ROSES have been awarded All-American Rose Selections recognition for 1971. They are, left to right, the Aquarius, a grandiflora outstanding for its tall, vigorous growth and its beautifully marked pink blooms; Command Performance, a hybrid tea with fragrant, orange-red blooms on a compact, shapely plant, and Redgold, a bi-color floribunda with yellow and hot red blooms on a low, bushy plant. The last was hybridized in Ireland.

The All-American Rose Lineup For 1971

By EARL ARONSON

The 1971 All-America Rose Selections award-winning roses offer a choice for those favoring the grandiflora, the tea or the floribunda. That's because there are three winners.

Last year there was only one, and it was a grandiflora

Here are the 1971 champions, chosen after field and garden tests in various areas of the country:

THE GRANDIFLORA Aquarius, which has 30 to 35 nicely arranged petals of light pink, brushed with deep pink at the margins to make a pleasing contrast.

The buds are well-shaped and grow rather profusely on long, sturdy stems. The medium-sized, mildly fragrant flowers generally grow on single stems, sometimes in long-stemmed clusters. They are fine for cutting.

The roses are long-lasting and grow continuously during the season. The plants, tall and vigorous, have semi-glossy foliage.

THE HYBRID TEA, Command Performance, is a bright orange-red, somewhat fluorescent, with graceful buds that open to high-centered, many petaled star-shaped flowers.

They have good persisting fragrance and grow on long, strong stems that make them very showy for garden or flower arrangements.

THE FLORIBUNDA is the bright Redgold, bound to stand out in your garden.

Chrome yellow buds open slowly to flowers of the same hue, gradually acquiring brick-red edges that darken as the flower opens all the way. You will have blossoms that grow singly or in clusters, two inches across. The outer petals are slightly frilled. The flowers resemble miniature tea roses. They have a delicate fragrance and the roses last well.

The bushes average about two feet tall, are upright and bushy, with bright green foliage.

Aquarius is a cross between Armstrong Contrast, Fandango World's Fair Floradora. This is a hybrid by Dr. David L. Armstrong of Armstrong Nurseries, Ontario, Calif.

Command Performance is a hybrid of Bob Lindquist of the Howard Rose Co., of Hemet, Calif.

Redgold was hybridized by Pat Dickson in Ireland and is being put out by Jackson & Perkins. As to its parentage, you will recognize some of your favorites. First there were Independence, Peace, Golden Rapture and a seedling. Then came Goldilocks, Holiday, then Karl Herbst, Masquerade and Golden Scepter and just before Redgold, a seedling and Faust were the producers.

The AARS describes Aquarius as "exceptional in several respects — the color pattern of the open flower is unique among grandifloras especially, and the neat arrangement of the large number of light pink petals brushed with deep pink at the margins for pleasing contrast.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✓ Such plants as azaleas, camellias and rhododendrons should be fed this month with an acid-type fertilizer. Roses, fuchsias, chrysanthemums and hibiscus need regular feedings with complete plant food to keep their lush growth and bloom going.

✓ Pelargoniums and geraniums can be planted in full bloom now. Choose a sunny spot, and water them frequently.

✓ Consider some of the new floribunda roses as container plants. They'll thrive in large pots for years.

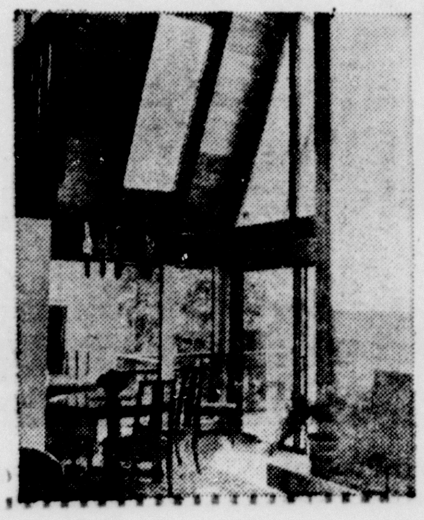
✓ June-planted fuchsias make a big splash of color in hanging baskets. Keep them well watered and pinch out the tips of new growth frequently to make the plants bushy and full of new flowering wood.

✓ Don't hesitate to thin out over-bearing fruit trees. This will result in larger, more perfect fruit.

✓ Begonias are excellent showpieces with evergreen shrubbery, in redwood planter boxes, or in raised beds.

✓ There is still time to plant annuals as bedding plants for quick garden color this summer. Nurseries are well stocked.

✓ In watering your lawn, concentrate on a deep soaking to do the grass the greatest good.



Change your lifestyle.*

A Deck Adds To Your Summer Pleasure

Summer living is easy if landscaping is planned with leisure in mind. Some home owners who want an attrative outdoors with a minimum of gardening chores and maintenance find the answer in wood decking.

Besides its easy-care virtues, it can solve nicely the problems of uneven ground or sloping lots. Multi-levels can be connected by broad steps of matching decking that lead gently from one level to another.

EVERY OUTDOOR living center needs greenery and color. In situations where decks dominate the landscaping, certain areas are usually left open for level or raised planting beds, and tubs or pots of blossoming plants are used effectively.

The advantage is that you can choose exactly how much planting area you want to tend.

Contemporary decks are most often made of two-by-fours laid flat or on edge. The flat installation takes less lumber but has a shorter span and thus requires more supports than lumber laid on edge.

Wider dimensions may be used to create a more traditional appearance. Douglas fir makes excellent decking.

THE WOOD MAY be stained or left to weather. It generally takes about a year for it to attain a mellow sheen if left unfinished.

Members in contact with the ground should be treated with preservative.

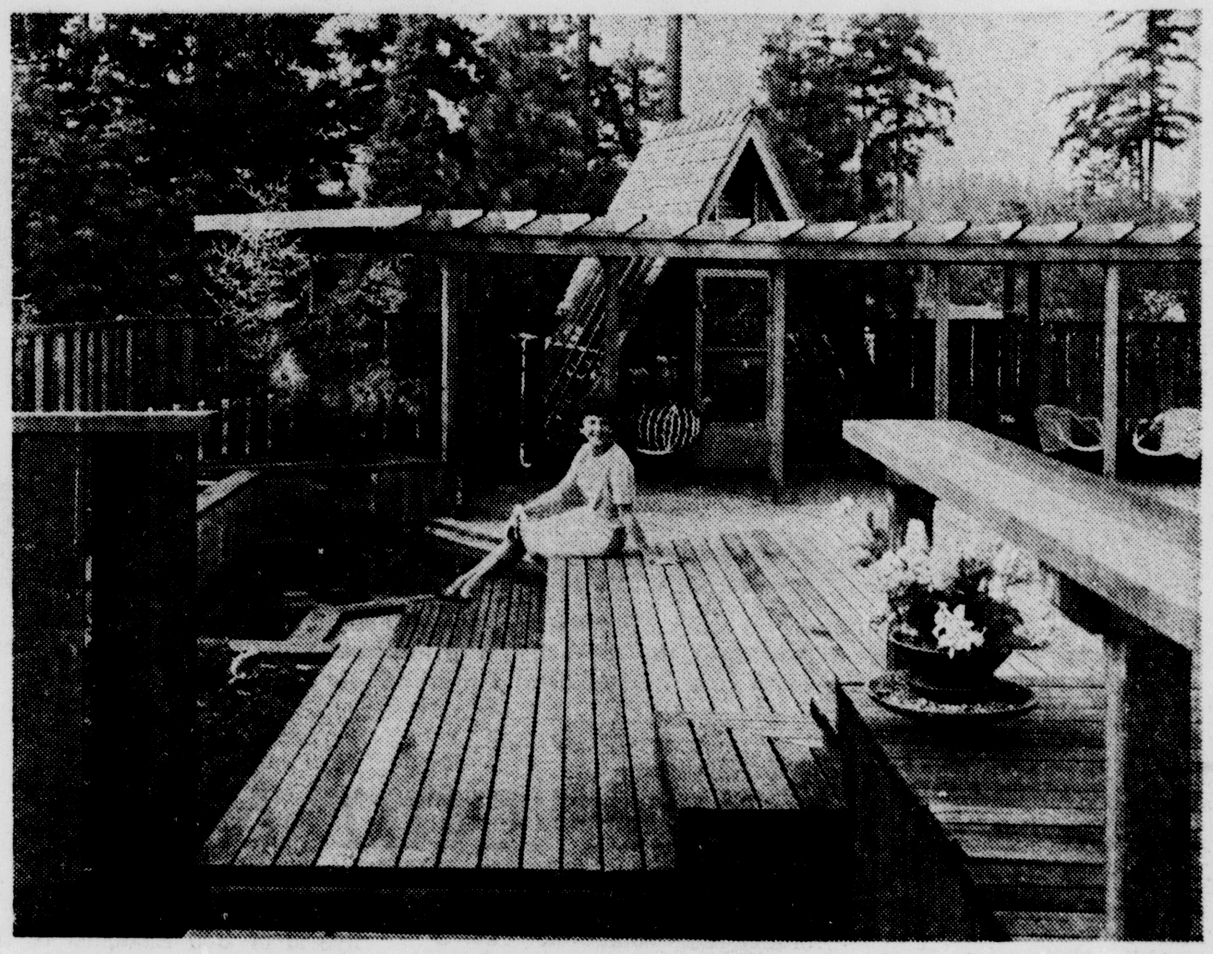
Benches do double duty by serving as low railings when built along the edge of steps. A two-by-12 inch plank will make a narrow bench-rail. Wider ones may be made from spaced lumber of narrower dimension.

Fencing is important because it defines the space and in most instances gives needed privacy. It may also serve as a windscreen, and for this purpose a good design is a fence of one-by-six inch resawn red cedar, board-on-board.

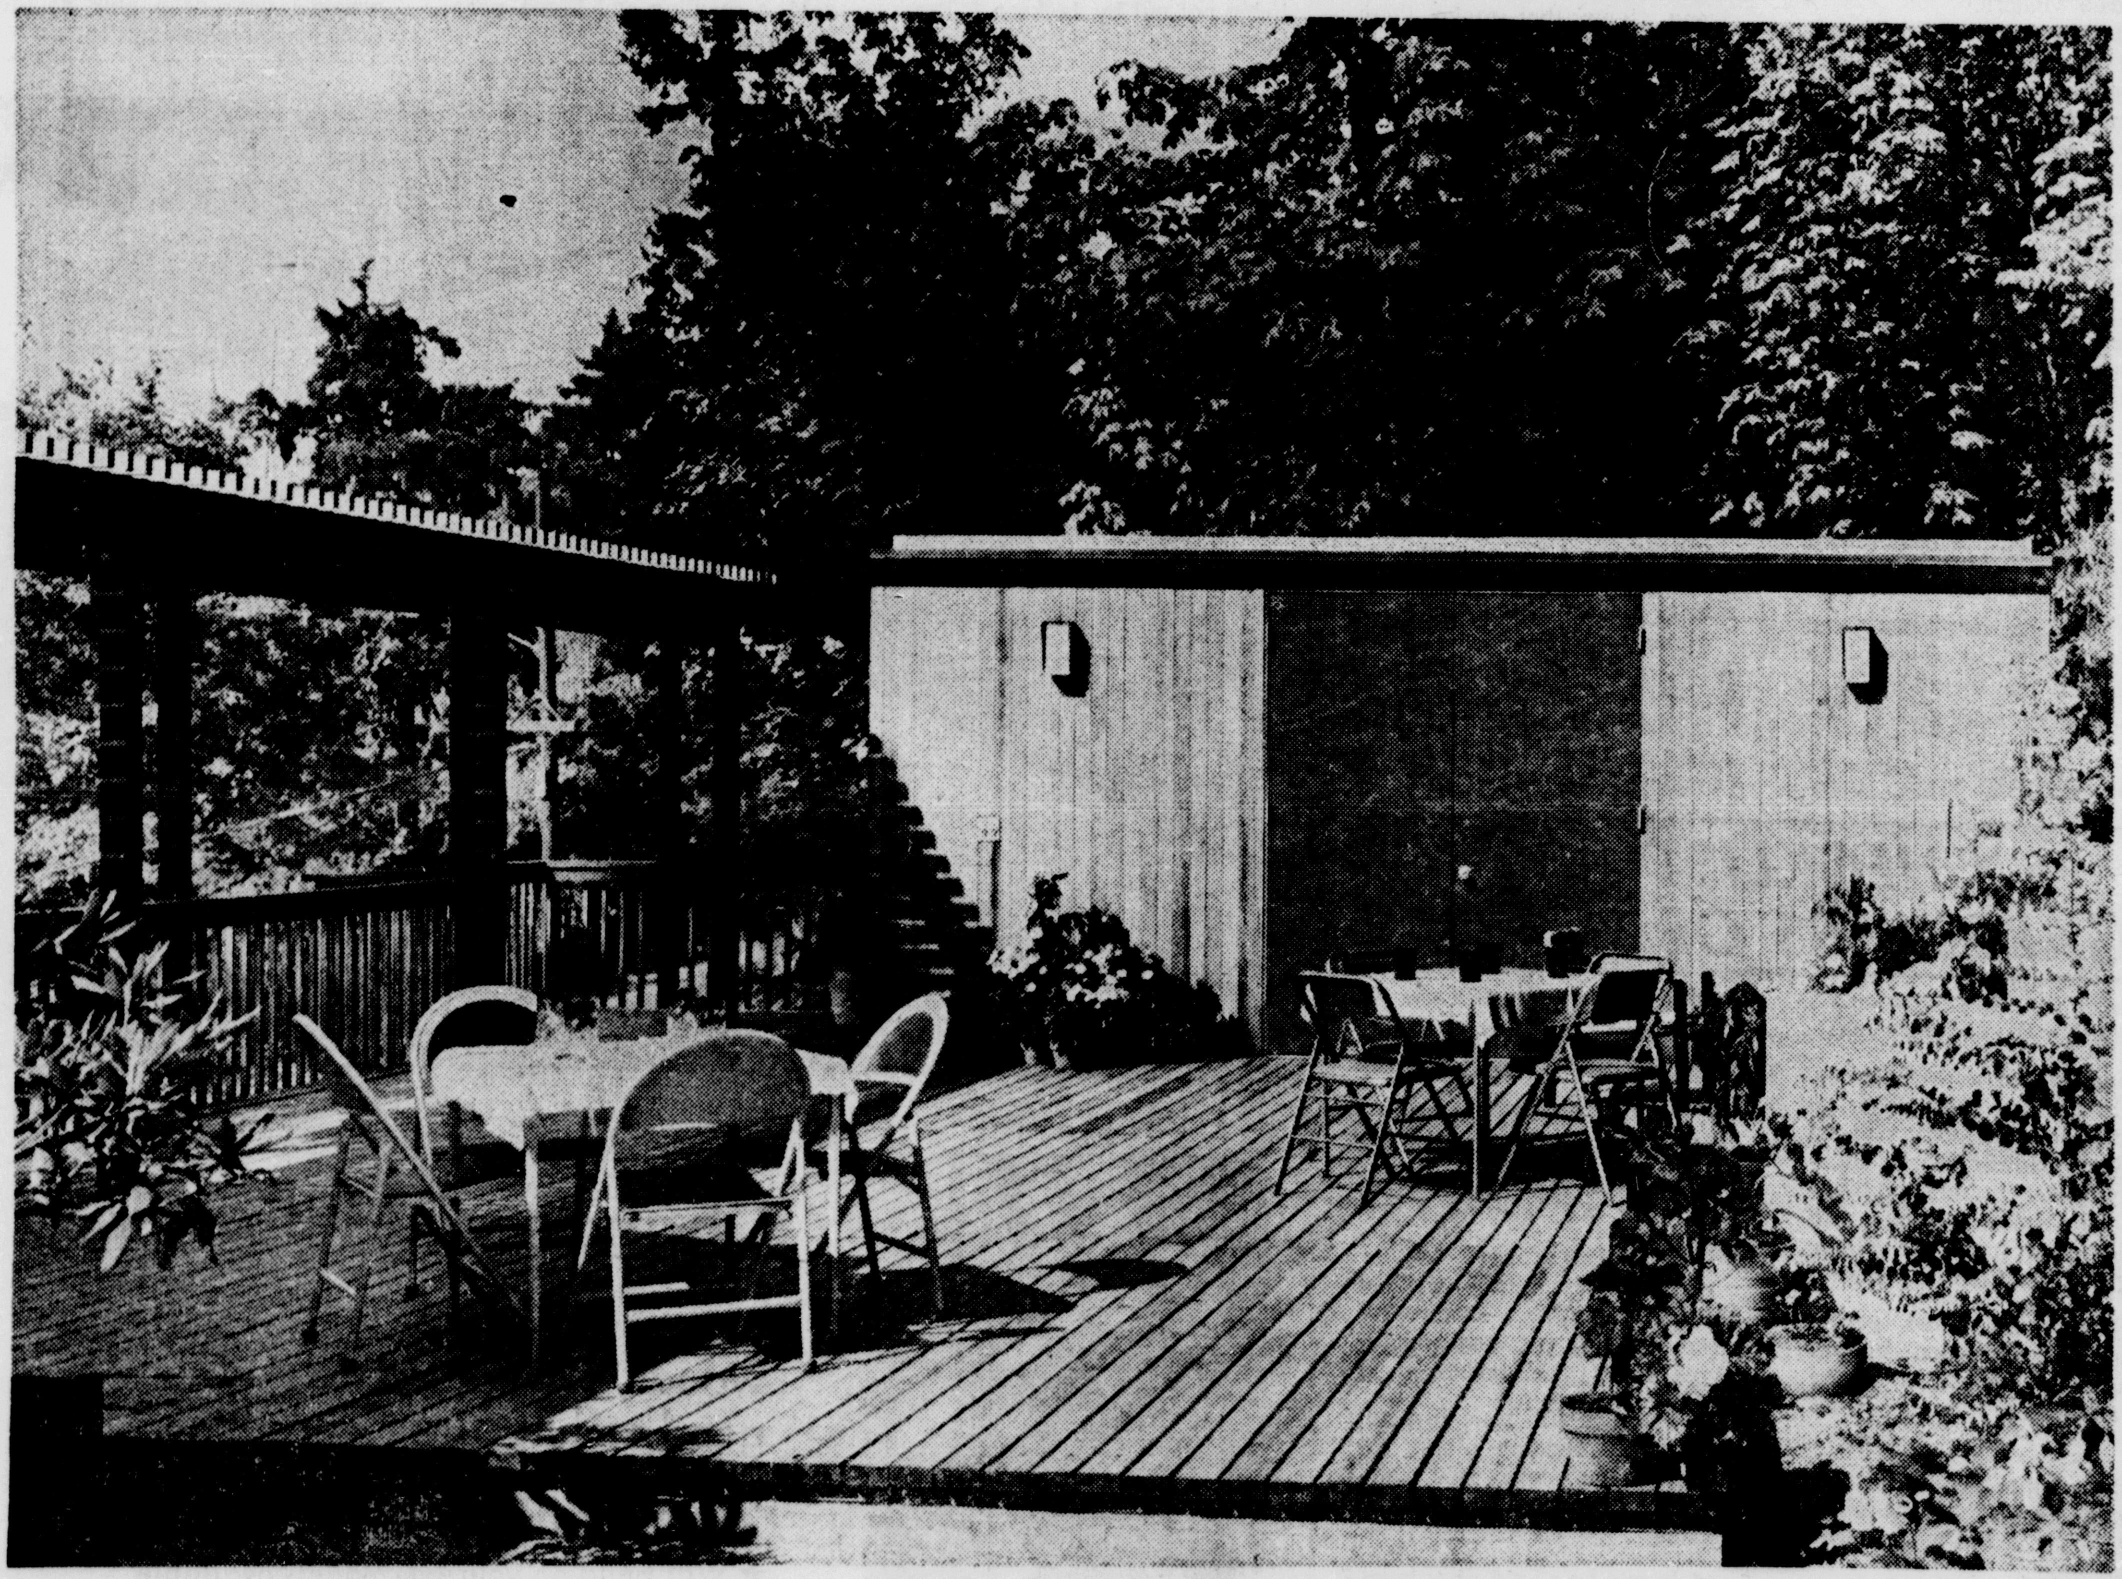
THE ADDITION OF a small greenhouse delights plant lovers. Lumber dealers can offer advice on how to construct one. A variety of prefabricated styles is available, also.

A greenhouse may be situated at the perimeter of a deck and integrated with the deck and fence by a trellis, or it may be built next to a carport or garage.

And what could be more enchanting than a two-level fishpond with re-circulating water falling from the upper to the lower level?



GARDENING CHORES and maintenance are minimized while enjoyment and privacy are maximized by a well-designed wood deck such as this one. Special features of this outdoor living area include an A-frame greenhouse and a fishpond with waterfall and windscreen. Decking is Douglas fir, while screens and railings are red cedar.



THIS DECK WAS built, of all places, on top of a garage, by setting Douglas fir two-by-fours upon the roof. The units lift for roof repairs. "Western Wood Decks," a free 16-page brochure, offers many such design ideas, and can be obtained by writing Wood Products Industry Fund, 1610 Harrison Street, Oakland, 94612.

Handyman's Pages

A Build-It-Yourself Workshop

Are you a now-and-then handyman? Or, perhaps, just beginning your tool collection?

Better Homes and Gardens' new "Handyman's Book" suggests a build-it-yourself workshop.

All you need is a set of metal shelves, a sheet of three-quarter-inch plywood and two folding sawhorses.

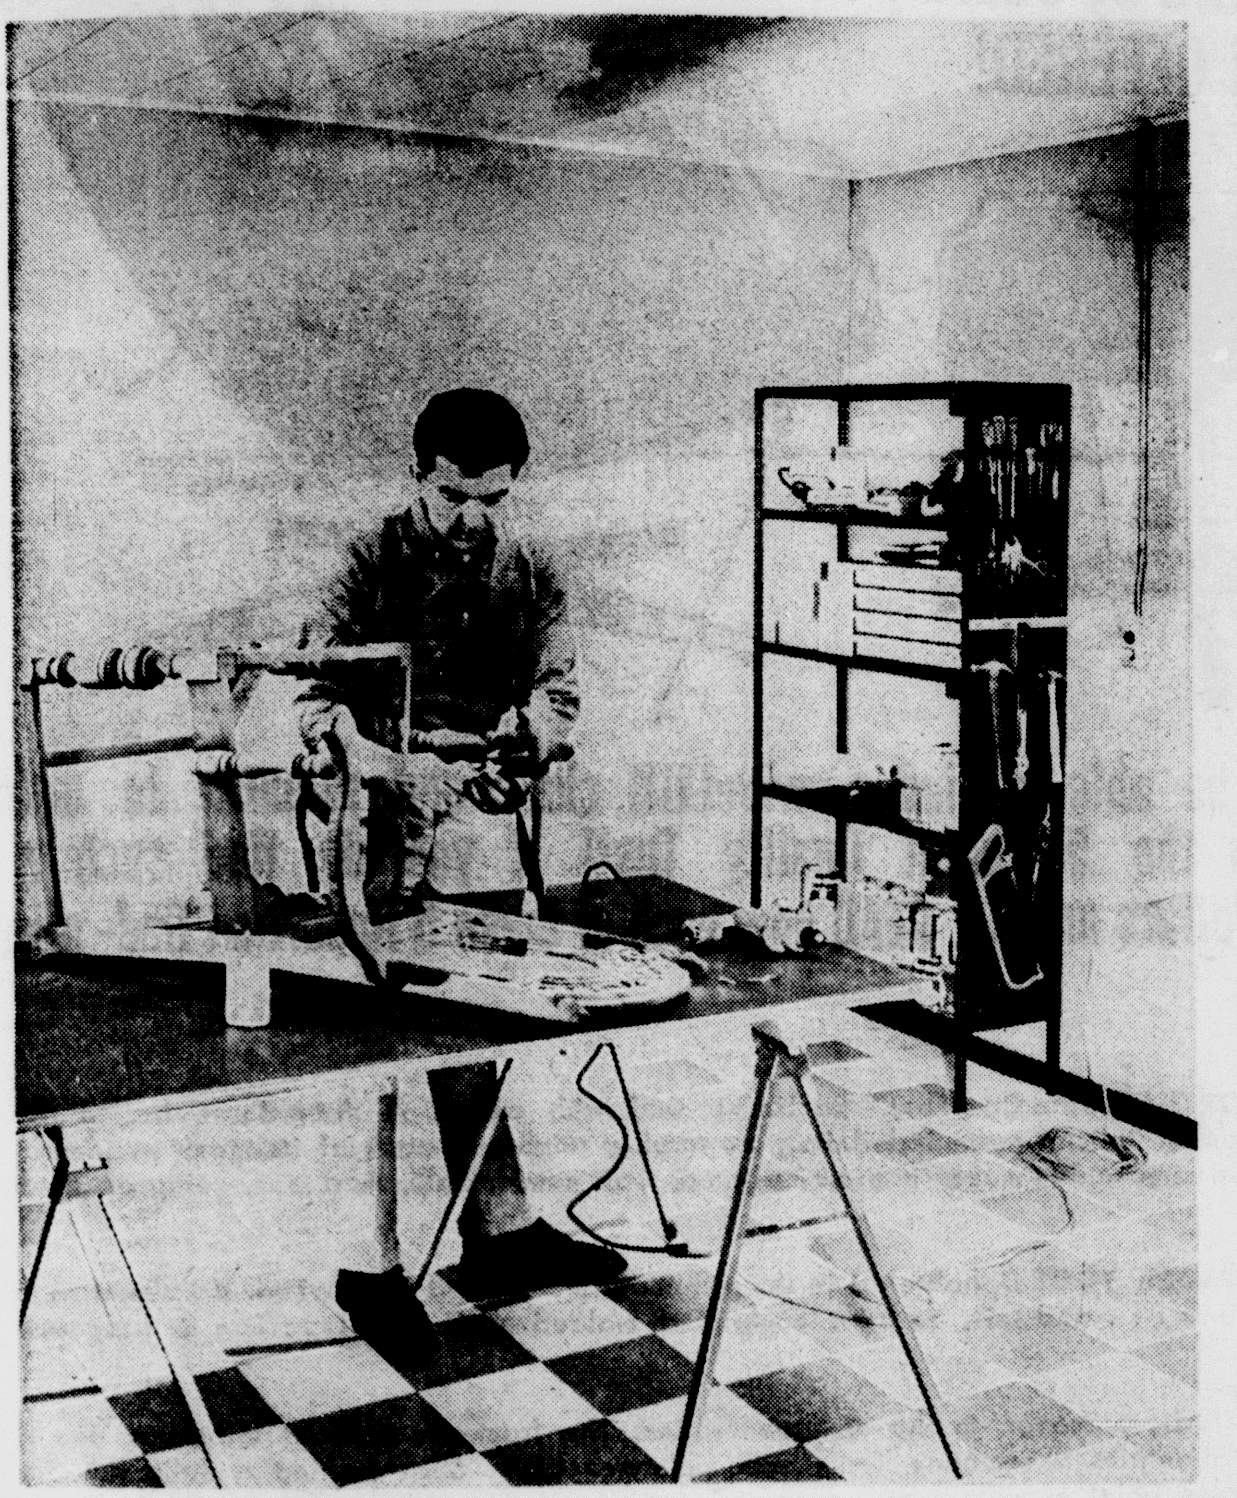
Begin constructing the sawhorses using a couple of two-by-fours or two-by-sixes for the crosspieces. Buy good quality metal legs and assemble them according to instructions. Also, buy the metal shelves and bolt them together.

Next, cut a piece of perforated hardboard to go on one end of the shelves for the tool board. Lay it over the end of the shelf unit and drill holes through the hardboard and shelf uprights to receive the bolts or self-tapping screws. Now cut a piece of three-quarter inch plywood with a few brads around the edges.

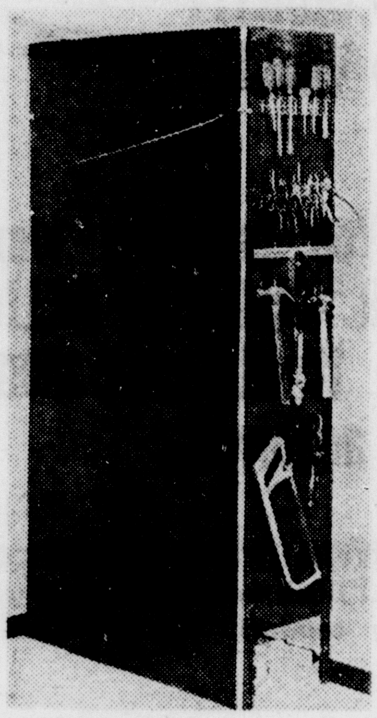
The hardboard makes a nice hard, smooth surface and when it gets scarred and dirty, simply remove the brads and flip it over for a fresh start.

Fasten on a couple of turn-buttons to the fronts of the shelf uprights. These keep the plywood cover in place. Attach them with long bolts through the uprights. Use a short length of compression spring under the turn-buttons as spacers, if necessary. Put some hooks on the tool board, hang up your tools and stow away the rest of your gear inside.

This handy workshop suggestion and tips on all phases of home maintenance appear in Better Homes and Gardens new "Handyman's Book." Over 1,500 how-to illustrations and up-to-date product information are included in this guide.



FOLDING SAWHORSES that you can build yourself, a sheet of plywood, metal shelves and some perforated hardboard are the simple materials from which this workshop for the home handyman, shown in Better Homes and Gardens' "Handyman's Book," was constructed.



THE PERFECT tool board is an easy project when the handyman uses perforated hardboard. There are shelves inside to hold other tools and supplies of the do-it-yourselfer.

Two Ways To Apply Laminate

There are two ways to apply plastic laminate to a large surface such as the dining room table.

One is not to use contact cement. Instead, use a strong glue which does not dry immediately. In that way, you can rearrange the plastic laminate if you don't get it on properly the first time.

But you'll have to clamp the laminate to the table top until it dries, a procedure which isn't necessary with contact cement.

The other solution is to apply contact cement to the table top and to the back of the laminate. Wait until both surfaces are dry to the touch. Then place a large sheet of brown paper over the table top. Fold a few inches of the paper at one end. Place the laminate over the entire paper and place it into position at the end where there is no paper.

Then carefully slide out the paper, pressing the laminate to the table top.

Use a kitchen rolling pin on the laminate to bond it securely to the wood.

Storage For Cans

If you need more room for canned goods but haven't the space for a full cabinet, try a narrow closet with shallow shelves. One of its benefits is that you don't have to go fumbling around in the back of a deep cabinet to find what you want.
